CRIES OF "ON TO BERLIN" HEARD AGAIN IN PARIS.

Order of French Mobilization Causes the Wildest Enthusiasm.

While the Official Proclamation of the Poincare Government Insists that the Call of Troops to the Colors Does Not Mean War, Advices from Other Quarters Indicates the Contrary May Be True.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A Central News dispatch from Paris says by common agreement the limit of Germany's ultimatum to France has been extended for 48 hours—until noon Monday.

At the French Embassy it is stated that there is no confirmation of the extension of the time limit of Germany's ultimatum to France.

The Embassy authorizes a denial of the report that the German Ambassador in Paris has been handed his passports and adds that if he should leave Paris tonight, as it was intimated he might do, it will be entirely on his own initiative and would not therefore be regarded as a final step, as would be the case if he were handed his passports by the French government.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Thrilling scenes were witnessed here tonight after the yellow placards were posted announcing the mobilization of French forces. Throngs appeared as though by magic and formed processions on the boulevards, carrying flags and singing the Marseillaise. Here and there in the marching crowd were groups of men who raised the cry, "On to Berlin!"

At the hotels the news of the ordering of mobilization caused the greatest commotion. Visitors began to leave the hostelries en masse, but found it difficult to obtain conveyances. Cabmen offered the services of their vehicles at auction, accepting as fares the highest bidders. They did a profitable business.

At 6 o'clock a report that the gates of the Northern Railroad had been closed caused consternation among the throng of persons eager to leave Paris. It was impossible to get into telephone communication with the station, and when the long lines of cabs and other conveyances arrived there, great excitement prevailed.

No porters were obtainable; none of the employees were visible. Every man had stopped work, not to strike, but to defend his country. The approaches to the platform where the Brussels express usually leaves were packed with a seething mass of humanity, consisting mostly of Germans, Russians and Dutch, perspiring under heavy loads of luggage. There was no certainty whether the train would actually start, and the sight of eight soldiers, with fixed bayonets, drawn up on the platform, was not a reassuring spectacle to the would-be travelers.

At last, however, the barrier was opened and there was a wild rush by the throng to board the train, women and children being ignored in the stampede along to the platform. The train was filled to overflowing in a moment. There were many heartrending scenes in the station as women with tears streaming down their cheeks, bade good-bye to husbands, and family ties were broken. To add to the gloom of the journey, there was no dining car attached to the train, all the attendants having gone to join their regiments. Hence, there was no prospect of food or drink on the journey. The only subject of conversation on board the train was the coming war.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR THERE.

At a late hour tonight it was stated that the German Ambassador was still in Paris.

All foreigners may leave Paris or France before the end of the first day of mobilization by train, but not by automobile. Those desiring to leave France may do so by certain trains, the time limits of which are posted on the walls of Paris tonight, or by sea.

American citizens or British subjects may remain in France, except in the regions on the eastern frontier and near certain fortresses, provided they make declarations to the police and obtain a special permit.

No foreigner will be permitted to leave France after the first day of mobilization without a passport signed by the prefect. American, English and other foreigners may remain in Paris by obtaining a special permit from the police.

Two of the largest and most luxurious hotels in Paris will close tomorrow.

Baron von Schoen, German Ambassador to France, called on the French Premier, Rene Viviani, at 7 o'clock yesterday evening and formally notified him Germany had addressed an ultimatum to Russia, desiring to know by 12 o'clock today whether the St. Petersburg government would discontinue mobilization of the Russian army.

Baron von Schoen was directed by his government to ask what were the intentions of France, should Russia's reply to Germany be a refusal to demobilize.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 1.—German torpedo destroyers operating outside the Danish sea territory made an unsuccessful attempt today to cut the cable communication to Russia by way of Roedvig, Denmark.

The Fehmarn bell is crowded with German dreadnoughts and other big warships which are accompanied by transport vessels. A number of Russian vessels also have been observed in that vicinity. Nearly all the steamship lines between Germany and Denmark have stopped their boats.

The large military force concentrated on Zeeland, the largest and most important of the Danish islands and containing the capital, was increased tonight by 20,000 men for the protection of Copenhagen.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Events in the European crisis developed today with startling rapidity. The German ultimatum to Russia, demanding that Russia cease the mobilization of her army, expired at noon, and at 5:15 o'clock in the afternoon the German Emperor signed a mobilization order.

At 7:30 o'clock the German Ambassador at St. Petersburg, Count von Pourtales, delivered a declaration of war in the name of his government to the Russian government, and the entire staff of the embassy immediately left St. Petersburg.

Although, after the warlike speeches delivered by the German Emperor and the Imperial Chancellor at Berlin on Friday, no other result could be expected, hopes that the dread event might be averted had been raised by the intervention of King George in St. Petersburg, and the fact that the German Reichstag was not to be convened until Tuesday. Hence the actual declaration of war had not been expected for another day or two.

Now the die is cast and Europe is to be plunged into a general war, which has been the apprehension of European statesmen for generations. It is now only a question of how soon a state of actual war will exist between Germany and France.

Late tonight placards were posted in Paris calling for general mobilization, and the German Ambassador, although he had not been handed his passports, was preparing to leave the French capital. It is not known at exactly what hour Germany's ultimatum to France, asking that country to define what attitude she would assume in case of a war by Germany and Austria against Russia, was to expire, but it is believed it will not be long before diplomatic relations will be ruptured or war declared.

The German Emperor and his advisers have maintained to the last that they made supreme efforts for the sake of peace, and the last of the series of earnest appeals from Emperor William to Emperor Nicholas was a telegram repudiating responsibility for the calamity threatening the world, on grounds that, while Germany was engaged in mediating with Austria-Hungary at Russia's request, Russia, by her general mobilization, was threatening Germany's safety.

The first shots in the Russo-German War were exchanged between patrols this afternoon near Prostken, 120 miles to the southeast of Konigsberg.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The feature of the war situation in London today is the growing intensity of the debate whether Britain should or should not take part in the threatened European slaughter. The pacificists are concentrating a hot fire on Premier Asquith and Sir Edward Grey, demanding that Russia be commanded to halt on penalty of Britain's repudiation of the triple entente. Their argument is, first, that Britain is not only free as regards legal obligation, but is free on the point of honor since it has the right to hold aloof from any war that it does not sanction; secondly, that Russia already has violated the entente by its anti-British proceedings in Persia and elsewhere in Central Asia; thirdly, that civilization would be much better off with Germany dominating the continent than with Russia in the dominant position.

The pacificists sound a solemn warning against what they call the "colossal mass of Slavic ignorance and barbarism that is sweeping over Europe as barbarians swept over it at the time of the great migrations." They declare that the Slavic race in its whole existence has not produced more than a dozen first-rate men and that Britain must not co-operate with such a power in assailing the beneficent civilization of the Germanic peoples.

These views are supported by letters and telegrams from individuals and societies and by personal appeals from some of the ablest and most noted men and women in the United Kingdom.

Tomorrow afternoon Trafalgar Square will be filled with a great gathering of workers, led by Socialists, to protest against the "hideous and abominable crime" of dragging the British nation into war. The reported abstention of Italy is hailed as a break in the triple alliance and Premier Asquith will be asked to follow suit by a similar shift in the triple entente.

PRESIDENT SHUNS OPPORTUNITY TO ACT AS POWER PEACEMAKER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—From an authoriative source it was learned late tonight that President Wilson was strongly disinclined to take any steps toward mediation in Europe, and in line with the traditional policy of the United States, would pursue a course of absolutely non-interference.

As American diplomats abroad have been active on their own initiative, sounding out the various governments about peace measures, cautionary telegrams were sent all legations and embassies, requesting that no steps of importance in this direction be taken without previous consultation with the Washington government.

For the present the attitude of the United States will be that of a neutral observer, and unless it appears that the contending powers would accept a tender of good offices and mediation, no formal effort will be made by the United States toward a pacific settlement.

AUSTRIA AND SERVIA VENT HATRED OF YEARS.

War Which May Involve Europe Due to Long Series of Aggressions.

Assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand but One Incident in Extensive List of Reprisals, Although Seized Upon by Dual Empire as Reason for Its Declaration of Hostilities.

THE war that has broken out between Austria and Servia is no surprise to those who have followed the course of events and the history of the two countries for the last twenty-five years. Although the immediate action of Austria was based on the assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, this incident, shocking as it was, is regarded as but one incident in a long series of political reprisals.

There is no doubt that Austria seized on the incident as an opportunity to vent her hatred of years on the little neighboring state, whose aggressions she could no longer ignore, and whose pretensions she could no longer scorn.

Those who are familiar with the maneuvers of Austria looked for nothing less than the ultimatum. Servia has always fiercely resented her big neighbor's stubborn opposition to her own schemes for development, while Austria has never been able to forgive Servia for existing at all. Therefore, when the death of the heir-apparent put into Austria's hands an excuse so powerful that she dared to use the weapon, a wiping out of old scores was in order. Servia, assured on the absolute loyalty of her people and confident of the backing of all the southern Slavs, was only put in the position of having her hand forced.

CONTEST NOT UNEQUAL.

At the first thought it would seem that, considering the differences in size and resources, any contest between these two countries must be unequal. Austria has enjoyed a long period of peace and possesses a large and highly-trained army. Servia, on the other hand, is only beginning to recover from two costly wars. Although she gained thereby the territory in Macedonia that she had long coveted, she has not yet had the time to profit by it. Servia is poor and her army comparatively small, but she possesses an element of strength, the value of which is doubled to her by reason of the fact that the same quality is Austria's great weakness.

The entire Servian people are a unit on any question of national honor, the disloyalty of any part of its army is an impossible supposition. On the other hand, the Austrian army, like the Austrian empire, is made up of many people of many minds, and it is not possible to be quite certain how it would conduct itself in a war in which racial considerations would be involved, as in a war with Servia. In a war with Servia practically all the military operations would be conducted in a territory populated almost wholly by Serbs, a people tied by the sympathy of common race and tradition to the people they would be fighting; ties that are, to the southern Slavs, many times more binding than the slender political threads that hold them to the Austrian empire. In prosecuting a war against Servia Austria has long known that she would expose herself to the danger of arousing to open rebellion her entire southern Slav population.

THE ULTIMATUM.

Austria's ultimatum to Servia set forth as her principal grievances the assassination of the Archduke and his wife and the official sanction of anti-Austrian propaganda. It was in fact, however, her official remonstrance against the growth of Pan-Slavism which threatens to alienate her South Slav people, and create a powerful Serb state. This has been Austria's fear ever since Servia won her freedom from Turkey. She has rightly gauged Servia's ambition to be the nucleus free state, to which all the southern Slavs could attach themselves and become one political and racial unit, and she claimed to see the existence of an elaborate organization that has, with official connivance, been developed for the furtherance of this national scheme. In her ultimatum she demanded nothing less than the complete wiping out of the entire machinery.

THE ORIGIN.

Apart from the deep sources of Germanic and Slav racial antipathy the hatred of Austria and Servia had its beginning as far back as 1878, when by the Berlin treaty Servia was given her independence as a State, while Bosnia and Herzegovina, peopled by the very flower of the Serb race, whose devoted patriotism had kindled the revolution that humbled Turkey, were practically given over to Austria. Thus the Serbs, newly freed from Turkey, were arbitrarily divided, and part of them given over to a yoke just as hateful as that of the Moslem had been. For five years they fought bitterly against it, while Servia gave them her entire sympathy and such material aid as her impoverished condition would permit. Not even the powerful army of occupation that has always been maintained there has been strong enough to control the sentiment of the people. A correspondent traveling through the country a few weeks ago found the bitterness in no degree abated during the ten years since he had previously observed conditions there.

In securing her hold on Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Dalmatian coast Austria attained the highly important advantage of a foothold on the Adriatic, and at the same time defeated Servia's equal necessity for such an outlet. Through all the thirty-five years between the Berlin treaty and the Balkan war Servia struggled for a seaport, and at every turn was checkmated by Austria. To the failure to gain this end Servia attributes her slow commercial development and the difficulty of realizing on her resources.

TRADE WARS.

The so-called "pig wars" and "poultry wars" were an outgrowth of this systematic repression. Servia raised large quantities of pigs and fowls of a high grade, and if she could market them readily would find them a valuable export. But Austria steadily maintained ruinous quarantine regulations that prevent the stock being transported across her territory to market. The result was that the Servian market was glutted with these products and the farmers receive no prices at all. Two cents for a chicken and 5 cents for a ham would rouse the fighting blood of any farming community.

During all this time Austria kept a blighting hand on the political life of the country. Her influence was apparent in all the elections and in the disturbed relations with Montenegro. When Russia also took a hand in Servian affairs as a check to Austria the distraught little kingdom could but wonder what freedom meant after all. Only within the past few years has it been able to free itself from these various elements, enjoy an independent political life, and create a friendly understanding with Montenegro.

HOPES AGAIN DEFEATED.

When Austria definitely annexed Bosnia and Herzegovina Servia saw her hopes of their ultimate union with her entirely defeated. She protested bitterly, and carried her warlike preparations to such a point that her army practically confronted that of Austria on the opposite side of the Danube. The interference of Germany which held back Russia's hand extended to aid the Serbs was all that prevented a serious war. Here again Servia felt herself outraged and defeated by the united Germanic influence, and nursing her hurts she once more set herself to wait for her opportunity.

It came with the outbreak of the Balkan war, when by a series of brilliant campaigns the Servians advanced straight through Albania to Durazzo, thus seizing the coveted seaport. It is not hard to recall the maneuverings by which Austrian diplomacy defeated this end by setting up the ill-fated little kingdom of Albania as a buffer. At the same time she was able to prevent Montenegro, also a Serb State, from maintaining her hold on the hardly won city of Scutari. Not even the highly desirable portions of Macedonia that fell to Servia's lot at the end of the war were able to compensate her for her rage and disappointment in the loss of the footing on the sea.

Austria's irritation against Servia, which expressed itself in the sharp phrasing of the ultimatum, was based on her belief in Servia's intention to aggrandize herself at the expense of Austria, and her belief in official connivance in plots and schemes to alienate her subjects and so further her ends. Austria sees as the most powerful enemy to her influence the Narodna Odbrana, or Pan-Serb Union. This organization, as its name implies, has as its aim the union of the entire Serb race. This society has resorted to many means of carrying on and spreading its propaganda, and has more than once figured in court proceedings resulting from its activities.

AGRAM TREASON TRIALS.

The Agram treason trials in Croatia several years ago, when the Austrian government failed utterly to prove its contention of plots fomented in Belgrade against its authority, were probably the most prominent of these proceedings, though there have been endless riotings and arrests and minor trials for which the union may have been directly responsible. The secretary of the society, Maj. Milan Pribitchevitch, formerly an Austrian army officer, was mentioned in the confession of the youth who threw the bomb at the Archduke. This naturally gave Austria sufficient ground on which to demand the entire wiping out of this inflammatory society, the suppression of all its literature and the punishment of its leaders.

Austria further claimed that the public schools of Servia have been used as an instrument for the instilling of anti-Austrian prejudice, and asserts that every branch of the Servian official service is honeycomber with plots aimed against Austrian tranquillity.

SERVIANS' REPRISALS.

Until she seized on the murder of the Archduke, Austria was not able to put her finger on any tangible evidence of Servia's malfeasance. But Servia's reprisals for Austria's highhandedness were not less irritating for being intangible. Austria has felt for years that all of Servia was a hotbed of intrigue and conspiracy against her, and she has recognized the slow encroachment of the disturbing influence centered there in her own territory. The fact that nothing has been sufficiently well defined to be open to official resentment has not rendered the aggregate less exasperating. Nor have the repeated protestations of the Servian authorities that the plots were sporadic and and without the slightest official connivance served to satisfy her.

With Servia's war strength estimated at 300,000 men and Austria's at 2,000,000, there would seem to be little doubt of the outcome. But there are so many more elements involved than figures, that they can scarcely be relied on. Austria has an army common to both kingdoms, while at the same time, Austria and Hungary each supports a second line army fully organized and distinct from the common army and from each other.

Behind these are the reserves of the older men. The common army included about one and a quarter million men and each of the second line armies about a quarter million. The politics of the various nationalities of the empire have had their effect on the army and it has been only by skillful management that it has been kept at the standard that so important a power must require.

SERVIAN ARMY.

The Servian army was until the Balkan war an untried quantity, with the presumption against its efficiency. The dramatic events of that war gave it, however, a new rating, for the Servian proved himself a splendid soldier and the organization of the army proved surprisingly effective. It had great power of expansion, while the wonderful esprit de corps and the galvanizing effect of devoted enthusiasm more than overcame formal defect.

As has been said, the chief anxiety in Europe in the present situation is less for the aggressors in the difficulty than for the possible entanglements it may produce. Russia aspires to be the protector of the Slav people and while she has hitherto failed to play that role with any great degree of glory, she still clings to it. It was to her that Servia looked for assistance when she saw Bosnia and Herzegovina slip finally through her fingers. Russia was eager and willing to respond, but was in no condition to do so. She was still prostrated from the Japanese war and at the first hint that her interference in behalf of Servia would be met by Germany coming to the aid of Austria, she could do nothing but maintain a neutral attitude.

RUSSIA NOW EAGER.

But Russia now is in a different position and is eager for an opportunity to rehabilitate her military reputation. She has a new army, newly organized, and is not averse to engaging in a war that has a stronger appeal to the spirit of her people than did her ill-fated adventure in the East. Certainly to her and to her influence Servia will look for funds.

Austria's principal allies, bound to her by the terms of the Triple Alliance, have already come forward and announced their intention to stand by her, but brave as their assertion seems on its face the well-known underlying motives give to it a certain degree of lukewarmness. Germany's entire foreign policy looks to commercial expansion, and in Servia she has already seen an immense opportunity which she has not been slow to seize. She has refused to accept Pan-Serbism as a question of international political importance and has proceeded without regard to it, a stand which has won her a very friendly feeling in Servia, and not a few commercial advantages.

Italy, while bound by the Triple Alliance, is none the less friendly to Servia, probably it must be admitted because of Austria's opposition. Italy is with the rest of the Balkans just as she is with Albania; she does not care who profits by them so Austria has no share of the spoils. In the event of a general war Italy is technically bound to Austria, but the bonds would chafe, and just how strong they would prove cannot be said.

The attitude of the other Balkan states toward their erstwhile ally, Servia, is also somewhat problematical. Montenegro only is assured. She has grievances against Austria quite as much as Servia has and would be glad of the chance to send her gallant little army of 25,000 men into the field. With Greece and with Roumania Servia has a strong understanding, but it is doubtful that this would extend to going to her assistance in a war in which their own interests were in no way involved.

Since Servia's position must be entirely defensive, that war-harried land finds itself once more a battleground. Invasion will undoubtedly be made from the north, where along both sides of the low-lying valley of the Danube every point of vantage has been fortified both by the Austrians and the Servians. The capital, Belgrade, lying as it does directly opposite Austrian territory, is especially vulnerable, and for this reason the seat of government was moved further into the interior, to Nish. It is at Nish that all the Servian bankers at the first alarm of war with Austria rushed all their money to lock it up in the little old tower buried deep in the old fortress.

In Bosnia on the west Servia would hope to find a certain degree of assistance in that she expects that at the first alarm the Bosnians would rise in revolt and throw their fortunes with those of Servia. But Bosnia is well garrisoned, and not, it may be added, with Bosnian soldiers. Bosnian recruits are quickly sent to other parts of the empire, while only Austrian soldiers are stationed at the Bosnian fortress. Sarajevo and Zvornik have both large garrisons which could be readily moved to the rough Servian frontier where the mountains would furnish natural defenses for military operations.

Owing to the fact that the welfare of The Times is inseparably inter-twined with that of its vast army of patrons, which includes practically every business man in Los Angeles, this paper has long been widely recognized as a thoroughly reliable commercial barometer.

The largest newspapers in America rarely print more than 200 columns of advertising in any Sunday edition, and the fact that today's Times contains 467 columns of paid advertising demonstrates that business in Los Angeles is in a healthy condition.

Represented in the advertising columns of today's Times are approximately 7000 separate classified advertising patrons. In addition to making manifest the enviable degree of prosperity enjoyed by local merchants, brokers and general tradesmen, this enormous volume of advertising shows the overwhelming preference of shrewd, experienced buyers of advertising space for The Times as a publicity medium.

The advertising columns of today's Times teem with interesting announcements of department stores, merchants, realty dealers, automobile agencies and general tradesmen, and they exploit every thinkable thing that can be bought or sold. The number, character and volume of these announcements is conclusive evidence of the purchasing power of The Times high-class far-reaching circulation.

GERMAN KAISER UNAFRAID, HIS BACK AGAINST WALL.

From the Time Austria-Hungary Caught the Whole World Napping William II Has Been One of Principal Figures in the Situation—Cares of Recent Years Have Told on Monarch.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—From the moment Austria-Hungary caught the whole world napping in its swift attack on Servia the German Emperor has been one of the principal figures in the situation.

Tonight all London regards him as the chief figure, isolated, dominating, unafraid, with his back against the wall; desiring peace, but adhering to the demand of his people for a war.

Many persons believe the situation would have been different tonight if Emperor William had been at Potsdam instead of with his fleet in the North Sea when the Hapsburgs proceeded to their chastisement of Servia; but when William II. reached home all Germany was aflame with enthusiasm over the great struggle between Teuton and Serb.

The German Emperor, towering head and shoulders over every other figure in Europe is regarded by diplomatists here tonight as being in the tightest place in his remarkable career, with Italy running away from the triple alliance and with Austria reasonably busy with Servia and the other Balkan states.

Emperor William stands surrounded. Russia is mobilizing on the one hand, France is ready to mobilize on the other, and Great Britain is threatening his navy and throwing a cordon of fighting ships around his seaport.

Well may the Kaiser say, as he said in a speech last night, "A dark day has today broken over Germany. Envious persons are everywhere compelling us to defense."

Thus the Emperor stands tonight, in the eyes of England, a sort of Frederick the Great, beset on every side by enemies. And he is the great figure in the situation which in almost the twinkling of an eye changed to place him in a position of great military disadvantage.

Those who have seen the Kaiser lately have remarked that while his physical condition is apparently perfect, the cares and troubles of his rule have indelibly marked his face almost as if scarred with the wounds of battle. His latest photograph shows heavy lines as in the face of a runner who has gone at a terrific pace.

One of the things which impelled King George last night to make a final effort at peace was the knowledge of the services the Kaiser himself had rendered in the cause of peace in the years gone by.

FIRST SHOTS FIRED NEAR PROSTKEN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—A German patrol near Prostken was fired on this afternoon by a Russian frontier patrol. The Germans returned the fire. There were no losses.

MINERS IN WALES HARASS ENGLAND.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

CARDIFF (Wales) Aug. 1.—The executive council of the South Wales Miners' Federation today refused to accede to the suggestion of the British Admiralty that the miners in the collieries supplying vessels of the navy should work on Tuesday and Wednesday next, which had been arranged as miners' holidays. The council took the ground that it was not necessary for defensive purposes for the miners to work and they declined to encourage British intervention in a European conflict.

TEUTONIC TRANQUILITY.

The Half-Million Chicago Citizens of German Extraction Are Not Much Excited Over War.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The half-million Germans in this city took the war news tranquilly tonight, there apparently being a general hope that in spite of the declaration there still might come some development that would prevent war.

Baron Kurt von Reiswitz, in charge of the German consulate here in the absence of Alfred Geissler, the consul, said he could not estimate the number of men here who could be drafted into the German army. He believed it was comparatively small, however.

Italy Establishes Censorship on Foreign Dispatches.

Half-Million Soldiers Are Called Under Arms.

Fortifications on Frontier in State of War.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Aug. 1.—A strict censorship has been established in Italy over dispatches to places abroad.

King Victor Emmanuel is keeping in close touch with events and is said to be in frequent direct communication with other European rulers, especially the German Emperor.

The Pope is said to have made great efforts to prevent the war, as since the recent concordat between the Vatican and Servia his feelings are very friendly toward that country. The signature of the concordat is said in some quarters to have been one of the causes of Austrian resentment against Servia. Speaking on the subject to the American Ambassador, the Pontiff informed him that he considered the Austrian attitude toward the Servian concordat unfair and added that he "must protect his children wherever they are."

The Italian government is preparing to meet any eventuality. About 500,000 soldiers are under arms, including those who can be withdrawn from Tripoli and other places, as just before the Austro-Servian outbreak 100,000 reservists had been called to the colors.

All the fortifications along the eastern frontier have been hurriedly been put into a state of war, while the various squadrons of the fleet have assembled at their naval stations.

NEW AMBASSADOR OFF FOR RUSSIA.

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 1.—In spite of the European war, George T. Marye of San Francisco, the recently-appointed Ambassador to Russia, left on the Overland Limited this afternoon for Washington, D. C., accompanied by Mrs. Marye.

Ambassador Marye's original plans were to remain in Washington two weeks, consulting with and receiving instructions from the State Department, and sail August 22 from New York for Paris and proceed immediately to St. Petersburg. He said today that he would not know whether these plans are to be changed until he reaches Washington.

EXPORTER A SUICIDE.

Cotton Seed Magnate of South Kills Himself Because of Losses on Account of the War.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 1.—Brooding over heavy losses sustained because of the war in Europe, Sim Steinhardt, head of a chain of cotton seed mills, and one of the largest southern cotton seed exporters to Germany, shot and killed himself at his palatial home here today. All exports of cotton seed have been stopped because no vessels are obtainable. Coming at the height of the export season, the war will be a severe blow to both the cotton and cotton seed industry. Mr. Steinhardt was rated as immensely wealthy and was one of the best-known men in the State.

GUARD AGAINST DRAIN OF GOLD.

Attention of Washington Is Centered on Europe.

Diplomats Urged to Use All Efforts for Peace.

Question of Merchant Marine Now Confronts Wilson.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—War developments in Europe overshadowed all else today and tonight in the attention of official Washington. Steps to prevent a financial stringency in this country as a result of Europe's sudden need for gold were followed by a series of precautionary measures designed to protect Americans and their interests abroad as well as at home.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan studied a mass of dispatches from American embassies, legations and consulates in Europe. While no formal tender of good offices has been made to any power, American diplomats abroad are keeping the State Department closely advised so that if an opportunity presents itself, the influence of the United States for the settlement of the war problems by pacific means will be actively exerted.

Ambassadors Page at London, Penfield at Vienna, Herrick at Paris and Gerard at Berlin were particularly active during the day, conferring with officials of the various Foreign Offices. They are at work in the interests of peace and thus far have been acting on their own initiative. In their dispatches to the State Department they made various suggestions, but until the situation develops further no decisive step in diplomacy will be taken by the Washington government.

INSTRUCTIONS TO DIPLOMATS.

The Washington government, however, instructed all its diplomatic representatives abroad to do everything in their power with propriety to avert the conflict. The instructions were to counsel for peace and calmness wherever it was possible in an informal way.

Germany, France, Great Britain and practically all the other governments of Europe which may become involved in the struggle have asked the United States to care for their diplomatic interests in those countries with which they may be compelled to sever relations. The United States has accepted every request of this kind.

In this way the United States government, by acting as the sole channel of communication between the powers, may find an opportunity to assist in the settlement of the conflict by means of diplomacy.

WILSON'S HOPES.

President Wilson has not lost hope that a general conflict can be averted. Some of the official dispatches have suggested that the military measures being taken by some of the powers are precautionary and not definitely indicative of any determination actually to engage in hostilities.

The gravity of the situation was admitted in all these telegrams. News that Germany had declared war on Russia came unofficially while President Wilson and Secretary Bryan were in conference in the executive offices. Soon afterward, Secretary Bryan hurried back to the State Department and sent several long cablegrams abroad, the nature of which was not disclosed.

MERCHANT MARINE.

To prevent a paralysis in commerce President Wilson and Congressional leaders today agreed on legislation which would permit foreign ships to come under American register in case of a general war.

No proclamation of neutrality will be issued by the United States until the situation develops more clearly. It was pointed out that there was no urgent need for the proclamation and it was generally understood that the United States would remain neutral. The President will wait until a general proclamation can be issued covering all countries involved. Officials of the government generally were busy preparing for emergencies. Secretary Bryan postponed his trip to Asheville, N. C., where he had planned to spend a week's vacation with Mrs. Bryan.

BURLESON'S ARRANGEMENT.

Postmaster-General Burleson announced that, thus far, there had been no interruption or delay to mail service from America. Although German steamship sailings have been canceled, American mail for Europe has been sent by other lines. Postmasters have been notified not to sell international postal money orders for unusually large sums because of the fear that the money order system might be used for speculative purposes in foreign exchanges.

WAR SPIRIT HITS BARON.

German Land Owner of California Will Cross Seas to Join His Regiment.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 1.—The war spirit has hit Baron von Schroeder of this city, one of the largest land owners in California, who, with Count von Montgelas, and several other titled men, left today to join his regiment in Germany. Baron von Schroeder is an officer in one of the Kaiser's crack regiments.

MEAT PRICES ARE SOARING.

FOUR CENTS POUND ADVANCE ON BEEF TO BE MADE TOMORROW.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 1.—Prices of meat of all kinds are soaring as a result of the war in Europe, which automatically shuts off all imports, according to local packers. It was announced today that prices of beef would be advanced 4 cents a pound Monday, and all other meats would advance "in sympathy." Imports from South American countries which are not affected by the war, will be affected because of the inability of exporters to get ships. The Mexican and Canadian supplies will not be affected, but these are so small that they will have practically no effect on prices. If the war is of any considerable duration, packers believe steaks may be advanced to nearly a prohibitive figure.

GERMANY CAUTIONS AUSTRIA.

Message from Berlin to Vienna Says Refusal to Negotiate with Russia Would Be a Mistake.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Westminster Gazette today publishes the text of an interesting telegram from the German Imperial Chancellor to the German Ambassador at Vienna, sent after the receipt of a message from St. Petersburg, saying Austria-Hungary had declined Russia's request to enter into direct negotiations. The message, dated July 30, says:

"The report of Count von Pourtales, the German Ambassador at St. Petersburg, does not harmonize with the account your Excellency has given of the attitude of the Austro-Hungarian government. Apparently there is a misunderstanding, which I beg you to clear up.

"We cannot expect Austria-Hungary to negotiate with Servia, with whom she is in a state of war. The refusal, however, to exchange views with St. Petersburg would be a grave mistake.

"We are indeed ready to fulfill our duty as ally. We must, however, refuse to be drawn into a world conflagration owing to Austria-Hungary not respecting our advice. Your Excellency will express this to Count von Berchtold, Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, with all emphasis and great seriousness.

[Signed]
"VON BETHMANN-HOLLWEG."

In reply to this communication, Count von Berchtold told the German Ambassador that there was, in fact, a misunderstanding and that the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador at St. Petersburg had been instructed already to begin negotiations with Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian Foreign Minister.

A statement given by the German Foreign Office to the correspondent concludes:

"These negotiations, as well as the intermediate action of the German government, were ended by the mobilization of all arms in Russia on sea and land."

The declaration of the Foreign Office was admittedly given, according to the correspondent, "in the hope of yet preventing a world war and as an alternative of justifying Germany's position to England, whose friendship she still desires."

The Westminster Gazette also says the Austro-Hungarian government yesterday sent a communication to St. Petersburg declaring that Austria-Hungary had no intention of annexing Servia, extinguishing the sovereignty of Servia or re-annexing the Sanjak (province) of Novipazar.

GERMAN STEAMERS HELD BACK.

Hamburg-American Liner Loading at Tacoma and Another Are Ordered not to Sail.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 1.—The Hamburg-American steamer Saxonia, at Tacoma, and the German steamer Steinbek, loading at Bellingham, have been ordered not to sail. The Kosmos liner Selos, bound from Puget Sound for Australia with lumber, will be ordered by wireless to take shelter at Honolulu.

The Kosmos liner Alexandria, probably will put into San Diego or bound north from Punta Arenas, San Pedro.

RECALLS DAYS OF BISMARCK.

German Imperial Chancellor Makes Patriotic Address to Huge Procession in Berlin.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—The German Imperial Chancellor today addressed a huge procession of demonstrators from the window of his official residence, making a stirring speech. He said:

"At this serious hour, in order to give expression to your feelings for your fatherland, you have come to the house of Bismarck, who, with Emperor William, the Great, and Field Marshal Von Moltke, welded the German empire for us.

"We wished to go on living in peace in the empire which we have developed in fourty-four years of peaceful labor.

"The whole work of Emperor William has been devoted to the maintenance of peace. To the last hour he has worked for peace in Europe and he is still working for it. Should all his efforts prove vain and should the sword be forced into our hands we will take the field with a clear conscience in the knowledge that we did not seek war. We shall then wage war for our existence and for the national honor to the last drop of our blood."

FRENCH ATTACK LONDON GERMANS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—After it became known that Germany had declared war, an incident nearly leading to a riot occurred in the West End of London. Two Germans on leaving a cafe in the vicinity of Leicester Square, one of them carrying an unsheathed sword over his shoulder, were set upon by a group of Frenchmen, irritated at the German's swashbuckler behavior. A large crowd joined in the fray and but for the intervention of the police, who hurried the Germans away, the affair would have had serious results.

ITALY ALOOF FROM THE WAR.

WILL NOT WAVE HER HAND TO HELP GERMANY AND AUSTRIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Dispatches from Rome say that Italy formally notified the German Ambassador there this evening that she will remain neutral.

WHY AND WHEREFORE.

ROME, Aug. 1.—The Messenger today says that as it is not a question of a defensive war on the part of Germany and Austria-Hungary, the other two members of the triple alliance, Italy has decided to confine herself to pointing out to her allies that her treaty obligations with them do not oblige her to take up arms in the present crisis and that she will remain neutral.

The newspaper adds that it is not certain their neutrality will last until the end of the war, but Italy will stand aloof from hostilities as long as she is convinced that her interests are not infringed.

CANADA OFFERS HELP IF ENGLAND NEEDS IT.

OTTAWA (Ont.) Aug. 1.—A formal offer of military contingents was cabled to England today by the Canadian government.

Infantry, cavalry and artillery will be included in any force sent forward and it would number 20,000 men if transportation could speedily be obtained for that number. It is estimated that within two weeks it would be possible to dispatch 10,000 efficient soldiers and within three months this number could be increased to 50,000.

It is understood that the government has decided to make an effort to prevent the departure from Canada of Austrian and Hungarian reservists.

"WACHT AM RHEIN" HEARD IN LONDON.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Pleasure-loving Londoners, issuing by thousands from the theaters tonight, were confronted by screaming newspaper placards announcing that Germany had declared war on Russia. For the first time the full significance of the fate overhanging Europe appeared to strike the ordinary citizen with full force, and he began with real seriousness to ask himself what part England was to play in the great drama of tragedy.

Leading business and commercial men for days had been in a state of apprehension over the course events were taking, and saw themselves face to face with great losses—perhaps ruin—but the customary life in the great city had gone on, undisturbed by the echoes of war, which seemed far away. Although some unusual commotion and military movement had been observable, most of the citizens did not realize war was near enough to involve Great Britain.

People stopped on the sidewalks in anxious groups discussing the unexpected news, but there were no unusual demonstrations, except here and there collisions between little bands of Germans and Frenchmen as the result of their patriotic ardor.

The "pass along, please," of the imperturbable London policemen was heard when these outbreaks occurred, and the crowds slowly dispersed.

The greatest excitement was observed in the numerous foreign restaurants of the West End, especially in German haunts, where the crowds cheered Emperor William and sang the "Watch on the Rhine" and other patriotic songs. The French element was less in evidence, owing to the fact that large numbers of Frenchmen have returned to France in the last few days. The Russians in London are rather negligible in number. Most of those here are refugees from Russian oppression. They displayed little emotion over the news that Germany and Russia were at war.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Slavonic citizens of the United States, who were formerly Austro-Hungarian subjects, at a meeting here tonight, attended by several thousand persons, adopted resolutions protesting against the attitude of the land of their birth toward Servian liberties. After addresses by a number of speakers, resolutions were adopted condemning "the tyrannical, high-handed and criminal methods by which the despotic government of Austria is conspiring to deprive the free and independent people of Servia of their freedom."

CZAR'S CAPITAL IN WAR FRENZY.

Germany's Declaration Stirs Blood of Russians.

Patriotic Enthusiasm Shown by Crowds in Street.

Flags Wave, Torches Blaze, Emperor Is Cheered.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—Germany's declaration of war against Russia has provoked in the Russian capital a wonderful demonstration of patriotic enthusiasm.

The German Ambassador, Count von Pourtales, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in the name of his government, sent to the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs official notification of the declaration of war and two hours later an announcement to this effect was made to the people.

Tonight the capital presents a spectacle of extraordinary animation. The Nevsky Prospect and all the leading thoroughfares are filled with war-frenzied people, marching in processions, carrying portraits of the Emperor with flags waving and torches blazing. From time to time there is an outburst of cheering and singing.

Speakers fired with patriotic fervor harangue the crowds. In the front of the Kazan Cathedral each procession halts and a sudden hush falls over the processionists; then the strains of the national anthem sung in perfect harmony by a section of the procession rise in the air, the crowds listening silently with bared heads. Then the procession moves forward and the demonstrations are resumed with renewed ardor.

MILLIONS READY TO MOVE CROPS.

THIRTY-FOUR MILLIONS OF DOLLARS TO BE DEPOSITED WITH THE BANKS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Secretary McAdoo announced tonight that the $34,000,000 which the treasury will deposit in national banks to help in the movement of crops would be available as soon as they complied with conditions outlined to them today. The money will be deposited by installments of from 25 to 50 per cent. Allotments by States probably will be announced next week.

SHIPMENT OF GOLD BY PARCEL POST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The United States government paid itself $1200.12 today for postage stamps to bring sixty tons of gold from Philadelphia to New York. The postage charge was paid by the Treasury Department to the Postoffice Department.

On account of the exportation of vast sums of gold to Europe recently, the supply here was running low and the Treasury Department called on the Philadelphia mint for $30,000,000. It was sent by parcel post at the straight rate of 5 cents for the first pound and 1 cent for each additional pound.

It took three postal cars to haul the load and twenty wagons, guarded by hundreds of policemen, to transfer it from the railroad station to the subtreasury.

EMPEROR WILLIAM TALKS TO THRONG.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The Emperor, speaking from a window of the castle last night to the crowds beneath, said:

"I thank you for the love and loyalty shown me. When I enter upon a fight let all party strife cease. We are German brothers and nothing else. All parties have attacked me in times of peace. I forgive them with all my heart. I hope and wish that the good German sword will emerge victorious in the right."

The Imperial Chancellor also addressed the assembly, saying:

"All stand as one man for our Emperor, whatever our opinions or our creeds. I am sure that all the young German men are ready to shed their blood for the fame and greatness of Germany. We can only trust in God, who hitherto has always given us victory."

within which France must answer. Baron von Schoen called at the French Foreign Office at 11:40 a.m., to receive France's reply. Premier Viviani made an earnest appeal to the German Ambassador, asking if Germany could not yet do something to avert war.

The Baron promised to communicate with Berlin and to return to the French Foreign Office at 4 p.m., which he did.

The German reply, whatever it was, was submitted to the French Cabinet council, which, within a few minutes afterward, ordered a general mobilization of the French army.

The date of the mobilization was set for tomorrow, but that only means the men must reach their regiments by tomorrow.

The wildest enthusiasm was manifested on the boulevards when the news of the ordering of the mobilization became known.

The troop trains departed at regular intervals and the Paris streets were quiet and nearly empty tonight. All the auto busses had disappeared, having been requisitioned by the army to carry meat, the coach work of the vehicles being removed and replaced with specially-designed bodies. A large number of taxicabs, private automobiles and horses and carts were also taken over by the military for transport purposes.

THE PROCLAMATION.

The text of the joint proclamation follows:

"For some days past the states of Europe have been considerably aggravated and notwithstanding the efforts of diplomacy the horizon has darkened. At the present hour a great part of the nations have mobilized their forces. Even the countries protected by neutrality conventions have deemed it their duty to take this measure as a precaution.

"The powers whose constitutional or military legislation differs from ours have, without issuing a decree of mobilization, begun carrying on preparations which in reality are equivalent to mobilization and are but the anticipated execution of it.

"France, who always has affirmed her desire for peace, who on many a tragic day has given to Europe counsels of moderation and a living example of decorum and who has multiplied her efforts to maintain the peace of the world, has now prepared herself for all eventualities and has taken from henceforth her first indispensable dispositions for the safeguard of her territory.

"But our legislation does not permit the completion of these preparations without a decree of mobilization. Conscious of its high responsibility and feeling that it would fail in its sacred duty if it did not take this measure, the government has signed the decree.

"Mobilization is not war. Under the present circumstances it would appear, on the contrary, to be the best means of assuring peace with honor.

"Strong in its ardent desire of arriving at a peaceful solution of this crisis the government, under cover of these essential precautions, will continue its diplomatic efforts and still hopes to succeed. It counts upon the coolness of the people not to give itself up to unjustified emotion. It counts upon the patriotism of every Frenchman and it knows that there is not a single one who is not ready to do his duty at this hour.

"There are no longer any parties. There is an external France—a France peaceful and resolute. There is a fatherland of peace and justice, all united in calm vigilance and dignity."

HOW IT HAPPENED.

During the course of their second interview today, Premier Viviani said to the German Ambassador: "You are mobilizing; we know it."

Baron von Schoen, the Ambassador, did not reply, and M. Viviani continued: "This attitude of your government has dictated ours. We are compelled to take precaution similar to yours. Our peaceful intentions remain unchanged. We wish peace and the best proof we can give you of this is that at the present moment the French Parliament has not been convoked. Under our constitution we should be compelled to convoke it if our intentions were not peaceful."

Baron von Schoen said: "But frontier incidents are unfortunately to be feared."

Premier Viviani replied:

"How can you suppose such things? Our troops are five miles from the frontier. We are, in fact, exposed to the violation of our frontier, and there is not another power in the world which would have consented to do such a thing." (This refers to the withdrawal of the French troops from the immediate frontier.)

The Premier proceeded to point out that the German troops were at the very foot of the frontier posts and said he concluded from this that if incidents occurred they could only be provoked by the German military forces.

WOULD RETURN ACT OF TREASON.

Louisiana's Secession Law Probably to Go Back.

Document Got to Washington in Mysterious Manner.

Gen. Butler May Have Taken Paper at New Orleans.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—When the pending bill passes Congress, providing for the return of the ordinance of secession of the State of Louisiana to its native archives, the files of the War Department will lose one of their most curious possessions.

No one remembers exactly how the old zinc tube containing the record of the convention which voted to leave the Union, reached the department. The case bears the simple legend painted on its cover:

State of Louisiana, Ordinance of Secession, January 26, 1861.

This is the only one of the eleven such documents that the government possesses. Different stories exist as to the means by which the relic reached the Capitol. It is said that Gen. Butler, when he took New Orleans, seized all the official papers he could find and sent them to Washington. It is possible that the old brown tube containing its message came North with other trophies of war.

As far as the record shows, the ordinance first came to light in a drawer of Lieut.-Col. Corbin's desk in the Adjutant-General's department. It was delivered to Maj.-Gen. Davis, now retired, in 1895, and from him it went to the Secretary of War, who ordered it placed on the files.

The parchment is yellow with age, but is excellent condition and perfectly legible, though some of the signatures are a bit faded. The text is divided into two parts, in English on the left and French on the right. Antiquarians and students of history have frequently sought permission to see the quaint old document, which reads as follows:

"An ordinance to dissolve the union between the State of Louisiana and other States united with her in the compact entitled 'The Constitution of the United States of America.'

"We, the people of the State of Louisiana in convention assembled, do declare and ordain, and it is hereby declared and ordained, that the ordinance passed by us in convention on the 22nd day of November, in the year 1811, whereby the Constitution of the United States of America and the amendments of said Constitution were adopted, and all laws and ordinances by which the State of Louisiana became a member of the Federal Union, be, and the same are hereby, repealed and abrogated; and that the union now subsisting between Louisiana and other States under the name of 'The United States of America' is hereby dissolved.

"We do further declare and ordain, that the State of Louisiana hereby resumes all rights and powers heretofore delegated to the government of the United States of America; that its citizens are absolved from all allegiance to said government, and that it is in full possession and exercise of all those rights of sovereignty which appertain to a free and independent State.

"We do further declare and ordain, that all rights acquired and vested under the Constitution of the United States, or any act of Congress or treaty, or under any law of the State, and not incompatible with this ordinance, shall remain in force and have the same effect as if this ordinance had not been passed."

LANE IN PLACE OF M'REYNOLDS.

CALIFORNIAN MENTIONED AS SUCCESSOR IN DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Senate leaders expect to see Atty.-Gen. McReynolds nominated for the Supreme Court vacancy Monday. At the White House the only statement available was that he was foremost in President Wilson's consideration.

In official circles, Secretary Lane is regarded as a most likely successor to McReyonlds for Attorney-General. It was said the President had also determined to promote the Attorney-General to the vacancy on the Supreme Court bench in succession to the late Associate Justice Lurton. A canvass of the Senate had been made and he was assured of confirmation.

WARBURG ON THE CARPET.

New York Financier Is Examined Four Hours by Senate Banking Committee.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Paul M. Warburg of New York, President Wilson's nominee to the Federal Reserve Board, was examined by the Senate Banking Committee for four hours today. His examination will be continued Monday.

Senator Bristow of Kansas was the committee member to question Mr. Warburg. He probed in detail the financial opinions of the banker, his connection with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. officially. Senator Bristow made use of the report of the House Money Trust Committee, which listed Kuhn, Loeb & Co. as one of the firms in the combination "controlling money and credit" in the United States.

Members of the committee said a favorable report on his nomination was probable. White House officials are confident Mr. Warburg would be confirmed.

made full preparations in both services for whatever may happen.

The present position therefore is that Russia, France and Servia are arrayed on one side against Austria-Hungary and Germany on the other. How long the warfare will be confined to this plane, it is impossible to foretell; nor can it be foretold whether Belgium and Holland will be able to maintain their neutrality against their powerful neighbor, or whether Great Britain will find herself compelled to send an expeditionary force to attempt to preserve that neutrality.

Another factor, which, as yet has not been given much consideration, is the attitude of Turkey, which, if she has sufficiently recovered from the effects of her late war with Italy, may be able to throw considerable weight into the scale. It is generally understood that Germany has an effective understanding with Turkey which may lead to interesting developments.

DIPLOMATIC ACTIVITY.

There was no cessation of diplomatic activity in London throughout the day. This evening Premier Asquith gave a small dinner party at his residence in Downing street, the guests including the Russian Ambassador. Sir Edward Grey remained at the Foreign Office until a late hour, and then went to Buckingham Palace to consult King George. The Japanese Ambassador had a long conference with Sir Edward Grey during the afternoon.

The Cabinet will meet again tomorrow to consider Great Britain's attitude in the crisis. The government will have to make its momentous decision between the two schools of thought which prevail here—one advocating that England hold aloof and seek only to protect Dutch and Belgian neutrality, and the other arguing that the entente with France entails England going to the assistance of France if that country is attacked by Germany. Despite the official view that there is a friendly feeling between England and Germany, it is impossible to avoid observing among the general public deep-seated antagonism toward that country.

AUSTRIA'S OTHER PROBLEM.

Two Hundred Thousand of Her Subjects in this Country Eligible for Duty, but How to Get Them Back?

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Official notice was received at the Austro-Hungarian Consulate here today that the reserves had been called for general mobilization. Two hundred thousand Austrians and Hungarians, it was said at the Consulate, would therefore immediately be called on to return home from this country and join the colors.

How to get the 200,000 men back to Austria-Hungary was a problem officials at the Consulate were trying to solve. It was at first planned to have the reservists sail from New York on Italian steamers. These steamers, however, it was said at the Consulate, would have to pass Gibraltar, where they might be captured and taken as prisoners of war by England.

WHITE WOLF STILL AT IT.

Chinese Bandit Once Reported Dead Is Still Active and Troops Have Been Sent Out to Catch Him.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—White Wolf, the Chinese bandit leader, once reported dead, is active again and troops sent against him have been forced to retire, according to official reports to the State Department made in connection with the appeal for the arrest of the revolutionist general, Huang Hsing, now in San Francisco.

Between 10,000 and 20,000 government forces were repulsed yesterday by the bandit. Consular reports from Hsun and Honan, where White Wolf has been operating, state that the revolutionists have reorganized with money sent from Kiangsi, where the outbreak of 1913 occurred. Revolutionist propaganda in San Francisco is said to be inspired from the same source.

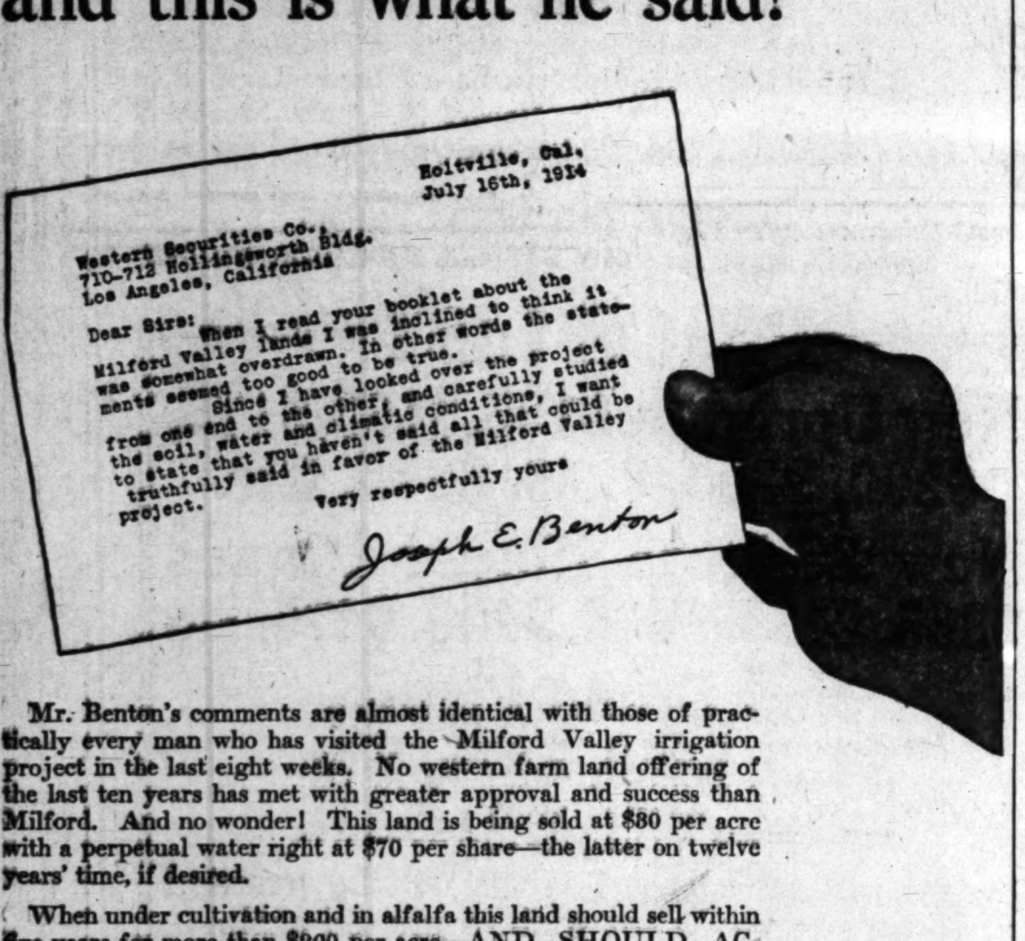
—he bought in Milford valley and this is what he said!



Holtville, Cal.
July 16th, 1914

Western Securities Co.,
710-712 Hollingsworth Bldg.
Los Angeles, California

Dear Sirs:

When I read your booklet about the Milford Valley lands I was inclined to think it was somewhat overdrawn. In other words the statements seemed too good to be true.

Since I have looked over the project from one end to the other, and carefully studied the soil, water and climatic conditions, I want to state that you haven't said all that could be truthfully said in favor of the Milford Valley project.

Very respectfully yours
Joseph E. Benton

Mr. Benton's comments are almost identical with those of practically every man who has visited the Milford Valley irrigation project in the last eight weeks. No western farm land offering of the last ten years has met with greater approval and success than Milford. And no wonder! This land is being sold at $80 per acre with a perpetual water right at $70 per share—the latter on twelve years' time, if desired.

When under cultivation and in alfalfa this land should sell within five years for more than $200 per acre—AND SHOULD ACTUALLY PAY FOR ITSELF TWICE OVER WITHIN THAT TIME. You can figure it out for yourself that this means not only more than 20 per cent. annually on your investment, but the return of your original capital besides.

The older CULTIVATED LANDS in this district, EVEN 15 TO 30 MILES FROM THE RAILROAD, are held as high as $250 per acre and more. And the owners of these lands admit that the soil of the Milford project is as good or better. And our land IS RIGHT ON THE MAIN LINE OF THE SALT LAKE R. R. Practical, successful, keen-minded Southern California ranchers have purchased Milford Valley lands during the last eight weeks to the tune of over $250,000.00. There MUST be substantial reasons for this heavy sale. If you are in the market for something extraordinary priced away below actual value—make arrangements now to join our next excursion party at low homeseekers' rates. Go up and see why nine out of every ten buy this land at sight. Go and see the bumper crops of grain, alfalfa and fruit on lands adjoining the new project. Talk direct to the ranchers. Write for new illustrated booklet—also special article on Milford Valley in last issue of Western Empire magazine.

GET TOGETHER, WILSON'S ADVICE.

Railroad Men Told Country Cannot Afford Strike.

Both Sides Urged to Bury All Past Differences.

Decision to Be Announced by President Tomorrow.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—In an attempt to avert the threatened strike of 55,000 firemen and engineers on ninety-eight western railroads, President Wilson today appealed to representatives of the employers and employees to accept the settlement plan proposed by the Federal board of mediation and conciliation. He was promised consideration for his proposal by both sides. They will give him a definite answer on Monday.

Hope for a peaceful settlement was held tonight by administration officials because the railroads' managers' committee promised to think again over the Federal mediators' plan which they had rejected once. The committee planned to meet informally tomorrow.

According to statements by W. S. Carter and Warren S. Stone, representing the firemen and engineers, the employees of the road have already accepted in principle the mediation board's plan. The President asked the railroad managers to do likewise.

Representatives of both sides promised the President to remain in Washington until Monday. The railroad managers said they would reach a decision by then whether the plan would be accepted and the President told the employees' representatives he would communicate the outcome to them.

The plan of the mediators is to restore schedules in effect prior to October, 1913, with certain amendments and rulings, and to submit to arbitration the question of wages.

The President devoted his entire afternoon and evening to considering the strike question. He saw the representatives of the managers and of the employees separately, and later held a conference with Judges Chambers and Knapp of the Federal mediation board.

In meeting the managers' committee President Wilson made a brief speech, pointing out to them that the situation was abnormal because of the war in Europe and that no pains should be spared in seeking to reach a settlement. He told them he was making efforts to increase the American merchant marine in order to take care of shipments of farm products, and that these efforts would be worthless if a strike on the western railroads was declared.

J. H. Sheean, counsel for the committee of railway men, accompanied them to the White House conference. Mr. Trenholm would not say whether there was any likelihood of the railroad managers agreeing to arbitrate.

President Wilson made a short address to the railroad managers, telling them that he did not believe either the employers or the employees should be willing to take the responsibility for a strike at the present time.

He declared the country was in the midst of abnormal conditions because of threatened war in Europe. If a strike should be proposed in normal times, he said, he would not feel like interfering, but he felt it his duty to urge both sides as earnestly as he could to reach an agreement.

Efforts on the part of the administration to build up the American merchant marine in order to ship the crops were mentioned by Mr. Wilson. He said that they would be defeated if a strike on the western railroads was declared.

After listening to the President, the railroad managers replied that they would take what he had said under consideration and let him know their decision Monday morning. They gave no indication of whether they would submit their differences to arbitration under the Newlands act.

The railroad managers told the President in detail of their differences with their engineers and firemen, declaring they were already under great expense and had been forced to refuse the demands of the workmen.

The President took the position that no matter what the differences or the justice of the claims of either side, both parties should give up something and come to an agreement in the interest of the country.

Later when the President and Mr. Stone and Mr. Carter of the enginemen and firemen conferred, the President was told that the men believed that in accepting the plan of the Federal board of mediation and conciliation the workmen have gone as far as they could and that they thought the decision of whether the strike will come or not rested with the railroad managers.

President Wilson told them that he would notify them of the decision reached by the railroad managers' committee on Monday.

RAILWAYS EXPECT STRIKE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 1.—That the railroads are expecting arbitration of the strike situation to fail, and an actual walk-out of the enginemen on all western railroads on August 7, was indicated here today in preparations of the Santa Fe for a strike.

The railroad, through orders issued from the office of Supt. J. R. Hitchcock in this city, is advertising for men to be held ready for work when the present firemen and engineers abandon their engines.

Mechanical Superintendent S. L. Bean of Los Angeles will have charge of the acquisition of men to take the places of the 500 or more employees in this city and men willing to work are asked to apply to him.

Both railroad officials and enginemen today expect that the strike ultimatum issued by the employees yesterday will be carried out and that the ninety-eight western lines will face the worst situation since 1894.

BIG REPUBLICAN CLUB FAVORS WOMAN CANDIDATE.

Enthusiastic Meeting Held in San Francisco Is Addressed by Aspirant for Office of Lieutenant-Governor, Who Declares Her Sex Will Stand Together in Present Fight.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 1.—The Swedish-American Republican Club of California yesterday indorsed the candidacy of Mrs. Helen K. Williams for the office of Lieutenant-Governor on the Republican ticket at a largely-attended meeting. Mrs. Williams was invited to be present and delivered an address on the subject of prison work. She described the wave of enthusiasm prevailing among the women of the State and declared that, contrary to the opinion of a few men, the feminine electors would stand together in the present fight and carry their cause to victory.

The Rev. Dr. Andgreen, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church, was present, and addressed the members. Over a social cup of coffee he told his auditors that when women were given the ballot in California it was intended that they should hold office if they so aspired. He declared the entering of women into politics was a needed reform and would purify conditions.

"I see no reason why women should not hold office," he said in his peroration.

Mrs. E. Hellman is president of the club and is assisted by Mmes. G. R. Lindberg, first vice-president; A. Johnson, second vice-president; L. F. Sanden, third vice-president; Harvey Dale, secretary; Fred Johnson, chairman of the Membership Committee, and Alice Peterson, J. A. W. Carlson, I. C. Swanson, Ida Hanson, E. L. Wilson and Mrs. Telleen. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hellman.

SUFFRAGETTES DISREGARD ANTI-MILITANCY ORDER.

BELFAST, Aug. 1.—Militant suffragettes today disobeyed the order issued by the Women's Social and Political Union requesting members to refrain from militant acts during the international crisis, and made an attempt to destroy the ancient cathedral at Lisburn, which contains a monument of Lieut. Dobbs, killed during an engagement against Admiral John Paul Jones's ship.

The women placed a quantity of dynamite beneath a window of the chancel. The thick wall resisted the explosion, but a rare stained-glass window was shattered and a large quantity of masonry damaged.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Aug. 1.—Early returns from the primary held in Kentucky today gave former Gov. J. C. W. Beckham a small lead over his opponents, Representative C. A. Stanley and Gov. James B. McCreary, for the Democratic nomination for the long term in the United States Senate. Practically complete returns from ten counties out of 120 gave Beckham 13,966; Stanley, 13,262. McCreary's vote was light.

One hundred and eighteen artillery horses which were taken from the burning building, later stampeded. Some ran down the railroad track, where they held up trains. Others fell over the embankment, breaking legs.

One jumped through an occupied automobile, badly injuring Mrs. J. L. Hicks, wife of the local postmaster, and Miss Marion Hagar, in the car with her. The horses tonight were running wild across the country.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GREEN BAY (Wis.) Aug. 1.—Criminal warrants for the arrest of William Sloane, multi-millionaire; Nelson S. Clark and George McNair, all of whom are directors of W. and J. Sloane, big New York distributors of carpets, were obtained in the municipal court today. Service was obtained this afternoon on Clark and McNair when they arrived to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the Willow Grass Rug Company. Sloane did not come to this city.

Developing Bust

A few years ago a maid or matron who was flat-chested thought she must remain so, but now all is changed and newspapers and periodicals are recommending White's Vaucaire Tablets to build up the bust and fill out what the French describe as "Salt Cellars," those little hollows at the base of the neck near the shoulders. The basis of this tonic is imported Galega, an herb that acts immediately on the mammary glands, stimulating and building them up. It is put up in little tablets by the Willard White Company, and certainly in this form it fills a long-felt want. This article has accomplished wonderful results in a number of cases known to the writer.—Ida McGlone Gibbon, Editor "The Woman Beautiful."

GRACE WILSON.

Rates Up in East.

falo and Pittsburgh to the Atlantic seaboard. That excludes from the area from which the railroads will receive benefits, the greatest traffic-producing center of the country.

Commissioners Daniels and McChord dissented from the majority opinion. Mr. Daniels held that a 5 per cent. increase should have been general—that the railroads were entitled to it, to meet the high cost of living. Mr. McChord held that the reasons which the majority held to warrant an increase west of Pittsburgh applied equally to the territory east.

The majority, headed by Chairman Harlan, held as to rates west of Pittsburgh, that they were the lowest in the country and warranted an increase. While it was held that the income of the eastern railroads was smaller than demanded in public interest, no showing had been made warranting a general increase.

The real relief, the commission held, for the New England roads and those in Central Freight Association territory, was financial reorganization upon a sound basis. It was held that rather than raising freight rates, the railroads should discontinue costly free services to shippers, develop efficiency of personnel and equipment, stop giving free passes and possibly increase their passenger fares to keep pace with the high-grade service the public demands.

"The crisis" which railroad managers protested was confronting them was pronounced to have little foundation. The commission denounced what is characterized as a propaganda to influence its decision and added that there was no doubt it had "seriously aggravated the present commercial depression."

ROADS BENEFITED.

Such advances as are allowed are expected to increase the income of the railroads about 1½ per cent. Such principal east and west roads as the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Erie and Baltimore and Ohio will be benefited by the advances to the extent that they have lines running from the East over in the territory into which the advances apply.

Coal, which alone comprises more than one-half the total traffic of the railroads, will have no advance. Neither will coke, brick, tile, clay, starch, cement, iron ore and plaster. Neither will there be any increase on lake and rail rates.

Chairman Harlan in the decision says officials of the Central Freight Association roads joined the 5 per cent. application, not because they thought such an increase would meet with their requirements, but only because of the powerful trunk lines to present one plan of relief.

He says they expressly condemned their present basis of rates and indicated that they shortly would ask increases beyond those allowed today.

Suggesting an increase in passenger fares, the commission referred to the high grade of service on American roads and said:

"A public that demands such a service cannot reasonably object to the payment of a reasonable compensation."

Railroads are urged to disassociate themselves from such properties as are not actually used in transportation service.

The railroads asking for increases in rates have an aggregate of $684,000,000 in such properties, the commission found.

Financial transactions of the New Haven, Rock Island and Frisco systems were referred to as examples of debilitation of credit through acquisition of unprofitable subsidiary lines.

Private cars and sleeping car contracts, the commission held, should be carefully reviewed before being renewed.

An order was issued cancelling the general 5 per cent. proposed. Such roads as get advances will file tariffs to conform with the decision today. The decision is effective at once.

ABSTRACT OF DECISION.

"The contention of the railroads that their revenues under the present scale of rates are inadequate, is sustained, the commission saying that the operating income of the railroads in official classification territory, taken as a whole, is smaller than is demanded in the interest of both the general public and the railroads.

"The present financial difficulties of the railroads are recognized by the commission as a problem not only of the railroads, but of the public. On this point the commission says, speaking of the need of the carriers for additional revenues, that 'it is our duty and purpose to aid as far as we legally may, in the solution of the problem as to the course carriers may pursue to meet the situation.'

"The commission points out that the official classification territory embraces three rate territories, known as the northeast territory, lying east of the Hudson River; the trunk line territory, lying between the northeast territory and the Buffalo-Pittsburgh line, and the Central Freight Association territory, lying between the Buffalo-Pittsburgh line and the Mississippi River, and that the financial and traffic conditions of the railroads operating in these three rate territories differ widely. The commission finds that if the average freight rate had been as high on the Central Freight Association territory lines as on the roads on the trunk line territory, the former would have earned in 1913, $56,000,000 more than they actually did, and the twenty-eight representative roads in Central Freight Association territory, which are most in need, would have earned $29,000,000 more. The rates in this territory, it finds lower than those in any other part of the United States.

"The three great trunk lines have each a large mileage in Central Freight Association territory, so that their revenues will be augmented by rate increases in that territory. Thus, of the New York Central's system, 12,690 miles of line, 8938, or more than two-thirds, are in Central Freight Association territory. Nearly one-half of the mileage of the Pennsylvania system is also in that territory and more than one-half of the Baltimore and Ohio. The Erie, the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Norfolk and Western also have important mileage in Central Freight Association territory.

"The systems in trunk line territory which now have no mileage in Central Freight Association territory are in large part roads with large anthracite coal traffic, and they are very prosperous.

"The commission finds that the class rates effective in Central Freight Association territory are so low that an increase of 5 per cent. would clearly not be unreasonable, but points out that the class rate structure in that territory is honeycombed with inconsistencies and says:

" 'There can be no doubt upon the record that the carriers in Central Freight Association territory ought, in the public interest, to have as much additional revenue as would be produced by a 5 per cent. increase, as modified herein, and possibly more,' it is stated.

" 'It is not improbable, however, in view of the modifications we have required in these tariffs, that we find it more desirable at once to undertake the readjustment, which they assert is necessary.'

"The commission finds that the carriers operating in Central Freight Association territory are entitled to an increase not exceeding 5 per cent. on all class and commodity rates on shipments wholly within that territory, except the rates on coal, coke, iron ore, cement, brick, tile, clay, starch and plaster, as to which the carriers did not sustain their burden of proof, and any rates which are controlled by specific unexpired orders of the commission.

"The proposed increase in Lake and rail rates and in rates between Central Freight Association territory and other portions of official classification territory are disallowed. The effect of the findings is also to disallow the application of the proposed minimum increase of 5 per cent. a ton on those commodities for which a charge is now made of less than a dollar a ton. This minimum increase in some instances, would have resulted in increasing rates as much as 25 to 50 per cent.

"The commission finds that the financial conditions of the carriers in trunk line territory do not warrant a general increase of freight rates and that the needs of the northeast lines are being cared for locally, and disallows the proposed increases in those territories; but under the title of 'how carriers may increase their revenues,' finds 'that great opportunity exists for increasing the net revenue of all carriers in official classification territory otherwise than by resorting to a general advance in their freight rates,' and makes the following specific suggestions:

"With respect to fares fixed by statutes in certain States, the commission expresses confidence that if these fares are clearly shown to be unduly burdensome to the carriers, the people of those States will cheerfully acquiesce, as the people of New England have done, in reasonable increases, and that the necessary legislative authority will be promptly given.

"The commission suggests that 'all railroads in official classification territory should ascertain to what extent . . . special services now being rendered by the carriers to shippers for which no special charge, or a non-compensatory charge, is made . . . constitute an unjust burden on the carriers or result in unjust discrimination among the shippers.' In this connection the commission calls attention to compilations prepared by it from the carriers' answers to the commission's inquiries showing the practice of individual roads as to: '(a) allowance of free time for unloading or loading carload freight; (b) collecting and delivering freight; (c) storing freight; (d) transporting containers; (e) furnishing and transporting dunnage, preservatives, etc.; (f) furnishing or paying for wharfage and dockage; (g) refrigeration service; (h) loading and unloading carload freight; (i) reconsigning carload freight; and (j) other special services.' The commission also refers to 'independent investigation of some of these subjects, and particularly of switching, lighterage and storage in New York, Chicago and other large cities,' the results of which will be submitted later for the consideration of carriers and shippers.

"The commission recommends that the practices of granting free transportation of passengers and private cars should be further restricted by the carriers and calls attention to the fact that at the average rate per passenger mile in official classification territory in 1913, the passenger miles represented by trip passes alone would have yielded in passenger revenue $18,500,000.

"The commission recommends 'a careful review of methods for increasing freight car efficiency,' saying: 'taking the average of all roads in official classification territory for the whole year, the time a car is moving in trains probably does not exceed three days out of thirty, and the car is under load only two out of those three days. Furthermore, the cars under load are loaded on an average of only about 58 per cent. of their capacity. The percentages of empty movement and of waste capacity in loaded cars have both grown.'

"The commission suggests 'that as soon as reasonable opportunity offers, properties heretofore acquired by the carriers which are not used or held by them for transportation purposes, be sold,' adding, 'from compilations proposed by the commission of the incomplete replies to our questions, it appears that the aggregate cost of such investments in official classification territory, was more than $684,000,000. Included in these are properties of the aggregate cost of $183,146,659, from which no net income whatsoever was received in the year 1913. These investments by the carriers have, through increasing the amount of capital required to be raised, imposed in many cases a great and unnecessary strain on the carriers' credit, with the result of an increased charge on all new capital secured and sometimes of preventing improvements which would have yielded transportation economies.'

"The commissin also suggests 'that an investigation be made with a view to determining to what extent the cost of construction or of acquiring properties or capital or of operating is being increased by the holding directors, officers or employees of interest in the concerns with which the carrier has dealings,' and calls attention to the fact that the compilation from answers to the commission's questions on this subject show that 'a considerable proportion of the officers and directors of railroad companies have interests in such concerns, including locomotive works, car-manufacturing companies, steel and ironworks, coal mines, wire works, bridge companies, manufacturers of railway appliances, oil companies, electric machinery companies, glass companies, warehouse companies, surety companies, railway publishing houses and trust companies.' It also refers to a further investigation into the subject which is being conducted independently by the commission.

"The commission suggests that all expiring contracts with sleeping car companies should be carefully reviewed before being renewed. The commission makes no suggestions in regard to railway mail pay, 'as that subject is under investigation by another branch of the government,' adding 'it may be assumed that if the compensation for the service is found to be unjust to the carriers, relief will promptly be afforded.' "

The commission concludes its report by saying:

" 'We may justly feel proud of the development of our transportation system. Despite occasional discreditable chapters, the history of our railroads has been marked by great achievements. There is a growing spirit among the carriers of co-operation with the commission in its efforts to enforce the law. With the application of correct and helpful accounting, the establishment of sound business methods, and a better understanding by both carriers and the public of their mutual obligations, to which we believe this institution has contributed, the future is full of promise. We see no reason why our American railroads should not enjoy a large measure of prosperity consistently with just and reasonable rates.' In his dissenting opinion, Commissioner Daniels holds that the 5 per cent. increase should have been accorded generally. This opinion is based on the inadequacy of the carriers' present revenues to afford a fair return on their property and to attract such additional investments as are required in the interest of the public. He qualifies this conclusion, however, in certain cases.

M'CHORD'S DISSENT.

Commissioner McChord's dissent, a very brief one, also concluded this way:

"Viewed from a commercial, geographical or transportation standpoint, and in the light of the facts of record, I am convinced that the reasons which impelled the commission to approve certain changes in Central Freight Association rates apply equally to trunk line rates, and that the transportation conditions in the two territories are not so unlike as to indicate the wisdom of dissimilar treatment of the rates proposed by the carriers in the entire official classification territory."

Recapitulation.

TWO ADVANCES IN ONE DECADE.

History of the Movement for Higher Freight Rates.

Fifty-two Railway Systems Concerned in the Case.

Concession Based on Increase of Operating Expense.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The general movement of the eastern railroads to increase their freight rates in the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers was the second within the decade. The first application to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which asked for a 10 per cent. increase, was denied in 1910. No further concerted move was made by the railroads until last year, when application for a 5 per cent. increase was made; it was practically identical with the application of four years previous, except that the advances asked were only half as much

Cognizant of a widespread public sentiment that a prompt decision was much to be desired in the interest of the general industrial and financial conditions in the country, the Interstate Commerce Commission at once assigned the application—officially designated the Eastern Advance Rate Case—for public hearings. Chairman Harlan in person conducted some and examiners took testimony at others, at which representatives of the railroads and shippers had opportunity to testify under oath and to swear and examine witnesses.

The fifty-two railroad systems concerned presented their case principally by President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio system, President Delano of the Monon system and George Stewart Patterson, general counsel for the Pennsylvania. Many other prominent railroad executives appeared and gave testimony during the course of the hearings, however, among them President Rea of the Pennsylvania, ex-President Smith of the New York Central system and officials of all the principal systems concerned.

Opposition to the advance was conducted principally by Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, who was engaged as counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission and the shippers; Frank Lyon, representing the Pittsburgh Coal Company, one of the leading opponents of the increase, and Clifford Throne, representing the railroad commissions of several Middle Western States.

RAILWAY ARGUMENT.

The railroads summarized their arguments for the increase in testimony to show that nearly every expense which they themselves have been called upon to bear in the last ten years has been steadily increasing, while their income has remained stationary. The argument opposing the increase divided. Mr. Brandeis took the position that "on the whole the net income of carriers in official classification territory is smaller than is consistent with their assured prosperity and the welfare of the community," but contending that the railroads should be relieved not through advances in rates, but by conserving their revenues by effecting economies of management and by eliminating certain free services to large industrial concerns and great shippers. The other section of the opposition took the position that the railroads were actually in a more prosperous condition than they had enjoyed for years. Mr. Thorne contended that "some of the companies are earning more than [illegible]0 per cent. in dividends and surplus of their capital stock after all other charges have been paid."

Early in the hearing, the commission's procedure indicated that the case would be considered under two divisions: First, Are the carriers entitled to more revenue? Second, if so, how is such additional revenue to be obtained.

By common consent among the railroad managers, the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Pennsylvania systems were exhibited as typical conditions in the fifty-two eastern lines praying for the increase.

President Willard contended that the railroads during the last three years had spent $600,000,000 in new capital and that in 1913 the earnings were $16,000,000 less than in 1912. It was represented that since 1910 the property investment of the three great systems had increased 51.60 per cent.; that gross earnings had increased 13.35 per cent., while the net operating income had increased only 29 per cent.

"Between 1910 and 1913," testified C. M. Bunting of the Pennsylvania, "our system was more than $11,000,000 short of receiving one cent of return upon its additional investment."

For the New York Central, W. C. Wishart testified that since June, 1910, the system had been adding to its property investment at the rate of $1,000,000 a week, while its net income per week in 1913 was $63,000 less than it was three years ago.

"The year 1913 shows a large increase in operating revenue," he testified. "In fact, 18.76 per cent. over 1910, but the operating expenses increased 23.59 per cent, and taxes 32.38 per cent., leaving the net operating income 4.91 greater than it was in 1910."

President Willard summarized that phase of the argument in his statement that "the railroads, too, are feeling the burden of the increased cost of living."

"We are suffering from slow starvation," was the description applied by W. C. Maxwell, general traffic manager of the Wabash.

Statistics were offered to show that the greatest increases in railroad expenses were for wages, taxes and new investment in the properties.

"There is no more important question before the people," President Willard told the commission, "nor one the correct solution of which will do more to stimulate healthy commercial activity and promote industrial growth. It is a mistake to think the question is merely one of dividends for railroad stockholders, although that feature is, of course, involved. The problem in a broad and true sense affects all interests—and the outcome of this particular case, whichever way it is decided, will mark an epoch, because it will, in effect, very largely determine whether we shall, as in the past, continue to look to private capital and private enterprise for our transportation or be compelled finally to accept the only alternative possible."

THE ONLY ALTERNATIVE.

President Smith of the New York Central testified in April that since September, 1913, his system had laid off 23,000 men. He added that while the system's gross revenue in 1913 was $50,000,000 more than in 1910, $159,000,000 of new capital had been invested and the net income was less than $4,000,000 greater than it had been before the new capital was invested.

Testimony of other executives was to the same effect.

As the public hearings begun in November proceeded, public interest became intense. The subject frequently was discussed lengthily on the floor of both houses of Congress where the railroads were alternately assailed and defended and whole folios of the Congressional Record were devoted to academic argument and tables of statistics on one side or the other.

Senator Cummins openly charged that a publicity campaign was being conducted to arouse public sentiment in favor of the increase; Senator La Follette charged that there was a widespread effort to "intimidate the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant the increase," and declared it would cost the consumers of the country $100,000,000 a year.

Various attempts were made to represent President Wilson as being in favor of the increase, but further than the statement that the President considered the case before a quasi-judicial body and for that reason he would have no thought of taking part in it, no word of the President's attitude was officially given. Mr. Wilson, however, did express the view that the case should be determined without an unnecessary delay.

In order that all shippers might have opportunity to be heard whether in opposition or in favor of the increase, the Interstate Commerce Commission set aside time extending over most of two months, assigning days for shippers of various commodities. The greatest opposition from shippers came from those interested in coal and petroleum.

Representatives of independent oil refiners testified that the new rates asked by the railroads would benefit the Standard Oil Company at their expense. F. W. Boltz of Cleveland, O., representing forty independent oil refiners, presented tables which, he said, would show discriminations against several cities where independent refineries were located. He did not charge that the new tariffs had been framed to benefit the Standard Oil Company, but contended that such was their effect. He contended that the tariffs which the railroads were asking the commission to approve, instead of authorizing 5 per cent. increases, as publicly stated, contained increases of from 2 to 20 per cent.

INDUSTRIAL CASE.

At this juncture, the commission rendered a decision in the so-called industrial railroads case, which was generally interpreted as having an important bearing on the subject of the rate increase. It held that the great railroad systems of the country were effectually paying many millions of dollars a year to so-called trusts and great industrial plants along their lines by performing certain free services, such as switching of cars and paying so-called allowances to plant railroads operated by the industrial concerns. Such allowances and preferences were in effect illegal rebates, the commission held, and unlawful discriminations against smaller concerns which did not enjoy them. Pointing out the connection with the advance rate case the commission, referring to the railroads said in its decision:

"Before they may fairly ask the general public to share further in carrying their burdens, it is manifest that the railroads must themselves properly conserve their sources of revenue by making every service performed contribute reasonably to their earnings."

The commission announced its intention of determining at a later time what charges for the hitherto free services would be reasonable. It was estimated that proper charges would net the railroads at least $15,000,000 a year.

Mr. Brandeis went into that phase of the situation extensively for evidence to support his contention that the railroads could increase their revenues without increasing freight rates. He estimated that fair charges for services performed free would net the railroads approximately $30,000,000 a year and that efficiencies of management would easily swell the sum to $50,000,000, the amount the railroad managers said they hoped to raise by the advance. He estimated that the eastern roads handled 50,000 cars a year free for large industrial concerns; that a so-called "trap-car" service free for shippers in Chicago took up about 60 per cent. of certain freight rates.

Mr. Delano testified that the question of free terminal services was one to which shippers and railroads alike "would do well to address themselves." Mr. Brandeis introduced testimony to show that in some instances as much as 50 per cent. of the railroad revenue from given shipments was expended for free services. Free storage, free warehousing, free elevating of grain, free loading and unloading of cars, and free terminal services were among the practices he instanced.

"This free service cost the Pennsylvania railroad at Philadelphia, through three or four subsidized warehouses companies, $282,261 alone in the year ended June 30, 1913," he told the commission. He instanced a shipment of twenty cars from Ivorydale, O., to Buffalo, N. Y., on which he said 35 per cent. of the total revenue was expended for free services. He cited other instances where he contended the free services cost more than the freight charge collected. The free-service cost to the Erie Railroad at New York Harbor as applied to 18,153 cars, he said he had investigated, amounted to $24 a car. He instanced a shipment of twenty-five carloads of flour over the West Shore Railroad from Buffalo in which he said nearly 85 per cent of the gross revenue was expended in terminal charges. He urged that a discontinuation of such services and a reasonable charge to shippers would sufficiently increase the revenue of the railroads.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS.

In closing up the argument against a freight-rate increase, and for such conservation of the revenues of the railroads as he had pointed out, Mr. Brandeis maintained that it was without the power of the commission to grant the horizontal increase asked for because the law required that "carriers must prove not only that there is a reason for an increase in a particular rate, but also must prove that the rate so increased will be a just and reasonable rate."

"How can the revenues apparently needed be obtained?" he asked. "Opportunities for obtaining additional revenue are such as to show that not merely $50,000,000 a year but a sum more nearly approaching $100,000,000 a year is easily within the grasp of the carriers if methods of conserving revenues which are being suggested are adopted."

The passenger service of the large systems Mr. Brandeis discussed as a factor of loss of revenue. The cost of the Pennsylvania terminal in New York, he declared, which was $108,000,000 would have built an entire railroad from New York to Chicago at the liberal price of $115,000 a mile.

Clifford Thorne, leading the other section of the opposition, attacked the contention of Mr. Brandeis that the railroads were entitled to more revenue. He agreed, however, with the contention that free service should be eliminated.

"There is no crisis whatever in the railroad business," he told the commission, summing up his opposition, "which will prevent a denial of this 5 per cent. to be followed by an intelligent, orderly, fair investigation of the whole question of special services." He contended that until a physical valuation of railroads had been made the reasonableness of the return to the railroads upon their investments could not be determined. The net revenues of railroads in eastern territory for 1910, 1911, 1912 and 1913 were greater than for any other year in their history, he declared.

"Last year," he said, "their revenues were $100,000,000 greater than in 1900. They tell us their properties are running down. They spent more per mile in maintenance, structures and equipment last year than in any other year in history. They claim their credit has been ruined and that their securities are no longer attractive to investors. As a fact, their securities sell for prices as high as those of any other companies on the market at the present time."

President Rea of the Pennsylvania, in a prepared statement to refute the contentions of the opposition, said:

"Unless the gap between expenditures and receipts can be widened, we must begin to retrench. We would be very reluctant to do this and we are sure it would not be in the public interest and we do not believe the public desires it. Now, we have as much public support as can possibly be given to a plea almost national in its scope and effect, and we firmly believe our application for very moderate freight-rate increase is in accord with the best public interest."

The conclusions which he said applied generally to all the roads asking for the increase, were as follows:

"1. The margin of surplus is steadily diminishing and the company is not receiving any return, either on the additional capital invested or for the value of the service rendered and the facilities provided for public use.

"2. Had there been no surplus in earlier years and had the whole of the improvements been paid out of capital, the margin would now have reached the vanishing point.

"3. If the surplus steadily decreases, improvements, if made at all, will more and more need to be made out of new capital.

"4. But if the margin of safety decreases, new capital will only be raised with greater difficulty on more onerous terms.

"5. Indeed, it is questionable, where, if new capital is to continue to earn no income, the directors will be justified in attempting to raise more than a modicum of what they believe necessary, as the effect must be to reduce the percentage return on the shareholders' capital already invested."

President Willard summed up his conclusions, saying:

"Three or four years ago we based our application for increased rates on what we considered to be a tendency. Today it is not a question of tendency but a question of fact."

RAILROADS GAIN MILLIONS BY NEW RATE INCREASE.

ON the basis of earnings for the year ending June 30, 1913, the increase of 5 per cent. granted the railroads involved will mean a net gain of $47,596,000 in revenues. Each road's proportion of this direct gain will be as follows:

Important Notice.

Owing to the many complaints filed by the unsophisticated public against the inexperienced and experimental auctioneers, the public is hereby notified that hereafter they should vehemently insist that before placing their household effects, merchandise or business of any nature in the hands of an auctioneer that they should be given a contracted minimum guarantee, not a verbal estimate, at an exaggerated appraisement of the value of what they desire to dispose of. The reputation and integrity of the old established auction firms are being undermined by newly, over-zealous recruits, who knowingly and unknowingly make many misrepresentation of which they are not legally responsible, having no tangible assets. KILLED ON AERIAL TRAM.

One Man Injured and Three Suspended in Midair When Cable Is Torn from Drum..

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICO, Aug. 1.—One man was killed, one injured and three others suspended in midair, 100 feet above the Feather River, late today, when the cable propelling an aerial tram car between Las Plumas and the Great Western Power plant tore loose from the drum on which it was being wound.

Harry Cramer was hurled from the car to the rocks below and was killed. W. C. Bennett, while endeavoring to steady the swaying car, had his hand caught in a pulley, was jerked from the car and hung by his wrist until rescued an hour later. His arm was pulled nearly from its socket.

INVESTIGATE FIRE.

Telephone Messages After Blaze in Flat House and Kerosene on Floors Rouse Police.

After flames had been extinguished in a flat house at No. 319 East Twelfth street early this morning, the police began a search for a man whose persistent telephone messages after the fire led to the belief that he was responsible for an attempt to burn the place. Kerosene was found on floors and furniture in the first-floor flat, occupied by a mother and daughter, whose names were not known to the police.

When fire broke out in the place, firemen found kerosene on the floor and on bedroom furniture on the first-floor flat. Detective Zeigler, who was detailed on the case, also found a watch and other valuables on a bureau in the room. When four telephone messages had been received at the house, supposedly from a man whom the neighbors knew simply as "Clarence," the detectives started on a hunt for him. It was said he had had trouble with the women occupying the lower flat, but this could not be confirmed.

TURKS TO FIGHT AGAINST SERBS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SWAMPSCOTT (Mass.) Aug 1.—A. Rustem Bey, the Turkish Ambassador, who is spending his vacation here, said tonight that, in his opinion, Turkey would soon become involved in war with Servia. He expressed the opinion that a general European war was probable, and that, notwithstanding the fact that Turkey had recently signed a treaty with the Serbs, his country would again be arrayed in arms against them.

"WE WILD DEFEAT THE WORLD!" CRIES COUNT CSAKY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 1.—Fired with patriotism and determined to spare no expense or risk of life in getting to his native land, Count Kallman Csaky of Austria-Hungary, now a guest of Hotel Virginia, will leave Monday tfor Austria to fight for his country at the head of his regiment in the Royal Hussars. With him will go his companion, Aladar von Kecsar, a baron of Northern Hungary, who is also stopping at the hotel.

Count Csaky and Von Kecsar will confer with the Austrian Consul at San Francisco regarding transportation to Germany, whence they will make their way home. They anticipate considerable difficulty in getting to Austria because of the stoppage of service on the German liners to New York. But they are determined to get home at all hazards.

"My country has been preparing for this war for over twenty years," said the Hungarian count, "and she will be victorious. Germany and Austria can defeat the combined armies and navies of the rest of the world.

"We are not fighting Servia; we are fighting Russia, with its hordes of Slavs eager for territory in Western Europe. The Czar has been scheming for many years to unite the Slavonic peoples of that part of the world by wiping out Hungary. Servia can be compared to a boy with a rich parent. He plays heedless pranks, mischievously breaks windows and spends money recklessly, and his fond papa, Russia, pays for it all.

"It is the old story of religious hatred of the Greek Orthodox Catholics against the Roman Catholics of my country. It will be in a sense a religious war. I have no fear of the outcome."

Baron Kecsar and Count Csaky were educated together in a military school in Mahrisch-Weisskirchen, in Northern Hungary. They were both born in the town of Kassa, Hungary, and have been touring this country together.

APPEAL TO WASHINGTON TO RESCUE AMERICANS.

Thousands of Them Are Marooned in England and on Continent and as Tras-Atlantic Service Has Been Demoralized by War Scares the Chances of Their Early Return Are Dim.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Cable messages from Americans abroad received by the Associated Press tonight suggested action by the American government of some character that will assist them to return home. A message from Howard Carroll, a well-known New York author and business man, sent in behalf of himself and other Americans and dated Dover, Eng., recited the plight in which they find themselves by reason of the paralysis of the trans-Atlantic passenger service. It suggested that Washington take steps to arrange with the powers a truce for passengers sailing from the various European ports to America. Mr. Carroll's message follows:

"The alarm and excitement among Americans anxious to return home cannot be exaggerated. Permit me, through the Associated Press, to suggest that in this crisis the United States government make such representations to the European powers as will insure for passenger steamers sailing for ports of the United States a truce of from six to eight weeks pending the return of Americans to their homes. Otherwise incalculable hardships will be imposed on an army of innocent people, whose only fault is that they have visited Europe as usual, to spend countless sums of money."

SERVICE SUSPENDED.

The trans-Atlantic service between New York and Continental Europe was suspended today by the Cunard line, and the International Mercantile Marine Company, which controls the White Star, Red Star, American, Leyland, Dominion and Atlantic transport lines.

Sailings for British ports via these lines was not interrupted.

Wholesale cancellation of trans-Atlantic sailings, recalls by wireless of European-bound vessels a day or two out of port, and suspension altogether of trans-Atlantic service by three lines, were announced in rapid succession here today. The North German Lloyd line, which announced yesterday that no more vessels would sail from either side of the Atlantic completed its tie-up by ordering back to port today three vessels—the Friedrich der Grosse, the Grosser Kurfuerst and the Neckar—which sailed on July 29 from Baltimore, New York and Galveston, respectively. In addition, the line ordered the steamer Willehad, now at the British port of Montreal, to proceed at once to Boston and remain there till further orders. The Russian-American line announced the suspension of its trans-Atlantic service.

Sailings of seven vessels comprising the Atlas service of the Hamburg-American line between New York, the West Indies and Panama, have all been cancelled. Of the other large trans-Atlantic lines only the International Mercantile Marine was sure that sailings would not be cancelled or interrupted. The Cunard line was expecting cabled instructions from its home office in England during the day. But one vessel of this line, the Saxonia, was to sail today at noon. Her destination was the Mediterranean.

An hour before her sailing time, officials of the line announced that she would not depart on time and that whether she would sail at all would depend on instructions from England.

La Lorraine of the French line reached port today, possibly to swell the great fleet of liners which will remain inactive at their docks in the Hudson till the foreign situation clears. La France, of this line has been requisitioned by the French navy and officials of the line could not assert positively today whether La Lorraine would sail for Europe next Tuesday, as scheduled.

Never before in the history of the port has trans-Atlantic service been so impaired. As a neutral port New York, it was believed today, would soon lead the world in the congestion of great liners rendered inactive by the European war situation.

HIGH PRICED STEERAGE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Every berth on the trans-Atlantic steamers sailing before September 15 has been sold and many thousands of Americans traveling here have become almost panic stricken. One of them gave $1000 today for a steerage ticket.

Relief.

MAY SEND NAVY VESSELS TO BRING AMERICANS HOME

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Active measures for the relief of many thousands of Americans in distress in Europe for lack of money or means to return home have been begun by President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

It is estimated that from 100,000 to 300,000 citizens are now in Europe.

The administration has under consideration sending army and navy transports to carry American refugees and a special request to Congress for an appropriation is expected.

If necessary, the Washington government is prepared to send American vessels abroad with gold for the relief of Americans. Immediately after the conference with the President, Mr. Bryan cabled all consulates, legations and embassies to spare no pains in caring for Americans who remained in the war zones and giving every facility to those who wished to leave.

Naval officers have suggested that the government could charter immediately some of the big ocean liners of foreign register to bring Americans home, probably securing exemption from seizure.

The only American warships in European waters are the little gunboat Scorpion, station ship, at Constantinople, and the battleship Maine at Villafranche with Annapolis midshipmen and the officers and crew of the battleship Idaho taken over at that port by the Greek government. The Maine will leave Villafranche Tuesday for Annapolis.

A special appropriation would be required to charter steamships to bring home Americans. Congress always has acted promptly in such emergencies and is expected to do so again.

CASH PLENTY IN CALIFORNIA

BANKS CARRY LARGE SUMS TO ACCOMMODATE CLIENTS.

San Francisco Reports No Unusual Demand for Money on Account of the European Situation While Normal Interest Rates Are Maintained.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 1.—All the large commercial banks are carrying large sums of cash at present, and no unusual demand for money has been reported on account of the European situation. The banks are accommodating their clients with time money at 6 per cent., the normal bank rate here. This is the season when the Coast banks accumulate cash against the crop movement, which has started, and this accounts for the large reserves they are carrying. Under normal conditions the stock of money would begin to diminish about this season and reach a low point about the middle of December, but owing to the temporary stoppage of foreign export business from this port, there is less demand for money than usual.

All the San Francisco banks are exercising extreme caution in the matter of buying European exchange and discounting foreign bills, which is the only hazard that could confront them. As this policy has been in force for some time, their European balances are now very low.

Frank B. Anderson, president of the Bank of California, said that at no time in six or seven years had the banks of this city been in so strong a position as at present. He added that, regardless of war, he expected some method would soon be devised to permit of a resumption of merchandise exports from this port.

War News.

In addition to the comprehensive war news received daily by The Times through the Associated Press and by Atlantic Cable, an extensive arranged compilation of news received through the foreign press and from authorized correspondents on the spot will be printed in Part III of The Times.

AWARD HONOR TO PASADENAN.

Popular Woman Is Chairman of Child Labor.

Hopes to Ameliorate Abuses of Little Fellows.

Trackless Trolley Proposed for Street Service.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Aug. 2.—Word has just been received from National President, Mrs. Frederick Schoof at Washington, of the official appointment of Mrs. A. M. Hamilton of No. [illegible] North Raymond avenue as chairman of the child labor department of the National Congress of Mothers.

Mrs. Hamilton, through the Parent-Teachers Associations, Mothers Congresses and the National Child Labor Bureau, will get in touch with every State in the Union and will through their co-operation make suggestions as to what kind of work children should do as well as how many hours they should labor.

Mrs. Hamilton said yesterday that she didn't know just yet the exact nature of the work included in the appointment, but she did know that it would be an immense task, and that she may have to go to Washington to consult with the national executive board.

HONOR UNSOUGHT.

Mrs. Hamilton, two years ago refused a position in the national work of the organization, because she believed it her duty to remain with her own State, having been elected district president from California.

From this time on she will have more to do with the welfare of the child laborer than any one else in the United States. Through the different organizations of this kind over the country she will be able to learn the American people as a whole.

In those States where it is necessary for poor children to work and where it is against the law to do so something will be done to remedy these conditions.

Mrs. Hamilton is a past president of the California Congress of Mothers and has long been interested in child welfare work.

TRACKLESS TROLLEY.

A trackless trolley system may be installed in Pasadena as a means of solving the local transportation problem. The idea comes as a suggestion from J. L. Harris of New York, and formerly of London. He has been endeavoring to interest Los Angeles and Pasadena in the project.

It is not likely, however, that the two towns will adopt the plan as the cars can make only 18 miles an hour, but Harris says that he will endeavor to interest private capital in the enterprise as Pasadena certainly needs additional transportation conveniences.

KILLED AT CAIRO.

Sheriff Charley Holmes of Marion, Ill., and well-known in Pasadena, having visited here a number of times, was shot and killed in Cairo, Ill., yesterday by a negro man whom he was endeavoring to arrest. He has a brother, F. Holmes, in Altadena, who left this morning for Marion to attend the funeral.

THREE ACCIDENTS AT SANTA MONICA

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 1.—Accidents prevailed here all the afternoon, the Emergency and St. Catherine Hospitals handling one case after another since shortly after noon when J. A. Matson, an employee of the Imperial Ice Company, at Ocean Park, caught his leg in an ice-crushing machine and sustained terrible injuries, which may cost him his leg. He is married and lives at No. 3019 Eleventh street. The machine caught his leg and ripped and pulled the ligaments from the lower part of the limb. The amputation of two toes was necessary and the attending physicians fear that the whole lower leg will have to be cut off.

Shortly after 4 o'clock Julio Martinez was hit on the crown of his head by a falling brick at the new Higgins apartment hotel at Second street and Arizona avenue. The falling of the brick is a mystery, as no one was working on the side of the building where it fell. Martinez was carried to the Police Hospital and later to the St. Catherine Hospital, where he was operated on for a fracture of the skull. The man's skull had to be trephined and the doctors hold out little hope for the injured man's life. Martinez lives at No. 1733 Sixteenth street and had the ditch-digging contract at the building. He had been warned not to work under the place where the bricklayers were working, but when injured this afternoon no men were engaged and no one knows how the brick fell.

An hour later Fannie Shneider, a 13-year-old girl, was skating in the downtown district when she was hit by a motorcycle driven by F. E. McDonald of No. 114 North Sixteenth street, Sawtelle. The injured girl was taken to the office of Dr. John A. Balsley, where several bruises and cuts were treated.

ALARMS OF WAR KEEP HIM HOME.

SANTA MONICA'S MAYOR CAN'T REACH HIS FAMILY IN EUROPE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 1.—Mayor Dudley has temporarily postponed the start of his European trip, on account of the war scare in that country. He was to have departed tonight for New York, where, on the 8th inst., he would have embarked on the Olympic. He was going abroad to join his family in Paris, but now will wait until he hears from the cable that he sent several days ago. This morning he was fully prepared to leave and even held a special session with the Park Commissioners, intending to leave shortly after, but when the news came at noon of the tense conditions, he concluded to wait a few days so as to hear from his family.

Dudley will leave next week for New York to be in touch with his family. If the war does break out he will wait there for their return.

JUNKET TO REDLANDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Aug. 1.—Mayor Vandegrift and Councilmen McMullen, Boyd, Ewart and Tarr went to Redlands today to inspect the municipal water system, recently acquired by that city, in an effort to gain as many pointers as possible to guide them in the coming consideration of this city's acquiring the plant of the Consolidated Water Company, should the people here so decide at an election which will probably be called in the fall.

Ontario.

WATER WORKS OFFICIAL PERHAPS FATALLY INJURED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Aug. 1.—His front teeth knocked down his throat, his face and legs badly cut, and suffering from contusions about the head and probable internal injuries, City Water Superintendent Fred E. Alford is in a serious condition at the Ontario Hospital tonight, as the result of a head-on collision on Euclid avenue this morning between his motorcycle and an automobile driven by E. M. Kepner of this city.

Alford was riding his motorcycle down Euclid avenue and near Seventh street, as he approached a large wagon loaded with hay, and, the wagon blocking his way to the right, swung far out in the same direction and the two met at the curb.

Kepner was unhurt and his machine but slightly damaged. With the assistance of P. M. Kirk, who witnessed the accident, he rushed Alford to the hospital.

While no serious complications had developed up to a late hour tonight, it is impossible to say yet, doctors declare, whether or not Alford is seriously injured internally.

Alford will probably be the first to receive compensation from the city under the new compensation act, the city carrying insurance for the purpose.

Santa Ana.

ORANGE COUNTY SUGAR FACTORIES SLICE BEETS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 1.—The knives of five sugar factories in Orange county have begun slicing the heaviest sugar-beet crop ever grown in Orange county. The Southern California Sugar Company, one of the two big factories south of Santa Ana, delayed the opening of its campaign until tonight. The Santa Ana Co-operative has been in operation ten days, and has found that the beets are testing well for this time of year.

The yield per acre is heavy. Rains came right in the spring, and the summer has been cool, yet warm enough for growing. It has not been sunshiny the last two weeks as factory men would like. It takes sunshine to put sugar into a sugar beet. However, since the campaigns last until Thanksgiving, in some of the factories, and the opening up of warmer weather, the sugar beets are going to give an average test of percentage of sweetness that will be pleasing to the growers, who get 30 cents per tons for each additional per cent. above 15 per cent.

While the weather has been a little too cool for the 35,000 acres of sugar beets in the county, it has been ideal for lima beans. The bean crop is going to be record-breaking. Even the first setting pods are well filled out, and that in itself is unusual. The vines are as full of pods as they can set, and fogs and dews at night with sunshine in the day have filled out all of the pods in good shape. The menace of the bean grower is a scorching hot day. This summer there has been no such a day to stop the development of the pods or to shrivel the vines. In the county are 25,000 acres of limas and blackeyes. A bean crop here never looked better.

Substantial, steady growth in Santa Ana is shown by the building permits of July. Out of forty-nine permits, twenty-seven are for new homes. The total of permits is $58,435.

Several ranchers on Orangethorpe avenue, Fullerton, have incorporated under the name of the Pawpaw Mutual Irrigation Company for the purpose of operating a pumping plant to supply their ranches with irrigation water. The directors are C. W. Coman, W. J. Lindley, W. C. Burnside, A. Michaeli and J. T. Hill.

FILET DE SOLE IS THREATENED.

Halibut Industry May Be Injured by Law.

Fishermen Protest Change in Sixth District.

Also Complain of Wharf Operated by City.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Aug. 1.—News of the movement to have the next session of the Legislature amend the fish and game laws so as to include the Santa Barbara channel within the boundaries of the Sixth District, has aroused local fishermen to action. They fear that the halibut industry will be ruined and several hundred men put out of business because of the net restrictions in the Sixth District. Santa Barbara county is now a part of the Fifth District.

The restriction upon halibut nets prevents fishing in this district, and practically all the halibut brought to this market come from the Santa Barbara channel. News having been received that a new law revising the boundaries is to be prepared by the attorney for the State Fish and Game Commission, the fishermen will petition the Legislature for protective measures.

Halibut and barracuda have been scarce for several days, and the price paid to fishermen by wholesalers has gone up to 5 cents, just double what it was the first of the week. Mackerel have been brought in in great quantities, and the price has dropped to a cent a pound, with little sale at that. Sea bass is very scarce, although it was plentiful up to a few days ago.

COMPLAIN OF WHARF.

Fishermen have been expressing much dissatisfaction over the fisherman's wharf recently completed by the city. Stalls are rented at $3 per month, equipped with lockers, and the boats are tied to the wharf. About half the stalls are now empty. Fishermen complain that at low tide they cannot get up to the wharf, and that boats moored there have had their rudders damaged by the wash of passing vessels.

Harbor Engineer Jubb stated today that it was never intended that the boats should be tied up close to the wharf, as the deepening of the water would require a new bulkhead, and that the fishermen made no complaint when the plans were first announced. One-third of the stalls were never rented, having been reserved for a place for wholesale markets. It was planned to move these stalls to the south end of the wharf, but the project has been held up awaiting an opinion from the City Attorney.

TO INSPECT HARBOR.

News has been received here of the coming visit of the board of engineers for rivers and harbors of the War Department, which is making an inspection of all the river and harbor projects for which surveys have been authorized by Congress.

Removal notice: The California Title Guarantee Company has moved from 329 West Third street to 315 West Fifth street, ground floor, main entrance to Metropolitan building.—[Advertisement.

READY FOR CONVENTION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 1.—Preliminary work for the annual conference of the Seventh Day Adventists, whose regular sessions will commence next Thursday, is nearing completion. One hundred families and upward have already located at the tent city and the Worker's Conference is claiming the attention of many of the officials of the denomination, including President Burg of Glendale, who has been on the ground for some time.

Special services were held in the auditorium tent today, including Sunday-school, morning service, and an address on the work of the denomination in the afternoon. An illuminated lamp, typical of those used in the temples at Palestine at the time of Christ, occupies a conspicuous place over the speaker's platform, and is the object of much comment by visitors invited to the services.

Accommodations for a thousand at a meal are being completed at the cafeteria tent, where the fare will be entirely vegetarian, according to belief of the Adventists, who claim that they are the founders of the vegetarian movement, and to be the only denomination in the country whose food consists entirely of vegetable diet.

MEETS HIS OPPONENT.

Two Candidates for Congress in the Ninth District Address Meeting Called to Hear One.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LANCASTER, Aug. 1.—More than 150 Republicans of Lancaster and vicinity gathered in grammar school pavilion tonight to greet Hon. F. C. Roberts, candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, and several other speakers who accompanied him. Speeches were made by Col. Richardson, Fred W. Spring, Frank McDonald and others. Attorney Bachtell presided. Dudley Robinson, Mr. Roberts's opponent, happened to be in the city and was invited to address the gathering. Mr. Roberts made a favorable impression on the gathering.

The Luther Burbank Company is the sole distributor of the Luther Burbank Horticultural Productions, and from no other source can you be assured of obtaining genuine Luther Burbank Creations. You positively cannot secure Luther Burbank's latest varieties or creations from any other source. Look for the seal as reproduced above, on what you buy. It is your protection.

A WARNING!

A great injustice is being done, not only Luther Burbank, but the general public, which is being imposed upon by individuals and companies offering for sale half wild, thorny cactus, which they claim to be "Burbank's Spineless Cactus," and by false statements of former associations with Luther Burbank by irresponsible dealers and stock jobbers, trading on the Burbank name. It is our duty to warn innocent purchasers against these men and propositions. Investigate carefully the responsibility of those who offer cactus for sale. We, as successors to Luther Burbank, have maintained a complete record of all legitimate purchasers of Burbank Spineless Cactus from the original source.

The Luther Burbank Company has no agents—no representatives. We have our own branch office in Los Angeles, at 401 Van Nuys Building.

PLANT AND GROW

LUTHER BURBANK'S SPINELESS CACTUS!

The wonder forage for cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry. It is easy to grow, thrives without irrigation on poor land, needs but three to five inches annual rainfall, yields 50 tons and upwards per acre per annum, and can be left in the field to be cut and fed green, any month. Reproduces itself indefinitely.

One acre will feed two or more cows per year or upwards of fifty hogs or sheep.

In our new 1914 Burbank Cactus Book we give you complete information, and the History of Spineless Cactus—written by Luther Burbank himself. The book is free for the writing.

Find the Facts and Follow the Trail

The "bear" facts are what the farmers are hunting for. When I first got track of this big, even, gently sloping body of fertile land, I scarcely dreamed what it would be today. But it looked good to me as bare land, so I followed the adage, "When you see a bear, shoot;" and I landed it. Since then I have graded miles of roads, built pumping plants throwing enormous volumes of water onto the land, constructed conduits and mains, platting the land in tracts of 20, 40 or 80 acres. I named it Perris Irrigated Farms.

On these fertile farms you will find rich, deep soil; abundant water supply; water rights free with the land; an elevation of 1500 feet; an ideal climate for cattle, hogs and poultry; great crops—peaches, apricots and general farm products; exceptional railroad and market facilities; unusual city and High School advantages; a quality of all crops commanding the highest prices always.

$150 An Acre

Includes permanent ownership of the water rights. This hunting trip for the bare facts may be made at small expense in one day. Send in this coupon for illustrated folder showing trail.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Two Assistants County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors yesterday appointed John C. North and Paul Nourse as assistants county counsel. They are needed, it is stated, to clear up the large volume of litigation.

"Lived in Dixon."

The Dixon (Ill.) Association of Southern California will hold a picnic in Sycamore Grove next Saturday. All members are asked to attend and take other former residents of Dixon with them. "Lived in Doxon" is the password.

Grain Men's Picnic.

Members of the Los Angeles Grain Exchange and grain dealers of Southern California will go to Mt. Lowe Saturday to forget such trivial things as market sheets and war news. It will be the exchange's first outing, but it will be made an annual affair hereafter. Special cars will be provided for the party, leaving the Pacific Electric station at 2 p.m.

Women and Girls to Camp.

The first group of girls and women will leave the Pacific Electric building tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, on special cars, for the camp of the City Playground Commission at Seeley Flats in the San Bernardino mountains. There will be about 100 in the party and they go for a two-weeks' stay at the camp, where every comfort awaits them. The last party of boys to occupy the camp will return on the cars that take the female party.

Banker Sartori En Route.

J. F. Sartori, president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, narrowly escaped being among those who are temporarily marooned on the European continent as a result of war developments. He was originally scheduled to sail on the Imperator, whose departure has been delayed, but instead, secured accommodations on the Olympic early in the week, and will arrive in New York today or tomorrow. He will reach Los Angeles in a week or so.

For Grape Industry's Protection.

Southern California's grape industry and its protection is the incentive of an active campaign that was begun when Dr. Clarence E. Edwords was placed in charge of the campaign work of the Southern California Grape Protective Association yesterday and installed as secretary and manager of the association at its offices in the Hollingsworth building. Dr. Edwords is well acquainted with Southern California conditions and is credited with being a forceful speaker and entertaining lecturer.

Use Beet Sugar.

The campaign waged by the sugar refiners of Southern California to encourage the use by Southland housewives of sugar made here is bearing fruit, according to F. F. Brown of Parrett & Co., who is managing it. "Grocers are already reporting increased calls for Southern California sugar," he said yesterday. Also because of the awakened interest, the contest for the best window display of sugar products will be continued this week. A sack of sugar will be given to each of the twenty-five grocers making the best displays.

Interesting Programme.

C. J. Blanchard of the United States Reclamation Service will speak at the Tuesday luncheon of the Advertising Club on "Uncle Sam As a Real Estate Advertiser." His particular text will be the statement of President Sproule of the Southern Pacific some days ago that "in a few years Southern California will not have land enough to go around." Postmaster Brown will speak on "The Postoffice as a Business Barometer," and John C. Allen, formerly in the United States Consular Service in Mexico, will talk on "Mexico—After the War."

BALEFUL WEAPONS DROPPED IN SEA.

INSTRUMENTS OF CRIME GIVEN TO WAVES BY OFFICERS ABOARD LAUNCH.

Four machines, a funeral cortege, wended swiftly over the highway from the city to the harbor and there the attendants, a motley group of mourners, carrying their heavy burdens, boarded a fast launch and for a few moments were swallowed in the shipping of the district, to reappear finally out on the open sea beyond the lighthouse.

It was not a body, but the ghosts of men and women, snuffed out in the twinkling of an eye, that were dropped into the cool ocean depths, with the weapons that had put an end to varied careers. And the mourners were not relatives or even near friends, being Chief of Police Sebastian, Capt. Murray, Judges White and Williams and other police and civil officials.

The burial was one of revolvers, knives and brass knuckles confiscated in raids, taken from prisoners or picked up on the scene of murders or suicides. For a year some of them have been lying in the property room under the eye of Sergt. "Bill" Matuskiwitz while others have been there for only a few months.

The powerful little weapon that spelled the end of Nellie Buck and Claude Mathewson on the fatal morning in the Lorraine rooming-house was there. The gun which menaced the officers who captured Joe Adrixzone, an Italian farmer of Sunland, wanted for slaying a countryman eight years ago, fell along with one used by Percy Mail, the young lumberman, when he shot the inamorata of his wife, Edward Mastin, last January.

There, too, was the gun that ended so tragically a birthday party for little Alice Reagan, whose father, Lester B. Reagan, slew his father-in-law, Charles E. Divelbliss, and then turned the weapon on himself to bring an instantaneous end. Another double-tragedy weapon, the pistol of Contractor Charles Haag, who slew his affinity, Mrs. Edna Sykes, and then killed himself, was dropped. And with these were the guns of yeggmen, burglars and sneak-thieves.

The only sunny side of the weapons doomed to lie and rot in the salt waters of the Pacific were several stands of air guns captured by brave and doughty officers from neighborhood boys who were too fond of shooting birds, cats and other pets. They drew a last breath and then gurgled down.

On the return trip of the launch, it rammed another small boat and for a few moments, it seemed as though a real tragedy might end the municipal endeavor to put out of the way all kinds of baleful weapons. The injury to both boats was small and allowed safe ending of the journey.

THE DUVIDA A REALITY.

That the Duvida, the famous River of Doubt, announced to the world by Col. Roosevelt in Brazil is a reality is the statement made by Dr. L. E. Benson of this city, who recently returned from a two-year trip in the South American wilds.

Dr. Benson located a large tract of land near the headwaters of the Duvida, above Corumba, on the Paraguay River. He says the river is well known to the Indians and the many others living in that country, but because of the large falls near its mouth into the Madeira River, a tributary of the Amazon, that the rubber men have not tried to navigate above the falls and thus really care nothing about the river.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

Sufferers from Tuberculosis often think that medicine will not help them. Fresh air, regular habits and good food aid in restoring health, but more is often needed. Many have been restored to health by Eckman's Alterative. Read this:—

Weldon, Ill.

"Gentlemen:—Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis (bacilli were found.) In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Now I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator." (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size $1; regular size $2. Sold by the Owl Drug Co. and leading druggists. Write Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of recoveries.

MULES GO HIGH.

That Is, the Prices Advance Here Because of the War Situation in Europe.

One noticeable effect of the war situation in Europe is to increase the price of American mules. W. J. Hale, a well-known mule dealer of Oklahoma City, who is a visitor in the city, said that the prices of the animals are especially strong at present.

"There is a strong demand for mules," Mr. Hale declared yesterday at the Hollenbeck. "The prospect of prolonged wars in Europe is doing wonders for our mule market. Mule flesh has gone up 25 per cent. in the last few weeks.

"California takes all of our largest and best mules. We sell the medium-sized mules for pack animals. Large mules are selling now for [illegible] to more than $1000 a pair. The [illegible] mules have increased in price from about $200 to $250. The armies in Europe use a great many mules and America is looked to as one of the principal sources of supply."

POWER BONDS ALLEGED VOID.

Suit to Prevent Issue Filed in Superior Court.

Combination of Two Levies Center of Attack.

Question Raised in Campaign Now to Be Tested.

In a suit filed yesterday, Frank E. Hartigan asks the Superior Court to enjoin the city from using any of the $6,500,000 bonds voted May 8, last. He asks that the municipality be enjoined from issuing the bonds, that the bonds be declared void and the election invalid. The city of Los Angeles, the Mayor, the City Council, City Treasurer and City Clerk are named as defendants. E. R. Young, formerly with the City Attorney's office, is consel for Mr. Hartigan.

The suit again raises the important question made prominent during the bond campaign, whether or not the city could legally combine in one issue bonds to be used both for the completion of the power plant and for the construction or acquisition of a distributing system.

Attorneys then expressed the opinion that such combination might render the issue invalid. To protect the city's interest in the matter, the City Attorney, acting under instructions of the City Council, consulted a prominent firm of bond attorneys in New York. The opinion was that the bonds are legal not only with reference to the point now raised, but to all other points.

VARIOUS PHASES.

It was stated in connection with the filing of the suit yesterday that there are various phases of the situation which may not have been fully considered or given their proper significance when the validity of the bonds was passed upon.

According to the wording of the ordinance under which the election was held the City Council has power to expend the money in almost any way it may decide. The issue was generally supposed to provide $1,250,000 for the completion of the power plant and $5,250,000 for the purchase or construction of a distributing system, but the Council is not legally compelled to make the division of expenditure in that way.

Mr. Hartigan is a prominent lawyer with offices in the Story building. He has taken an active interest in the aqueduct and was strongly opposed to a bond issue for a distribut-

GREAT SCHOOL FIGURES.

Los Angeles county and city schools increased more than 11 per cent. last year, as shown by the report of County Superintendent of Schools Keppel for the year ended July 31.

The enrollment in all schools for the county, public and private, is placed at 145,553. In the public schools there were 129,724 pupils, while in the private institutions 15,829 were enrolled. The cost of maintenance was $8,307,596.

The average daily attendance in the public schools was 74,036, as against 66,592 in 1913, a gain of 7084.

BANDITS LEAVE VICTIM DYING.

WATCHMAN LIES ALL NIGHT WITH SKULL FRACTURED.

Found Yesterday Morning Unconscious in Pool of Blood—His Watch and Chain Gone—Assailants Struck Him Down With Wooden Stake—Leave No Clews.

Lying in the Clara Barton Hospital, with scarcely chance for recovery, is Claude L. Button, night watchman for the California National Supply Company. He has a basal fracture of the skull, inflicted by highwaymen who attacked him at approximately 10:30 o'clock Friday night.

A small stake was used by the assailants, this having been found at the time that the unconscious watchman was discovered yesterday morning by two workmen, Sam Bingham and J. W. Miller, on arriving to start the day's duties. Mr. Button was lying on a concrete stairway leading to the second floor and the stake, covered with blood, just a few feet away. The watchman's revolver was found at the foot of the stairway and had evidently fallen from its holster before it could be brought into use. His watch and chain were gone, and this may have been the motive of the crime. He was supposed to be carrying his wages in a pay envelope, but this he had left in a desk.

Another motive ascribed by the police who are working on the case, was the theft of brass fittings and other valuable plumbing supplies in the warehouse, which is located at Holly street and St. James avenue. No clews were discovered up to midnight regarding the murderous plunderers.

Their victim is 27 years of age, unmarried and residing at the Argonaut Hotel on East First street. He held the watchman's position for a period of twenty months.

No Regrets.

ELEVATOR MAN AND ROMANCE.

Son of Cattle King Works Because He Loves.

Weds Own Choice, Spurning Father's Millions.

Takes First Job He Finds and Is Content.

When C. C. Windslund, Jr., drew his meager salary as elevator man at the American Bank building last night and went home to his modest apartment, his bride of a year and cooing baby boy, his heart was light. In the frank blue eyes under the curly hair there was no shadow of regret for a fortune lost nor for luxuries relinquished.

Joyously he picked up the laughing baby from its cradle and holding it aloft said again as he had said many times before: "He's worth more than all dad's money." And "dad's money" is millions.

For young Windslund is the son of Col. C. C. Windslund, New Mexico cattle king, whose possessions are enormous and whose will is strong and unbending. Years ago the veteran cattle owner decreed that his favorite son and presumptive heir should marry the daughter of his friend and neighbor who owned an adjoining cattle ranch.

But the young man had other ideals. Love does not come or go at the bidding of a stern man who is growing old. The boy, with the normal instincts of a clean-minded, sturdy youth, met and loved a fair daughter of Southern California. He knew what the consequences would be if he married her, for he had been told. On the one hand was a girl whom he liked and respected and a great fortune. On the other, the one girl to whom his heart had gone out, an empty purse and hard work.

He hesitated not at all. Life presented no complex problem to him. The right way, the honorable way, appeared clear to his unspoiled youth. So the pretty daughter of J. W. Everett, ex-city marshal of Glendale, became the bride of the disinherited son of one of the big cattle kings of the Southwest.

LOVE AND WORK.

Though he had never been obliged to work before, though hitherto his pockets had been freely lined with money to spend as he chose, young Windslund faced the future with a smile and without fears. He was willing to work at any honorable calling. Though educated and fitted for a better position, he first took a job as night watchman and afterward went to work as elevator man in a Spring-street bank building. He has made good there and is confident that he will make good when he is able to secure a better position.

Last night he said he never for a minute regretted his action, for he is able to work and support his little Group That Means More Than Millions.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Windslund, Jr.,

And the baby boy, who, the father says, is "worth more than all dad's money." Though reared in affluence Mr. Windslund cheerfully relinquished his prospects of a great fortune for the sake of his ideals. Now he works hard every day for small wages to keep his wife and son comfortable and has never a regret for the luxury that he might have had.

Disastrous.

FLAMES SWEEP COUNTRYSIDE.

Wildfire in Grain Started by Cigarette.

Fighters Are Overcome by Dense Smoke.

Ten Thousand Dollars Loss in Property.

Fire started by a cigarette thrown by a careless hunter yesterday morning destroyed a bungalow, ten shacks, seven square miles of grain and brush on Mt. Washington and in Eagle Rock Valley. The fire was still burning fiercely last night.

No loss of life resulted, although several firemen and volunteer fire fighters were slightly burned or overcome by the dense smoke. Several required the attention of physicians. The property loss will total about $10,000. Three haystacks valued at $500 were destroyed. It is estimated that 10,000 jack rabbits were burned to death or captured by hundreds of men and boys who stood on the edges and shot or stoned the rabbits to death. The season for jack rabbits and cottontails opened yesterday.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Battalion Chief Casey and Capt. Hensley of the East Side Police Station received reports of the fire. Chief Casey ordered Hose Company No. 1, Engine Company No. 12 and the Highland Park Company to the scene and whizzed to the top of Mt. Washington in his runabout.

The Chief found hundreds of men and boys on the job with wet bags and blankets, but their efforts had apparently counted for naught, as the fire was raging all about the mountain, with the exception of a small area on the southern slope, which burned over three weeks ago.

FLAMES SPREAD.

Capt. Hensley and twenty policemen arrived a few minutes later. The firemen and policemen, with the assistance of the volunteer fighters, battled the fierce flames for several hours, but steadily retreated before the intense heat and blinding smoke. A strong northeast wind made it especially difficult for the fire fighters.

The four hydrants on the top of Mt. Washington were of no avail. Several of the beautiful residences on the picturesque mountain peak were in danger for a short time, but the firebreaks recently built by rangers and private employees effectually stopped the flames before they reached the residential section. The fire fighters were assisted by pretty women residents who furnished them with sacks and other fire fighting material. A woman, apparently frightened by the crackling of the flames and the suffocating smoke, got out her garden hose and turned it on the side of the mountain. Fortunately the fire did not quite reach that spot.

The fire was discovered by a young lad near Aldama street in the Eagle Rock Valley, just at the edge of the Los Angeles city limits. He said a hunter had just passed through the field in which he first saw the flames. Persons living in that vicinity attempted to put out the fire, but were unsuccessful, and after an hour's fruitless battle they notified the police.

CAUGHT IN TRAP.

Roy McClelland of Eagle Rock had a narrow escape from serious if not fatal injuries. The fire had destroyed several small shacks of Terrace Forty-nine, when a woman ran out, called to Mr. McClelland and asked him to save her rabbits, who were penned in a small barn. The door was locked, so Mr. McClelland jumped on the roof and it collapsed, carrying him with it. The building was afire on all sides and Mr. McClelland could not get out, the door being locked. After five minutes' terrible experience in the fiery barn, three firemen heard his yells and breaking the padlock from the door, dragged his unconscious form from the barn into the open air.

He was soon revived, none the worse for his experience.

A cottage at No. 945 Terrace Forty-nine was burned to the ground. It was owned by Mrs. Harvey Downing, was valued at $800, and was not insured.

E. Rhodes, a fireman of engine No. 1, was seriously burned about the face and ears. He was treated by a physician. G. F. Hargis, real estate dealer and tract agent for a large part of the burned territory, did yeoman service, ably assisted by a dozen residents and their employees. Mr. Hargis and his men worked for six hours without a minute's rest and succeeded in keeping the flames from devastating the southwestern side of the mountain.

Chief Casey and his men were given a vote of thanks for their splendid work by property owners.

The undergrowth destroyed consisted principally of walnut, holly, sagebrush and dry grass. The flames at times reached a height of fifty feet.

POLICE SEEKING WOMAN BURGLAR.

NOTE AND FOOTPRINTS LEFT BY SUCCESSFUL THIEF SEEM VERY FEMININE.

"I had to do this because I was down and out and needed the money," is a part of the courteous note which a barefooted burglar left in the room of Mrs. E. R. Brown, proprietor of the Bowers rooming-house, No. 611 East Fifth street, after he had ransacked nearly every room in the place and taken jewelry, money and other articles of value estimated to be worth nearly $1000.

That he was barefooted and that the burglar possibly was a woman was deduced by the police investigators who found footprints of rather small, narrow feet in several of the rooms looted. The remainder of the note also shows rather a feminine turn of mind. "Some day, perhaps I will have plenty and assure you that I will return the equivalent in money of everything I have stolen from your guests. Be a woman of mercy. Pity me and don't try to find me. Just wait till I make restitution. Good-by," says the note.

Several other clews, among them the dragging of dust after footprints on the fire escape, denoting a woman's skirts, have given the officers considerable to work on and it is probable that an arrest will follow today.

MISSES GALLANTRY.

Southern Belle Finds Men of West Are Too Busy for Small Courtesies of Life.

The South is the home of gallantry, in the opinion of Mrs. Louise Barrow, a noted belle from New Orleans, who is at the Westminster on an extended pleasure trip.

"The South holds on to its traditions longer than any other part of the country," Mrs. Barrow declared yesterday. "The men of that section have long been noted for their gallantry. The men of the new generation in the Southland are true to this tradition of their fathers.

"Women of the South notice the difference in the manners of men when they come North or West. People in the West are too actively at work and too much absorbed in their pursuits to take time for the niceties of deportment of which the men in our section of the country have made a scientific study.

"Of course this criticism does not apply to all persons away from the South. There are many Southerners and persons with southern instincts in California. I have met a number of persons in Los Angeles with charming manners, but the typical man of the West doesn't know how to assist a woman to alight from either a horse or a street car, but it's different down in Dixie."

Mrs. Barrow will leave tomorrow for San Francisco and other Coast cities in the North. She will go to New York City by the northern route. She expects to motor from the metropolis to her home city.

Spiritual Food.

HE TEACHES THOSE WHO SOUGHT TO EAT HIM.

FORCED to admit that civilization has meant physical deterioration of the savages of the South Sea Islands, Rev. Dr. J. W. Henry, whose life work, like that of his father and grandfather, has been devoted to the Christianizing of the cannibalistic and other heathen, brings thrilling stories of early days among these peoples. He is now in Los Angeles, at No. 123 North Broadway.

"Less than the fig-leaf apron that Eve wore," is the characterization that Rev. Dr. Henry gives to the primitive dress of the Marquesans, living just 10 degrees below the equator on the Marquesas Islands.

"Modern dress tendencies may be moving in that direction," laughingly remarked the distinguished religious veteran, "but they'll never get that far, nor can they go much farther in that direction than at the present time.

"These people were the finest examples of physical perfection I have ever seen," said Dr. Henry, harking back to the Marquesans. "Superbly built, the men wore less than a breech clout, and in most instances were absolutely nude, while the women wore only a small protecting cloth girded about the loins. Rushing out to our ship, the men in canoes and the women swimming, the savages boarded our vessel. I being merely a boy, they picked me out as a particular object of distinction. Surrounding me, they felt my arms and legs, prodded me in the ribs and chest, and all the time smacked their lips and uttered guttural approval.

"Before any trouble could start they were rushed off the ship and we put out to sea. It was strange to see the women swimming, but we had learned that the canoes were 'taboo' to all women, and for them to step in one meant immediate death. The Marquesans at that time were an anthropological wonder. Their marriage relations were very lax, a man having any number of wives and children, the latter depending mostly on the tribes and not on the parents for support. There was no disease of any character among them and their only besetting sin was eating human flesh, a practice which has been entirely abolished since the coming of Christianity.

"This introduction of the white man meant also the introduction of serious diseases, and like all other South Sea Islanders the Marquesans were more than decimated by them. Today they are merely a semblance of the original vigorous, stalwart aborigines."

Rev. Dr. Henry was not in the Marquesas Islands to any extent while pursuing his labors, but in the Island of Tahiti, on which his grandfather, William Henry, landed in 1797 with the first missionaries that ever saw the country. His grandfather, on Vigorous Protest.

PARDON ASKED AND OPPOSED.

PETITION FOR INDIAN SLAYER SENT TO PRESIDENT.

Protest Signed by White Men and the Better Class of Indians Who Know the Circumstances of Agent Stanley's Murder Also Going to Washington.

A petition directed to the President for the executive pardon of Ambrosia Apapas, who, with Cornelio Lugo, Pablino Lubo, Francisco Lubo and Leonicio Lugo, were convicted of murder in the second degree for the killing of Indian Superintendent Will H. Stanley March 21, last year, has aroused the friends of the dead Indian agent and others who know the circumstances, and a counter-petition signed by every white man on or in the vicinity of the Soboba Indian Reservation and a great many of the better class of Indians, will be immediately sent to Washington.

The murder of Supt. Stanley May 1, 1912, was the culmination of a long-standing trouble between a faction of the Indians on the reservation and the superintendent, and he was shot down in cold blood in the council house when trying to bring about peace. The arch conspirator of the convicted men, and the one who the testimony indicated was the cause of all the trouble, was Leonicio Lugo.

He arranged for the meeting that culminated in the shooting of Stanley; he is the man that kept the hostile faction at war with the representatives of the government that, previous to the death of Stanley had resulted in driving away one of the previous superintendents. Stanley was unarmed when shot by Apapas, who followed him into the schoolhouse from the yard outside.

The tragedy occurred following a meeting of Indians at the house of one of their number, where they engaged in dancing in commemoration of the dead. The Indians were sentenced to ten years at McNeil's Island, and the friends of Stanley and those familiar with his cold-blooded murder do not think that sixteen months' imprisonment is sufficient for such a crime.

Word was received yesterday from Paris that Adolph Tandler, the composer, of this city, will sail for America soon. It was feared by friends here—they receiving no word as to his whereabouts—that he had been forced to join the Austrian army while in Vienna recently.

CANDIDATE FORD SETS FAST PACE.

Claims Nomination by Large Plurality.

He's Only Real Republican Out for the Job.

Ward Announces Committee for the Campaign.

Setting the pace in one of the hottest primary fights in the 1914 campaign, W. J. Ford, Deputy District Attorney, who is a candidate to succeed Dist.-Atty. John D. Fredericks, wound up the busiest week of his campaign last night at Bellflower and Belvidere.

The coming week will be even busier for Mr. Ford and his Campaign Committee, and toward the end of it he will take his vacation, thereafter giving all of his time to his campaign, where now he is spending most of his time in the District Attorney's office.

Word from his headquarters yesterday was to the effect that the Ford organization in the county precincts is now practically complete, and that in the city there is the bulwark of an organization that is nearing completion for the big test August 25.

Most of Mr. Ford's meetings next week are evening engagements in the city, although he has made some engagements for outside meetings.

REPUBLICANS BACK HIM.

Republicans in Los Angeles county are supporting Mr. Ford because he is the only Republican candidate for District Attorney who has not entangled himself by alliances with those who would destroy the party.

There is much activity and many contests for nomination in the party, and probably 60 per cent. of the Republican registration of 102,789 will be cast at the primary. Of these votes cast Mr. Ford will receive 90 per cent. or more. The Democratic registration is 45,811, and they will cast about 50 per cent. at the primaries and Mr. Ford expects to receive a majority of these. A statement from the Ford headquarters yesterday says:

"The 'Progressives' have no important contests, and will not cast more than 25,000 out of 51,890. Despite the efforts of some would-be leaders, Mr. Ford has the confidence of the majority of the 'Progressives,' and his record will bring him at least 12,000 votes from this source.

"The Socialists will, of course, support their official candidate, A. R. Holston, although a number of prominent Socialists have tendered Mr. Ford their support.

"The Prohibitionists know that Mr. Ford will enforce every law on the books, and having full confidence in his ability to do so successfully, will give him at least 4000 out of the vote cast, estimating at 50 per cent. of the registration, and Mr. Jones will get the other 2000."

RECOMMEND FORD.

Recommendations written by well-known local judges for Mr. Ford were read last night when a meeting was held in the Social Hall at Bellflower. J. H. Lettow, efficiency expert and well-known "Progressive," introduced Mr. Ford to a large audience by reciting the opinions of various Superior Court judges here. Among those who highly recommended Mr. Ford were statements from Judge Frank Finlayson, Judge Frank R. Willis and Judge P. J. McCormick.

"These men," Mr. Lettow stated, "have been in a position to observe Ford and they know that he is competent. They are the jurors for the people and they are best qualified to give an opinion of the ability of the candidates. Mr. Ford has the support of 'Progressives,' Republicans, Democrats and many Socialists. He is running on a non-partisan ticket, although a Republican. Party lines have not in any way entered into the contest. We claim that his experience qualifies him for the important position of District Attorney. Those who have seen his work know that Ford has made good. These are facts in the case and it is up to the people to return the verdict."

WARD IS BUSY.

NAMES CAMPAIGN WORKERS.

M. L. Ward of San Diego, former State Senator, yesterday began his campaign in Los Angeles and Orange counties for the nomination of Lieutenant-Governor on the Republican ticket. Last night he spoke before the Long Beach Republican Club. He spent the day in visiting the cities in Orange county.

Republican Assemblyman candidates from the three districts, F. C. Roberts, candidate for Congress; W. J. Ford, for District Attorney, and J. W. Summerfield, for Justice of the Peace, will speak. Fred Spring, president of the Republican League, will speak on organization work. W. C. Mushet will preside.

The week of August 10 he will pass in the south and the San Joaquin Valley, returning north Saturday, August 15.

The Sixty-third Assembly District Republicans have completed a full precinct organization, with a captain over each block of ten precincts.

Charles King, Democratic candidate for Governor, of Hanford, will return to Los Angeles in a few days to resume his southern campaign.

All the Republican candidates for Congress in the Tenth district, will attend a meeting Tuesday night at Normandie Hall, No. 1480 West Jefferson street, under the auspices of the Seventy-second Assembly District. Mrs. Mary E. Garrett of the Women's Republican League will be among the speakers, and a quartette of singers will be present.

PANAMA—ACHIEVED.

BY T. HOWARD WILSON.

From dawn to dawn and change of sunset star,
A savage waste where stark contagion spawned
And cryptic shadows rolled their folds of gloom,
A python land of monstrous gluttony,
As sad as seas that lisp on lonely sands
Or pines that moan of dooms insufferable.
There dreary marches held their tryst with death
Where crawling vapors hung in whitened shrouds
Like ghosts that ply their trade on fevered minds.
The haunting sorrow of a killdee's cry
Was not more sad than that forsaken land
Or ere intelligence in ambush lay
To slay rank, noxious satellites of death
And weave throughout the dream of giant size
The steely thread of actuality.

In night's confusion death was worse than death,
At dawn new plagues were born of old disuse,
Rank winds that bellow o'er the palsied world
Found haven there in deep and frenzied ease
And things of fear in dread of unknown fears
Skulked through the land and heard the smoothest sounds.
But potent ills give scope to potent deeds;
The huge conceit that shook the thews of France
As dainty shock of raindrops on the cheek
Marks imminent the vast assuaging storm,
He, standing 'twixt the prime and ultimate,
Heard in the conch-shell's song the ocean's roar
And with a Merlin's might and wizardry
Began to shape from broken shards immense

No thing of chance sprung from miasmic wastes,
But stubborn leagues of primal adamant
By spasmic shudders torn from clinging soils—
A deed a god might feel in honor proud.
The scarlet anthems over twilight seas
Moon-throbs that beat against battalioned clouds
Paint the white wonder of the daring plan;
Gaunt deeps that lie across the field of night
Lift on parade their plumes of scattered stars,
For this great deed is known of cosmic things.
No revelry of giants 'mid crumbling worlds,
Nor mangled heaps that lie with trunkless heads
Where strife and war get fame from man's decay,
But such a deed as brings the thought to pause,
A full-blown flower that crowns an age of blooms.

Bonds Alleged Void.

ing system. He expressed his views to the City Council when the election ordinance was before that body.

The contention of Mr. Hartigan, as set forth in the suit, is that the ordinance improperly combined two separate, distinct propositions in one question, giving voters no opportunity to vote either for or against either question on its own merits. There is nothing in the election ordinance, it is alleged, that specifically permits the city to use any part of the bond issue to complete the uncompleted power plant. It is declared as a consequence that the entire issue is void.

UNFAIR TO VOTERS.

Mr. Hartigan's position is that the city required the electors to vote on the entire issue of $6,500,000, when there were thousands who wished to vote bonds for the completion of the plant, but were opposed to voting money for a distributing system.

The complaint particularly emphasizes the alleged inequity and illegality of combining bonds for power plant construction and for a distributing system and alleges that these are wholly distinct and separate, with no relation between them.

Among the contentions of Mr. Hartigan are: That the voters did not have the opportunity to vote on either question by itself; that many would have voted for one and against the other; that there is no necessity for the construction or acquisition of a distributing system; that the city is adequately supplied with a system for distributing electric power.

He says there is no reasonable necessity for the city engaging in the municipal distribution of electric power, that there is abundant opportunity for the city to dispose of its aqueduct power without engaging in municipal distribution.

Attorney Young will ask the court to set an early date for a hearing.

Motorcycle in Practical Use.

[Tit Bits:] A farmer at Bantnall, Salop, has fixed his motorcycle on a stand against the wall of the farm buildings, and it drives a chaff cutter and turnip cutter at the same time. It does not cost much to work it. The turnip cutter is on the same level as the cycle, and is connected by a kind of bicycle chain. The chaff cutter is placed above the turnip cutter on another floor and connected by two-inch belting. After it has been on some little time the engine gets hot, so a fan is made to revolve by the side to keep it cool. It is also used for churning milk. This saves a great deal of time for the workmen because it can do the two jobs at once.

family in a modest way and the possession of such a wife and a baby he regards as greater than the possession of a dozen fortunes.

"I never did any work in my life until a little over a year ago, when dad cut me off," he said. "I didn't know how to go about it at first, but I soon hit on a plan. I got up every morning at 4 o'clock and went to The Times office and looked over the want ads. I soon found a job, for nobody could apply earlier than I. I find that it's the first fellow to the job that gets it.

"It's all different than anything I have been accustomed to, but nobody could be happier nor more contented than I. You see, I was dad's favorite because I liked the ranch and rode to the cattle with him from the time I was big enough to straddle a horse.

"Dad and the Sheriff of our county were great friends. The Sheriff owned cattle, too. Soon after I was born the Sheriff had a baby girl. When Rosa and I were babies our fathers swore that we should be married when we grew up.

"Rosa and I were playmates together and I liked her very much. After I was 16 they began to tell me that I was expected to marry Rosa and later I learned that dad and the Sheriff had made the agreement that we should wed. This disquieted me, for I had never regarded her except as a playmate and was fond of her as I would have been of a sister.

WHERE WAYS PART.

"It went on that way for more than two years. They kept insisting until it became hard for me to keep from actually disliking Rosa. At last dad got so angry that he told me I must marry her if I expected to get any of his money. I asked him to let me travel for a year and think it over and he consented.

"He gave me $1000 and told me to send for more as often as I needed it. That is how I came to California and how, in the course of my travels, I visited Glendale. There I met the daughter of the marshal and saw her as often as I could.

"Then I knew beyond a doubt that I had never loved Rosa and never could, and that it was quite impossible for me to marry her. I had found the one girl in all the world for me. We knew we belonged to each other almost from the beginning of our acquaintance.

"I forgot all about dad and married her. I wrote to dad, told him all about it and asked him to forgive me. You should have seen the roast I got in reply. He not only didn't send me any money, but told me never to come home or to write to him again. I never have."

Observing the little family in its two-room apartment last night, it was indeed impossible to decide that the young man had made a mistake. He is 22 years old, but looks frankly out at the world with an attractively boyish face that reflects ideals yet untarnished. The pretty little mother strove with poor success to conceal her pride in her first-born while the young father openly exulted in the possession of "the finest boy and dearest woman" in the world.

SANITY IN DOUBT.

Margaret Hench, alias Margaret Compton, charged with using the mails to defraud, in sending a threatening letter to G. J. Hagy, No. 3717 South Hoover street and demanding the payment of $150, was released by Commissioner Williams yesterday on motion of the District Attorney's office. It is stated that the woman is not sound mentally. For some time she has been employed as a waitress at a restaurant in a railway station.

War News.

In addition to the comprehensive war news reports received daily by The Times through the Associated Press and by Atlantic Cable, an extensive and well-arranged compilation of news received through the foreign press and from authorized correspondents on the spot will be printed in Part III of Sunday's Times.

Dr. Henry was sent to the United States for his education and studied in Boston and New York, getting his divinity degree at the Hammond Theological Seminary of the then Madison, now Colgate, University. After a few years of ministry in America, studying the various systems of religious teaching, he went to the South Seas to take up his life work.

"Conditions there are now much better than they have ever been," he declares. "Blackbirding has stopped; cannibalism is at an end; the introduced ailments that came with the loose sailors from all parts of the civilized world have been largely eradicated, and the natives have accepted Christianity and clothes as quite proper."

Rev. Dr. Henry will remain here some time, and then go East for a visit.

BURGLARS GET RICH HAUL.

Burglars entering the home of Mrs. Ida M. Crandall, No. 433 South Manhattan place, made a rich haul yesterday morning at a very early hour when they secured several strings of real pearls, two diamond rings, several valuable stick pins and other treasures valued altogether at about $1000.

Mrs. Crandall had been attending the tennis tournament at the Virginia at Long Beach and on retiring fell into immediate and sound slumber which was not interrupted by the intruders. These gained entrance through a rear window on the ground floor.

The Public Service.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Fire Commission yesterday voted to offer a standing reward of $250 for the conviction and punishment of incendiaries, specifying that the felony must be punished and not paroled, if convicted.

The new schedule of liquor license fees went into effect yesterday, and will add almost $200,000 to the city's cash during the succeeding year.

The limit on mixture of natural and artificial gas will be removed tomorrow, after which the corporations may furnish straight natural gas at the 68-cent rate, if they desire.

The $70,000 estate of Mrs. Julia Hayward was filed for probate. The will names the widower, Dr. Henderson Hayward, and the daughter, with provision for two sisters.

The vice-regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Southern California filed suit against her brother yesterday to recover possession of property claimed by the former. A dependent aunt figures in the story.

At the City Hall.

OFFER REWARD FOR FIRE BUG.

STEPS TO BE TAKEN TO REDUCE NUMBER OF BLAZES.

Increased Schedule of Liquor Licenses Goes Into Effect—City's Receipts Are Greatly Augmented. Limit Placed on Mixture of Gas to Be Removed Tomorrow.

At the meeting of the Fire Commission yesterday, Commissioner Yates introduced a resolution authorizing the payment of a reward of $250 for the arrest, conviction and punishment —note the word "punishment"—of persons responsible for incendiary fires. Mr. Yates said that he believed a standing reward of this amount would result in the conviction of many offenders, but it is to be distinctly stated that the conviction of an incendiary and his subsequent parole without being required to serve a jail sentence will not win the reward.

The frequency of fires in this city, many of them believed to be incendiary, has caused a tense feeling in the fire department and it is the hope of the officials that this standing reward may induce individuals in possession of positive evidence to give it up. The Council will be asked to concur in the recommendation.

Chief Eley has so far recovered from his long illness as to be able to return to duty tomorrow, which Assistant Chief O'Donnell announces he will do.

IN EFFECT YESTERDAY.
NEW LIQUOR LICENSE FEES.

Beginning yesterday the new scale of liquor license fees went into effect, as adopted one month ago, after long discussion and many conferences on suggested amendments. The fees are now as follows:

Winery, $25 per month; social club, $37.50; wholesale liquor, $100; wholesale drug, $100; brewery, $200; hotel liquor, $300; retail liquor, $175; Japanese sake cafe, $25. The free lunch license has been abolished.

These fees will yield a revenue to the city of $707,400 annually, an increase of $185,880 over the old schedule. The contention of the City Council is that the fees have been lower in this city than in any other of its class and yet the number of licenses, 200 in all, is far below that of other cities charging higher fees. San Francisco is cited as an example of the low license system, and there are in that city 2400 licensed liquor houses.

To Remove Gas-Mixing Limit.

At the session of the City Council tomorrow, City Attorney Stephens will present an ordinance repealing the former ordinance which limited the gas corporations to a mixture of natural and artificial gas in quantities not lower than 40 per cent. natural gas, nor higher than 60 per cent. This will be done in order that the corporations may serve any mixture desired and all natural gas if they find it advisable to do so, in the event of the supply proving sufficient. It is not believed that the injunction suits in the United States District Court will be tried before November, and meanwhile gas may be furnished in any form at the uniform price of 68 cents per 1000 feet. All three of the corporations are now serving mixed gas to householders.

Council's Brief Session.

The Mayor was out of the city yesterday, to be gone until tomorrow, on an excursion for the benefit of his health, it is reported, leaving Whiffen in charge of the executive office. Councilman Snowdon, who was not due from his vacation until tomorrow, bethought himself to take a look around the City Hall yesterday morning and was commandeered to make a quorum. Mr. Whiffen's call to the executive chair being unexpected, and Messrs. Conwell, Langdon and Williams being absent. The Council called Mr. Roberts to the chair long enough to call the roll and entertain a motion to adjourn.

Nothing of importance was awaiting action. It was intended to present an amendment to the building ordinance to permit openings through the dividing walls between two "Class A" buildings, which may be closed with fireproof curtains. The ordinance, as it stands, prohibits this, and the ordinance making the specified amendment will be passed on Monday.

Seeking for Applicants.

There are three $1500 positions in the office of the Efficiency Commission that seem to be going begging for applicants. These are the three vacancies as efficiency investigators and so few applications have been made to the Civil Service Commission that the members of that body fear a lack of competition. The examination will take place on August 8, and all applications must be in by noon on that day. Supposed eligibles are those persons who have had experience in efficiency work with municipal or private corporations, engineering, accounting or statistical training or experience, office supervision or control.

Delays to Be Stopped.

Councilman Snowden announced yesterday that if the supporters of a substitute plan for the Second-street tunnel do not come through promptly the first of next week with some tangible proposition, he will, without further delay, recommend the execution of the plan which has the support of a majority of the members of the Council and will do all in his power to rush the building of the double-bore tunnel at that point.

At the Courthouse.

ONLY FIRST MORTGAGES.

OTHER TRUSTS BARRED IN WILL OF MRS. HAYWARD.

Dr. Hayward, Her Daughter, and Two Sisters Provided for in Estate Filed for Probate—She Didn't Like Public Utility and Stock and Bond Investments.

Dr. Henderson Hayward and the Security Trust and Savings Bank, named as executors, filed the petition for the probate of the will of Mrs. Julia Hayward, wife of the former, yesterday. The estate is appraised at $70,000, consisting of real property, $41,000 and personal property, $30,000.

Mrs. Hayward, who died July 13, executed her will May 8. The witnesses were Harriet L. Rice, No. 377 South Occidental boulevard, and Sarah B. Shettler, No. 3100 Wilshire boulevard.

Dr. Hayward is left a life estate in certain real property described in the will. At his death the property goes to her daughter, Julia B. Hayward. Miss Hayward is also given the jewelry and purely personal effects. The household furniture and goods are bequeathed to Dr. Hayward.

Mrs. Ida Blackmer, a sister residing at Minneapolis, is left a $1000 first mortgage of the Pacific Wharf and Storage Company.

The Security Trust and Savings Bank is named trustee of stocks, money and bonds to be invested. Mrs. Hayward provided that no part of the trust shall be invested in public utility, land corporation or trustee stocks or bonds. First mortgages are preferred.

Mrs. Minnie Anderson of South Prairie, a sister, is provided for by an allowance of $75 quarterly until she reaches the age of 35 when the trust is to cease and the estate is to go to her absolutely. At her death it becomes the property of Miss Julia B. Hayward. The residue of the estate is given Dr. Hayward.

INTERESTING.
NOVEL FEATURES IN CASE.

Mrs. Eleanor Babcock of Alhambra, vice-regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Southern California, filed suit yesterday against her brother, John F. Holland and Mrs. Jennie L. Holland, his wife, to secure possession of property at No. 432 South Chicago street. Her appeal to the court, she says, was compelled by a series of broken promises.

The South Chicago-street property is occupied by her brother and his wife, but Mrs. Babcock claims title to it, alleging that it was secured by Mr. Holland in exchange for an orange ranch which she had placed under his control.

According to Attorneys Park and Park who filed the complaint, Mr. Holland appealed to his sister, who was then Mrs. Lord, wife of Dr. Lord, a prominent physician at Washington, to transfer to him her ten-acre orange ranch at Arlington, Riverside county. He offered to give her a $3000 mortgage on the ranch. Mrs. Babcock sent the deed and the mortgage to her brother who recorded the deed but not the mortgage, it is alleged.

Mrs. Babcock heard later that Mr. Holland was about to exchange the property for other property in this city. She came on from Washington and made an agreement with her brother under the terms of which, it is declared, he was to pay an aunt dependent on Mrs. Babcock $12.50 a month during her lifetime. Mrs. Babcock agreed to relinquish the ranch to her brother, if this was done.

Mr. Holland, it seems, paid only $175 to the aunt from 1904 to 1907. Mrs. Babcock learned that the ranch had been exchanged for the Chicago-street property. Mr. Holland was at one time a railroad engineer in Mexico. He expressed a desire in 1902 to live in the United States, on account of the Mexican laws which held trainmen liable for accidents in which life was lost or passengers injured.

JUST STUNG.
COMPLAINT INDICATES.

B. F. Metcalf filed a complaint yesterday which would indicate that he had been stung. He states that he gave a note for $17,950 secured by a mortgage on Kansas City property he owned for stock in the Eucalyptus Estates Company, being informed, he alleges, that the company owned 1400 acres near Riverside worth $100 an acre.

Mr. Metcalf says he discovered that the land was worth only $20 an acre and that the assets alleged to be $100,000 were inflated. He asks the cancellation of the note and mortgage and for $538 interest paid on the note since December, 1913.

VACATION WORRIES.
MANY CASES ON CALENDAR.

The courts have hummed for months, but after vacation, which began yesterday, there will be very busy times at the Courthouse and the Hall of Records. When the judges get back on the bench there will be 450 cases ready for trial. These are jury and miscellaneous cases.

Secretary Noel says that there will be 503 cases a month to try from now on until January 1. The total number for trial is 2000. These are for thirteen courts only, the Probate, two criminal courts, divorce and Judge Jackson's court having business of their own.

It was thought that the compensation act would have a tendency to decrease legislation. On the contrary, there is an increase. Auto and railroad accident cases have increased 10 per cent. over 1913.

COURT PARAGRAPHS.
PROCEEDINGS IN BRIEF.

VOYAGERS NIPPED. Fred Ross and Chester Reeves, each 12 years of age, who left their homes at Boyle Heights to see the world and incidentally become warriors, succeeded in making Bakersfield, where they were held up and the probation officer here notified. Their intention was to sail from San Francisco as stowaways. One revolver and a box of cartridges constituted the warlike armament.

Six daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Farrelly

TO ADMIRE AND TO BE ADMIRED.

SIX CHARMING NEW ZEALAND GIRLS HERE ON TOUR WITH PARENTS.

An interesting party of tourists that arrived in Los Angeles the past week is composed of Mr. and Mrs. John Farrelly and their six charming daughters from Hawk's Bay, New Zealand. The eight Farrellys are on a leisurely tour of the world.

Mr. Farrelly went to New Zealand with his parents from Ireland fifty years ago. He has made a fortune in the sheep business and is now spending money without stint to show his daughters interesting sights in many lands.

"I have given my daughters the advantages of the best schools in New Zealand," Mr. Farrelly said yesterday at the Hollenbeck. "Now I am giving them a post-graduate course in travel. I believe that no person's education is complete without travel.

"Of course, it is expensive traveling with a family as large as this. The girls are right at the expensive age. They require a lot of clothes and the transportation and hotel bills are large. I worked hard many years and made money. I am spending some of it now without any regrets."

The youngest of the daughters is 12 and the eldest 24. Their names are Ella, Dorothy, Kathleen, Marguerite, Nora and Agnes. Two grown sons remained at home to look after the men who are caring for Mr. Farrelly's 45,000 head of sheep.

Miss Agnes Farrelly, the eldest of the daughters, is an accomplished artist; Nora is a musician of ability. Marguerite is interested in the millinery business. Each of the young women has chosen a profession or vocation.

AT PETER PAN HOME.

Committee of Parent-Teacher Association Visits Institution and Makes Report on Conditions.

A committee from the Parent-Teacher Association of Athens visited the Peter Pan Home, No. 2647 Arvia street, Gardena, yesterday afternoon and made a thorough investigation of this home for the children of working mothers. The committee consisted of Mrs. C. D. Bryant, president; Mrs. A. Daniels, vice-president; Mrs. E. C. Delton, Mrs. M. E. Wilshire and Mrs H. A. Rea. It reported the home in good condition and that special care was given to preparing food for the children and to sanitation.

At present there are eleven children in the home, the ages of the little people ranging from 2 to 13 years.

Mrs. E. F. Del Valle de Forster is president of the home and Mrs. E. C. Brusch superintendent.

CONCERNING UNION DEAL.

Big Oil Transaction Appears in Statu Quo—Payment at This Time Not Expected.

Nothing could be learned concerning the status of the Union Oil treasury stock deal at the offices of the company yesterday. It was stated here that there was nothing of interest to be given out. As previously stated, $5,000,000 of the treasury stock recently purchased by the British syndicate to finance the Union, was put out for subscription at London this week, but the results of the offering are still in the air.

A payment of $2,500,000, the remainder of an initial payment of $5,000,000, was due at this time, but was not expected to be made under the circumstances.

It is believed that the lack of news has had no particular effect on the stock, although since the closing of the exchange no regular market for it exists.

The treasury stock to the amount of $15,000,000 was contracted for some months ago by Andrew Weir and R. Tilden Smith in the interest of a syndicate of London ship owners.

LOS ANGELES A MODEL.

Los Angeles is receiving some enviable publicity through the medium of the work of its Building Ordinance Commission and the model ordinance for the construction of reinforced concrete buildings, formulated by the commission and under which the city is now operating. The commission consists of J. J. Backus, Julius A. Hall, Mark C. Cohn, Albert Lee Stephens, George C. Sutton, George E. Bergstrom, Albert C. Martin, Edward Mayberry, C. L. Peck and C. E. Richards.

The Cement Era of Chicago, a recognized authority, recently reviewed in the most favorable manner this ordinance, with the result that engineers of the whole country have inundated the office of the Los Angeles Building Inspector with requests for copies of the document.

Special commendation is given the clear and explicit definitions of things referred to in the ordinance, and many sections are quoted as innovations, particularly its definition of "concrete," and its specification for sand; its tests for steel and concrete, saying: "This ordinance is the first, if we are not mistaken, in the United States to present a formula for reducing the direct compressive stress in long columns."

"In other details," says the writer, "the Los Angeles ordinance resembles closely all existing ordinances; but there is a difference, which may possibly be accounted for by the fact that competent men employed to prepare the ordinance were able to give it their best attention and were not pestered by material men or politicians or mistaken agents of labor unions. It is a pity a number of other ordinances cannot be abandoned and that from Los Angeles substituted."

REALTY MAN IN DEBT.

H. Guy Haggerty, a real estate broker of Pasadena, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday. His debts amount to $21,464.16, and of this $13,580.40 is unsecured. His assets are scheduled at $137.50, all claimed to be exempt. His debts consist for the most part of notes for money borrowed and unpaid jewelry, cigar and hotel bills, the Maryland at Pasadena and the Virginia at Long Beach being among the last-named variety of creditors.

WHITE SLAVERY CHARGE.

Leo Howell, who, with a brother, conducts a restaurant in Imperial, gave bond of $2500 yesterday, for his appearance for examination before United States Commissioner Williams yesterday, on a complaint charging a white slave offense. It is alleged that he induced Annabel Russell and Lucile Wagner to accompany him for an immoral purpose from Blythe to Ehrenburg, Ariz. The arrest followed an investigation made by John E. Bowen, secret service agent of the Department of Justice.

The "Times" Camp.

BOYS SEE THE BOTTOM OF OCEAN IN A BOAT.

AVALON, Aug. 1.—This morning the boys of the Times Camp had the pleasure of seeing probably the best-known of Santa Catalina's many attractions, and one which none of the boys making the trip to the Times Camp should miss, in the view of the beautiful marine gardens through the large glass-bottomed boat Emperor, as the guests of the Meteor Boat Company.

One of the unique sights of the trip was the "Hermit" goldfish. Near the Sugar-loaf, down in clear blue water, there is a little cave at the end of a tiny ravine; in this cave for the last five years or so a goldfish has resided. He is spoken of as the Hermit, but he is a pugnacious character and he is secluded because he allows no other fish to intrude on what he considers to be his territory. His head was seen this morning protruding from the cave and the young Times Campers became greatly interested in this little hermit of the sea when told by the guide that for the last five years the "hermit" had made the little cave his home.

The great feature of the trip was the diving exhibitions given by "Diving Mac," the expert diver who accompanies each trip. "Mac" not only dived for abalone shells, bringing many from the bottom of the sea, but gave various exhibitions which were seen through the bottom of the boat to perfection.

The boys had a great time on the exceptional trip to the marine gardens and Seal Rocks, where seals were seen lying on the rocks sunning themselves.

Don't miss this exceptional offer of The Times, boys; grab it while the opportunity is yours and you will never forget the trip to the Times Camp, the best of vacation outing camps, boys.

Call or write for beautiful illustrated circular containing subscription blanks and information concerning the trip to the Times Camp.

OS ANGELES (Loce Ahng-hayl-ess)
Entered at the Postoffice as mail matter of Class II.

NO DANGER.
This city has been warned somebody from Watsonville has sent a carload of immature apples to Los Angeles. It will not matter after they are cooked. An immature apple is tempting only when it hangs on the top of a tree and one is 6 years old, bare-footed and entertains a disposition for colic.

ENGLAND AND THE SEA.
Britain is smiling. Down inside of him every Britisher is singing, "Rule Britannia, Rule the Waves." They laugh at the way Germany is putting its foot into the sea. England knows who is ready for the sea and who is not. She has been unhappy about Germany's idea of a fleet for a long time. There will be a noise like the crack of doom over there if this continues to look like England's opportunity.

LOADED.

THE DIET KITCHEN.
The Children's Hospital needs one. The Woman's Million Club proposes that it shall be forthcoming. This is a unique organization among the women's clubs of the city. It is unique for its faculty of doing things. It is always seizing upon some definite issue and settling it speedily and with satisfaction. Show the Million Club something practical to be done and it is on the job in a minute. The way it is getting the diet kitchen is by not dieting. The ladies will hold a picnic Saturday, August 8, at Echo Park, and the more people eat the more the children can afford to diet. It is a good cause. Besides, eating is pleasant.

THICK AND FAST.
The Arizonans are trooping in. They are here not only in quantity, but in quality. A better class of them never flooded the lobby of the Hollenbeck nor overran the sands of Venice. It sounds funny to talk about a "better class of Arizonans," because over there every man who breaks clean is as good as another and the size of his pocketbook makes less difference than it would in a city. Besides, most folks in Arizona have the right kind of pocketbook, and when they get here they prove it. In a dozen cities in Arizona the banks cash checks from $40,000 to $60,000 a day for from two to three months to supply the Arizonans in Southern California with spending money.

TOOPIOUS AND THE BONE CURE.
It seems that the rebating proprietor of our steamed, one-scent, Progressive contemporaries has fallen out with Chattering Chet and will not allow the name of that formerly distinguished and now formally extinguished aspirant for Senator Perkins's toga to be mentioned in his uninfluential, one-scent organs.

The once-loved Lissner is also taboo by Toopious, and there is some danger that the bad man from Arizona may be compelled to join the "associated extinct" and ignored aspirants for the toga. The true reason for this unexpected attitude of Toopious is said to be his own secret aspirations for the succession to Senator Works. Nothing can cure him but osteopathy—the bone cure—applied to his skull.

A NEIGHBOR IN TROUBLE.
We are sorry for Europe, but we are sorrier for Jupiter. That unhappy planet is not any worse off than it has always been, but we are now better acquainted with its grief. We have always been able to see eight of Jupiter's moons and now the astronomers of the earth have discovered a ninth. When one considers the amount of premature romance which a single moon releases on this earth think of the divorces they must have on Jupiter with nine moons busy with the manufacture of matrimony. The sixteenth power of romance must be a mild form in Jupiter with nine silvern satellites in full action. Perhaps the only bachelor in Jupiter is kept as a freak in a side show where an admission can be charged to look upon his unnatural countenance. Burton Braley has written a poem about the moon and the way she turns things topsy turvy wherever the human heart is concerned and, after admitting she plays the deuce with Tom and Dick and Harry and tempts the crusty bachelor to marry, he has this to say in the moon's defense:

"Beware the moon!" So say the cynics scheming;
Perhaps the golden dreams she sets us dreaming
Shall fill our souls with joy's ecstatic thrill,
She drenches all the world in silvern glamor
Youth calls to youth, and warm hearts beat in tune.
Come out, my love, though all the cynics clamor:
"Beware the moon!"

OVERSEAS—THE SITUATION TODAY.
The cable reports that Germany yesterday declared war against Russia because Russia had been mobilizing her armies near the German and Austrian frontiers as if to bluff Austria from having a free hand in Servia (and some seaports) and to rob Germany of the prize of a trade route to the Far East. Thus the European situation has suddenly become more complicated. France is said to be bent on mobilizing; but she has not yet done so and may conclude prudence is the better part of valor, inasmuch as the English nation is represented by dispatches to be divided into two camps—one for war and the other against. Thus, while the triple entente may be said to be divided against itself, so is the triple alliance weakened by a division, since Italy has made it clear that she is going to stand in the shade.

Germany's declaration will give the Kaiser the opportunity to earn his title of "War Lord of Europe." If it accomplishes nothing worse it will localize the Austro-Serb conflict. It may embroil other powers; but it has not yet done so. One may dream, if he like, of Poland and Finland freeing themselves from foreign domination; of France grabbing Alsace-Lorraine again and all that. Here the disjunctive conjunction is useful. But! Will they do it? Is civilization ready to contradict itself? Is it going to be a "debacle?" Has involution begun?

The one ray of hope is in the report that Austria has now offered to withdraw her troops from Servia and submit her case to arbitration. Just how that will affect the German attitude as to war against Russia is not so clear.

"THE WHIRLPOOL OF EUROPE."
Thus the historian, Archibald R. Colquhoun, once described Austria-Hungary, which is responsible for the turbulence overseas today. Apart from the position of importance which the dual monarchy occupies in European politics, the land itself is packed with historical associations of the most absorbing character and at the same time pulsates with modern life and the problems of social and political development. It has been well said that nowhere else in Europe is the past so intermingled with the present, and under the Emperor-King Francis Joseph one may study at the same time every phase of European civilization and every question, racial, political and social, which has agitated Europe in the last two centuries.

The ruler of this remarkable land, a veritable old man of sorrows, is one of the most striking figures of the age. No ordinary man could have survived the blows that Fate has dealt to Francis Joseph. His family life has been no less troublous than his public life. His beautiful wife was assassinated by an anarchist; his only son committed suicide, and his last days are still further embittered by a war one of whose causes was the assassination of his heir.

The cradle of this imperial line is in Switzerland. The beginnings of the Hapsburgs were small. The family took its name from a castle, romantically perched like the nest of a hawk above the River Aar. The ruins of it exist today, despite the fact that it was built in 1027, and although offers have been made to buy it and restore it to the Hapsburgs, the Swiss have always refused to part with it.

The first Hapsburgs were simple German counts with domains in Switzerland and in Alsace and Lorraine occupied by far from peaceable tenants. The famous "Hapsburg lip" was brought into the family when one of the counts, Ernest, known as the "Man of Iron," married a Polish noblewoman, daughter of the Duke of Mazovia. She was mother of the Emperor Frederick III and grandmother to Maximilian and she bequeathed the Hapsburg lip to her descendants. It was in Frederick's time that Slav, Magyar and German were first drawn together to resist the assaults of the Turk.

Maximilian may be said to be the real founder of the present Austria-Hungary empire and he accomplished this by the marriage route. He arranged the marriages of his grandson and granddaughter, which eventually led to the reuniting of the crowns of Hungary and Bohemia under the Hapsburgs. From that time the history of the House of Austria, or the Hapsburgs, is intimately linked with that of Hungary, Bohemia and the old and new German empires.

The subjects of the Emperor Francis Joseph are various in race. Roughly they may be divided into Germans, Slavs and Magyars. There is also a population using the Latin tongue and claiming descent from the Romans. The Slavs have never taken kindly to Austrian predominance and they have always seemed to be destined to occupy the position of the under dog. Mr. Colquhoun writes:

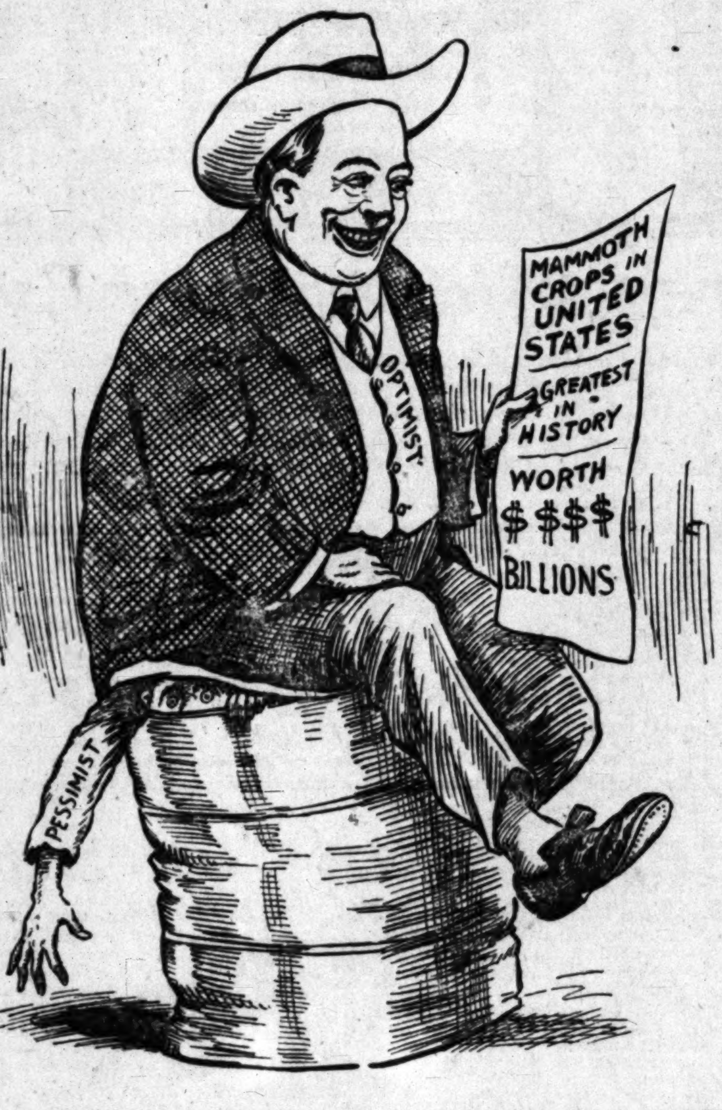
"Despite their peaceful and virile character, their love of liberty, their ancient civilization, and many noble qualities, one after another of the Slav peoples became enslaved. The Mongol invasion kept Russia the vassal of the Great Horde for centuries and when at last she overthrew the yoke she undoubtedly owed much to the infusion of Mongol blood as well as to the influence of her Varing invaders. Bulgaria, a Slavicised Mongol power, ruling a people who were a mixture of Latin and Slav, was the first and possibly the greatest Slav power for many centuries. Its rulers received from Byzantium the title of Czar two centuries before it was adopted in Russia. Bulgaria spread over the whole Balkan peninsula save the extreme south, and in her golden age, the tenth and eleventh centuries, was one of the great European powers. Yet she fell under Byzantine domination and was ruled by Greek satraps for 170 years.

"A brief revival in the twelfth century was followed by conquest of Servia. Servia was a purely Slav country which reached the zenith of its power in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, when it comprised not only modern Servia, but a great part of modern Austria-Hungary as well as Montenegro and the provinces of European Turkey. Bulgaria and Servia were both in turn the allies and the enemies of the Eastern Empire, but when Constantinople fell the tide of Ottoman invasion swept over them. Servia lost the whole of her aristocracy and from the fourteenth to the nineteenth centuries all these Slav countries were enslaved by the Turks with the exception of Montenegro and the republic of Ragusa."

Austria has long been anti-Russian. Although in 1815 Austria combined with Russia and Prussia in the Holy Alliance to secure "religion, peace and justice," the House of Hapsburg has always been afraid of Russian influence increasing in the Balkans. Germany and Austria have always regarded the rise of Russia as a menace to their supremacy in Central Europe, and as long ago as 1879 they concluded an alliance for action in case of an attack on Austria-Hungary by Russia or on Germany by France and Russia. This was strengthened in 1883 by the inclusion of Italy, which had become nervous owing to French activity in the Mediterranean. This triple alliance has never been dissolved, although it has gone through various vicissitudes and modifications.

The subjects of the Hapsburgs are predominantly Slavs, but at the same time the civilization, the government and the language of a considerable part of Austria is German. The tie with Germany is a close one and a large proportion of the population is enthusiastically and patriotically German in its sympathies without ceasing to be Austrian.

Cause for Rejoicing.



TRUSTS AND TRUST BUSTERS.
If we were to believe the fulminations of sensational journals and the lachrymose utterances of Woodrow Wilson political parties have been the father and the mother and the wet nurse of what is called the "trust evil."

The unvarnished bedrock truth is that neither political party is any more responsible for the formation or operation of the trusts than it is for the eruption of Lassen Peak or the ravages of the hook worm in North Carolina. Trusts are the offspring of economic changes which no political party induced and which no political party can control. Their development is largely due to the utilization of steam and electricity, to inventions in labor-saving machinery, to lessened cost of transportation, to manufacture of by-products, to concentration of capital, to economy in management and to centralization of forces.

Changes in economic conditions have in cities put an end to small stores, small factories and individual manufacture of completed articles. The old-time watchmaker has gone into the watch factory and, instead of making a watch, he attends the machinery that makes mainsprings or dial plates or balance wheels or cases. The cobbler has gone into the shoe factory and attends the cutting or the stitching machine. The girl at the power loom weaves as many yards of cloth in an hour as her grandmother could have made in a week. The blacksmith has gone into the machine shop, and the retail merchant is a salesman in a department store. Except in the building trades, individual skill and excellence have become a lost art, and even there the rules and practices of the labor unions have placed the skillful and the bungling workman on a dead level of uniformity. Every day some new worker with fingers of steel and life fed by the cataract displaces many human workers, and the machine never sleeps and never strikes and never grows sick or weary. Everywhere the world is advancing. Everywhere invention, discovery and science are pushing their march up the mountains and along the valleys and into the caverns of the earth. They are riding in cities of steel over the foam-crested seas, they are rushing on steeds of fire across States and continents, they are climbing toward the stars.

From Socrates to Henry George students of social science have been busy with projects for amelioration of the relations of capital and labor. Various plans have been formulated to exempt man from the decree "in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat thy bread," but no change of government and no triumphs of parties have ever resulted in a repeal or evasion of the primal law. Man harnesses the river to the factory wheel. He compels the cataract to smelt iron and copper and lead ores. He forces the subjugated lightning to carry his messages. He draws light and power from the tides of the ocean, and he is about to fertilize the fields with nitrogen drawn from the air.

But at last he must work. With strong arms and deft fingers and bright brain he must work, and he cannot work except with the help of capital. One small capitalist with ten thousand or even one thousand dollars is worth more to the laborer than all the calamity howlers who beat the air with their cries against "big business" and "special privilege" and "predatory wealth" and "loathsome capitalism."

Since the laborer depends upon the capitalist for employment, why should he, of all men, antagonize capital and cause capitalists to withdraw from the market as purchasers of the labor which is the sole commodity that the laborer has to sell and which is the most perishable of all commodities, for, as has been repeatedly said, "the work that a man might have done, but did not do, on Monday is of no value whatever on Tuesday morning."

AEROPLANES IN WAR.
Little Servia may introduce some unexpected and interesting features into the war that Austria-Hungary has forced upon her. It is less than 200 miles as the crow flies from the interior of Servia to the great Austro-Hungarian city of Budapest, with its 732,000 inhabitants. An aeroplane that could carry dynamite, two or three aviators, with bombs enough to destroy the city in ten minutes might be sent up from Servian soil after dusk and at midnight be over Budapest. It could, guided by lights of the city, hover over it, itself unobserved; it could descend to within a few hundred feet, drop its fearful cargo of explosives, and then ascend and fly back to Servia before daylight. Vienna itself might be reached and destroyed by another airship. Austria could not retort in kind, for there are no large cities in Servia. Of course the aviators would take some chances, but no greater than is taken by soldiers who often volunteer for a forlorn hope, or by those who charge a battery or march up against the guns of a fortress.

The perfecting of aeroplanes and of explosives makes a small power the equal of a great one. When it shall be practically demonstrated that two or three men can, in a few minutes, destroy a city or an army, war, as it is now conducted, must come to an end.

TIMBER LAND MONOPOLY.
Commissioner Davies reports that two men hold 49 per cent. of the timbered lands in Southwestern Washington, that five men hold 36 per cent. in Western Oregon, six have 70 per cent. in Northeastern California, ten have more than half in the redwood area, and in North Central Idaho four holders have 50 per cent.

This timber land monopoly is not confined to the Pacific Coast. In the upper peninsula of Michigan 45 per cent. of the land is held by thirty-two owners. In Florida fifty-two holders own one-third of the land in the entire State. Taking the nation at large 1694 holders own 105,000,000 acres, or an average of 6230 acres each—an area greater than the entire State of California, two and one-half times the land area of the six New England States, and four-fifths the size of France.

The report of the commissioner says:

"Lavish land grants and loose, ill-enforced land laws are the historical background of the concentration of land and timber ownership. A study of the present ownership of 7,370,000 acres of railroad, wagon road and canal grant lands, covering most of the granted lands in the map area and a little elsewhere, shows that of these particular lands, granted long ago to single corporations apparently with the idea that they would be quickly sold to settlers, only 15 per cent. are now distributed in small holdings. Of 82,500,000 acres granted to three western railroads in the 60's, the roads still retained 40 per cent. in 1910.

"The abuse of the general land laws in the past indicates that any lands restored to the public domain by these or other forfeiture suits should not be disposed of under the present land laws."

By the new trans-Atlantic telephone it will cost $50 to send a message. And at that price the remark, "the line is busy," will seldom be heard.

EAVESDROPPING ON CONGRESS.

BY GORDON RAY YOUNG.

Congressman Bryan of Washington thought himself highly insulted the other day by his colleague, Congressman Humphrey, who must laugh much in his sleeve (since he seems to have a sense of humor) at the variety of commotions he succeeds in creating. By way of retaliation, Congressman Bryan solemnly invited Congressman Humphrey to meet him at the "Dreamland Rink, Seattle, Wash.,—not with pistols and coffee—not with the "padded mits"—not in any contest more deadly than a French duel, but in a talking match. It was further proposed in this same challenge, issued in a manner calculated to convey the impression of fearlessness, that each linguistic combatant deposit the sum of $250 to pay the expenses of the "Rink" and that the victor be determined by a vote of the audience. Mr. Humphrey seems to have taken "the matter under advisement."

If Mr. Bryan has come into Congress with the intention of fighting pitched oratorical battles with every member who ruffles his feathers, it will be interesting to know what sort of a fate he proposes for Congressman Fitzgerald, who replied to a speech of Mr. Bryan's as follows:

"If he (Mr. Bryan) were in politics long enough to walk on his own feet, he would not make the assertion that any statement I make in this House is untrue. I neither make untrue statements nor do I so far violate the rules of the body of which I am a member as to characterize the statements of others—I almost said "gentlemen," but I will say "members"—as untrue.

Perhaps Mr. Humphrey has not replied to the challenge of his colleague by reason of the fact that he has been rather busily engaged in a battle of words with Congressman Heflin, the Democratic member from Alabama. Personalities are as thick in some of these speeches as raisins in a pudding. Touching on the personal appearance of his antagonist, Mr. Heflin said: "Be it said to the credit of the gentleman that he is now doing all in his power to hide and cover up as much of it as possible, and he is to be commended for this, since whiskers are on the free list."

That wonderfully brilliant wit was followed by the parenthetical remark "Laughter and applause on the Democratic side." Since they who laughed and applauded take a pride in designating themselves as "simple" it is not difficult to understand why laughter and applause followed.

Mr. Heflin also showed his capability as a satirist in verse by way of ridiculing Mr. Humphrey's recent conversion to the cause of suffrage. The first verse is presented (the seven that follow are similar) and shows how the Muse must hate a Congressman:

"The way was dark and dank,
When the Repubs beat the plank,
For suffrage by the suffrage sea.
Humphrey was demure
When not quite so sure
About suffrage and the suffrage sea."

It is easy to believe that (as the parentheses assert) "laughter" followed the rendition of the "poem."

Mr. Humphrey retorted with a speech of some length which contained the sentence: "Now, I want for just a moment to say to the gentleman that part of his speech I had heard my colleague (Mr. Bryan) deliver before he gave it to the gentleman from Alabama."

Verily, verily the Muse does hate a Congressman, and another bit of evidence to that effect is gathered from the poem on "Taxation" which Mr. Fowler of Illinois was inconsiderate enough to recite the following and five more verses not a whit worse (no worse, for a reason that seems obvious:)

"The taxing power of government
From the consent of the people flows,
With no right to raise another cent
Beyond what the need of revenue shows.
Its burdens on the people are laid
To encourage the progress of man,
Without which no effort would be made
To endure such a burdensome plan."

"Applause" is alleged to have followed the recitation. Thus does evidence pile up that Congress really should adjourn and go home if it doesn't know any better than to tolerate, much less applaud, such verse.

Mr. Taylor, Congressman from Arkansas, also blossomed out with a few poetic figures of speech about the same time—it may be that a pestilence of poetry has broken out in Washington—with a lurid oration on the glories of Hot Springs. "Here," declaimed Mr. Taylor, waxing furiously rhetorical over the medicinal springs of his constituents' resort, "the iron sinews of rheumatism are untied: here the steel fingers of paralysis are unloosed: here the agonies of the pain king are soothed and the crutches of, and chair of invalids are thrown on the junk pile, while the whole valley and the mountainside are made vocal with the grand acclaim of those who have been restored to health," etc.

Mr. Payne of New York was almost overcome by this profusion of praise, but not quite. He arose and, among other things, said: "There was a tradition that the Jesse James gang used to operate between Hot Springs and the Iron Mountain Road, some thirty miles away, and that the James gang never attacked a party coming out of Hot Springs because the pickings were too poor. They always struck a party going into Hot Springs before the nurses and the doctors and the bath-house people and the hotels had their chance at them."

He also told of an immigrant who was camping near to one of the springs in the early days and "went to get a drink of water. He dipped up a dipperful of it in his tin dipper and put it to his mouth and the hot water burned his lips. He threw down the dipper and came rushing back and said: 'Here, hitch up and get out of here quick. Hell ain't a mile off.'"

All of this eloquence and humor came about because the good people of Hot Springs want a government appropriation—that is, another one—for something that has to do with improving the city by repairing the sewer.

These are merry days in Congress. Challenges to rhetorical combats, exchange of personalities to enliven matters, funny stories—and yet Congress gets real peeved when anyone suggests that it should adjourn and go home.

SLAVS VS. GERMANS.

SIDNEY CORYN,

In the San Francisco Argonaut.

The history of wars shows always a cause that is fundamental and persisting as well as one that is immediate and provocative. The short-sighted observer looks only at the latter, which is usually something trivial, and so wonders what all the fuss is about. Wars are actually gendered in the slow-brooding kinds of men and nurtured by the great and abiding sentiments of nationality and race. When these are matured into explosive magnitude comes the provocative incident as a spark to the magazine. But the actual cause of conflict is further back.

If we are actually on the brink of a general European war, as seems likely enough, its cause will not be the assassination of the Crown Prince of Austria by a Servian fanatic. Princes have been murdered times without number, but such crimes have seldom or never led to war. Nations do not hold each other responsible for the deeds of maniacs. Nor would such a war be caused by Austria's aggressive demands for reparation. No such demands would have been made against Switzerland, for example, or against Greece, if the assassin had happened to belong to one of those nations. Evidently there must be some deep-seated reason for Austria's hostility to Servia in particular, some reason that far transcends in importance the immediate act that has brought such a conflict into being. The discovery of that reason shows that it is not to be removed by mediations or conferences. These might indeed have postponed the conflict, but they could not have prevented it. And that reason is the colossal movement known as Panslavism. Arrayed against that movement is another colossal movement known as Pangermanism. These are the titanic forces now facing each other over miles of serried bayonets. Even though an immediate clash might have been prevented it seems to be on the book of fate that it should come at some time. Austria represents Pangermanism and Servia represents Panslavism. Behind Austria stands Germany, also and naturally Pangerman. Behind Servia stands Russia, and Russia is Panslav.

The Germans and the Slavs stand face to face in all the countries of Eastern Europe, and wherever they are found thus confronting each other there are always the possibilities of civil war. The Pangerman movement may be said to have had its faint beginnings in 1813 after the overthrow of Napoleon. The war with Austria was a war for German supremacy in Austrian affairs, and the conflict has been continued by diplomacy ever since. The dream of a greater Germany that shall include all German-speaking peoples grew steadily into something more than a dream. It became a national ideal and a national policy that has been pursued steadfastly, like all German politics. Every one knows the song that ends with the chorus:

Certainly every German knows it, and perhaps there is no other song that arouses a like enthusiasm. It means that the greater Fatherland must embrace all peoples using the German language, and this is the aim that has guided German diplomacy in her dealings with Europe. In accordance with that diplomacy the Pangermans raised a fierce protest against the Austrian decree granting to the Czechs the right to use their own language for official purposes as well as German. It was denounced as a blow to the Pangerman ambitions, and it was openly maintained that Germany should lend all her aid to the Austrian government to maintain the supremacy of the German element among her people and to keep the Slavs in subjection and subordination. Pangermanism is a real thing. From a sentiment it has become a national policy, not only in Germany herself, but also in Austria. It binds the Germans of Austria to the Germans of Germany. It is a patriotism without frontiers. It is a sentiment that looks over and beyond the existing national boundaries to a time when there shall be a great German federation granting its franchises of citizenship to all German-speaking peoples.

But Panslavism stands in the way, and it is Panslavism that has welded Russia and Servia into a community of sentiment in the present crisis. The blow that Austria has struck against Servia is directed ostensibly at Servia, but actually at Panslavism. If Russia should join hands with Servia, as, of course, she will do, it will be in defense not so much of Servia as of a menaced Panslavism. She would do as much for any Slav people threatened by Germanism. But Russia was not enthusiastic for the movement when it was in its infancy. She was big enough to be indifferent to the demands for a great leader that were raised by the small Slav nationalities among whom the movement had been born. Moreover, Russia was a little suspicious of popular enthusiasm which, if encouraged, might turn against the autocracy. But Russia was speedily convinced. She saw that Panslavism was a real thing and that it could be made to mean Russian influence in every country of Eastern Europe. Through its aid she could easily absorb some of them, while she herself was far too big to be absorbed or even affected by them. And as for the perilous possibilities of a great popular movement within her own frontiers it was evident that there must be a popular Panslav movement in any case and that it would be to the interest of the Czar to lead and direct it. From that moment of choice the Czar became the spiritual leader of the Slav peoples. Irrespective of boundaries, he was the recognized chief of the Slav world. And pitted against him was the Emperor of Germany, or rather the King of Prussia. Eastern Europe was practically invited to make her choice between the rule of the Hohenzollerns and the rule of the Czar. Every country contains alike the Slav element and the German element, the former working for the Czar of Russia, the latter for the King of Prussia. With a Slav in Constantinople we should see the eastern empire once more dominant and the dream of pious ages fulfilled. The bones of Constantine would surely clothe themselves once more with flesh to celebrate so mighty a triumph. Byzantium would be re[illegible]. Here we find the key to the policies of Eastern Europe. Ac[illegible] there is only one policy, one aim, one quarrel. Every event, from the bullet of the assassin to a declaration of war, takes its place in the [illegible] of conflict between the German and the Slav.

The Slavs means business. There can be no doubt about that. Politics in Eastern Europe is not a matter of [illegible]-making nor of personal ambition. It is a crusade, and God and his Angels are its leaders. It is [illegible] with all the fervors of religion, [illegible] the passion of poetry and the [illegible] of oratory. Mr. Angelo S. Rappoport, writing over a year ago, quotes as follows from the Panslav poet, Kollar: "The head of the dear goddess Slava (Glory) seated on a throne of gold, is Russia. The Lechs constitute her body, the Czechs her arms and hands, the Serbs are her two feet, whilst the other populaces are the weapons. Europe should fall on her knees before this idol, whose head is towering about the clouds and whose feet will shake the terrestrial globe. This giant-virgin puts one of her feet on the Bosphorus and the other on the Adriatic; she unites into one nation all the Slavonic races; Serbians, and Russians, and Poles, and all those who dwell on the banks of the Elbe, of the Weser, and of the Rhine. This nation inhabits an empire vaster than any other empire—and its boundaries extend from Mount Athos to Tergion, from Servia to Breslau, from the land of the Cossacks to Ragusa, and from Kamtshatka to Japan. All this is the land of the Slavs. Slavism is discharging its roaring waves like a deluge." Now making all allowances for poetic fervor and for the divine afflatus, this is an extensive programme. But it fires the heart of the Slav, who is rather apt to think in poetry, a reprehensible proceeding by Western standards, but it is just as well to beware of people who think in poetry. They are apt to fight rather strenuously.

Danilevsky in his "Europe and Russia" gives us another glimpse of Slav ambitions. He says: "The European nations have either fulfilled or failed in their missions. Either they are in a state of stagnation or of rapid decay. Only Russia is young, fresh and vigorous—and she has still the divine and historical mission not only to occidentalize the Orient, but to cure and save old Europe by breathing into this old blase the healthy spirit of the Slav. There is no general progress of humanity; there are only local civilizations, which begin, exist, and disappear. All the acquisitions of European culture, accumulated for centuries, ought now to be destroyed; they must disappear from the face of the earth and be replaced by a system reigning at Archangel, Vladivostok and Sebastopol. A torrent of destruction will soon sweep over the Germano-Latin and Romance lands, and above the waters of the general flood only the lofty summit of the Kremlin will tower majestically. Societies which are old and have lived—which have fulfilled their historical mission—must leave the arena of the world, be they situated in the Orient or in the Occident. Everything that lives, individual, special or biological type, possesses nothing but a certain amount of life, and must die when it has been used up."

Once more, this is an ambitious programme, but he would indeed be rash who should deny the possibility of its fulfillment. Europe has seen greater things than this. It means the submergence of everything that is distinctively European, it means the exaltation of Russia to the mastership of the continent.

A VALUABLE MANUAL.

State Mining Bureau's New Bulletin Treats Concisely of Mineral Resources of State.

"Every element which enters into the composition of minerals probably occurs in California," says Bulletin No. 67, "Minerals in California," just issued by the State Mining Bureau, in speaking of the mineral resources of California. "It is true that several rare elements, like cassium gallium, indium and some members of the cerium yttrium and radium groups, have never been detected, but minerals occur in which these elements are usually found, so their presence may yet be revealed when more extensive chemical and spectroscopical analysis of the minerals and rocks have been made.

"California is ideal in having passed through all those stages of geologic development which govern the formation of the various species or classes of minerals of igneous, metamorphic and sedimentary genesis, and in possessing the climatic conditions essential to the formation and preservation of unusual mineral species."

The bulletin gives a concise and thorough treatment of the mineralogical resources of the State in its 200-odd pages, of particular interest to the technical student.

A scathing rebuke to youthful bullies, who, after taking a drink or two are always primed for a fight, was given by Police Judge White yesterday morning to Harry Alexander and H. C. Christ. "You both deserve a good beating up and it would serve you perfectly right if you got it," declared the judge, before imposing a fine of $30 and a suspended ninety-day term on Alexander, the aggressor, and making it thirty days and the money fine for Christ, his assistant in the fracas which occurred at Spring and Seventh street, where the two bullies Friday night, without provocation, jumped on two Japanese boys, S. Yshimi and M. Muchino, and battered them up so badly that the Receiving Hospital physicians had to tend their injuries.

POEM PAYS AFTER HALF A CENTURY.

AUTHORESS OF "CURFEW MUST NOT RING TONIGHT" HAS STRANGE STORY.

The debt which the world owes genius is one of the few bills which is never outlawed. After almost half a century, this year will bring the first monetary reward to Mrs. Rose Hartwick Thorpe for her poem, "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight."

Theatrical stars and managers by the dozen, motion-picture magnates and even an enterprising Englishman who manufactured souvenir bells with clappers carved from rafters of the original belfrey, have made fortunes out of the little poem so dear to the hearts of all. But the authoress, Mrs. Thorpe, who has been the guest of Mrs. S. W. Hollahan of No. 518 South Grand avenue, never profited by so much as a penny until this year, from the verses which made her famous. Within the past few months a little special volume containing the poem has netted her quite a substantial reward.

Mrs. Thorpe is a bright-faced woman whose sixty-odd years of life have left few marks except kindly ones. She was just 17 when she penned the verses that won her the recognition of the world. There was never a time, she says, when she did not write or think in verse. In 1867 a story called "Love and Loyalty," which had appeared in the Peterson's magazine of September, 1865, attracted her attention and from it she wrote in a few hours the poem that has since been translated into many tongues.

Then she practically gave this poem away.

Miss Hartwick had contributed a poem a week to the Detroit Commercial Advertiser in exchange for a yearly subscription to the paper. One week she sent in the Curfew poem with a note of apology for not having mailed a contribution the week previous. Two days later the little set of verses had been copied in twenty papers in Canada and the United States. Over night she was famous.

Mrs. Thorpe says that because her little poem became a favorite with Queen Victoria, an English antiquarian made a search of the records and verified the episode described in the poem, and located the church in Churtsey, a small hamlet twenty miles from London. The bell, which happily did not toll the death knell of Basil Underwood, thanks to Bessie's courage and quick wit, still hangs in this church, but the tower has been restored, the old rafters going into souvenirs to supply the ever-increasing demand of tourists.

Mrs. Thorpe is the wife of Edmund Carson Thorpe, whose father crossed the plains with Kit Carson, and their home is at No. 1981 Lynwood street, San Diego. Now that their three children have "grown up" Mrs. Thorpe has returned to her literary work and has recently published a book of poems which promises to add to her many friends.

Edison Company Asks Injunction Against Five Companies Alleging Patent Infringement.

The complaints involving alleged violation of the Edison patents, covering useful improvements in the kinetoscope, used in making motion pictures, that have been instituted all over the country, took on a local flavor yesterday, when Miller & White, San Francisco patent attorneys, filed five bills in the United States District Court, charging violation of the patent law upon as many "movie" concerns.

The orator in the litigation is the Motion Picture Patent Company, owners, it is alleged, of the Edison patent granted August 31, 1891, and the defendants are: Bosworth Incorporated, Oz Film Manufacturing Company, Nash Motion Picture Company, Albuquerque Film Manufacturing Company and the St. Louis Motion Picture Company. The bills of complaint are identical in each case.

The bill recites the invention first by Thomas A. Edison, and the successful result of litigation in the various courts of the country, in which his rights have been established, the last action being when the Supreme Court of the United States refused a writ of certiorari, for which one of the concerns sued for alleged infringement prayed.

The prayer of the petition is that the defendants be enjoined from taking photos of moving objects made or operated in accordance with the process that is sought to be protected; of exhibiting, delivering or using any motion picture or photograph negative by the aid of the apparatus in question; for a complete accounting and such damages as the court thinks due.

An effort will be made to have Judge Wellborn issue a temporary restraining order at the opening of court tomorrow morning. The court is in the habit of issuing no such order except on full notice to the defendants, giving them an opportunity to reply. This means a hearing, an impossibility at the present condition of the calendar.

You Scratch My Back and I'll Scratch Yours!

GLENDALE, July 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Referring to your paragraph in The Times of July 29, let us have "an exchange of courtesies," by all means. But how are you to tell an artist or playwright that he or she "has not the goods" without leaving a sore spot? It can't be done. Yet, from time to time, on both sides, it has to be done. "Hence those tears!" Who the "English singer" referred to may be I do not know, but Miss Mary Garden gets a punch back in the current number of the American Magazine, so she and Mary balance the (singing) scale!

Your article continues: "It happens that Americans have often accused the English press and the English critics of entertaining a distinct prejudice against everything American." Is that so? Then what about Edwin Booth, Jefferson, Dixie, Minnie Palmer, Nat Goodwin, Gillette, Herbert Heath's companies, the Daly company and others?

I can testify from personal knowledge that to all of them the warmest welcome and appreciation was extended in England. Are American memories so short, or susceptibility so sensitive, that their gratitude consists solely of a lively sense of favors to come?

No, sir, the Americans I have named made good because they were "worth while." Send to London anything that is really good of its kind, and you will "put it over"—unless the application is of purely local interest. Even where this is largely the case, witness the success of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and of "Within the Law," both of which ran for a year in London.

But "Adele!" Surely you don't put forward this second-rate production as a standard of what the American theater can do—with or without assistance from France?

"Adele" failed in London for two good reasons. First, because it was an entirely unsuitable piece for the Gaiety Theater, and to place it there was a plain business mistake. Secondly, because it is a very second-rate play.

Adele contains four ideas.

The intended suicide of the ruined count, which leads him to entertain a proposal of marriage solely with a view to divorce.

The situation of two pairs of lovers, transferred pro tem., and the comic harrowing of their respective feelings as the result of the temporary exchange.

We know from the start that the suicide cannot take place and this detracts from the value of the scene as a climax to Act I. But we expect some original comedy turn to arrest the count's hand at the critical moment and when we get instead a very long and commonplace stretch of the "long arm of coincidence," viz., a telegram saying that, owing to the death of somebody, the count is rich again, we naturally feel an anticlimax.

The situation is a genuine comedy one (and was more humorously treated by W. S. Gilbert in "The Mikado,") but after being fully presented in Act I, it does not develop any fresh phase in Act II, and is merely dished up again as a repetition.

The same applies to the really humorous idea of the trade jealousy between the two fathers. It leads nowhere, is purely episodic and does not develop any new combination. The vein which was well worked in Act I shows no new lode, but is worked again in Act II. In fact, during the whole of the second act the play stands still. The situations of the first act are repeated, without variation, and we get no new thing until the bridal chamber scene and the attraction of the roue by his ingenue bride. This has a piquancy of its own, but it comes only after long talky-talky stretches, and repetitions the reverse of enlivening, and the second act is on the whole weak and often tedious.

The third act opens with a charming number, the breakfast duet, and it is a pity there are not more like it. The remainder of the act is a purely mechanical adjustment of the remaining unattached couple to the situation already created. The music is above the average; and this, with the two comedian parts, managed to put it over in New York. But "Adele" is not a particularly good play; its possibilities are only half developed; it contains only one good acting lyric, and its rejection in London is no slight to American art (I spare you the capital A!)—and certainly no discredit to the discernment of London.

If you want to supply London with Anglicized versions of French libretti, find another "Veronique" and you'll get there every time. But, believe me, in the matter of "Adele," and the situation it has achieved, you have no kick whatever.

Christian Science Healing.

BOSTON, July 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am glad to acknowledge the perfect fairness of The Times report of a recent decision of a New York court in the case of a Christian Science practitioner. But now that the opinions of the judges have been read in full, I trust you will make room for a brief comment.

The several opinions in this case consume thirty-nine sheets of typewriting, but the gist of the whole decision can be put in a few words. Although the present decision is not final, the majority of the judges have ruled to the following effect: It is allowable to practice religious tenets which include healing, unless the practitioner provides an office or place for the work and receives payment from those who offer it. If he does this, he must have a license to practice medicine.

It is to be observed, therefore, that this judgment rests wholly upon the alleged impropriety of receiving compensation for a service rendered. On the other hand, the former chief judge of the highest court in New York (Edgar Montgomery Cullen) recently said in a public address: "In all Christian churches prayers are offered for the recovery of the sick, and all decent Christians, Friends possibly excepted, believe in supporting their clergymen. The Christian Scientist has exactly the same right to be paid for his service."

Which of these views is correct may be debated by judges, but the ultimate right of decision belongs to a larger court. If the present ruling correctly interprets the law of New York, and the statutes as thus construed do not conform to the sense of justice held by the people, the law can be changed and will be changed.

A very large percentage of Christian Science healing is done without compensation; and Christian Science has been commercialized to exactly the same extent that Christianity was commercialized in the days of Christ Jesus. When he sent out his disciples to preach the gospel and heal the sick, he said: "The laborer is worthy of his hire." The difference between the compensation which they received pursuant to this instruction and precept is simply a difference in the conditions of human life then and now, there and here; that is to say, a difference in the manner or medium of payment.

Christian healing is just as much entitled to compensation when done in an office convenient to Broadway as when done in a Judean synagogue or at the gates of Lystra.

Vivisection.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the Sunday issue of July 19 of your able paper there is an article in section six on "Vivisecting the Poor of Europe." As a French woman of extensive foreign acquaintance in the great cities of the continent, where are located celebrated vivisectoriums and hospitals. I desire to corroborate your illuminative article as being, alas! too true.

But what about your own fair country and the expose of methods used in your hospitals and laboratories? The inoculation of 1000 babies ranging in ages from 2 months to 3 years in Columbia Hospital, New York, with tuberculin tests, (some of these being dying children;) the experimentation upon 400 cases in fifteen private and public hospitals upon paid and charity patients in New York by Nogouchi of Rockefeller Institute with the syphilitic test; the tuberculin test upon 262 children from the Baptist orphanage at Thomasville, N. C., by Von Rusk; the 158 tuberculin tests by the University of Pennsylvania upon children under 8 years of age, in St. Vincent's Home for Foundlings (in Philadelphia? Ad finitum — ad nauseam. Europe has for several decades been vivisecting and inoculating the poor, who are indeed mere raw material in the hands of the vivisectors, but America is fast forging to the front with its command of unlimited and polluted wealth of its decadent philanthropists, who are surely making probable the wholesale vivisection of the poor of these United States.

Permit me to say that I know of no other reform work that is so overweighted with the very mass of evidence in its favor as is the growing cause of anti-vivisection.

"FALSIFIER, VILIFIER."

AND OTHER SHOTS PENETRATE WAR CLOUDS.

Supervisors Have Stormy Session When "The Lassen Peak of the Board" Charges the Others With Trying to Slip Something Over on Him.

European war clouds hovered over the Board of Supervisors yesterday and deadly verbal bombs were hurled with telling effect by the combatants. When the smoke of battle had cleared away, one Supervisor, Richard H. Norton, the Lassen of the board, had been called a "falsifier" and "vilifier," as well as other pet names, by Chairman Pridham and Supervisor Woodley.

It was the stormiest session held by the board since Chairman Pridham, early in June, told Mr. Norton that he ought to be ashamed to ever again show his face inside the Hall of Records. Very little business was transacted by the board yesterday, except to let the seething Mr. Norton know where to head in.

War was declared when the resolution providing for an increase of the salary of County Registrar McAleer was before the board. Mr. McAleer, who is credited with working harder and longer than any county official, receives $150 a month. His duties call for marked ability and expert knowledge. Sometimes he has as many as 700 deputies under him. Recognizing his worth, the Supervisors, Mr. Norton excepted, some time ago passed an ordinance which increased Mr. McAleer's salary from $150 a month to $225. Norton has attempted to block it every inch of the way. He is a bitter political enemy of Mr. McAleer. Mr. McAleer refused to appoint several of Norton's henchmen as deputies.

Mr. Norton accused the other Supervisors of trying to put something over on him when the matter was brought up yesterday.

"You're trying to slip something over on me," he yelled.

"What's that?" asked Supervisor Woodley.

Mr. Norton repeated the charge.

"You falsify when you say that," said Mr. Woodley. "I am sick and tired of your vilifying remarks. It's about time we put a stop to your falsifying and vilification."

"Mr. Woodley's absolutely right," said Chairman Pridham, looking Mr. Norton straight in the eye. "You are not telling the truth when you say we are putting something over on you and you know it. It's an outrage the way you have falsified about this matter. Now I, for one, intend to find a way to stop it."

Mr. Norton busied himself twirling a pencil, while Chairman Pridham was giving him the lie direct. He didn't come back at Mr. Pridham.

The matter was then continued to tomorrow morning and the board adjourned. Norton was the first to leave.

Tomorrow the Supervisors, County Civil Service Commission and County Counsel Hill will meet in joint session to consider the ordinance relative to salaries for county officers and employees. The Supervisors are agreed that the salary of the District Attorney shall be reduced from $6000 to $5000, making it the same as those of the Sheriff and Assessor. Chief Deputy District Attorney Ford argued against the reduction.

The Supervisors have determined that future ordinances should be flexible enough to permit employment of additional employees from time to time, without amending the ordinances.

ON A FORAGING TRIP BY AUTO.

Juicy Possibilities at the Edges of City.

Finest Fruits and Produce at First Hand.

Results of San Fernando Valley Voyage.

BY R. BRIMSMEAD.

This is a truthful account of a memorable trip of the discoveries made and the vast quantity of good things picked up cheaply on a short expedition into the country immediately surrounding Los Angeles. The advent of the automobile along the country highways is rapidly building up new industries, enabling the ranchman to become his own salesman and to dispose to good advantage—both to himself and to the purchaser—of much that is grown and produced on his land. The scores of picturesque roadside booths in which the growers make their displays, the great variety of products advertised for sale on the hundreds of blackboards and signs in sight of the passers-by along the highway, demonstrate the wonderful range of fruits and crops grown in the country surrounding Los Angeles, and the inherent possibilities which lie ready to hand in the thousands of fertile acres throughout the great San Fernando Valley and the rich mesa and valley lands throughout Southern California.

We started out four strong—the head of the family, the mere man, the little mother and the little pudding—snugly packed in a roomy runabout, sped up the quiet city street and headed for the open country on our voyage of discovery. Hollywood was soon left behind and we rapidly climbed over the Cahuenga Pass, dropping into the San Fernando Valley.

As we entered Lankershim the first "for sale" sign was noted, advertising peaches and other fruits, the well-loaded trees on either side of the road showing the quality of the fruit to be obtained there. This was soon left behind us and we sped out along the magnificent Sherman way as far as Van Nuys, by heavily-laden orchards and growing crops of all kinds and descriptions; then back again through Lankershim and on to San Fernando, the old mission town across the valley.

DIRECT BUYING.

Here and there we stopped along the road to make our purchases, if not right off the trees themselves, at least from the ranch where grown. Slipping through San Fernando,—a thriving, go-ahead typical Southern California small town, we headed for the mission, finding a cool spot under the trees of the old olive orchard with plenty of the coolest of artesian water at hand for man and machine.

The thriftiest of young lemon trees climbed the gentle slope to the very doors of the old mission itself, while looking through the branches of the olive trees, loaded with the coming crop, were to be had magnificent vistas across hundreds of acres of flourishing orange and lemon trees stretching to the low foothills. Here we unpacked our picnic lunch, and took first inventory of our "spoils," to find the freshest and ripest of peaches, apricots, plums, oranges, lemons and grape fruit, new potatoes, sweet potatoes and eggs—the latter not "ripe," but temptingly fresh.

We were loth to leave our shady retreat, but the start was made and once more we headed for Los Angeles, straight down the old San Fernando road. At Burbank a picturesque booth, between two noble Italian cypress trees, caught our eyes, for across the top of the little shelter was a sign—"Everything I sell I grow here"—and we stopped to take on more cargo. Here we found an old settler, W. B. Thorpe, who had lived here for twenty-one years. From his ranch we added peaches, green gage plums, nectarines, apples, cucumbers, sweet corn and new potatoes, but could find no room to stow away any of the fifty varieties of rose bushes or other plants which a blackboard noted for sale. With sales which had reached as much as $18 in a single day, and many days of $15 or more, the owner of the neat, well-cultivated, well-cared-for little ranch, was, indeed, making the most of his land. Waving good luck, and with added shrill good-bys from little pudding, we meandered on through Glendale and Eagle Rock to Pasadena, back to Los Angeles once again, passing many signs and making sundry stops.

FINE ASSORTMENT.

When we reached home we had with us peaches and apricots, plums, apples, berries, a large ripe water melon, cantaloupes, oranges, lemons, grape fruit, new potatoes, green corn, cucumbers, lettuce, sweet potatoes, onions and tomatoes. Honey we found at a stand within hailing distance of the apiary, surely a guarantee of its purity and excellence. The head of the house had found broilers, squabs and real American eggs, all of a freshness and excellence to suit her fancy; while little mother was the proud owner of a pair of canaries, and little pudding held in his chubby arms a Persian kitten of undoubted pedigree—both, strange to say, raised and purchased at the same ranch. A handsome Toggenburg goat and dogs of noble lineage we managed to leave behind us, for as a matter of fact we were by this time loaded down to the gunwale, and running over, and liable to founder at any moment, with the load we had aboard, which brought us down well below the Plimsol line.

With fruits and produce coming in the year through, the country around Los Angeles offers splendid foraging ground for those who are in the habit of using their machines for pleasure rides, bringing us the closer to the producer and assuring the freshest of fruits, vegetables, eggs and poultry, where discrimination is used in making one's purchases.

As the country further develops, as the small ranches multiply, as the network of smooth highways and boulevards increase in number, as the automobile becomes more and more universal, so will the variety and quantity of products to be found ready for sale along the country roadside increase. In the winter months—and summer months too—when once the right ranches are found, supplies of oranges, grape fruit and lemons can be laid in, good fresh fruit which will keep well, right off the trees, instead of the usual culls offered by the house-to-house peddler, and—let it be whispered—at prices which will astonish the frugal housewife on the lookout for bargains.

WHERE IT BELONGS.

The open-air, palm-covered booth, lying in the shade of evergreen trees, beside the roadway, with displays of ripe, fresh, home-grown fruit for sale, is essentially Californian, and abounds particularly in the country surrounding Los Angeles.

There is a fascination in foraging the country which is hard to describe. It leads one into pathways new, into out-of-the-way corners, teaching the foragers to know more of their own country—much which speeding from point to point can never show. Starting out with open mind—and forsooth, open purse—taking stock of one's spoils when safely home again, is just as fascinating as taking stock of curios and mementoes picked up during a vacation in Europe, the Eastern States or other foreign parts. The other day we had our new potatoes dug for us while we waited, and saw our green corn picked. And so with much of the lettuce and tomatoes which we have brought home with us.

Here is a new-born industry for the ranchman, a new occupation for the automobilist. As it develops, it is bound to have its effect upon the cost of living, upon the distribution of much perishable food and to build up, where followed to its logical conclusion, regular custom for the ranchman among those who may buy from him as they pass by—regular customers to whom he will deliver his products week in and week out, summer and winter. An afternoon foraging expedition is more fun and furnishes more excitement than a big downtown sale. Business can be mixed with pleasure in obtaining fresh fruits and farm produce at first hand—and at first cost.

The rapidity with which the roadside booth and the for-sale sign along the highways are increasing in number clearly demonstrates the extent to which the back-to-the-land movement can be aided, for while we may yet live in the city, we can—if the city be Los Angeles—obtain many of our supplies direct from the rancher himself by availing ourselves of such foraging expeditions.

Growing and selling on the spot.

TAKING IN MORE MONEY.

The July receipts of the Los Angeles postoffice were $170,362.87, as compared with $159,691.16 for the same month last year—an increase of $10,671.71, or 6.68 per cent. Postmaster Brown is more than satisfied with the showing for the initial month of his administration.

Death-Dealer.

AMPHIBIOUS WAR ENGINE.

NOTED LOS ANGELES INVENTOR HAS ONE FOR EUROPE.

Man Who Interested United States in His Plan to Bridge San Francisco Bay Developing Land-and-Water Fighting Machine, First Conceived in Bloody Sixties.

Allan C. Rush, the Los Angeles engineer whose brilliantly original scheme for bridging San Francisco Bay recently won him the indorsement of leading civil and commercial bodies in San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley, as well as the consideration of the Federal government, has to his credit several inventions of importance, but the one in which he takes the most pride of all never reached the patent office. The "invention" is described by Rush as "the monitor that never went to war" and is in the form of a wooden model for a strange battle craft designed to meet an enemy on land or sea. It was a boy's idea, crude, even laughable in conception, but the principle underlying it has persisted to this day in the mind of its author, who is at the present time perfecting a deadly amphibious engine of destruction which he expects to submit to representatives of one of the belligerent nations of Europe.

The inventor himself was only [illegible] years old at the time his great idea of revolutionizing warfare first came to him. It was in the stressful days of 1862, when the Confederate ironclad, the Merrimac, was playing havoc with the wooden navy of the Union. The government was frantic and a little boy on a farm near Perry, Ill., a boy whose father and older brother were both at the front fighting for that government, was in a frenzy of patriotic exaltation.

It was not for the childish inventor to know that one Capt. John Erickson had long been at work upon the odd little "cheese box on a raft" that was to put a stop to the depredations of the terrible rebel boat. The future inventor of the titanic transbay bridge felt the whole responsibility of saving the Federal government's rapidly-waning naval prestige upon his own youthful shoulders. With feverish zeal he set about to create a craft that should challenge the invincible war machine of the enemy.

He found his inspiration in nature. The turtle is equally at home on land or in the water and, more significant still, stones shied at turtles have a way of glancing off their rounded shells without doing any harm. The turtle it was, therefore, that in a literal sense gave the boy his cue.

The Rush "monitor" was whittled out of wood into the form of a turtle's shell. A flat conning tower rose from the top and from this proudly floated the flag of the Union. Heavy guns bristled through openings set at intervals around the base of this upper deck. The shell, armored with iron, was all that was to show above water when the craft was afloat. Just under the surface of the sea, where the turtle's head would have been, the inventor placed a murderous ram.

The round hull of the war boat was provided with wheels for land locomotion. To protect the wooden sides the boy conceived the idea of having great chains hanging down from the rim of the armored superstructure, in such a way as to form a mesh against artillery fire. Motive power for both land and water travel was to be derived from an engine safely hidden within the interior of the iron shell.

Rush has his "monitor" model to this day and exhibits it proudly along with the working models for the great bridge he hopes to see built from San Francisco to Oakland or Berkeley.

Rush is reticent on the subject of the war craft he is now working out, but admits that he has hopes of seeing it adopted by one of the warring nations of Europe in the event of a general conflict. He says he had intended to offer it to the United States government until the breaking out of the Austrian-Servian fray, with the possibilities it presents for actual demonstration of the value of his invention. The inventor declares that the war engine will combine the purposes of the modern armored automobile with those of a small fighting boat. It is an outgrowth of the "turtle monitor" of his boyhood.

An invitation is being extended to all automobile tourists to make the Pittsburgh Automobile Club their headquarters while in that city. The club has recently issued for its members a road map of Southwestern Pennsylvania showing the condition of the roads.

As they both looked in 1862. Mr. Rush, the man who plans to bridge San Francisco Bay, is now perfecting an amphibious engine of war as an outgrowth of the Civil War idea. He expects to offer the invention to one of the embroiled nations of Europe.

Weekly Excursion on Board a Motor Truck.

The delights of the summer camp of the Young Women's Christian Association, located in the San Bernardino Mountains, near Old Baldy, are being enjoyed by a large number of girls under the care of Miss Ludema Sayre, Miss Ella Lounsberry, two of the association secretaries. The site of the camp is ideal in every way and has been improved just enough to furnish accommodations for the girls without marring the wildness of the surroundings. Between thirty and forty girls go in each party, remain a week, and are relieved by another party. They go and come in a large motor truck, the two parties meeting two miles from the camp and exchanging places.

Every Saturday afternoon the big truck may be seen at the association building at Third and Hill streets, taking on its precious burden of sweet girlhood, gathered from offices, shops and stores, and the hilarity of the ride of fifty-six miles can be better imagined than described. The entire route, with the exception of the two miles mentioned, is over the splendid county highways, almost equal to the streets of the city, and it has been thought best to have the girls take this short hike, both for their enjoyment and for their health. Their appreciation of the comforts of the camp is vastly increased by the walk.

The dining-room is a cleared space in the midst of the trees, where permanent tables have been erected sufficient to seat from forty to fifty persons, and another space has been fitted up for a library, but these conveniences only contribute to the pleasure during short hours in the day and evening. The real enjoyment comes with trout fishing and excursions through the mountains during the day and around the camp fire in the evening, with games, stories, songs and folk dancing.

Much interest is taken in botany and an every-night incident is the gathering around the table in the library, where the girls compare and classify their specimens, arranging them in collections.

Entertainments are also given in the evening to keep up the interest and for improvement as well. Last week the party gave a performance entitled "The Awakening of the Mortals," under the direction of Miss Lounsberry. Forty girls took part in the cast of nymphs, elves, sprites, flowers and butterflies. The pageant proved a great treat to an audience of forty or more people, who were invited from Camp Baldy and other camps near by, the girls performing their roles with much talent and enthusiasm.

The month of July will end the stay of the junior girls in the camp, and August will be the season for the older girls, under the chaperonage of Miss Ella Stevers. Girls must register about one week in advance.

KNOWS VALUE OF "PRINTERS' INK."

BULLOCK'S TAKES RECORD-BREAKING "AD" IN TODAY'S TIMES FOR BIG SALE.

Bullock's knows the value of advertising in the paper that reaches the people. An almost unprecedented feature appears in this issue of The Times (Part III,) where Bullock's has taken six full pages to announce the "Eighth Clearance Sale," which begins tomorrow and continues through August. A colossal and almost unprecedented "ad" of its class!

Among the articles which the "live wire" firm offers for special attention are 20,000 yards of cotton [illegible]; 1650 yards of laces; kid gloves; silks—all kinds, and at a variety of prices; shoes and corsets and [illegible] and ribbons; rugs and furniture and draperies; boys' clothing and women's apparel; ostrich plumes, and [illegible], suits and coats and hats.

It is a remarkable advertisement and one that any newspaper or any firm might well be proud to have.

Mining Man's Prescription.

TO CURE STRINGENCY, DIG OUT MORE GOLD.

"THERE is a practical way to relieve the financial stringency in the country and that is to dig more gold out of the ground," declared Frank Fielding, well-known mining expert, yesterday. "This is exactly what is happening.

"Now that the banks have the money bottled up the owners of gold mines have started in to obtain a new supply. I have just returned from a tour of the mining districts of the West and find that fifty gold mines have been opened in Nevada in the last four months. A number of gold mines have been reopened in California and Arizona in the same period. The beneficial results of this new activity are now becoming manifest.

Mr. Fielding was chief chemist and metallurgist for the Bonanza group of gold mines in Virginia City, Nev., for thirty-one years, during which time his friends declare he saw more gold than any other man, excepting only employees of government mints.

During Mr. Fielding's long term of service with the "Bonanza Kings"—J. W. Mackay, James G. Fair, J. C. Flood and William S. O'Brien and their successors—he handled $324,987,000 in gold bullion, on which dividends amounting to $85,000,000 were paid to stockholders.

Mr. Fielding's department had charge of the precious ore from twelve mines on the famous Comstock lode and operated seventeen stamp mills. An average of 2500 men were employed underground.

"We regarded an output of $125,000 in gold bullion as a regular day's work," Mr. Fielding continued. "We weighed gold by the ton and shoveled gold nuggets like men handle coal."

In 1887 D. O. Mills, the capitalist, brought Mr. Fielding to California to make a report on the marble quarries in Inyo county, at the north end of Owens Lake. He reported favorably on the marble and it was used in constructing the Mills building in San Francisco. The marble was taken from the mines to Reno, where it was sawed into "lumber" and then shipped to San Francisco.

Mr. Fielding is a native of Lancaster, O. He went to Marysville, this State, with his parents in 1858. From 1860 to 1867 he was a student in Oakland College, the forerunner of the University of California. Some of his classmates who afterward achieved fame were John Hays Hammond, Gov. Budd, Lieut.-Gov. Redding and Gardner F. Williams, superintendent of the Kimberly diamond mines for thirty years and at present professor of mining engineering at Columbia College, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielding came to Los Angeles in 1905, after he had resigned his position at Virginia City. They live at No. 108 North Grand avenue. Their son, Frank Fielding, Jr., is credit man for the Riverside Portland Cement Company.

The expert was connected with the University of Nevada long enough to earn the title of professor. When the institution was opened in 1886 he was elected professor of mining and metallurgy, but did not give up his work at the mines to accept the honor. He drew two months' pay from the university—$500—and gave it to the student body to invest in school equipment.

MEXICO AND HUERTA.

[The Argonaut:] It is idle to discuss what might have been done by Huerta if he had been given a free hand. There is nobody now in his relative position when the Washington administration undertook his destruction. Villa perhaps comes nearer than any other man to mastery of the situation. But he can succeed only by a long series of struggles, and if he should ultimately beat down all the others it would only be to establish in authority over an exhausted people a monster of cruelty, a creature congenitally incapable of maintaining orderly and just government.

In the end the United States will have to make peace in Mexico. Probably it will have to fight for it. Since the thing must ultimately be done it were better done promptly. To put off the event is only to palter with a grave problem and a grave duty at a further incalculable loss of life and property. If ever the work of a great country under its obligations to humanity was plainly cut out for it, we have it in the present relationship of the United States to Mexico. Our troops are already on Mexican soil, but not so placed or so instructed as to serve any good purpose. It is time to so place them and so instruct them as to serve the cause of peace. Our armies should be marched in force to the Mexican capital, the one from Vera Cruz, the other from El Paso. We ought now, as we ultimately must, to stay the hands of the native Mexican chieftains and by the forces alike of moral and of armed power to put a quietus upon the bloody and ruinous activities in prospect.

Gen. Huerta is indeed gone—gone with dignity and followed into his retirement by the world's respect. This in spite of the blots upon his record. It is impossible not to yield to this extraordinary, if not wholly admirable man, the consideration due to high resolution in the midst of difficulties, to courage under stress, and to an amazing self-poise under the grossest provocations. "The American President," said Gen. Huerta just before he sailed from Mexico, "has made me famous." Verily he has done just this. And he has done it at his own cost. When history shall sift out and sum up the acts and the qualities of the two men as exhibited in their relations to each other during the past year and a half it will emphatically accord to the stolid and self-controlled Mexican whatever of dignity, whatever of honor, whatever of manly grace may appear in the wretched record.

BRAVES FILIPINO, BUT A GIRL—WOW!

TAKES BASHFUL SOLDIER YEARS TO PROPOSE—MARRIED IN LOS ANGELES.

All this wouldn't have happened if Miss Violet I. Elbe hadn't been adventuresome and of a romantic nature, and tiring of entertaining audiences in this country with her dainty winsome manner, decided on a tour through the Orient for one of the theatrical agencies. But, as Kipling says, that would have been another story.

And then there was the other party—it takes two to make a tale—in the person of James A. Rigby, now in charge of the Philippine exhibit at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, who for twelve long years fought insurrectos and other troubles all over the island country.

Their first meeting took place on the island of Mindanao. He, with several soldier and constabulary companions, attended an entertainment in which she carried off the honors. Now, these boys had been warring for many weary months with the savages, fighting disease and making the best of conditions without a murmur, and the sight of a good theatrical show did them good.

Mr. Rigby turned to one of his comrades and said, "That's the girl for me," and pointed to Miss Elbe. His companion laughed and said, "Huh! You ain't got nerve enough to talk to her."

Not to be outdone, Mr. Rigby bribed an attendant to secure him an introduction to "the idol of his heart." He was introduced to the pretty little girl, but the cat had his tongue. He couldn't talk while in her presence. There wasn't a Filipino in the whole country that he was afraid of, but that girl — no, never! He promptly bolted. She laughed.

Their next meeting took place several months later on a steamship bound for San Francisco.

Again the cat had his tongue, but not quite so badly as the first time. He became lonely on the long trip over on the boat and used to feast his eyes for hours at a time on her as she promenaded about the decks or sat in a steamer chair. As they neared San Francisco, it appears, he really and truly spoke to her. She smiled.

In the Bay City they parted again, she coming to Los Angeles to fill an engagement.

A few days ago Mr. Rigby was called to this city on business. By chance he met Miss Elbe again.

This time he vowed by all the gods any Filipino ever dreamed of that he wouldn't be bashful any longer, that he would pay her assiduous court and that he would win her for his bride.

Yesterday luck was with him. He played his cards and laid down four aces and the joker. She accepted.

Practically the only friend they knew in Los Angeles was Police Surgeon Wiley. They called on him and the three of them proceeded to Justice Summerfield's office and there the ceremony was performed.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stahl,

Who were married last night. The bride was Edith Helen Osborne, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. H. Z. Osborne. The groom is a member of the State Highway engineering staff at Sacramento. They will make their home at the State capital.

SOCIETY GIRL WEDS ENGINEER.

Miss Edith Helen Osborne, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. H. Z. Osborne, and Samuel Stillman Stahl of Sacramento were married last night at the home of the bride's parents, No. 401 West Twenty-third street. Dr. Charles E. Locke of the First Methodist Church performed the ceremony.

At the same hour as the wedding in this city, Mr. Stahl's brother, Clark Stahl, was married to Miss Violet Egliberg in Oakland. In each instance the wedding date was set without knowledge of the date fixed by the other couple. So there will be virtually a double wedding though one be in Los Angeles and the other in Oakland.

Miss Edith Osborne is the only daughter of Capt. and Mrs. H. Z. Osborne, residents of this city and prominent in its affairs for thirty years. She is a graduate of the Los Angeles grammar and High School, the Marlborough School for Girls and of Stanford University. With a marked artistic talent, she studied under Henri in New York and with some of the best artists and portrait painters in this country. Some of her own work has been highly complimented by well-known art critics. Miss Osborne is a member of the Stanford Woman's Club and the College Women's Club.

Mr. Stahl is a graduate of Beloit College. He is engaged in the engineering profession in Sacramento, where he is assistant division engineer of State highways, Sacramento division. For several years he was connected with the United States Geological Survey. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stahl, are residents of Galena, Ill. The groom is a close friend of Clarence B. Osborne, State geologist for the Highway Commission, and it was while Miss Edith Osborne was visiting her brother a year ago in Sacramento that she met Mr. Stahl and formed the friendship that culminated in the marriage last night.

After the marriage the young couple will enjoy a honeymoon of two weeks in the northern part of the State and thereafter will make their home in Sacramento.

Miss Osborne's lifelong residence here has made her a host of friends who will regret her departure. Her father, Capt. H. Z. Osborne, at present a candidate for Congress, is a recent president of the Chamber of Commerce. Only the immediate members of the family were present.

COMPANIES MUST BEAR EXPENSE.

COMMISSION RULES ON SERVICE AND METER CHARGES IN WATER CASE.

Taking the stand that it is as much the duty of a water company to install service connection to the property line and the meter at its own expense as it is to build the wells, reservoirs and mains, the State Railroad Commission yesterday handed down a decision on the application of the Pasadena Consolidated Water Company for a ruling on the question of charges for connections.

"The general rule which this commission," says the decision, "has repeatedly applied and which it will continue to apply, unless special facts are shown or a contrary rule is established by the Supreme Court, is that the water company must make connections and install meters. A contrary rule would compel the users to donate part of its system to the water company or build it for it."

The decision stated, however, that all expenses incurred by a company in making such connections are properly chargeable to capital account and that such an allowance will be made in establishing rates.

The Pasadena Consolidated Water Company supplies water for domestic and irrigation purposes to a tract of about 1000 acres directly east of the city of Pasadena and has been charging $15 for each connection for a five-eighths-inch meter and $25 for a one-inch meter.

Monument to Icarus.

The proposal to erect a monument to aviation's first martyr, the legendary Icarus, at Candia in the Island of Crete, has been revived. The idea first originated with Henry Deutsch, the eminent pioneer of aviation in France, after a visit to Greece three years ago. The spot chosen is about the city of Candia, between the two promontories which dominate Kuossos.

There, according to the legend, stood the labyrinth where Daedalus and Icarus were imprisoned by Minos, the tyrant of Crete, and visitors are shown the workshop in which the two captives, to escape, made the first flying machine of birds' wings stuck together with wax. Now that Crete has become again Greek territory nothing stands in the way of the realization of the scheme, which would commemorate at once one of the greatest triumphs of modern science and one of the most graceful fables of ancient mythology.

An air race from Paris to Candia is being considered as a fitting complement of the inauguration ceremonies.

Perforated Coins.

The first of the new perforated nickel coins have just been struck at the Paris mint under the supervision of the designer, Henri Lindauer, and from now on no more copper money will be minted. The passing of the historical sou will, however, be slow. The new nickels will not be placed in circulation for several months, and then only in small quantities to replace the copper coins, which will be gradually withdrawn. Newspaper humorists are deriving much fun out of the hole in the middle of the new [illegible] pieces. It is asked whether they will be worn on a string 'round the neck, like Chinese "cash;" and if so whether a thoughtful government will provide the necessary string.

Belgian Alliance.

King Albert, during his recent visit to Switzerland, appears to have found a sympathetic reception of his idea for an economic and political alliance among the small states of Western Europe. He is so enthusiastic over the matter that he is actively at work in furtherance of the idea and hopes that eventually Holland, Denmark, Switzerland, Luxembourg, Sweden and Norway, may be brought together with Belgium in the alliance.

It is understood that King Albert [illegible] practicability in the suggested defensive alliance along military lines, as the countries concerned [illegible] separated geographically [illegible] in military forces even when collectively. But he believes that some understanding for commercial and economic [illegible] would be of advantage to offset commercial aggression practiced by some of the great powers.

The course which Germany has taken in cutting off Holland from the trade of Eastern Europe by the new canal connecting Emden with the Rhine is taken as one instance of such economic pressure. Holland is said to suffer particularly under the shadow of German rivalry.

King Albert also recently approached the government of Luxemburg with his proposal, but he has been informed that as the principality is a member of the German Customs Union it is not free to enter into any such arrangement with other

The assault was the outcome of a quarrel due to the jealousy of accused, who admitted that he was courting the widow. Stewart stated that on entering the shop and finding the complainant there he lost his temper, as the latter, he said, was his rival for the affections of the widow.

Burglar's Slumbers Disturbed.

The Maxwelltown police report a strange adventure. A constable observed that one of the windows of The Summit, belonging to Mrs. Sinclair, had been broken and examination showed that the house had been burgled while the owners were on holiday. The police found that one of the bedrooms was locked from the inside. The burglar was found inside the room. On getting into the house he had helped himself to refreshments and gone to bed, after collecting as many valuables as he could lay his hands on. The police disturbed his slumbers.

Mohammedan Congress.

The Mohammedan woman in the light of today was discussed at the Mohammedan Congress, which has been in session here, and her cause applauded when Akmud Kuramshin, a member of the first Duma, declared that without the education of women it would be quite impossible to effect progress among Mohammedans.

"If certain old Mullahs continue to proclaim from in the mosques that women have no need of education," he said, "they simply speak from ignorance."

The Akmud went so far as to say every woman over 21 years of age should have a vote on questions affecting the community at large. In regard to matrimony he contended that both parties should be asked before the marriage ceremony whether they were voluntarily entering into the contract. This, he said, would eventually put a stop to the idea that Mohammedan women were so many chattels.

The congress has been attended by over forty delegates from European and Asiatic Russia, and has been sitting in St. Petersburg, with the authorization of the Minister of the Interior. The meetings have reflected a strong determination among the Moslem subjects of Emperor Nicholas to uphold their religious, social and educational rights. The establishment in St. Petersburg of a centralized authority which should look after the interests of the Mohammedan religion throughout the Russian Empire was regarded by many speakers as an urgent need.

The party, numbering about thirty, were forced to wait in the pouring rain until another char-a-banc was secured, some three hours later.

Three Ministers in a Century.

A remarkable record in the ministry will be brought to a close by the retirement of the Rev. W. E. Winks, pastor of Bethany Baptist Chapel, Cardiff. The resignation will take effect on the first Sunday in October, and as Mr. Winks commenced his pastorate on a similar date in 1876, he has thus served the church for thirty-eight years. The Rev. W. "BETTER DEAD" IDEA ATTACKED.

Pupil of Eugenics Founder Scores Extremists.

Insists Pre-Natal Influences Are Most Important.

Urges Governmental Care of Maternity Cases.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LIVERPOOL, July 19.—The "better dead," or extreme school of eugenists, has been sharply attacked at a national "welfare of infancy" meeting here by Dr. C. W. Saleeby, a pupil of Francis Galton, the founder of eugenics. While heredity does bear on the problems of health, vitality and longevity, it is not, said the doctor, all essential and all important. Environment is quite as important. He accused those of the "better dead" school of blocking attempts to improve the conditions of human life on the ground that such attempts interfered with natural selection.

In fighting against the causes of infant mortality, Dr. Saleeby denied that natural selection was being interfered with.

SCORES CONDITIONS.

"Conditions initiated in the slums and public houses are not natural," he said. "They are hideously unnatural."

Eugenists of the extreme school were accused of forgetting the importance of nurture before birth, of prenatal influences due to environment. They assumed that it was simply a question of heredity from birth, when it has been proved that infections and the forces of malnutrition have been playing on the child for months before birth. The nurture of the mother is therefore just as important as if the child had been fed on gin and pickles after birth.

"There are no statistics and no arguments," declared the speaker, "as regards the relative importance of nature and nurture, which seem to recognize the fact that every one of us was alive, or should have been alive, at least nine months before we were born, and that nurture was playing upon heredity during the whole of that period with a degree of power which it will never be able to display at a later period."

Alcohol could be found in a baby born of a tippling mother, the speaker continued, but this was not heredity; it was racial poison working out as ante-natal malnutrition. It therefore followed that the nurture of the future parent was essential for real eugenics.

DR. SALEEBY'S RULES.

Dr. Saleeby, after criticising the biologists who spoke without any practical experience with either children or mothers, laid down the following proposals for the improvement of infant life:

(1.) All motherhood to be regarded as a first charge on the resources of a nation.

(2.) Government authority to look after maternity.

(3.) The handing over of all maternity cases, regardless of wealth or social conditions, to the public health authority.

(4.) The establishment of maternity centers, both pre-natal and post-natal, throughout the country.

"All this, Dr. Saleeby concluded, "is fundamental eugenics, and is far more easily feasible than any question of breeding for genius or of deciding who shall marry whom and who shall not marry whom."

EUGENICS IN HOLLAND.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 19.—While eugenics is still a matter of academic discussion among some progressive nations, the practical-minded Dutch are putting it to a test. E. B. Maxse, British Consul-General to the Netherlands, in his report, states that the committee for the study of public hygiene opened an office at The Hague during last year, at which a medical man attends daily to examine and give suitable advice to persons of both sexes intending to marry. The object is two-fold, to prevent the union of the unfit and to check race suicide.

MOST POWERFUL WARSHIP.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 19.—The Brazilian government has placed a contract with a British firm for a battleship to take the place of the one sold to Turkey and now known as the Sultan Osman. The new vessel will be the most powerful armor-clad warship in the world, and will greatly exceed in offensive power and defensive qualities any battleship at present afloat.

The total length will be 620 feet and the width ninety-four feet, while the tonnage will amount up to 30,500 tons. She will carry eight fifteen-inch guns, fourteen six-inch shells, ten four-inch guns and two torpedo tubes. On the main belt, barbettes and gun shields the protection will include 13½-inch armor.

In some of the latest British battleships now building, fifteen-inch guns will be mounted, but the stoutest armor today is only twelve inches thick.

One of the things worth seeing in the capital of Germany is the Fountain of Fairy Tales, a picture of which appears above. Berlin is the first city of Germany, the land of fairy tales, to commemorate the fairies in stone. The fountain was designed by Dr. Ludwig Hoffman. The beautiful monument has statues of all the familiar friends of children, no matter what language the children speak for the fairy tales of Germany have been translated into all languages. Included in the list of favorites are Cinderella, Little Red Riding Hood, Puss in Boots.

ANGLICAN CHURCH GIVES WOMEN VOTE.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 18.—Women members of the Anglican Church have been given the vote on equal terms with men in church affairs, and will also be admitted as lay representatives on parochial church councils, according to a decision reached at the annual meeting of the representative church council.

The vote was 188 to 90. Those for the change were twenty-two bishops, ninety clergy and seventy-six laity; those against, three bishops, fifteen clergy and seventy-two laity.

The militant suffragettes' reply to this concession was an attempt to break up the meeting and a demand that the council should drop all other business and devote its attention to securing the release of women who are undergoing imprisonment for burning churches and destroying art treasures.

The Dean of Conterbury was the most insistent opponent of the enfranchisement of women in church affairs. In the matter of public affairs he was entirely of the opinion of Pericles, "the less women said the better."

Another opening for women is to be discussed at the International Penitentiary Congress to be held in London next year. Leading authorities in the countries which are to send representatives to the congress have been asked to report on the policy of the employment of women in the services of the police and the influence on crime of the publication of objectionable matters by pictures or otherwise.

SALE OF BOOK PENAL OFFENSE.

Artist Sentenced for Anti-German Criticism.

Alsace-Lorraine Officials Object of Attack.

Work Appeals to Those in Sympathy With France.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERLIN, July 18.—Johann Jakob Waltz, an artist and caricaturist, has just been sentenced to one year's imprisonment by the Imperial Supreme Court for inciting class hatred and libeling public officials, particularly the gendarmes and school teachers of Alsace-Lorraine. The offenses were contained in a book entitled "My Village," which was published some months ago in France, but has been sold extensively in the Reichsland and other portions of Germany.

The case throws some light upon the existence among a part of the population of Alsace-Lorraine of hatred for Germany and to their ardent hope some day to be reunited to France. It also aids one to comprehend some of the administrative difficulties with which the government of the province has to contend, for Waltz, who writes under the pen name of Hansi, has been a mouthpiece of the Nationalists of the Reichsland, and there are many others of his stamp. Waltz had already published one book whose sale in Alsace-Lorraine was made a penal offense because of its anti-German tendency, and he is the author of hundreds of caricatures of Germans, German officials and institutions. Withal he is, as the name indicates, a born German, and he declared upon trial that he was not inimical to Germany. It was, he declared, merely the manner in which the Reichsland is administered that he was opposing.

Striking passages from the book, "My Village," which is written in French, were read before the court. Some of them follow:

"Even though we are humbled by the brutal law of the conquerors, it seems as if the acts of injustice against us are too heavy, that our sorrows are too great to make it possible that they should endure forever. In our ears ring ever the sacred charges of our fathers to demand our rights as Alsatians and Lorrainers and to remain members of the French nation. The gendarme makes an excursion with his family. The babe in the baby wagon wears a spiked Prussian helmet. Wherever the gendarme shows himself the children and the birds stop singing. The most beautiful festal day for the Alsatians is the national day of the French. Then they all make a trip to Nancy, and at night, when the gendarme sleeps, they return home. Their wagons bear French flags. The Alsatian village lies peaceful in the night. Far off one hears the cannons of a German fortress. It is the cannons of Bitsch. Our oppressors know that only steel can hold what they have won with steel. But the Alsatian, full of faith in France, hears also the echo of a French cannon, and says to himself: 'Over the border, too, they are keeping watch.'

"The German tourists go arrogantly through the village like parvenus, their noses high in the air, in order to make us forget whence they came. They complain unceasingly and are satisfied with nothing. They destroy the harmony of the landscape with their lack of taste."

Other passages praise the French tourists and declare that the Alsatian children instinctively love them. The children pledge each other not to join in cheers for the German Emperor, but only to open their mouths, so as to make the authorities think they are cheering. When loyal Germans, coming from some celebration in honor of the Emperor, go through the village cheering, the regal Alsatians have difficulty in preserving their equanimity. "Until late in the night these cheers for the Emperor are heard, sounding like the howls of wild beasts."

The court at Colmar, before which the prosecution of Waltz was begun, declared that "My Village" afforded sufficient basis for a prosecution for high treason. Therefore the case was sent to the Supreme Court, which alone has jurisdiction in such proceedings. The State's Attorney at Leipsic allowed the charge of high treason to fall, and the prosecution was had only for libel and incitement to class hatred.

The court granted Waltz three days in which to take farewell of his relatives. He promptly took farewell of Germany, and it is probable that he will not return. Doubtless this is exactly what the prosecution was hoping for, as it means the forfeiture of Waltz's bail of $6250, and that Germany will henceforth be rid of him.

LONDON, July 19.—The Prince of Wales and Prince Henry recently experienced all the thrills of the modern amusement park. Under the watchful eyes of the Duke and Duchess of Teck, Lord and Lady Shaftsbury, the Earl of Mar and Kellie and Lord Lonsdale, the royal youngsters navigated the "Witching Waves" and did the "Buffalo Dip," tried to stick on the "Whirlpool," mounted the jumping stairs of the "House of Troubles," shot down the "Great Ride," took a roll on the "Human Roulette," raced in the "Gee Whiz," shot the chutes, rode the scenic railway, and took a joy ride at "Crazy Curran's Motordrome."

Winks, who is the son of a Baptist minister, the Rev. J. F. Winks of Leicester, was born in January, 1842. Bethany is the oldest Nonconformist Church in Cardiff, having been founded in the year 1806, and during the last century there have been only three ministers.

No Clergyman at Funeral.

When a funeral party arrived at St. Tudno's Cemetery on Great Orme's Head, Llandudno, it was discovered that there was no clergyman in attendance to bury the dead. A visiting clergyman, who ascertained this, volunteered to officiate, and the interment was proceeded with. Ten minutes afterward, a parish clergyman arrived by taxicab.

Reopen Grave After Century.

A grave in the St. Tudno's churchyard, which had not been opened for 102 years, was opened on Tuesday for the burial of the late William Owen of Llandudno, aged 77. The previous burial was that of Hugh Evans, aged 82, on January 24, 1812.

IN IRELAND.

Disturbed Sleeper Fires Revolver.

At Dundrum Petty Sessions a young man named Robert Steenson, Annahaska, was fined 10s. for having discharged a revolver on the public road. Thomas Quigley stated that he was driving through Sandyford when he noticed defendant lying asleep in a cart. Witness got down and pulled him by the leg to wake him. Defendant sat up and said, "Are you a home-ruler?" [Laughter] And witness said, "What's that to do with you?" He then went to his own car and heard a shot. He saw the revolver in defendant's hand, but he evidently had pointed it to the ditch when he fired.

Overturned Motor Car.

Messrs. R. A. Hale, Banbridge; William Hale, Belfast, and Alexander Orr, Bangor, were the occupants of a motor car proceeding down Stranmillis road, Belfast, when something went wrong with the steering gear and the car overturned. All were injured, R. A. Hale having an arm broken.

Killed by Runaway Horse.

When Edward Tallon of Dysart, South Roscommon, was going home from the Athlone wool market his horse ran away and he was flung out of the car, his skull being fractured by the fall. He died in a few hours. His wife and daughter, who were with him, escaped uninjured.

Cheers for "Fenian King."

Cheers for the "Fenian King" was part of the disorderly conduct alleged against three young men in Donegal on the occasion of the passage of the third reading of the Home Rule Bill. Mr. Dunlevy, who defended, contended that there was not the slightest harm in the call. Each was fined 2s. 6d.

Kindness to Stricken Family.

An example of Catholic kindness to a Protestant neighbor in trouble has just come to light. While the wife, son, two daughters and three grandchildren of a Protestant farmer named James Jackson, living in the midst of a Catholic population at Aghalacka, Cavan, were stricken with fever, his Catholic neighbors, without giving him the slightest intimation of their intention, took their horses and carts to the bog and made a supply of turf for him.

Boy Repels a Bully.

A man who aggressively endeavored to force his way through the ranks of the Church-street Catholic boys' brigade when they were returning from their annual meeting at the Mansion House, Dublin, was pushed out of the ranks by one of the boys, whereupon he struck the lad on the jaw with his clenched fist. The lad struck back with such effect that the bully was knocked down. He picked himself up and slunk away, chaffed by the onlookers, who showed their admiration for the plucky action of the boy.

IN ENGLAND.

Sheep's Forty-Foot Leap.

A "Moor Jock" sheep—one of a race bred on the Whitby Moors, and noted for their almost goat-like agility—bolted from a drove being driven by road from Seamer to Filey, and led its pursuers at a hot pace across country to the Filey Brigg headland, where, after bounding down the cliff side to an overhanging hedge, it leaped clean down to the rocks forty feet below. Any other animal, in all probability, would have been instantly killed, but the "Moor Jock" landed on its feet apparently little the worse, though it would have been drowned by the incoming tide but for the presence of a salmon-fishing crew, who took the sheep on board, and conveyed it to the coble landing.

New Surrey Vicar.

The Rev. C. K. Watson of Sherborne has been appointed vicar of Thursley, Surrey.

Birmingham's Lord Mayor.

At a private meeting of the Birmingham City Council the nomination of Harrison Barrow for the Lord Mayoralty next November was unanimously agreed to.

On Prison Advisory Committee.

Arthur Andrews, J. P., C.C., has been appointed to the Advisory Committee of Camp Hill prison, Parkhurst, Isle of Wight, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sir Douglas Straight.

Fruitless Attempts at Rescue.

While bathing in a tributary to the Trent at Newark, William Cox, 25, sank. His companions dived in after him, but could not find him. The body was found later.

Well-Known Ship Owner Dead.

The death occurred at Cripland Court, Lindfield, Sussex, of Alexander Howden, the head of the London shipping company of that name. He was 50 years old.

Present to a Town.

D. H. Horsley, a Cheltenham auctioneer, has given six and one-half acres of land to the town, and has promised to erect a block of endowed cottage homes on a part of it, and to convert the remainder into a recreation ground.

Found Dying in Tent.

Color-Sergeant James Brown, the paymaster of the Fourth Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, who are encamped at Jamestown, was found lying in his tent with his throat cut. By his side was a blood-stained razor. It is not expected that he will recover.

Railway Station Gutted.

A serious fire broke out at Broadheath station, Cheshire, and considerable damage was done. The fire had obtained a firm hold when the firemen arrived, and the flames, fanned by the wind, quickly spread to the booking offices and waiting-rooms. The building burned fiercely for some time, and one side of the station was gutted. Traffic on the line was disorganized.

Dead in the Bathroom.

"Bad for the Coo."

The straying of a cow on to the Great Central Railway line caused the derailing of a goods train at Wadsley Bridge station, near Sheffield. The train going from Manchester ran into the animal and killed it, the force of the impact resulting in five wagons being thrown off the metals and one being overturned. The permanent way was torn up, and traffic was considerably delayed.

Scene on a Destroyer.

The Portsmouth magistrates ordered a week's remand in custody and medical examination in the case of Arthur Brown, a shipwright at Portsmouth dockyard, who is charged with attempting to murder Francis Young. The inspector of shipwrights alleged that Brown went aboard the destroyer Flint in the repairing basin and struck Young over the head with an angle iron. In attempting to push him into the water Brown fell in, and was rescued with difficulty. No motive was suggested.

IN GERMANY.

The Tip as a Wage.

Tips make up the sole wage of the unskilled employees of more than 60 per cent. of 706 German hotels, according to an investigation just completed by the Association of Hotel Servants. The highest wage paid is $11 monthly, and the total expenditures required of the employees more than equal their fixed wage. Only 9.5 per cent. of the servants in the hotels investigated have less than 100 hours of work weekly, while 42 per cent. work from 100 to 112 hours, and 8 per cent. have at least eighteen hours' work a day. Twelve per cent. have no day of rest whatever, and less than half have three half-days in the month.

When Virus is Pure.

The anti-vaccinationists are about to lose their strongest argument. Their most telling objection against vaccination has long been that it was impossible to get absolutely pure vaccine matter; notwithstanding the greatest precautions, like the use of calves kept under specially sanitary conditions, the lymph obtained would not infrequently contain deleterious germs. According to the German Medical Weekly, however, a way has at last been found for sterilizing lymph so thoroughly that its purity can always be relied upon. This has been accomplished by Prof. E. Friedberger and Dr. E. Mironescu, who have availed themselves of the well-known principle that the ultra-violet rays of light are destructive to bacterial life. The virus is put into small tubes of quartz glass, which are then exposed to the ultra-violet rays from an electric lamp. In twenty or thirty minutes there is not a live germ left in them.

Germans Praise "Bird" Symphony.

Edgar Stillman Kelley's "New England Symphony" was accorded an enthusiastic reception in Berlin, and the German press seems at a loss for words to express their tributes. The andante of the composition is evolved entirely from the songs of New England birds, treated symphonically. At the Altenburg festival the reception accorded the rendition was a flattering tribute to American creative genius.

The piece is probably one of the most ambitious and apparently one of the most successful musical works ever penned by an American. It had its first rendition about a year ago at Norfolk, Ct.

The Neueste Nachrichten says: "Mr. Kelley's endeavor to present New England characteristics in his new symphony is exceptionally successful. Led by the composer, the work had an enthusiastic reception."

The Vossische Zeitung speaks of the piece as the chief event of the festival. "It made the strongest possible impression," says the Zeitung, "and represented the festival's most important contribution to art."

The Berlin Signale took a whole page to analyze the piece, and concluded its eulogy by saying: "The symphony is a product of strict puritanism, of which the composer himself is a descendant. It is compelling in its logic, brilliant in structure, and well elaborated. It is a national product of American intelligence, which succeeded in arousing German enthusiasm also. The brilliant performance of it under the composer's own direction was a brilliant climax of the Altenburg festival."

British Fleet Leaves Under Sealed Orders; Hongkong to Be Made Naval Base in China.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

PEKING, July 31.—The British fleet today deserted Wei Hei Wei and sailed at mid-day with sealed orders, thus fulfilling its long standing orders. The British considered the place not worth defending.

Hongkong is to be made the British naval base in Chinese waters and in case of war the German possession of Tsing Tau is to be blockaded. Wei Hei Wei has no fortifications, while Tsing Tau is fortified on both the land and sea sides. The Germans believe the fortifications will afford them ample protection.

The British battleship Triumph today took on her war stores and is prepared for action.

AUSTRIAN HEIR IS POPULAR.

ROYAL COUPLE IN HUNGARY ENDEAR THEMSELVES TO THEIR SUBJECTS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BUDAPEST (Hungary) July 19.—While the new heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, the Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, is not so well-known in Hungary as in Austria, his popularity has been spreading with the telling of numerous anecdotes illustrative of his democratic simplicity.

The story of his honeymoon, which came with his marriage to the Princess Zita of Parma in 1911, has it that from Warholtz Castle the young couple journeyed regularly to the village to see the moving-picture shows. When the films lost their novelty they ordered new reels for the proprietor.

Again, while in Possony, the ancient coronation city of Hungary, the royal couple entered a barber shop to buy a comb. They were recognized by three officers being shaved, who jumped from their chairs and saluted with lathered faces, to the astonishment of the barbers.

The Archduke's sympathy for Hungary is well-known, and both he and his Princess speak the Hungarian language well. It is said the new heir and his consort have chosen the magnificent royal palace at Buda as their abode, and this is admirably situated for bettering the relations between the Austrian and Servian peoples.

GUTTER BABIES SEEM TO THRIVE.

CHILDREN OF SLUMS IMMUNE TO ORDINARY DISEASES.

Report of London Health Officer Declares That Infants in Poor Environments Seem to Have Stronger Constitutions Than Those of the Upper Classes.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 19.—Gutter babies are immune to ordinary diseases and thrive under conditions that would be the death to other children, said Dr. Thomas, health officer for the Finsbury district in his annual report, just published. Dr. Thomas works in the most congested of the London boroughs, where 6000 families live and sleep in 6000 rooms.

"Some of these babies," he says, "as soon as or even before they are able to crawl, are placed on the sidewalks early in the day, to be watched or nursed by a girl of 4 or 5 years. They are true gutter children. Sometimes the immature nurse falls asleep, wearied by her task, and the baby crawls to the other side of the road, heedless of traffic. Both are filthy and gutter stained. But they seem to live. In fact, the stock from which they have sprung rises superior to the ordinary diseases of childhood."

Among the cases reported are these:

A baby four months old was given a piece of raw fat and bacon to chew, because its grandmother said bacon was good for babies and canaries.

One baby was dosed with stout and aniseed by the mother, as a cure for colic.

Another baby of nine weeks was fed chiefly on weak tea.

FOR A MADRID UNIVERSITY.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

MADRID, July 19.—The creation of a Spanish-American University in Madrid has been decided on by unanimous vote of the Council of Education at a meeting presided over by Senor Gonzalez Besada. Both King Alfonso and the government attach much importance to this project and are resolved to do all in their power to make it a great instrument for the development of educational and intellectual relations between Spain and the South American republics. Pending the opening of the new university, a chair of the History Institutions of Moral and Political Spanish America has been founded, attached to the law faculty of Madrid University.

FOSSILS ARE PLEISTOCENE.

Lion's Leg and Mammoth's Hip Found Under Fleet Street, London, Are Placed Geologically.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 18.—Authorities at the South Kensington Museum of Natural History have determined that the fossil bones of a lion's leg and of a mammoth's hip which were recently discovered thirty-five feet below the surface of Fleet street belong to the Pleistocene period. These prehistoric relics were found within thirty yards of the spot where the skull of a woolly rhinoceros, bones of the reindeer and of the extinct great ox and horse were found several years ago.

It is common enough to find Roman relics when excavating in the center, or "city," of London, but fossils of the Pleistocene age are so rare as to be of striking interest to the geologists. F. E. Beddard, F.R.S., answers the question as to how these animals made their way into the British Isles.

"During the period of the earth's history which saw these great beasts grazing on the plains of Northern Europe and Asia," he said, "England was not divorced from the continent, and the Thames flowed on to join the Rhine."

ONLY WOMAN CABBY.

Mrs. Bull Holds License as a Cab Driver on Isle of Wight and Is on Duty Every Day.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 18.—England, according to census returns just published, has but one woman cab driver. She has held a license for twenty-six years and can be seen every day outside Bembridge station, Isle of Wight. The holder of this license bears the truly British name of Mrs. John Bull. Her uniform consists of a neat blue skirt and coat and a hard bowler hat. For funerals and weddings she assumes the added dignity of a top hat.

Mrs. Bull started with a pony and gig, and from the earnings of that provided herself with a horse and smart landau. It is her boast that she grooms her own horse and can harness him and be in attendance at any residence in the parish within ten minutes of receiving orders. Mrs. Bull gained her knowledge of horses while in the service of Sir Donald Currie, and afterward on a ranch in Texas.

With the business of cab proprietor she combines that of pig breeding, and may frequently be seen taking stock to Newport market. She attends market personally and strikes her own bargains with the dealers.

AN UNPRECEDENTED number of social functions, for the present season, have been engaging the attention of all social circles during the past week. Quite the largest was the miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Fred Kingman and daughter, Ruth, Tuesday afternoon, honoring Bride-elect Miss Nina Sedgwick, whose marriage to Lionel M. was announced for August 11. The home was done in quantities of flowers, the honoree's native State flower, which were gracefully arranged in the attractive rooms. On the lawn, under a canopy formed of crepe garlands, shaded by beautiful umbrella trees, the guests enjoyed the hospitality of the charming hostesses. A unique souvenir, a biography of the bride-elect and groom, formed the chief entertainment. The yellow and white motif was noted in all the appointments of the delicious summer menu which was served from small tables with snowy linen and centerpieces of bouquets of sunflowers. Misses Gladys and Lois Livingston, Claire Taylor and Mildred Kingman assisted. Forty guests responded to the invitation.

Nearly twenty-five congenial young folk did honor to the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Grames Wednesday evening. The affair was a complete surprise upon the latter, having been successfully planned by her husband. Games and music occupied the hours until the daintiest of summer refreshments were served. A handsome cut-glass bowl was left by the guests in memory of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Harriet Foster entertained Monday evening with a family dinner of eight covers. Fragrant carnations adorned the table.

A pretty postnuptial courtesy was shown Mrs. Irvin Johnson Wednesday afternoon when she was tendered a towel shower, Miss Amanda Tinkler entertaining at her pleasant home in honor of her nephew's bride. After greetings and good wishes were extended the honoree the congenial company was invited to the cooler atmosphere of the shady lawn, where the jolliest time was spent preparing a clever souvenir book, and most delicious refreshments were served. The hostess was assisted by her sister, Mrs. C. N. Johnson, Misses Fay Cox and Elizabeth Johnson.

San Bernardino.

INVITATIONS for an interesting double wedding have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Bentien of No. 150 East Ninth street, the event to occur at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of August 12, when a small company of relatives and intimate friends will witness the ceremony joining Miss Buerte Bentien of Los Angeles to Frank H. Capps, also of the Angel City, and Miss Clara Bentien to Orlo B. Hull of this city. Following the wedding, both couples will spend some time at Catalina Island. Mr. and Mrs. Capps will reside at Los Angeles while Mr. and Mrs. Hull have selected Long Beach as their future home, the groom-to-be having been tendered a position in the manual training department of the beach city high school.

Romance started years ago in "old Mississippi," when the two principals were boy and girl playmates, culminated here this week in the marriage of Miss Madge Shaw Cahill and Edgar Wiser Kennedy of Water Valley, Miss., by Rev. Arthur Polk Brown of the First Baptist Church at the parsonage at Eighth and D streets Monday evening. After spending a few weeks at the beaches and visiting with her old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Dickson, the couple will return to Mississippi, where the groom is an engineer for a southern railroad.

As his business partner, Leonard H. Wilson, was returning from the East with his bride, formerly Miss Christine Brennan of Memphis, Tenn., Hugh McKeon was marrying Miss Grace Mott at the parochial home of Rev. Father John Brady of the Catholic Church, and it was a double surprise when the two couples met at the station. Mrs. McKeon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Mott of this city and a graduate of the 1914 class in the San Bernardino High School. The two young business men are proprietors of a music house here.

Tustin.

OPENING her beautiful new bungalow home on South Broadway, Mrs. Roland Stearns recently delightfully entertained the N. C. Embroidery Club. The affair was practically a house-warming and the lovely rooms were daintily decked with flowers for the occasion. Each room had a color scheme of its own, the living-room being gay in red and white blossoms, while delicate yellow was used in the dining-room, with the den in pink. The ladies took their needlework with them, but so many highly amusing pastimes were introduced that the sewing was abandoned and the hours given up to having a purely good time. The daintiest of refreshments concluded one of the happiest times yet enjoyed by this club, which was but lately organized. The members present besides the hostess were Mmes. Weisman, Roberson, Kaiser, Rudolph, Arthur Day, W. M. Stearns, Byron Johnson, Miss Leach and Miss Sweet. Mrs. John Dryer, Mrs. McConal and Mrs. Doyle were guests of the club.

Particularly interesting was the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Coreopsis Embroidery Club, the ladies assembling at the new and attractive bungalow home of Mrs. C. A. Art. Nothing is more delightful to the feminine heart than to go on a tour of inspection of a new house, especially when the furnishings are also new and tasteful to a degree satisfying artistic standards. The dainty pieces of embroidery over which the ladies were presumed to busy themselves took a secondary place in the "day's work." To enhance the beauty of the spacious living and dining-rooms pink carnations were used in bowls and vases. When the fancy work finally received recognition the ladies were entertained as they sewed by charmingly played piano numbers from Miss Eva Stearns and Mrs. Fenlon Matthews. Punch was served throughout the afternoon and later ice cream was temptingly served with delicious cake. Those sharing the good time were Mmes. H. E. Matthews, Ann Schwartz, Jack King, Roy Bunnells, J. S. House, William Collar, Frank Stearns, J. A. Phinney, Dudley Kaiser; Misses Eva and Gladys Stearns.

A Spanish dinner was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lambert recently by a number of their friends, the Lambert home being the scene of the courtesy. The dinner was in the nature of a barbecue in miniature, and all the dishes were prepared in Spanish style, varied only by the dessert of ices and cakes. Besides the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, those for whom places were served were Miss Amelia Gonzales, Miss Stella Friend, Miss Aroya Daniels, Hazel Wiley, Marcella Gonzales, Constance and Angelina Estrada, Lizzie Wiley, Ida and Bertha Wiley, Messrs. and Mesdames Friend and Estrada.

A charmingly pretty al fresco affair was a luncheon enjoyed on Friday by the members of a sewing club of which Mrs. Hugh Plumb, who acted as hostess for the occasion, is a member. The beautifully appointed table was set in a rose arbor set in the midst of a verdant lawn at the attractive country home of Mrs. Plumb's grandfather, P. T. Adams. The menu of the luncheon was a composite, each guest having contributed a share, an Epicurean feast resulting. At the table were Mrs. Plumb, Mrs. Edward Nelson, Mrs. Cecil Dubois, Mrs. Hayes Fleming Keith, Mrs. Roy Paterson, Mrs. Victor Hawkes, Miss Marvel Baker, Miss Elsie Parker, Miss Irene Beatty, Miss Kate Lutz, Miss Verna Peterson, Miss Ethel Roper, Miss Bernice Roper. An afternoon of needlework and conversation followed the charming luncheon.

Claremont.

THE wedding nuptials of Miss Clara Elizabeth Fairchild of this city and Carlton Henry Shewman of Pomona were celebrated in the parish-house at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. After the guests had assembled, the soft strains of "Traeumerei" were heard, played on the church organ by Miss Marguerite Parsons. Just before the appearance of the bridal party the music was changed to that of Lohengrin's Wedding March. Heading the bridal procession came the bridesmaids, Misses Helen Bacon, Gertrude Bacon, Margaret Moles, Katherine Caldwell, Mrs. Robert Spurgeon and Florence Case, who carried graceful chains of plumosis fern. Little Elizabeth Marsh, a niece of the bride, strewed the way with flower petals before the matron of honor, Mrs. Paul Marsh of Pomona, the bride's sister and the bride upon the arm of her brother, Paul Marsh. Gowned in soft white silk trimmed with shadow lace and pearls, and carrying a bouquet of white carnations and ferns, the bride met her betrothed, who was attended by Julian Brannan of South Pasadena, under a bower of mountain brakis and feathery plumosis. The couple were united in marriage by Rev. Philip Smead Bird, and after the dainty wedding breakfast, and congratulations had been received, they left for a short wedding trip by auto, after which the couple expect to live at Chino, where Mr. Shewman has prepared a home for his bride. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. C. Fairchild and graduated from the Pomona College Preparatory in 1910.

Davenport. The event also complimented E. K. Kaai, chief musician of the Hawaiian Islands, who was a week-end guest at the home, and whose renderment of native songs and music during the evening was a novel treat.

In the appointments of the immense circular table that seated the guest company a yellow note was used, coreopsis blooms nodding over a mirror lake and yellow tulle bows adorning the handles of the white crochet nut baskets. Candelabra supporting yellow tapers added to the

A Brief Story of Absorbing Interest to Food Manufacturers

How a New Food Product Which Was an Apparent Failure Has Been Made a Big Success at an Expense of a few Hundred Dollars for Advertising in

The—

New York Globe

A MAN who had had several years' experience as traveling salesman and in other capacities for one of the largest concerns doing business with the grocery trade all over the country years ago decided that there was not the sort of future he desired with the large corporation and that he would start in business for himself.

He raised the necessary amount of money to equip a modest little factory and started making and selling ordinary cheap crackers. He built up a fair business, but after nearly four years of it decided that, if he was ever going to establish such a business as he wanted, he must specialize and get up a line of meritorious goods for which he could create a demand.

In January, 1914, he brought out a real whole wheat biscuit which he named "Wheatsworth" and started to introduce it on the market by the usual jobber, dealer, and consumer route. He first consulted the jobbers, who forced him to name a price far below the line of safety before they would deign to put out the goods or undertake to fill the orders of the trade.

The manufacturer stood the gaff, as most other manufacturers do, and started supplying a limited quantity of the goods to the jobber, who calmly placed them in stock until such time as the dealers demanded supplies. The jobber did nothing to stimulate the sale of the goods. One jobber sold fifty dozen in January, 150 dozen in February, 200 dozen in March, and seventy dozen in April, and the manufacturer very naturally was discouraged.

Carefully watching the food market, the manufacturer discovered that he was up against a system which would apparently force him to give up this wonderfully valuable article of food, and in desperation and as a final test decided to advertise it in The Globe's "Pure Food Directory" after Mr. McCann had examined it and approved of it.

"Wheatsworth" Biscuit, being found strictly as represented, was admitted to the "Pure Food Directory" and was announced to Globe readers as a certified food on April 18th. In less than three months it has been developed into one of the successes of the present-day local food world. Globe readers, everywhere demanding it, produced a direct consumer demand which has compelled well over two thousand grocers to carry it in stock.

"Wheatsworth" Biscuit was given no other publicity than that of The Globe. It is not handled by jobbers in the ordinary way, but is sold direct to grocers. It allows a liberal margin of profit to the dealer, pays a fair profit to the manufacturer and permits him to pay fair wages and buy the best grade of raw material on the market.

From a standing start, "Wheatsworth" Biscuit has been developed to a volume of business which is compelling its manufacturers to plan a new and much larger factory. They are working their force to the limit and have dropped several ordinary cracker lines that the facilities of the plant may be devoted to meeting the demand for Wheatsworth.

This story of "Wheatsworth" Biscuit is a simple statement of fact without any exaggeration or coloring, as F. H. Bennett Biscuit Company will gladly prove to any one entitled to the information. To say that F. H. Bennett Biscuit Company are surprised and more than satisfied with the results would be putting it very mildly. Their experience is the same as that of other manufacturers of pure and honest foods which are of quality entitling them to listing in The Globe's "Pure Food Directory" and to certification by Mr. McCann.

Simple Home Remedy for Wrinkled Faces

Thousands are spending fortunes in frantic efforts to remove the signs of premature age from their faces. Such women willingly pay almost any amount of money for worthless wrinkle removers, of which there are many.

If they only knew it, the most effective remedy imaginable is a simple, harmless face wash which can be made up at home in less than a minute. They have only to get an ounce of powdered saxolite and half a pint of witch hazel at the drug store and mix the two. Apply this daily as a refreshing lotion. The effect is almost magical. Even after the first treatment a marked improvement is noticed and the face has a smug, firm feeling that is most pleasing.

"CONQUEST OF THE TROPICS."

Frederick Upham Adams Tells of the Wonderful Advantages in Developments of the Tropics on This Hemisphere and Shows How Americans Are Failing to Use Opportunities.

[The opening chapter of the "Conquest of the Tropics," (the first of series of books dealing with the history of big businesses and which tells of the development of the United Fruit Company) presents to the notice of the people of the United States a condition that should be recognized and acted upon. The book itself is an unbiased, interesting, and constructive history of the greatest of the fruit companies, which has gone into the tropics of this hemisphere, reclaimed land, built railroads, established hospitals, hotels, built a steamship line all for the purpose of furnishing tropical fruit—principally bananas—for the markets of the United States. In his first chapter the author, Frederick Upham Adams, shows how unprofitably Americans have lagged behind in taking advantage of the tropical conditions. Through the courtesy of the publishers, Doubleday, Page & Company, New York, a large part of the first chapter is reproduced.]

IT IS a peculiar and mysterious trait of a considerable portion of the people of the United States that they know little and seem to care little about their national neighbors in the tropical south. This is a regrettable, expensive, and inexcusable fault. Our insular indifference concerning the sentiments, problems, and aspirations of the southern peoples on this continent is construed by them to imply contempt. This has engendered in most Latin America a feeling of resentment, suspicion and unfriendliness toward the United States. It certainly is not an asset to acquire and retain the ill-will of those who should be allied with us in ties of friendly intercourse.

The plain truth of the matter is that we have over-cultivated and over-expressed an attitude of self-sufficiency. We are so sure that the United States is the greatest country in the world that we are inclined at times to act as if it were the only country in the world. Some of us are so narrow that we find it impossible to understand why a citizen of the United States cares to live or dares to invest a dollar outside of the confines of his native country. The broad spirit of initiative and enterprise recognizes no national lines.

All the world pours its wealth into London. Why? Because Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotchmen have had the bold spirit of enterprise which has impelled them to undertake the development of natural resources in every part of the habitable globe. And the protection of the British flag and the unanimous defensive spirit of the British people follow its adventurous sons wherever they may go. There is not a nation on earth, no matter how crude and insecure its form of government, whose executives do not know and respect the fact that the British Government stands ever ready to protect the lives and the properties of its subjects, no matter where they may be.

This is a splendid racial trait, a just and righteous national spirit. No nation is sufficient unto itself. We of the United States of America have great resources, we possess wonderfully varied products of the soil, but despite the boastings of the uninformed we cannot create from them all of the necessities which belong to modern civilization and which are at the easy command of commerce.

Contrast this situation with that of Great Britain. Possessed of only nominal natural advantages, the wonderful inhabitants of that nation have extended their rule over 4,500,000 square miles of tropics in a broad belt which circles the world. The flag of Great Britain floats over 325,000,000 tropical natives, and the seas are dotted with British ships which furnish tropical products to the world, and bring untold annual profits to her merchants.

Germany has reached out into the tropics in recent years and has accomplished commercial miracles. Her merchants, farmers, miners and engineers are in Africa, Asia, South America, Central America, Mexico and are scattered over the tropical islands of the Pacific. Millions of the surplus population of the German Empire are participating in the development of neglected tropical opportunities, and are adding immeasurably to the total productivity of this small earth of ours.

France is engaged in this work on a smaller scale. Within the memory of men who deny that they are old, the miracle has been accomplished of linking commercially the temperate and the tropical zones. Only a few decades ago the merchants who sent ships to the tropics with cargoes or for cargoes were classed as adventurers. It was not deemed legitimate trade, but a gamble. The man who made his residence in the tropics was regarded by his relatives and friends practically as one dead.

It has not yet dawned on our political leaders that our tropics are a great but unused asset. We are so accustomed to the careless or wilful destruction of forests and other of our own natural resources that it is a matter of slight interest to us whether our tropical neighbors make a specialty of anarchy or of productive peace. We will one day learn, as financiers already have learned at their bitter cost, that each civilized nation shares in the prosperity or distress of all other nations. We of the United States pay our share of the losses in the periods of lawlessness which blight Mexico and other tropical republics. The revolution, equally with the hurricane which destroys crops in the adjacent tropics, adds to the cost of living of the dwellers in every city, village and section in the United States. On the other hand, any enterprise or any statesmanship which increases the productivity of these tropical sections adds directly to the assets and welfare of all of the people of the United Our school-books and our histories dwell with pride on the records of the pioneers who braved the wilderness and paved the way of our empire from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Our national prosperity is founded largely on the achievements of those who risked their lives in the conquest of nature. These men did not stop at a river because it marked the then existing territorial limits of the United States. France and Spain were the owners of the domains which now constitute the great Middle West when the men from New England and from the Atlantic Coast colonies cut their paths through the solitude and laid the foundations of that galaxy of States which now contain more than half of the population of the United States.

These hardy men had not thought of adding to the territory of the United States. Opportunity caled them, and they heeded its invitation. We praise them in story and song, and teach our children that much of the glory of the republic is due to their conquest of the then Unknown West.

The instinct which lured them to plant the flag of progress in new fields still exists. The untilled plains of the Canadian Northwest have drawn from the United States hundreds of thousands of American farmers who unhesitatingly act on the principle that opportunity and enterprise halt not at national boundary lines. These men love their native country, but they obey the instinct which makes of some men, and the best of men, pioneers.

Mexico, Central America and the West Indies beckoned to others, and they responded. They dared to cast their lot amongst peoples who spake other tongues and fallowed customs strange to the Anglo-Saxon. It was inevitable that the American tropics should demand its quota of pioneers.

It would naturally be supposed that the government of the United States, the press, and the popular sentiment of the people would encourage all effort and applaud any movement looking to the development of the tropics. We have no tropics of our own.

Great Britain, Germany, France and other progressive nations were eager to undertake this work, but they realized that the proximity of the United States gave its citizens an overwhelming commercial and financial advantage. The world accepted it as a certainty that the United States would be swift and alert to complete the commercial and industrial conquest of the American tropics. There was no thought and no necessity for the annexation of territory, but the world assumed that the Monroe doctrine and the Panama Canal both implied that the United States was fully awake to the urgency of exerting every fair effort and using every legitimate influence to encourage its citizens to embrace this obvious and patriotic duty.

Every consideration, selfish and unselfish, political, commercial, social, economical, practical and sentimental, demanded that the government of the United States and its people should give loyal support and every possible encouragement to those of its citizens who were willing and able to undertake this task.

The reverse has happened. Successive administrations have treated the questions arising from our relations with our tropical neighbors in a manner calculated to convince them that we took slight interest either in their welfare or in that of the Americans who had cast their lot with them. No official in recent years has greatly distinguished himself in tropical affairs, and we are in sad need of men who will take sufficient interest in these questions to qualify as experts.

What has been the consequence of all this? There has been inculcated in the public mind an impression that the American who ventures into the tropics is either a fool or a knave. It has openly been affirmed by public men of influence that American citizens have no rights which tropical nations are bound to respect or our government obligated to protect. If an individual attains in the tropics a measure of success after great risks and hardships, and despite absolute lack of sympathy or support from his home government or his home people, he is likely to be rewarded with the insinuation that he has "exploited" the tropics and its natives.

It is high time that the sober, thoughtful and just majority of the American people called a halt on this discrimination against the pioneers in the development of the tropics bisected by the Panama Canal. The day has arrived when we have the choice of accepting and profiting by a legitimate opportunity, or of neglecting it and reaping thereby a harvest of misfortune and a loss of national prestige.

Saw Two of Them.

[Glasgow News:] Golfing stories threaten to become as notorious in their lack of veracity as fishing stories. The following story is going the round at Moffat: A particularly jovial party visited one of the local hotels one evening last week, saying that they would sample the links on the following day. During the evening they lived sumptuously, looking long upon the wine when it was red. In the morning, feeling rather poorly, they resolved that they would merely walk around the course, and engage in a game in the afternoon. They returned from their promenade feeling rather refreshed, but, after dinner, again partook too heartily of the "barley bree." They, however, sallied out afterwards to engage in the game. The leader of the party had his ball teed for him at the first tee, and was just addressing himself to strike, when suddenly he drew back with a look of utmost consternation on his face. "By Jove!" said he; "I never saw sic a thing as this before—stymied on the tee."

Promise Realized.

RICH LEGENDS OF CHEROKEES.

END OF A ONCE POWERFUL INDIAN TRIBE.

The Old Theory that They Were One of the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel Has Been Abandoned. Some of the Men Have Showed Great Learning.

[Dallas News:] With the passing of the Cherokee nation in Oklahoma, to be no longer known as an Indian tribal government, came the first full realization of a promise given by the United States to members of the five civilized tribes twenty years ago. This was when the Dawes Commission made overtures for an agreement with the Indians whereby they would take their lands in severalty to become citizens of the United States.

The tribes sent to Oklahoma from east of the Mississippi beginning in the '30s were classed as civilized to the extent they had ceased their warfare, erected governments founded on a rational basis and adopted customs more in keeping with the habits of the Caucasian. For many years the encroachment of white civilization in Southeastern States, hard pressed the Indian in the enjoyment of his community of landed interests, freedom in the hunt and fruition of traditions. A golden opportunity for vast possessions at little cost and without regard to whom it inconvenienced was an impelling force behind the white settlers' movement that ended in the Cherokees, the Creeks, the Seminoles, the Choctaws and the Chickasaws, comprising the civilized class of Indians, taking up the western trail. It was a mighty exodus that followed the course of the setting sun and left the Southeast free for the expanding population of another race.

FIRST TO SEE CHEROKEES.

DeSoto and his party probably were the first white people to meet the Cherokees. This was in 1540, but the tribe's relations with the Carolinas did not begin until a century and a half later. One of their earliest resistances was when they made war on the British, a quarrel they soon patched up, and after a treaty with the English crown joined the King's forces in the revolutionary war against the colonies. It was a disastrous alignment, because the conflict took another turn and resulted in the Cherokees being pushed westward to the Tennessee-Alabama line. A large part of the tribe grew weary of the constant encroachment of the whites, and shortly after 1800 migrated to what is now the State of Arkansas.

Removal of the Cherokees to what is now Oklahoma may be said to have resulted directly from the discovery of gold within their domain, near the present site of Dahlonega, Ga., in the early '30s. Immediately there sprung up two movements, one to bring the Cherokees under the State government, and the other, a more powerful agitation, to remove them West. The controversy was carried to the Supreme Court, which upheld the tribal autonomy. So persistent did the demand for removal then become that the tribe agreed through Chief John Ross to sell their holdings and go west of the Mississippi. A more obstreperous faction declined to abide by this and fled to mountains of North Carolina, where they were later formally settled upon a reservation. Recently a bill was offered in Congress directing that the status of this band be inquired into, with a view of determining whether it has ever participated in the tribal estates to the extent that it was entitled to.

MAIN BODY GOES WEST.

In 1838-39 the main body of Cherokees migrated west of the river. Many, still unwilling to leave their territory, were driven by an armed force commanded by Gen. Winfield Scott to the northern portion of Indian territory, which had been conceived to be an "Indian State," where no white population was intended. Once settled in the new country the tribe was given a strip of land containing 8,000,000 acres known as the "Cherokee Outlet," being a way to the western hunting grounds. This was eventually purchased from the tribe by the Federal government for $1.25 an acre, and opened for settlement as a part of Oklahoma Territory.

In the Cherokee nation the tribe established a new government based upon its Constitution of 1820, with Tahlequah as the capital, nestling in the Cherokee hills, and much of the nation's wealth and resources were devoted to the cause of education, a policy to which the historians ascribe the tribe's advancement and prosperity.

DIVIDED INTO TWO FACTIONS.

For years after removal the tribe was divided into two factions, being for and against the treaty made by John Ross for their transfer from east of the Mississippi. Hardly had their internal differences been adjusted when the Civil War came. As slave holders and sympathizers with southern people, they joined the Confederacy, another unfortunate step, for when the end of the war came they made a new treaty with the government (1866) by which they were readmitted to the protection of the United States, but were obliged to liberate their negro slaves and admit them into full tribal citizenship. Practical termination of the Cherokee Nation came in 1906 when the lands were divided, but the government was continued until midnight, June 30, of this year, which date the Interior Department fixed for dissolution of the tribal regime.

POWERFUL DETACHED TRIBE.

Formerly the Cherokees were a powerful detached tribe of the Iroquoian family, and held the whole mountain region of the Alleghenies in Southwestern Virginia, Western North Carolina and South Carolina, Northern Georgia, Eastern Tennessee and Northeastern Alabama. They also claimed territory to Ohio River.

Probably no one is more familiar with Cherokee history than Dr. Emmett Starr of Tahlequah, Okla. He has a library consisting of about 3000 volumes, pamphlets and documents touching the tribe, and in addition a great bulk of notes which are records of conversations held with the full-bloods in the Cherokee hills. Dr. Starr, who is a Cherokee by blood, encountered much difficulty in gathering the legendary matter in authentic shape. As an employee of the Dawes Commission he assisted in preparing the Cherokee rolls. The work took him into the forests and over mountain trails to the full-blood's hut, and, being familiar with the processes of encouraging the Indian to unlimber his tongue, as well as fortified by his blood connection with the tribe, he succeeded in securing from the most secretive information concerning the common history that had never been related away from the council grounds or the privacy of the family circle.

According to Dr. Starr, the word "Cherokee" is a contraction of two words of the dialect meaning "he takes fire." This emanated from belief that the Great Spirit gave to the tribe a sacred fire, with the admonition that it was to be kept perpetually burning. On the fire the priests were to offer sacrifices. Priests were originally recruited from one family. They were conjurers with mystic powers and awe-inspiring privileges. So long as thesacred fire was kept burning and retained as the common property success and prosperity of the Cherokees was believed to be without limit.

MONOPOLY OF PRIESTHOOD.

"It appears that the priests were not without obliquitous tendencies," Dr. Starr's history will relate, "as some of the more designing ones who watched over the holy blaze surreptitiously transferred it to a clear white stone, so the legend goes, and ever after that it could only be seen flashing in the conical crystals owned by the priests. That was the first monopoly controlled by their people that the Cherokees encountered. Every priest was supposed to have one of the crystals, and in its flashes claimed to be able to see the image of the present or portent of the future. Cherokees arose against the despotism of the priesthood. On account of the theft of the sacred fire, which had been the tribe's common property, and a gift from the Manitou, every priest and neophyte was executed, thus losing to the Cherokees practically all knowledge of their primal religious practices, that had been handed down verbally to the elect. Other priests sprung up, but between the period of reprisal referred to and coming of the Christian religion, their functions gradually became less."

The latter-day missionaries came among the tribe shortly after 1800, but there were evidences of the visit of missionaries in an earlier period. Catholics were among them at a very early date. It has long been a mystery where the various Indian tribes secured their general knowledge of biblical events. When the white men came among the Cherokees, more than 100 years ago, they found the Indian relating stories about the crucifixion, the story of Adam and Eve, the deluge, and other incidents related in Holy Writ. Dr. Starr accounts for this in the visits of the very early missionaries, who passed out before any one in touch with this or immediately preceding generations came on the scene.

PRIBER IS FIRST MISSIONARY.

One of the earliest missionaries and the person Dr. Starr believes left the Cherokees with many of the stories referred to, was Christian Priber, a Frenchman, who was with the tribe from 1736 to 1745. With the exception of this period the Cherokee's was always a pure democracy. At that time the tribe was in the Southeastern States, not far from the Atlantic Coast. Priber's religious tenet was Catholicism. Likely he flourished in France during the period of which Dumas wrote, for he professed distinctive monarchical ideas and devotion to a life at court with its decorum, embroidery and routine. Priber was a statesman of the Richelieu type. When he found the Cherokees applying their crude form of government he set about to reform it in line with his mother country. Pagan practices soon gave way to Christianity. False gods suffered defeat through his efforts and he raised the cross as a burning emblem of his teaching. The old head men were reduced to ranks. Instead Priber installed a government of King and Queen. Upon himself he bestowed the robes of Prime Minister, and this form of government continued until long after Priber left the tribe.

The missionary left the Cherokees with many biblical themes, among them the creation, the deluge, the crucifixion, Jacob's dream, all of which was preserved in a traditional way until other missionaries came among them 100 years later. They had their great Manitou, or supreme ruler, "up in the sky," with an understanding of it complete in essentials promising another and happier life. According to their belief, the first person created by the Manitou was an Indian. Varying shades or color or complexion were accounted for in climatic conditions. Their conception of the Garden of Eden was a beautifully pictured place wherein all dwelt in harmony until the woman talked to the serpent, resulting in the fall of both man and woman. For this infraction the Manitou put upon earth curses and annoyances which the people have since endured, and, ultimately, the Cherokee said, the unfaithful in the presence of these conditions would be forced to take residence in the "bad place" where torments were severe and never ending.

NOT ONE OF "LOST TRIBES."

The fact that many tribes had a smattering of biblical themes leads many historians to the belief that the Indian sprang from the ten lost tribes of Israel. The idea is scouted by many who have given the red man close study. Rather it is assumed that the Indian's first inkling of scriptural stories was absorbed from such teachers as Priber, who, on account of his learning and boldness, was looked upon as a mediator between the world of spirits and the sphere of man.

Probably the most illustrious Cherokee was Sequoyah, inventor of the Cherokee alphabet. Each letter represents a sound, making it impossible to misspell a word in Cherokee. When the Cadmus first presented his characters and told those of the tribe they were for the purpose of conversing at a distance, it was looked upon as some work of the evil spirit, and they would have nothing to do with it. At that time the main tribe was in the Southeast, and a small band in what is now Arkansas. Sequoyah, otherwise known as George Gist or Guess, schooled several members of the tribe for a practical test. The scholars went to Arkansas and there received a message from Sequoyah and answered it in writing. Then his work was accepted and endures among the tribal members to this day.

In 1843 Sequoyah left the tribe in Arkansas, where he had taken up permanent abode, to search for a lost band of Cherokees, presumably in the southwestern country. The ponies of the expedition wandered away during one night, and the next day Sequoyah went to hunt them. He never returned, nor could his body be found. Where this occurred has not been determined. Some think it was in Southwestern Oklahoma, others that it was in New Mexico.

A statue of Sequoyah will soon grace the Capitol building in Washington as one of Oklahoma's contributions to the Hall of Fame. Fitting also is it that to commemorate the memory of this intellectual giant, whose genius was native to the wild, scientists should have called the great redwood tree of California Sequoia gigantea.

Before the main body of the tribe reached Indian Territory, a part of the band that had settled in Arkansas went to Northeastern Texas, where they obtained a grant from the Mexican government, that having been before the Texas revolution. Later the Texas revolutionists refused to recognize their rights, and in spite of the efforts of Gen. Sam Houston, who had lived among them near Ft. Gibson, Indian Territory, and who defended their claim, a fight resulted and the Cherokees were driven from the republic. Cherokee county, Texas, takes its name from the once residence there of the Indians.

An Acrogenic Marriage.

[Christian Herald:] "Speaking of the S.O.S. signals," said the wireless operator, "reminds me of the matrimonial hurry call we had last spring.

"One night when the air was particularly quiet, we picked up a curious freak call. Sounded like some amateur's joke. The chap said he wanted a wife. Sort of a matrimonial S.O.S. We found it came from the operator of some out-of-the-way station down the New England coast. At the same time it was picked up by steamers and other stations, scores of them.

"Naturally a call like that was reported and got into the newspapers. It brought a lot of correspondence to the operator, of course. It appears the fellow was lonely, cut off from all society, and he simply took the simplest method of advertising his wants. He is married all right now, and his wife lives with him at the station.

SAILORS' LINGO.

Queer Phrases Used by Mariners Are Borrowed from Almost All Recognized Languages.

[London Tit Bits:] Practically every recognized language has been called upon at some time to help in building up the vocabulary of the sea.

"Davy Jones," for instance, might be taken to refer to some dead and gone Welshman, but the name is derived from quite another source. One should speak of "Duffy Jonah's locker," for that was the original "Duffy" being the West Indian name for a spirit or ghost, and "Jonah" referring to the prophet.

Another expression gradually corrupted out of its original form is the "dog watch." It was originally the "dodge watch," because it lasts only two hours, and was intended to insure that the same men shall not be on duty every day during the same hours.

The "jury mast" has nothing in common with the "twelve good men and true," except its derivation from the same French word "jour," meaning "one day." The jury mast is erected temporarily, "for a day," just as the jury, in its legal sense, meant a tribunal summoned for a short time.

The "sheet anchor," the largest anchor carried by a ship, should really be the "shote anchor," and is so called because of its great weight, which allows it to shoot out in cases of emergency.

"Port" is a comparatively new expression. In the old days they used to refer to "larboard" and "starboard." "Starboard" has nothing in common with the twinkling stars of the heavens; it is derived from the Anglo-Saxon "steerboard" or "steerside." In Viking times the galleys were steered by an oar, which the helmsman held with his right hand. "Larboard" was probably a corruption of "lower-board," the larboard side being inferior to the other.

The word "admiral" is Arabic, springing from "emil el bagh," or "lord of the sea." "Captain" comes from the Latin "caput," but "mate" is Icelandic, and means "companion" or "equal." "Coxswain" had a curious origin. The "coxswain" was a man who pulled the last oar in the captain's boat, which was described as the "cockboat." This, in turn, was a corruption of a small, round boat found on the rivers Usk and Wye, and known as a "coracle." Coxswain is therefore a Welsh name.

President Hadley.

[World's Work:] The way President Arthur Twining Hadley, according to Yale legend, asked his prospective father-in-law for permission to marry his daughter was characteristic. At the time, this gentleman, Luzon B. Morris, occupied an anomalous political position. He had recently been elected Governor of Connecticut, but his claim was disputed and the State was in a political turmoil.

"Mr. Morris," was the way Mr. Hadley approached the subject of his call, "I hope that I—at least—may be permitted—to call you 'governor.'"

MRS. NAPOLEON B. STONEROAD.

Widow of One of the Earliest Residents and Most Successful Stockmen of California and One of the Few Survivors of the Fist Immigration to the West in 1846.

Mrs. Napoleon Bonaparte Stoneroad.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—"To have lived eighty years is itself a great achievement," said Mrs. Stoneroad, "and I gratefully thank a kind heavenly Father. But I doubt that those who live to my age in the rounding out of the twentieth century will have as much to marvel at, as we who crossed the great plains in the forties and have seen the magic wand of progress waved over the wilderness. I was but 11 years of age when I accompanied my father from Santa Clara to what is now the city of San Francisco. It was a most uninviting spot, and it would have been a shrewd business eye indeed which saw the leveling of the sand dunes and the splendid city rising where the sad-looking sagebrush and dwarf pine was all that broke the desert waste. It was on that journey that city lots, most of them nearly a half acre in dimension, were offered my father, Gallant Duncan Dickinson, for $15 a piece. It was less than ten years later that these lots sold for thousands of dollars, so swift was the flight of San Francisco from obscurity to one of the world's mighty centers.

"I was born near Independence, Jackson county, Mo.," said this charming lady, settling back comfortably into her chair and looking softly out of deep, clear brown eyes as though she were sweeping away the clouds of time and getting right back to those thrilling days nearly seventy years removed from the present. "My father, whom I rejoice to say, is loved and honored in his California home as he was in the old home of Tennessee and later of Missouri, was a born roamer. He was reared in Virginia after being left an orphan at a tender age. As soon as he could shift for himself he returned to Murfreesboro, Tenn., where he had been born, and here he married my mother, who was Isabella McCreary, also of Murfreesboro. But he chafed at the confines of the South in those days and he was always looking towards the West and relating the better opportunities to be found there. So when three of my brothers and one sister had arrived and he found more need of larger effort, he persuaded my mother to journey northward to Missouri. He remained at Independence only a few years. It was the creative period of the West and tales of the glorious country beyond the mountains came to inflame the ambitious and to offer fortune for the effort. At least so it appealed to my father. Finally he decided to push his way to the other ocean, and a great caravansary made Independence, Mo., the rendezvous. My mother was gentle and quiet, reared in comparable comfort, considering the period and the scene of her early girlhood. But she had the fortitude of the pioneer woman and all the qualities needed to aid in such a project as now consumed the father.

"We set forth on the morning of May 6, 1846, more than forty wagons of immigrants and provisions. I recall the day so well, the tearful adieus of our friends and neighbors and the sad looks which my mother cast behind. It was indeed like putting out to sea in an open boat without chart or compass. It was October 20 before we reached our promised land, and when we finally pulled up at what was called Johnson's Ranch at the foot of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, we had been three days without food except what the gun brought down and what roots and fruits we found in the woods. Usually one family wagon was required for such a trip, or so my father had been told. He took two family wagons loaded to the limit with smoked beef, ham and bacon, sugar, coffee, tea, corn meal and flour, but so many had failed to take enough that soon he had to divide his second wagon with the needy. Forty wagons started out from Independence, but soon the necessity of dividing such a force became evident. Not enough forage could be procured for the stock, and there were many obvious reasons for dividing into smaller parties. My father took the direction of his party, and we all safely reached our haven.

"We traveled with oxen for the last four months of the journey. The impossibility of shoeing horses and their lack of endurance made my father trade what horses he took out of Missouri for cattle as soon as he reached the vast wilderness beyond La Platte River. I have often been asked what road we took, what guide we had, how we tracked the deep forest and mountain wilds. It seems now as though kind providence had us in special keeping. My father had read and reread the account of the first adventurer into the Golden West, Hastings. He had come almost as we had, only that he had, whenever possible, blazed trees to show us the general direction. Those who know anything of the topography of the country in the '40s will recall that there are measureless stretches where there were no trees to blaze and where we made our way by foot by the stars at night and sun rays by day. Many times we went hundreds of miles only to find impassable rivers or mountain fastnesses and then began the dreary journey back. Often the mountain passes were so steep that only by tying great trees to the back of the wagons could they be dragged down in safety. I amuse my grandchildren by telling them my most thrilling expérience. I was taken out of the wagon and placed on a hill to watch the safe descent of the vehicle. My father had cautioned me not to move and had carefully marked where I was and had promised to return at once and carry me over the precipice. He had gone but a few steps when a cry from me brought him bounding back, gun in hand, as always. A great panther cat was about to spring from an opposite ledge. A moment more and I should not have lived to tell these experiences.

"We journeyed as far every day as our strength permitted and at night a circle was made of the wagons and stock and the pallets. Men and children slept on the ground and the beds in the wagons were reserved for the mothers. My dear mother, tender and gently reared, fell a victim to typhoid pneumonia and for weeks her life was despaired of. I can recall the grief of my father and his anguish as we crept on over the awful roads and with no food whatever fit to give an invalid. It is in such trials that our souls get very near to God and I think with deep reverence of our fervent prayers around my mother's couch that she might be spared to us and live to see us enter our new home. These prayers were answered, for she lived many happy years in California and lived to see her husband honored and prosperous, her children happily married and prosperous too, and to fondle their children. Both she and my father were past 70 years before they went to their rest.

"It was more than six months after we started that we drew up to our first halt in California at Johnson's ranch. It was after October 2 that we regained the luxury of sleeping in a bed and of eating seated at a table with the usual accessories. Throughout the long trip we did not pass a town or city boasting even the crudest of hotels or lodging-houses.

"My father was an excellent business man and he determined not to be hasty about selecting the site of his future home. That winter of 1846 we spent in what is now quite near the pretty little city of Santa Clara. San Jose was already established and it became our headquarters when we wished to shop or to be very gay and neighborly. My father became connected with many cities of California. For instance, my sister was the second white girl to be married in what is now the flourishing city of Stockton. Her name was Margaret Elizabeth Dickinson and she was married in 1849 to Amos Giles Lawry. My marriage to Charles S. Peck in 1850 was the third in the immigrant population. My sister's daughter was born in 1850 and she always claimed the distinction of being the first child of Anglo-Saxon parents born there. She is now Mrs. Hill, wife of the editor of the Index at Salinas. Since all the old history has been so carefully gotten together to celebrate the Panama Exposition, a claimant for being the first child born in Stockton has come up against my niece, Mrs. Hill. I recall an infant, but our traditions were that it had been born elsewhere and brought to Stockton when very young.

"My father erected the first hotel in Stockton and he also erected and gave to the congregation the first church there of the Methodist faith. When we arrived we found, of course, a fair civilization emanating from the Franciscan padres and from the early Spanish settlers. There were some charming, refined people already living in San Jose, not many but enough to give my mother the kind of associates to which her birth and rearing entitled her. I remember our first winter—there were many skirmishes between the settlers of Anglo-Saxon blood and the Mexicans. The war was theoretically over but we fought for a whole year after in California. There was an early settler, Capt. Webber, well drilled in military tactics, and he organized a defensive column of which my elder brother, James Johnston Dickinson, was a member. There were many skirmishes but presently, the Americans and Mexicans forgot their feuds and lived on the most amicable terms together. I recall that same year an event which figures in our local history as of paramount importance just now, namely that of the coming of the first American man-of-war which ever floated in the lovely waters of San Francisco harbor. It was the Columbia and came from New York, having doubled the Horn and met with many adventures and a few disasters on the way. Our whole Coast turned out to honor the gallant ship and her officers, and some of these latter found bonny brides in the far West. It was during the gold craze that life became so varied and that we realized how little distance counts in the world. The gold craze brought its hordes of adventurers but to me it meant an enlargement of vision not realized now. So many colleges were affected that some of them were nearly depopulated. These students were charming youths, well bred and well read, and my mother was such a kind friend to them. Many brought dress goods and dainty novelties from New York, and sold them to help defray expenses. My mother was an excellent customer. You see she had two daughters thinking of getting married and getting a trousseau together then meant more than a few days' shopping as it does now. My daughters and grandchildren ask me what we wore in days when it required four to seven months to get orders filled in New York. Well, ships came in from all parts of Europe and from the Atlantic Coast and then fashions did not change so often as now. Nor were we so dependent on stores. Every householder had her loom and the flax grew in the garden. The Mexicans spun and embroidered and made lace much as they do now. We had everything from the time the gold craze spread that those in the East could boast. Our community took on the air of refinement and culture and we began to have all the luxuries of the older country, even before such things were common in the East.

"My father built the first brick house in Monterey, for a long time a show place. My first husband belonged to the ministry. I had four children by him, some of them useful and honored citizens of the State. My eldest son, Zwindle Gallant Peck, resides in San Francisco and his son, Gallant Peck, married two years ago, and has two lovely daughters, twins. So I have lived to see my children's children, to the fourth generation. My youngest brother survives, George Winchester Dickinson, and he lives near our old home. In 1881 I went with my second husband, Napoleon Bonaparte Stoneroad, to Las Vegas, N. M. He was a well-known ranchman and was the first to drive a herd of sheep across the California mountains into New Mexico. I have lived principally at Las Vegas since that time. My health had been impaired but now I go to California, come to Washington hither and thither with perfect ease, and keen enjoyment. I have eight children, thirteen grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren not to speak of a concourse of nieces and nephews and sisters and brothers. So to see them even occasionally means much traveling and I enjoy it all."

Mrs. Stoneroad is brisk of step and deeply interested in passing events. Her visit to Washington was full of delightful incidents and was made especially memorable by the reunion of many Virginia and Maryland kindred.

"My daughter talks of taking me back to the old home in California by motor car," she laughed, "when that wonderful boulevard from ocean to ocean is completed, I think I can endure it. Indeed I wonder how many who travel in luxury now, recall what the early settlers endured in order to open that splendid country to civilization."

CITRUS GROWERS MUST WORK OUT SALVATION.

Great Industry Facing Crisis Because of Apparent Lack of Systematization in Production and Marketing, and Eight-Hour and Minimum-Wage Laws Now Threatening—Closer Figuring on Handling Cost.

BY R. BRINSMEAD.

[The writer of the following article has grown oranges for eighteen years, packed and sold them for twelve years, handled more than a thousand car loads through the exchange alone, and has studied the situation thoroughly from every angle. He stands ready to substantiate every statement by proven figures and statistics of the government and such organizations as the Fruit Growers' Exchange. He points out that the citrus industry as a whole is not making any money on the tremendous investment involved, points the reasons why, and maintains that the grower must think for himself, and think upon different lines to those to which he has followed in the past.—Ed. Times.]

NO INDUSTRY in California would be hit harder by the proposed eight-hour and minimum-wage laws than the great citrus-fruit industry. Among the most important and best known of California's many fruit crops, any factors which might tend to increase the cost of production or to reduce the legitimate profits of the grower therefrom must of necessity prove of State-wide import, as also any means whereby the returns to the producer may be increased and his general prosperity increased.

In all businesses inventory must be taken at stated times, balance sheets drawn up, for by no other means can leaks be stopped or the degree of success or failure discovered. To this the citrus fruit growing industry is no exception.

It is an undisputed fact that many orange orchards—and there is over $200,000,000 invested in California citrus properties—throughout the State at present are far from profitable, while many thousands of acres are not returning the net profits which their investment would seem to warrant. The average selling price of his crop—so far as the grower is concerned—based on its value per acre, has the past few years on the average tended to decrease; the cost of growing, of packing, of selling, to show appreciable increases, until the last straw is threatened by the proposed enormous increase of labor cost in growing and packing, which the minimum-wage and eight-hour laws would bring about.

Now it may be stated that nowhere in the world are finer oranges grown than right here in California, nowhere is greater skill shown in the handling and growing of the crop, no other orange growers in the world are better organized than the California growers; all of which would logically point to successful business and increasing profits to the producer, with a lessening cost of production, handling and of selling. We have the goods, are we handling them right?

MENDING NEEDED?

Big business throughout the world today shows that the high salaries are paid to those capable of reducing the cost of production, to those possessing the executive ability to trace leaks in manufacture, in handling, in selling, but more particularly in the former. The man who can produce the cheapest, grade for grade, quality for quality, must and always will prove the winner. Is the orange grower in California doing this? If with all the advantages he possesses, his orange orchard does not pay, if oranges as a State-wide industry are not profitable, then there must be a leak—or leaks—somewhere, and the sooner mended the better for the industry as a whole.

Is it possible to reduce the cost of growing a box of oranges, reduce it sufficiently to have bearing on the marketing of the increasing quantity of fruit shipped out of the State each year? An analysis of the gross returns for the California orange crop fully demonstrates that the industry as a whole is not making the profits it is surely entitled to; that while big profits are made by the few—the lucky few—the average grower not infrequently makes a direct loss, not obtaining enough for his crop to pay for the actual cost of production.

The citrus-fruit growers of California are among the best organized body of fruit growers in the world. The foundation, however, of their organizations is built up on the marketing of the fruit when once produced, and upon this foundation many costly structures have been reared.

In the early days of organization among the orange growers the question of production costs was never considered by the growers as an organized body or as organized bodies, except in the matter of more economical, of cheaper, packing charges. Piece by piece, year by year, these organizations have been built up as marketing agencies, and such attention as may have been focused upon the cost of growing has been of but minor importance, confined perhaps, to the joint purchase of fertilizer and of other ranch supplies, and there ending.

SOME FACTS NEEDED.

Few reliable figures are even today attainable or available as to the detailed cost of production, the actual cost per tree and per box, such as all successful modern manufacturing concerns insist upon.

The marketing organizations have never in their selling considered the cost of production when making their sales—they have not known what they were; they have simply gone out to obtain the "best market prices" regardless of whether these prices meant loss or profit to the producer, and it is unquestionable that thousands of boxes of California oranges—as with all other perishable products of the soil—have been sold at figures far below the actual costs of growing, handling and marketing. In brief, the orange business is not resting on a sound business basis, and never has been run on sound economic lines. The grower has been groping in the dark, the salesman has been selling wildly—doing the best he could under the existing conditions, but with the inevitable result that as the home crop and the crops of our competitors increased so have our markets proved less and less profitable. The California crop has increased in size, but at the same time the cost of production shows radical increase over that of even ten years back. This increase has not only occurred in the actual amount spent per tree or per acre, but also in the cost per pound or packed box of marketable fruit.

UP INSTEAD OF DOWN.

During the first years of organization the cost of packing and handling was greatly reduced, for costs prior to this had been both arbitrary and excessive; but late years have shown a decided tendency toward increase in the cost of handling on the grounds that more careful handling was requisite. So far as the growers' selling organizations are concerned there is here again a decided tendency toward increased costs in the actual marketing of the crops, largely on the lines of greater efficiency, but also in the creation of new functions and new methods of selling. As previously stated, no organized effort has been made on the part of the growers' organizations to reduce the costs of the business or to create other channels of revenue other than those to be found in the selling of the fresh fruit itself; the selling end has been the dominating factor and as such has taken upon itself the definition of the policies to be pursued. The grower has shown lack of initiative in creating new business such as would result from the right exploitation of by-products, the manufacture of products from what is now waste material, even placing packages on the markets adapted to exceptional conditions.

PROBLEMS TO BE SOLVED.

It may be taken as a settled fact that the future will see increasing competition in the markets available to California citrus fruits, and, this being so, success can only be attained in one way—by decreasing the cost of production and handling to a point where the lower prices obtainable for the fruit will still mean a profit to the grower.

In producing his crops the orange grower either entirely relies upon his own efforts to solve the problem, or at the most calls upon the State for aid. How to economically manage his orchard and at the same time put more fruit on the trees—these are the ever-pressing problems to be solved. Their solution means a lessening in the cost of production. They are in the main questions of dollars and cents, and as such adequate systems of accounting would prove of the greatest aid they are capable of receiving the greatest assistance from the grower himself by and through his organizations.

The value of organization in such an industry as that of citrus fruit growing in California, as with any other producing or manufacturing enterprise, lies primarily not in building and maintaining vast selling machinery, valuable and indispensable as these are, but in reducing costs.

These results can only be attained by proper organization and co-operation on the part of the producers—the growers—and of their selling agencies as they at present exist. The future must see the time when the cost of growing and laying a box of oranges or lemons down on the markets of the world will be a matter of record down to the last fraction of a cent, and upon these costs will the market price be made. We hear much of the law of supply and demand—for the farmer—but when does the manufacturer sell his goods below actual factory cost? If the market price for his goods does not provide a profit he ceases to manufacture them. So it must be with the products of the soil, and doubly so with those grown under irrigation, with the consequent assured crops. To produce a staple orange market prices as well as oranges must be stable and not as they are now—liable to fluctuations which may see an increase or decrease of 300 per cent. to 400 per cent. in but a few days. More must be known of the actual costs of production to form a foundation upon which to base a selling price, and this cost must be so scientifically reduced that it can meet any and all competition.

These are all problems for the organized producer. He must reduce the cost of growing, harvesting, packing and selling and the ultimate cost to the consumer. Upon these lines the citrus fruit industry must become one of the greatest and most profitable in the world, but so long as the grower organizes for little else than for marketing, selling and distributing his crop, taking no cognizance of the vital problems underlying his success, the violent fluctuations in price and recurrent periods of depression must and will be continually experienced.

LAWS THAT WOULD KILL.

And so with the cost of labor in the growing of the crop. It is not a question of how much a day the laborer is given, but of the efficiency of the laborer himself. Herein lies the grave danger threatened by the proposed labor laws. They would inexorably increase the cost of labor, but instead of increasing its efficiency would of a certainty decrease it, thus vastly increasing the cost of production.

No fruit crop, no horticultural or agricultural pursuit, holds more of promise than does the citrus industry in California; no land values are more certain to show greater increase than good citrus lands. The orange grower, however, is today making far from exorbitant profits either for his labor or investment. The possibilities lying at his door are very great, but will of a certainty be unattainable should such labor laws once be placed upon the statute books and enforced.

Prisoners to Wear Bells.

[New York Sun:] The Sussex (N. J.) county board of freeholders having come to the conclusion that it is too expensive to hire a guard to watch six prisoners working on the Tuttle Corner-Layton turnpike, has struck upon an odd plan to do away with the guard and yet prevent any escape.

A scheme of fastening a chain about the men's necks or wrists to which a bell will be attached will be tried. If the men run the bell will be heard and farmers seeing men holding their hands about their necks to muffle the bell will know the prisoners are escaping. They will not be allowed to go far from the labor camp and should they do so any citizen will be paid a quarter to return them.

A BIG WEEK AT THEATERS.

Selma Paley Will Lead in New Burbank Play.

Orpheum and Pantages Have Splendid Bills.

Interesting Moving Picture Programmes.

The new week brings forth, in the theatrical line, another production at the Burbank. It is "Maggie Pepper," the Belasco production in which Rose Stahl made such a hit. The Orpheum will have an excellent bill, headed by Liana Carrera, the daughter of Anna Held; Pantages has an excellent bill; the Empress goes under the managership of Marcus Loew Monday, and will contribute to the entertainment of the city; and the Hippodrome, Republic and picture-show houses will do their part toward making life more endurable. The press agents make their promises:

Burbank.

"Maggie Pepper," the drama of department store life which served as a successful vehicle for Rose Stahl for more than a year in New York and then had a successful tour with that star, will receive its first western production in stock at this afternoon's matinee at the Burbank Theater.

Miss Selma Paley will appear in the title role of the play. The character will afford her a great opportunity for the display of her talent, and for more than a week she has been devoting the greatest attention to the study of this character so that her presentation may be as nearly perfect as possible.

Maggie Pepper of the play is an employee of a big eastern department store. The owner of the store dies and his son, who has been having a gay time abroad, returns to take up the charge of the establishment. He has much to learn and he soon finds out that Maggie Pepper knows as much about the business as anyone in the establishment. He antagonizes his prospective father-in-law and a high official of the establishment by appointing Maggie Pepper as head buyer. Later there is considerable mystery about a theft in the store, and in the trouble that follows Maggie Pepper leaves. She is sought out by Holbrook. While in her apartment he is shot by James Derkin, the worthless brother-in-law of Maggie Pepper, and later when the police come to the place he announces his engagement to Maggie Pepper. There are numerous other counter plots that go far toward keeping the play moving. Miss Lillian Elliott returns to the Burbank cast in a fine role in this play. Forrest Stanley will play young Holbrook. There will be important roles by Beatrice Nichols, Florence Oberle, Grace Travers, Winifred Bryson, Thomas McLarnie, James Corrigan, James K. Applebee, George Rand, Walter Catlett, H. S. Duffield and many others.

Majestic.

At the Majestic Theater Saturday, August 8, Los Angeles theater-goers will have an opportunity of witnessing for the first time here the motion pictures of Panama and the canal taken from the aeroplane of the aviator, Robert G. Fowler. These are the pictures which recently created world-wide comment when the United States government, taking exception to certain portions, caused the arrest of Aviator Fowler and his camera man, Ray Duhem. Fowler's flight was made under unusual difficulties, owing to the fact that a strong wind was blowing at the time, and on several occasions the aeroplane escaped destruction by the narrowest margin. The two airmen, at one point 3000 feet above Culebra Cut, were caught in a terrific rainstorm when the gasoline gave out, and the machine dropped nearly 1000 feet before Fowler could regain control. All this time Duhem, the camera man, kept busy with his camera, and the fall through the air is vividly pictured on the screen.

A wonderfully interesting feature of the pictures is the showing of the aeroplane and the men in action in the air, which was accomplished by using two cameras.

Morosco.

"The Money Getters," the Waldemar Young musical comedy that has had four weeks of success at the Morosco, will close with tonight's performance. There will be the usual Sunday matinee today. The theater probably will be dark for two or three weeks, when the fall attractions will begin coming in.

Empress.

Beginning tomorrow afternoon the first headliner to appear at the local Empress under the Marcus Loew management will be the Seven Minstrel Kiddies. They will introduce a singing and dancing act. The second feature is Bert Savoy and James Brennen, the society jesters. It is said Savoy and Brennen deliver one of the best comedy acts that has been shunted across the circuit. Third on the new bill in interest and importance among the newcomers is the recent sensation of the Follies Marigny, Paris, Europe's premier ice skaters and dancing stars, the Three Famous Harbys, in what is said to be a skillful exhibition on genuine ice, and their own dance creations, including "The Argentine Tango" on ice skates. The act is said to be one of the biggest and best novelties sent westward in some time. Maude Ronair and Joe Ward, a clever and talented young couple have a cute little sketch called "Ocean Breezes" which they will present next week. The Todd-Nards, who have just closed a fifth consecutive year with Barnum & Bailey, give a sensational act. The always-new, first-run and exclusive Keystone comedies will complete the new bill.

Orpheum.

To all the old boys, the mere announcement that Anna Held's only daughter, Liane Carrera, will top the Orpheum bill opening Monday afternoon, is enough in itself to arouse intense interest. To those who are not "old boys," the same announcement causes pleasing anticipations. For, as a matter of theatrical history, Anna Held, some two decades ago, was the one most brilliant star in the thespianic firmament, and the fact that in her daughter, now just 18, the Anna Held of those scintillant days is revived, is quite sufficient to cause a little revolution. Liane Carrera has her mother's face, figure and naughty eyes and ways, as her mother had them twenty—or fewer—years ago, when she was a world sensation. With Liane comes a clever comedian, Tyler Brooke, and a collection of American beauty show girls—both characteristics of her mamma and the latter's theatrical success. John and Mac Burke in "A Ragtime Soldier" will have a great fun act. Yvette is a violiniste "in a futurist setting," which simply means that she has brought from the Poiret studios a fine collection of odd and colorful gowns, and a scenic investiture that is unusually striking, the while she, being a skilled player, makes real music. Charles Yule, Fred Munier and their company will appear in a new sketch, "The Stranger," a play of strength and dramatic worth. Ray Conlin is a "sub-vocalist," which is another way of speaking of a ventriloquist of superpower. The Brady sketch, "Beauty Is Only Skin Deep;" Kramer and Morton and Britt Wood are the holdovers, while the orchestral concerts and the Hearst Selig pictures of world-news make up the balance of the fine bill. A week later, Trixie Friganza, the "always-a-joy" comedienne, will top the programme in a melange of her best-liked efforts.

Pantages.

Manager Carl Walker of Pantages had to toss a coin to decide which of the acts coming this week to that theater should be featured as the headliner. Comedy predominates in the new show. Harry Jolson and the Orpheus Quartette take care of that section. Music and dancing are taken care of by the Basy Troupe of Russian Troubadours. The fact that Alexander Basy is in personal command of the act is a guarantee. Beautiful Betty Blythe also appears in songs and dances. Under the name of Betty Blythe is concealed the identity of a clever Los Angeles girl whose singing and dancing have made her a favorite. Novelties are promised by the Juggling Normans and May Woodward, with her posing dogs. Landers Stevens, Georgie

Heroic.

"THE ESCAPE," a photoplay in seven reels, adapted from Paul Armstrong's successful drama, will open at Clune's Auditorium tomorrow. The production was directed by D. W. Griffith, and it is said almost $100,000 was the cost. It took five months to stage "The Escape" in pictures.

In "The Escape" is unfolded a powerful story of life in the famous East Side district of New York. The play is a strong appeal for eugenics.

Donald Crisp, who plays the role of Bull McGee, the bully of the slums, and Robert Harron, who assumes the role of a depraved Bowery character in the picture, in order to make their character impersonations as true to life as possible, spent three months living in the Mulberry Bend district in New York. During the evenings they haunted the notorious East Side dance halls, and overlooked no opportunity for absorbing atmosphere. F. A. Turner, who plays the role of the father, also lived in the district for a time. While Crisp, Harron and Turner were seeking realism, Blanche Sweet and Mae Marsh, who portray the roles of the Joyce sisters, lived in a settlement home with a chaperon to get their atmosphere.

The result of this almost ended disastrously for Miss Sweet, who contracted scarlet fever while living in the settlement house, and had to spend a couple of months in Bellevue Hospital. The taking of the picture came to a sudden stop while the young star was ill. All members of the company were retained on salary during this enforced idleness, which resulted in increasing the cost of the photoplay.

All the scenes where police officers are used were taken under the personal supervision of Police Commissioner Daugherty. The Commissioner called at the studio one day after a police-station scene had been taken and drew attention to the fact that a serious mistake had been made in portraying a riot call. The entire scene was retaken, under the Commissioner's inspection.

The tenement-house scenes were taken in the crowded East Side district, amid a crowd of thousands of residents of the section. When Miss Sweet recovered the entire company was moved to Los Angeles. All the interiors of the production were taken in Los Angeles.

"The Escape," as playgoers know, depicts the struggle of a clean-minded girl in an East Side family to get above her environment. A young ambulance surgeon aids her in this desire. She has a weak sister, a criminally-inclined brother, a worthless father, and struggles against them all, to emerge from the battle vic-

Tomorrow the local Empress Theater passes from the control of Sullivan & Considine to that of Marcus Loew, who recently in a gigantic vaudeville deal involving $1,500,000, acquired the string of Sullivan & Considine theaters.

The full change in the local house probably will not be noticed until September, when the shows booked by Mr. Loew will begin to make their appearance here. Six acts, instead of the usual five, will be on each bill.

Loew was practically unknown to the amusement world eight years ago. He started life as a newsboy, and has been a fur salesman, a cap manufacturer, owner of a penny arcade, manager of a picture theater, owner of a vaudeville theater, and now is owner of a great circuit. His vaudeville circuit is capitalized at $10,000,000.

Her Che-ild.

Liane Carrera Is Mlle. Held's Daughter.

Left a Convent for Call of Vaudeville.

Caricatures Lovely Mother at the Orpheum.

Not long ago there appeared on the stage of Hammerstein's Victoria Theater in New York, a slip of a girl 18 years of age, who never had appeared on a stage before, and who had nothing to recommend her except the fact that she was the daughter of a famous mother, Anna Held.

When asked what she could do, she said she did not know, but was willing to try. Mr. Hammerstein told her to get an act together and come to see him when she had something to offer in addition to the fact that she was Anna Held's daughter.

Her name is Liane Carrera. Mlle. Carrera took Hammerstein at his word, engaged a dancing master and began work. She haunted the music publishing houses until she found the sort of songs she desired. When she felt that she was prepared, she engaged a comedian and six chorus girls and had her "try out." She got booking immediately.

Mlle. Carrera will be at the Orpheum in Los Angeles next week and probably the week following. She appears in a musical melange written for her by Irving Berlin and staged by F. Stammers. The scenic investiture of the miniature comic opera is of silks and satins, and the costumes are from France.

But it probably is the fact that she is Anna Held's daughter that will attract the most. Mlle. Carrera is 18 years of age. It is said her appearance is almost exactly that of her mother at her age, and that every look and gesture reminds the audience of Anna Held in the heydey of her fame. She has the same difficulty as her mother, it is said, in "making her eyes behave." She gives an imitation of her mother during her vaudeville act.

Mlle. Carrera has been reared in a French convent. She came to the United States with her mother about six months ago. She expressed a wish to adopt the stage as a career. Her mother made objections at first, but Mlle. Carrera insisted and finally had her way. Anna Held, it is said, is proud of her daughter's success.

Mlle. Carrera says the reason she went on the stage is that she could not remain away from it. It is a case of being born to the footlights. Until a little more than two years ago, it is declared, Mlle. Carrera did not know her mother, Anna Held, was on the stage. Living in a convent, she had no chance to see her mother in any of her musical comedies. About a year ago, during her vacation, Mlle. Carrera saw her mother on the stage for the first time. She was not encouraged by her mother to choose the stage for a profession, but Anna Held made no serious objections when Mlle. Carrera begged to be allowed to do so.

Her strong and convincing voice, well trained and sympathetic, was considered of the grand opera type at that time, and the brightest future was hoped for the talented singer.

Her many friends who bestowed upon her flowers and applause on her last appearance, will learn with no great surprise, if with satisfaction, that Mrs. Bradley has been engaged to make her debut as Azucena in "Il Trovatore" at Desio, Italy, early in September.

Following the ancient and very foolish custom still in vogue in Italy, Mrs. Charles Alfred Bradley has been obliged to take a "nom-de-theater," and her friends will have to remember that Signora Gracio Breddlia, which sounds more like the botanical name of a bower than of a prima donna, is the new cognomen of our local artist.

Mme. Bradley has been under the tutelage of Maestro Breda of Milan since she left Los Angeles in May, and such rapid progress has been made in her work, and she has excited so much favorable comment among the impresarios of Italy, which accounts for her almost immediate engagement.

Ellen Beach Yaw Concert.

For the benefit of Lark Ellen Newsboys' Home, Mme. Ellen Beach Yaw will give a concert at her home in Covina, Saturday, August 8.

The concert will take place in the Italian gardens of her villa. She will be assisted by Oskar Seiling, violinist; Miss Josephine Williams, reader; Mrs. Celeste Ryus, Miss Edith Noble, Myrtle Gonzales and a pageant of young women.

San Carlo Grand Opera.

The St. Louis Grand Opera Committee has completed arrangements whereby St. Louisans will be enabled to enjoy two weeks of grand opera in November at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2. The great Odeon Theater is now undergoing extensive repairs in anticipation of this new arrangement.

Besides the regular productions which will be given by the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, there will be two so-called "guest" performances, when Sig. Constantino and Mme. Gerville-Reache, celebrated French contralto, will be heard.

Citizens of influence and wealth in that city have also subscribed the sum of $300,000 for the immediate erection of a grand operahouse, and the present season's opera arrangement, whereby all music lovers may enjoy the great masterpieces of song at a reasonable cost, will prove the beginning of the popular priced opera in that city.

The San Carlo organization embraces such reliable and favorite singers as Ester Adaberto, Edvigo Vaccari, coloratura soprano, who sang for two seasons with Sig. Bonci at Mexico City; Sigs. Giuseppe Agostini and Salvatore Sciaretti, tenors; Angelo Antola and Alessandro Modesto, baritones, all of whom have been heard in Los Angeles. Sig. Giuseppe Angelini is general musical director. He formerly conducted the Melba Grand Opera Company on its round-the-world tour.

It will be interesting to local opera goers to know that two young California men are the guiding spirits of the San Carlo company. Mr. Fortune Gallo, formerly manager of the Lambardi company, is managing director of the organization. Charles R. B[illegible] of this city, formerly advance manager for Impresario Lambardi, is guiding the destinies of the San Carlo artists.

In Memoriam Cycle.

Mme. Estelle Heartt Dreyfus, assisted by Prof. Louis Dreyfus, and accompanied by Mrs. M. Hennion Robinson, will be heard this evening at Beverly Hills Hotel in the song cycle, "In Memoriam," of Alfred Tennyson, with music by Liza Lehmann.

Beethoven-Paginini Review.

At the studio of Ralph John Wylie a review of Beethoven's Sonata No. 1, Paginini Caprices and songs by Scott and McFadden was offered by the violinist and his wife.

Heloise Coutolenc.

Miss Coutolenc, who was obliged to give up her professional work as a violinist, owing to her mother's long illness, has again resumed her connection with the Westlake Presbyterian Church and other musical organizations.

Lambardi's Discoveries.

Late reports from the officials of the Los Angeles National Grand Opera Company who are now in Rome give the complete repertoire for the season of 1915, which will begin at the Auditorium, Clune's Theater Beautiful, January 11. The addition of two new members of the company is also reported.

One is a young American basso, John Hendricks, whose New York confreres declare him to be one of the most promising. Impresario Mario Lambardi, who heard him in New York City before sailing for Europe, declares that he has heard none better in Europe.

The complete repertoire of the Los Angeles National Grand Opera Company consists of the following six operas never produced in Los Angeles: "Cristoforo Colombo," with Commendatore Eugenio Giraldoni in the leading role. This grand spectacular opera was composed by Franchetti, one of the most competent opera writers; "Romeo and Juliet," of which it is needless to comment; "Werther," requiring artistic and musical talent of high order; "Linda di Chaminoux," "Ruy Blas," "Navarrese" and "Lombardi," which are too well known to require more than a mention of their names. The others are "Lohengrin," "Faust," "Carmen," "Cavalleria," "Rigoletto" and "Thais," all of which will be given in both English and Italian. The following favorites will also be given: "Tales of Hoffman," "Traviatta," "Trovatore," "Lucia," "Pagliacci" and "Tosca.'.

Rudolf Ganz.

Many musical seasons have been overburdened with pianists, every country had their representatives, every school of playing had their representative types, but this year there will be but three visiting Los Angeles, Rudolf Ganz, Swiss; Tina Lerner and Josef Lhevinne, Russians. Of these Ganz and Lerner will be here before the first of the year.

The eminent Swiss virtuoso returns to us this year in joint recital with Evan Williams, the popular Welsh tenor, the plan being that they will inaugurate the second series of the Philharmonic course in November. It was as a violinist Ganz began his musical education, later taking up the piano and making his first public appearance as soloist at 12 years of age. At this time he became a pupil of his uncle, Carl Eschmann-Dumur, in 1899 going to Buson for the finishing.

In 1901 he came to America as a member of the faculty of the Chicago Musical College, where he spent four years; then, on his return to Berlin he determined to devote his entire time to the career of a virtuoso. He is today—less than ten years from that time, one of the most eminent pianists of the day, and as an interpreter of Liszt is unsurpassed. His popularity has grown to such a degree, in fact, that last year in Europe he crowded as many appearances into three months as most pianists enjoy in seven. In 1912-13 he first came to the Pacific Coast, appearing at that time with Riccardo Martin, the American. All who heard him then will recall with pleasure his fine technique.

Tina Lerner's First Visit Here.

Tina Lerner, the petite Russian pianiste, will visit Los Angeles for the first time next December. She came to the Pacific Coast last season and enjoyed an immediate success in the Northwest and San Francisco, but had not been allowed sufficient time to permit a visit to this city.

Miss Lerner is classed among the greatest of pianists. Born in Odessa, Russia, she was a mere child when indication of unusual musical gifts became apparent. Her father, a well-known critic, determined to give his daughter every opportunity for the full development of her artistic nature. In Odessa she studied with the famous Rudolf Helm, at the age of 10 entering the Conservatory of the Philharmonic, Moscow, completing the nine-years' course in five years, in addition winning the highest honors offered. Immediately after her graduation she was accorded the honor of playing with the Moscow Philharmonic Society, a precedent which had never before been afforded the music world, this girl of scarcely 15 playing with this old, well-established band of musicians.

Her first concert tour followed, this including all of Russia, Germany and England, and three years ago she made her debut in America as soloist with the Boston Symphony. The second American tour served to make Miss Lerner known from Coast to Coast, and upon her return to Europe she acquired new honors as soloist under such directors as Richter, Weingartner, Arbos, Elgar and Alexander Siloti. In this connection it is well to note that last year she was engaged for the third consecutive season as soloist by the London Symphony under Arthur Nikisch, and Manchester Halle concerts under Michael Balling, a distinction never before extended to an artist in England.

With Rudolf Ganz in November and Tina Lerner in December, the music lovers of the city will be afforded a rare opportunity of judging two essentially different schools of piano virtuosity.

American Dances.

Who can say that the number of American composers is limited?

The Pavlowa prize competition for her new ballroom dances, which closes August 15, has already produced the generous harvest of 168 compositions from almost as many cities from California to Maine.

Mlle. Pavlowa has arranged to have each composition played under the direction of Theodore Steir, conductor of her own famous symphony orchestra. She will select from the lot three numbers, to which she will fit the three new society or ballroom dances which she is now originating and which she will introduce in her campaign of standardization of society dancing. To the three successful composers, prizes totaling $1500 will be awarded. The winners will be announced about the first of September.

William Dressler.

William Dressler, one of the oldest and best-known musicians of America, has just passed away in New York at the ripe age of 88. Although most of his life was spent in this country, he was a native of England and was born at Nottingham, his father having been at one time court flutist to the King of Saxony.

Graduating from the Cologne Conservatory in 1847, Prof. Dressler was for a time first violinist of the operahouse in Wiesbaden, later becoming conductor.

When Ole Bull came to America in the early fifties he came with him as solo pianist and accompanist, after a few years of concert work settling in New York and devoting himself to teaching. For many years he was one of the most famous church organists of New York, finally taking the position of choirmaster and organist at St. Peter's Church in Jersey City, where he remained for eighteen years.

During his long connection with houses of worship he composed much music of an ecclesiastical character, his name and productions being familiar to church organists throughout the world. He was also well known as a musical editor, having for many years been connected in that capacity with William Hall & Son and J. L. Peters, two of the oldest houses of the kind in America.

Prof. Dressler's three children are all musicians, Miss Marie Dressler, his daughter, being a noted 'cellist, while his son, Louis Dressler, follows in the footsteps of his father and is organist and director at All Soul's Unitarian Church in New York, and has been connected for many years with Charles H. Ditson & Co., the well-known music firm.

American Tenor at Rome.

One of the most distinct successes won by an American singer in the operatic field was achieved by Forrest Robert Lamont in Rome, Italy, two weeks ago. Mr. Lamont appeared at the Adriano in the title role of Donizetti's little-sung opera "Poliuto," and was received with acclaim by his audience, which called him out repeatedly and made him repeat his aria in the second act.

It was the first presentation of this opera in Rome since 1902, when the famous Tamagno sang the title role, with Mascagni conducting. The tenor part, one of exceeding difficulty, has been a stumbling block for the generality of tenors, and it is all the more remarkable that Mr. Lamont mastered it as he did, his robust voice, which the music requires, enabling him to do so.

Immediately after his success in this part he was engaged for four appearances as Manrico in Verdi's "Trovatore," beginning June 11. When it is remembered that Mr. Lamont has been in Italy scarcely a year, having arrived the middle of last June, it will be seen that he has gone far by serious cultivation of his talent and hard work. He is a product of American training, his entire vocal instruction having been gained from Alfred Y. Cornell, the New York vocal instructor, with whom he worked for a number of years before going to Italy.

Arthur Foote's Illness.

Students at the summer session of the State University at Berkeley suffered a keen disappointment in the cancellation of the Arthur Foote lectures, owing to the composer's serious illness from appendicitis.

Mr. Foote, who is one of America's greatest musical composers and an authority on music history and literature, is slowly regaining his strength on his New Hampshire farm, following a serious operation, but will not be strong enough to take the long trip to the Coast this summer.

Musicians' State Convention.

The Fuhrer-Zielinski Trio, composed of Miss Bessie Fuhrer, violinist; Miss Lucy Fuhrer, 'cellist, and Jaroslaw de Zielinski, pianist, gave an interesting programme of Russian music before the Music Teachers' Association of California at its recent meeting in San Diego. The trio was assisted by Miss Mercedes Ciesielska, soprano, who sang Fretchaninoff's "She Was Thine;" Tschaikowsky's "By the Murmuring Stream?" Moussorgsky's "Mon Etoile;" Wassilenko's "L'envoutement;" Warlamoff's "The Red Sarafan;" Bachmetieff's "Cossak Lullaby," and Dargomyjsky's "The Home Coming."

Instrumental numbers contributed by the trio included the "Romance" from Anton Arensky's second trio; four numbers for violin and piano from Caesar Cui's "Petite Suite—Twilight." Vale, Valse, Romance and Serenade; the barcarolle from Rubinstein's Sonata Opus 18, for piano and violoncello, and Paul Juon's trio, Opus 17.

Free Circulating Music.

Chicago is introducing a somewhat unique musical experiment which if it proves successful—as it no doubt will—is likely to be followed by various other cities throughout the West.

The Chicago Public Library is purchasing quite a large stock of musical compositions, which are to be loaned to library patrons on the same basis that books are. Judiciously selected by a committee of experts, such a department in a public library would be of untold helpfulness to many students, who find the purchase of good music to add to their repertoires quite an additional financial burden.

News of the success of the venture will be awaited with interest by musicians and students throughout the country.

Campanini's Parma Opera.

Cleofonte Campanini, the able conductor-director of the Chicago Opera Company, has adopted a novel means of coming in touch with new and fresh European talent.

During July and August, while he is in Italy, he will give a series of competitive hearings to singers of both sexes, and of any nationality, the only requirements being that they must sing in Italian, and must be entirely devoid of any operatic experience.

To the ten singers of most promise he assures a free debut this fall in Parma, with all expenses of the trip paid, as well as all costumes and accessories. Should the winner be a young girl the expenses of a chaperon will also be furnished.

Campanini in this way will find out what is the actual condition and equipment of European students, and—since many of our best known stars are of accidental discovery—he may perchance in an obscure village bring to light a second Caruso or Schumann-Heink.

American-Italian Prize.

Edith McCormick, wife of Harold McCormick and daughter of John D. Rockefeller, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago Opera Company, on the occasion of the Verdi centennial celebration offered a prize for the best lyric opera by an Italian, submitted before May 31, 1914.

Thirty-nine works were entered, and the prize, 20,000 francs, was, on July 17, awarded to Giovanni Pennacchio, bandmaster of the Seventieth Infantry, for his opera "Errica," which Campanini will produce at Parma in September.

The Examining Committee for music was composed of Maestri Buelli, Boizoni, Orefice, Respighi, Ferrari, Agostini and Azoni, while the judges of librettos were Buelli, Guiseppe Melli and Renato Simoni.

Exceptional.

LITERATURE IN BUSINESS.

HART SCHAFFNER & MARX IN MACAULAY'S CLASS.

English Professor Selects One of Their Letters from Those Offered by Twenty-six Firms to Include in "Selected English Letters" With Correspondence of Immortal Men.

An unusual and enviable distinction has come to the firm of Hart Schaffner & Marx, clothing manufacturers. Prof. Claude M. Fuess, instructor in English at Andover, Mass., in seeking the most exemplary business letter for a volume entitled "Selected English Letters" (Houghton Mifflin Company) invited twenty-six of the leading business firms of the country to send samples of business letters, and chose the one which Hart Schaffner & Marx wrote to a customer urging him to do more newspaper advertising. The vital part of the letter included the statement that "advertising experts everywhere agree that local newspaper advertising is the best means of getting trade."

This business letter received no special preparation. It was written as a matter of business and with no thought of literary excellence, and yet it has been thought well enough of by a discerning scholar to be published in connection with letters written by Swift, Pope, Addison, Steele, Lord Chesterfield, Sir Walter Scott, Lord Byron, Shelley, Carlyle, Macaulay, Lincoln, Ruskin and many other notable men.

In a foreword, Prof. Fuess characterizes the letter as "an admirable example of the best type of modern business letters: courteous, lucid and very much to the point.

A noteworthy paragraph of the letter says: "In the old days, the merchant depended on his personality, his acquaintances, for trade. You know how times have changed, how people read the newspapers, how men depend on publicity, how they look in the daily paper not only for general news, but for news of 'where to buy.' "

EDUCATORS, SCIENTISTS.

Thomas A. Edison is now said to be engaged with the problem of producing electricity directly from coal, and declares that it will be accomplished some day. If Edison succeeds in solving this problem, it will be his greatest contribution to the good of man. It will mean a great economy in coal consumption if he finds a way of converting all or nearly all the stored energy of coal into electricity.

Prof. Robert Leslie, M.A., Edinburgh, has been selected by a committee of professors in England to fill the chair of political economy at the South African College, Cape Town. Mr. Leslie has arrived from Calcutta, where he had been lecturing in some branch of political economy. He was, prior to this, lecturer in political economy at the University of Edinburgh.

Prof. Florenz of the Tokio Imperial University will sever his connection with the university after the present academic term, and will return home. He is to become professor of oriental languages in Leipzig University.

Elmer A. Sperry, winner of the $50,000 prize offered by the French War Department for a stabilizer which makes aeroplane flying safe, is an American, a resident of New York. The test was made at Paris. The inventor first attracted wide attention in this country by a gyroscopic compass, which is now used by the warships of a number of nations. It is asserted that his latest invention makes aeroplanes safe under almost any circumstances.

CONVENTIONS STRANGLE ART.

Playwrights of Today Limiting Themselves by Demands of Commercialism, a Blunt Close Style and the Study of Questions Too Current to Deal With Fundamentals in Big Outbursts of Feeling.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK

"THE poets are thus the liberating gods," says Emerson. "They are free and they make free. I think nothing is of any value in books excepting the transcendental and extraordinary. If a man is inflamed and carried away by his thoughts to that degree that he forgets the authors and the public and heeds only this one dream which holds him like an insanity, let me read his paper and you may have all the arguments and histories and criticisms."

Assuredly nothing less can ever be supremely worth while in a play. All the stage craft and laughter in the world will not take the place of some big free impulse and consuming vision. We demand an inspired movement and a supreme moment of the plays that hold our attention. We must be made to feel, must be transported, enraptured. It makes no difference if this be done with big pictures as in the Tully productions and in "Kismet" or whether it be reached by the blazing trail of an exalted story poured out in golden speech, but it must contain something to stir the heart and inflame the imagination.

"One man with a dream, at pleasure
Shall go forth and conquer a crown;
And three with a new song's measure
Can trample an empire down."

O'Shaughnessy is singing of the dreamers who are forever the builders. Hear him shout the triumph of that music that lilts the world along:

"We, in the ages lying
In the buried past of the earth,
Built Nineveh with our singing,
And Babel itself with our mirth;
And o'erthrew them with prophesying
To the old of the new world's worth!
For each age is a dream that is dying,
Or one that is coming to birth."

Somehow the drama of today seems to have struck the sands of commonplaceness and the siege of the stage is deadly. It cannot be charged that we are at a standstill, because more people are trying for the big thing in the drama than ever before. It is only that we are thrashing around in a sort of a slushy marsh and are missing all of the breeze and the refreshment. We are getting nowhere for all of our fine efforts and the two best play builders of the day, or at least the two who are getting the most attention, seem utterly lacking in freedom and inspiration.

There is Shaw with his really honorable intentions and a brain of tremendous energy and ability utterly lacking in an original note or in the heart's warm glow. You never find in going back into the cavern of lost things in order to come forward with first ideas. There is nothing in him that strives and cries and breaks out of the dead shell with a lifting wing.

With his eyes you know that Shaw sees some of the wrongs of the world, but he never makes you feel their hurt. He makes you want to fight perhaps in a sort of reasonable cold way. He may even make you spiteful, but he never leaves you broken up inside. He never made anybody cry for anybody else nor even burn at injustice or persecution. He does not even anegr you in the way that makes you want to do something about it.

Shaw is a big influence with his rushing laughter, but not a hundredth part of what he would be if the same fine ability included some fire. I do not mean fever, but ardor. I mean the thing that inspires devotion and even frenzy for a cause.

Perhaps I am thinking of simple warmth, sincerity and goodness and then also of that matchless deep welling feeling which must be the swelling tide on which genius is tossed as by a storm and which ever lights the waves of all emotion and thought.

Yes, Shaw is a great sane influence but I doubt what the world's thought of him will be two or three generations hence if indeed he be remembered then as a playwright rather than as a critic. It seems to me that by the trick of transposition he has simply turned the criticism of other plays into criticisms of society and politics which have taken the form of plays of his own and which really lack the first essentials of good plays.

Then we have Henry Arthur Jones who is flawless in the technique of the stage. Nobody has made plays more actable than Jones, yet no writer holds such a tight rein upon himself. He never lets go with the abandon of creative energy. The spirit that flames like a sunset breaking over a western sea or smearing itself over a landscape as if a rainbow had fallen, or the Milky Way had tangled itself up at will with old garden, is never in the work of Jones. He is a man who remembers to be reasonable and in good taste and both these fine traits should be all but forgotten if a man is to produce something rare and imperishable. Let me make one exception.

In "The Divine Gift" Jones was almost guilty of feeling. It was a good day for him when he put his name to that excellent piece of writing. I don't think so much of it as a play, but it has gleams of warmth here and there like an opal when it catches the light from just the right angle.

One of the last of his published plays is "Mary Goes First." It is by no means his best and it may be his worst, but it answers its purpose very well. He is making fun of the manner in which the newly-created nobility of England bears its honors and gives some frank hints as to the manner in which these favors are secured. In the whole play there is sufficient exaggeration to save England from too much offense and to burlesque the absurdity of some English customs. The burden of its success must rest with the actors for certainly it is not readable. Nobody cares about going through 162 pages of spiteful dialague between people who in themselves are not worth while to begin with. We would not invite these people to our homes for our own pleasure and would not visit with them. There is much less occasion to give them our time in a book.

I find one good paragraph in the entire work. Dr. Cheser says: " You know our English way. When we want to escape from a fact we escape from a word. When the fact turns up again we escape to another word. In the end we find we haven't abolished the fact. We have merely corrupted the English language."

There is meat in this because it strikes at a fundamental and it is precisely this habit of the modern playwright to keep away from everything fundamental in order to analyze or reflect the completely modern which prevents the creation at present of any really big plays. The unrest of women, the ideas of socialism, the tendency to be intimate and morbid in the study of some of the hateful facts of present conditions and a dozen other transient phases of life occupy the attentions of the stage and the plays thus produced never outlast their season and certainly cannot outlive a decade.

Let somebody write a simple and pure love story such as "Peg o' My Heart" and the world rings with it.

We are just as hungry for the old divine realities as the people of any age have ever been, but the time is so topical, so peculiarly current that the incident of the age seems to blind us

Cooper and company will appear in "My Friend," a dramatic act written for them by Willard Mack. "My Friend" is as startling in plot and presentation as the other vaudeville acts which Willard Mack has written. It is placed by the author ahead of his other famous playlet, "The Getaway," which was presented at Pantages two years ago by Mr. Mack and Maude Leone.

Hippodrome.

Animated songs, the newest craze in vaudeville, and utterly unlike anything ever seen here before, will be presented for the first time in Los Angeles, this week, at the Hippodrome.

Grace Allen, "the prettiest girl on the time," will introduce the new fad, and in other cities the innovation has been pronounced quite the most captivating thing in the varieties. There will be Will Abram and Agnes Johns in a brand new sketch which promises to be more popular than last week's success, "A Modern Camille." Fields and Coco will appear as "the ragtime gymnasts," and another acrobatic contribution, teeming with laughs, will be Ling and Long in "Fun in a Gymnasium." Cruster, Robinson and Rickards, the singing trio, will present a new repertoire of the latest novelty songs and some rapid-fire comedy, and the seventh big act will be Cardiff, who is thoroughly at home on the high wire. Three sets of first-run motion pictures will complete the bill.

Republic.

The last performances of "The Incorrigible," the tense prison playlet which Ed Morrell, himself sixteen years a convict at San Quentin, and a competent cast are presenting, will be given at the Republic Theater tonight, and commencing on Monday matinee will come an entirely different set of headliner.

Close upon the heels of Armstrong's famous baby dolls comes a big musical extravaganza organization known as Magee's Dancing Chicks. Maxie Mitchell, whose work is well known here, is the soubrette of the cast, while Dot Raymond, also favorably known locally, is the prima donna. A trio of stellar comedians will dispense summerish humor. Other feature acts on the bill include Arva, eccentric violinist; Barrett and Bayne, comedy singing and yodeling; Foster, La Mont and Foster, stellar equilibrists, motion pictures, an orchestral concert and the Hearst-Selig weekly.

Clune's Broadway.

"The Stuff Dreams Are Made Of" is the big laughable production this week. It is a new departure in comedies. "The Man Who Paid" will make young men think, for this chap pays for each and every folly of his youth. Just as we all will. It will be fun to see what is coming to us.

"Bunny as a Private!" Can you see him in his smile and his tight uniform? He can't sit down, and, as the girls wave him a good-by, he cannot bow. In this picture Bunny is Bunny at his best.

"The Clash of Virtues" is a drama which will make us all think. Thinking is not a lost art, and it is a useful one. There are also some thrills here.

Clune's Auditorium.

"The Escape," which will be shown this week at Clune's Auditorium, unfolds a graphic story of life in the [illegible] East Side tenement district of New York.

"The Escape" is adapted from Paul Armstrong's powerful eugenical drama of that name. In transforming this virile drama to the motion-picture screen, D. W. Griffith has added his touch of genius in the interpretation of the various character roles, with the result that "The Escape" as a film drama is perfect.

"The Escape" is in seven reels. The story deals with the life of two daughters of the tenements, May and Jennie Joyce. Their dissolute father forces the former to marry McGee, a bully, who, owing to his wonderful strength, is a power in the Bowery district. Arrangements are made for the wedding, but a few hours before the ceremony takes place, May, at the advice of Dr. von Eiden, a young ambulance surgeon, makes her escape from her sordid surroundings.

Jenny, who is called the unfit sister because of her delicate physique, admires McGee for his brute strength. With the escape of May from the house, McGee transfers his affections to the other sister. She welcomes his advances and they are married. A sickly infant is the result of the union. How the two sisters finally manage to escape is shown. In the production is an all-star cast, including Blanche Sweet, Mae Marsh, Donald Crisp, Robert Harron, F. A. Turner and others.

Previous to the story of "The Escape" is shown for the first time on the motion-picture screen the eugenic history of life, from its very earliest stages, in the form of microscopic screen presentation of the growth and breeding of various forms of life.

Woodley.

"The Wolf" will be shown for the first time in Los Angeles as a film drama at the Woodley Theater Monday afternoon. It is a big Lubin production, featuring Ethel Clayton, and its powerful story of life in the Canadian wilds is vast and poignant.

Eugene Walters, the author, put his whole heart and soul into the writing of "The Wolf," and the story of how a brother and a sweetheart track the betrayer of a lovely girl through the snow and ice of the Northwest, run him down and slay him in one of the greatest hand-to-hand encounters ever shown on a screen is too big for adequate description.

There is a pretty love story interwoven with the tragedy, and the whole play concerns men and women who do big things far beyond the boundaries of law and order.

Tally's Broadway.

Thousands of people will be glad to know that T. L. Tally has decided to cancel the programme booked to the Broadway Theater for next week and to continue the showing of Mary Pickford's latest triumph, "The Eagle's Mate," which has broken all records for attendance this week, for one more week beginning tomorrow. Wonderful is the word that expresses one's feelings after seeing this wonderful production. "Little Mary," of course, is the center of attraction while the picture is on the screen, but there are a great number of exceptionally beautiful scenic settings, and with the attractive musical programme by pipe organ and orchestra that follows the picture from beginning to end, there is no wonder that "The Eagle's Mate" has been such an extraordinary success at Tally's Broadway Theater this week, and those who were unable to gain admission will welcome the announcement of a second week's engagement.

Jardin de Danse.

Tomorrow night, at the Jardin de Danse, Manager Blackwood will continue to offer his popular movies' Mondays, with Miss Ann Little as the guest of honor.

Miss Little is the well-liked and clever young leading actress of the Universal Film Company. She is known to every patron of the "movies" by reason of her several years' association with motion-picture work, and whether it is in uproarious farce or the more serious drama she always is a screen favorite of more than ordinary worth. With Miss Little will be many of her associates of the Universal company, together with scores of the best-known stars of the local "movies" colony.

While the Monday nights devoted to the motion-picture players are events of special interest to the patrons of the Jardin de Danse, the club nights held every Tuesday are attracting gatherings of decidedly generous proportions. There is a special admission charge of 50 cents for gentlemen and 25 cents for ladies, with no charge for dancing at the Jardin de Danse's club nights.

Miller's.

A programme, made up of headliners in the picture world, is greeting the fans at Miller's today and tonight. First there is Mary Pickford, assisted by Gertrude Robinson, Mack Sennett, Marion Leonard and Billy Quirk, in the farce comedy, "The Woman from Mellon's," and Mable Trunnelle in "Meg of the Mountains." An unusually good offering, "The Letter From Home," gives Gerda Holmes a chance to display her charms. A Wood B. Wedd comedy, with Bill Wadsworth and Arthur Houseman, furnishes fun.

On Monday comes the tenth and latest chapter of the interesting film serial, "The Perils of Pauline." A two-reel romance, "The Lure of the Car Wheels," featuring Velma Whitman and George Routh, is another picture. Good comedies and comedy dramas of especial worth complete the bill.

Quinn's Superba.

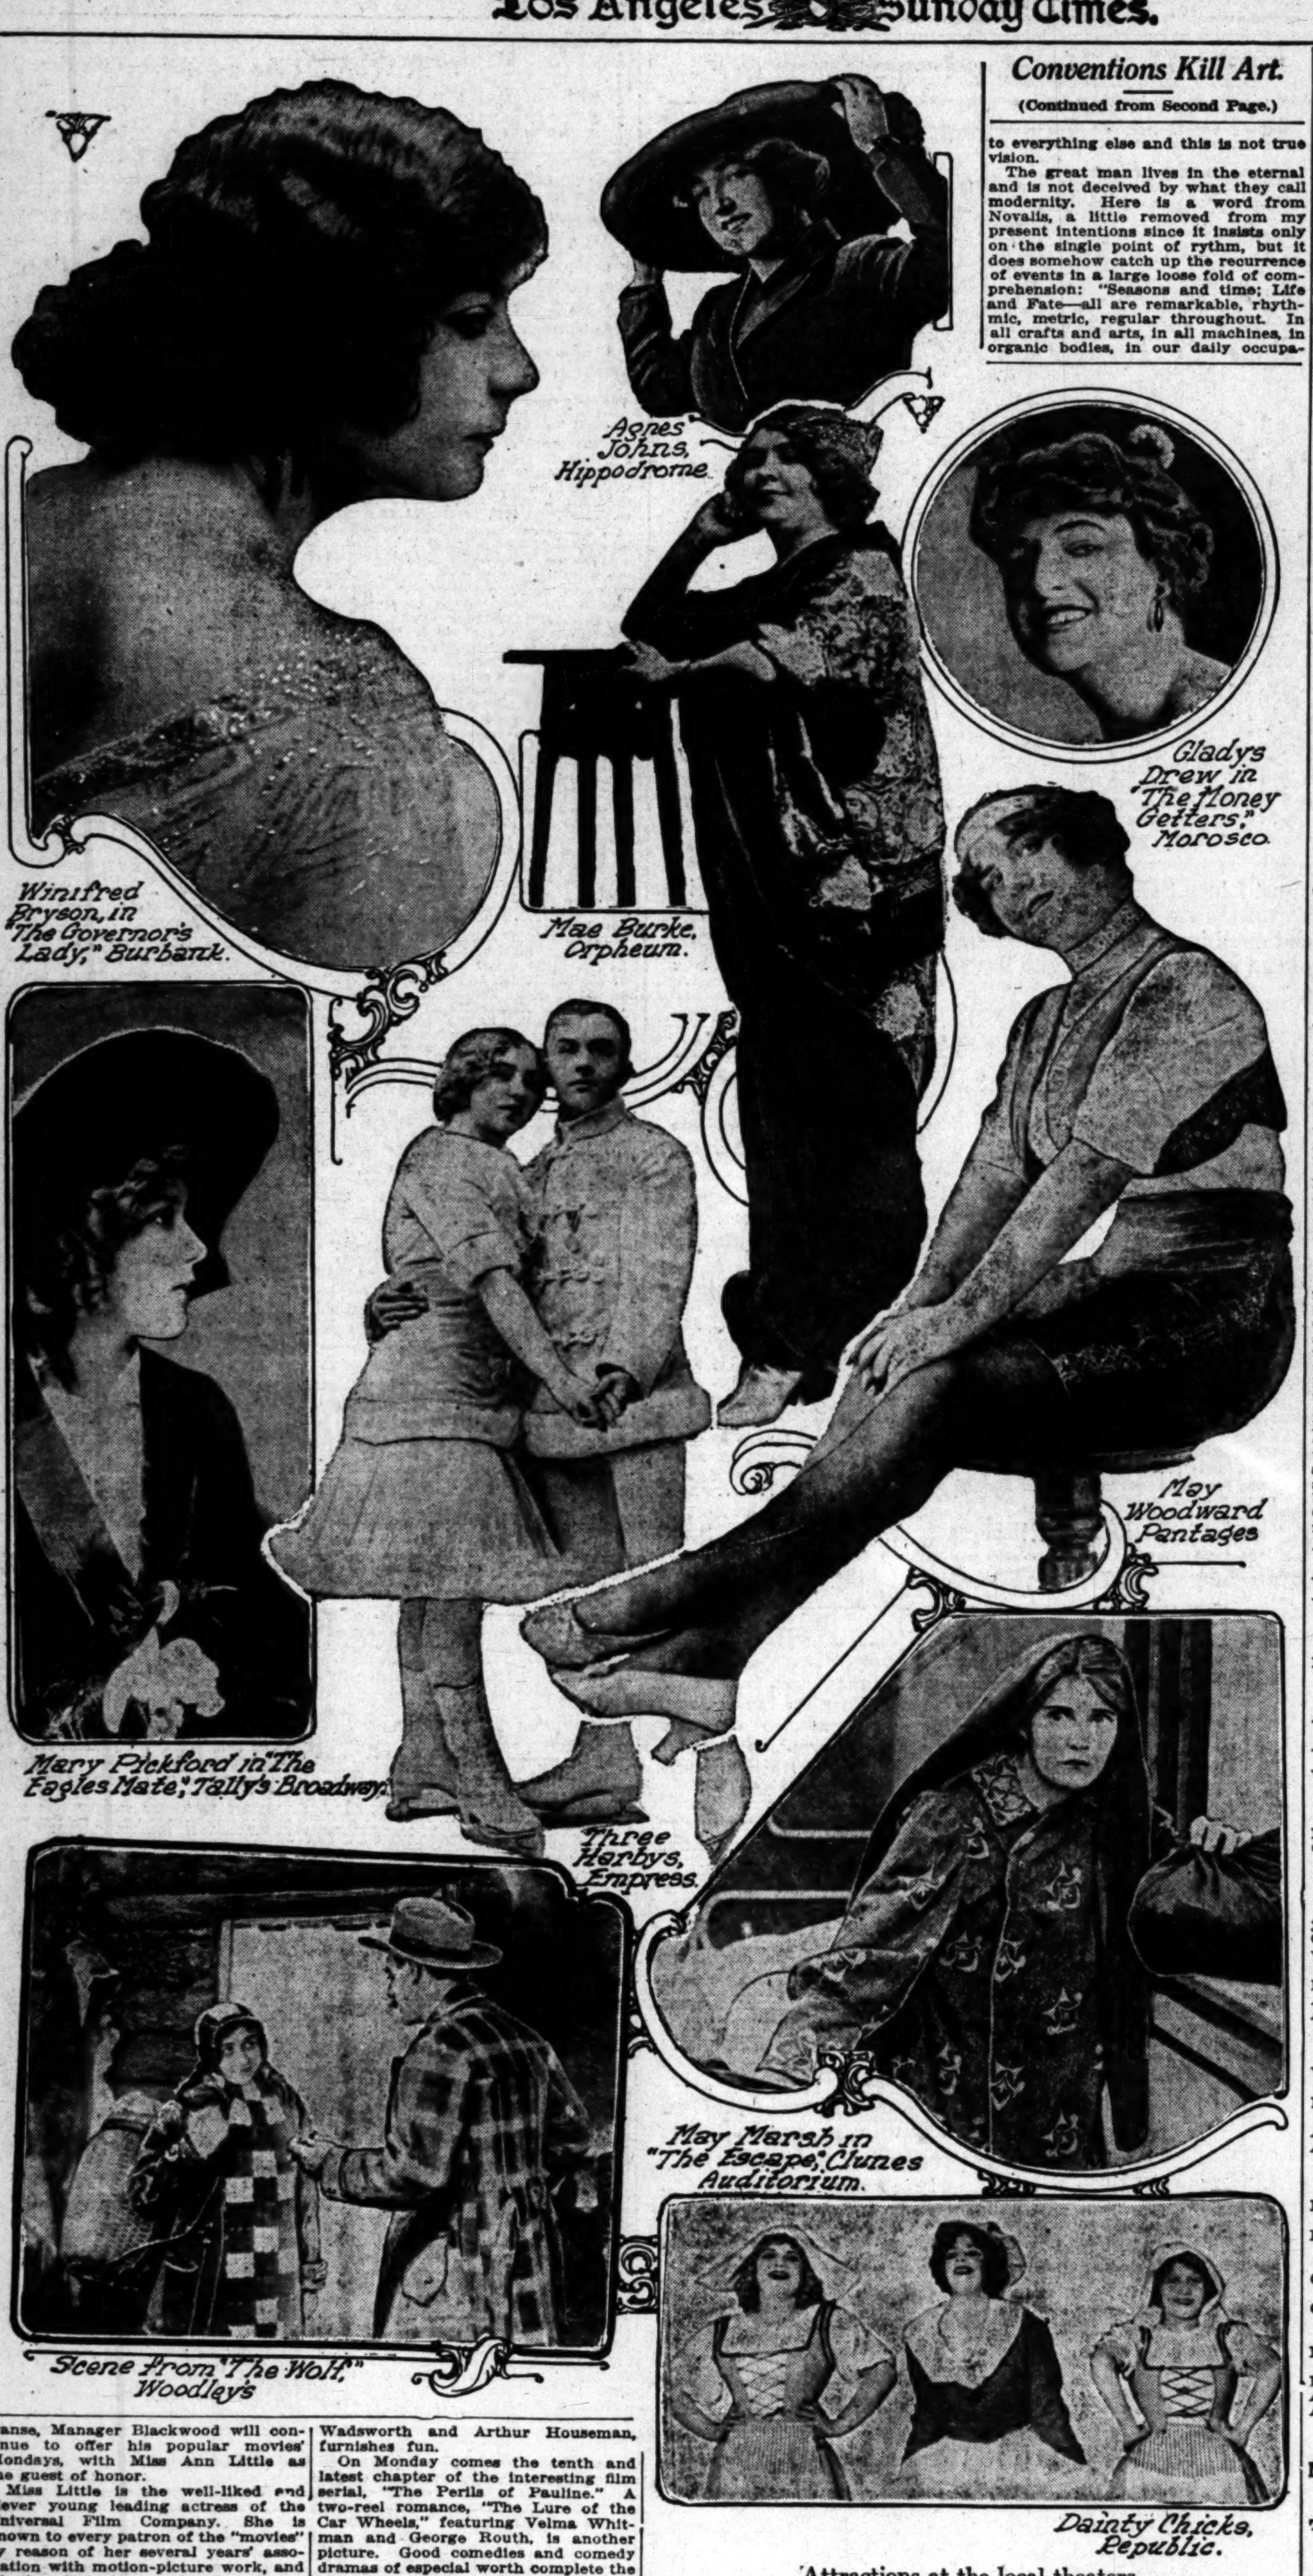
Indications are that Quinn's Superba, which had its formal opening Thursday evening, will take its place as one of the popular motion picture palaces of Los Angeles. During the week to come the Superba will present a varied bill of photo drama and comedy. There will be good vocal music, and Miss Mae Gates and her orchestra will furnish the instrumental music. The Superba has one of the most beautiful theater interiors in the city, and the exterior is a blaze of light.

Little Theater.

"Home, Sweet Home," D. W. Griffith's famous photodrama, will be the opening picture bill at the Little Theater, commencing August 8, when Manager Frank Egan begins his season of feature picture plays there.

Theater De Luxe.

The Theater de Luxe, Alvarado at Orange, has a good bill in prospect for the week. For Sunday and Monday there is a two-reel Vitagraph feature, "The Toll," a comedy, "A Boarding-house Scramble," a Pathe travel film on Japan and an Edison comedy, "Qualifying for Lena." Tuesday and Wednesday there will be on the programme John Bunny in "The Vases of Hymen," Mabel Trunelle in "In the Shadow of Disgrace," Mary Fuller in "Dolly at the Helm," and Selig's pictorial news. "The Banker's Daughter" will be the feature film for Thursday and Friday.



Winifred Bryson in "The Governor's Lady," Burbank.

Agnes Johns, Hippodrome.

Mae Burke, Orpheum.

Gladys Drew in "The Money Getters," Morosco.

Mary Pickford in "The Eagle's Mate," Tally's Broadway.

Three Herbys, Empress.

May Marsh in "The Escape," Clunes Auditorium.

Prof. Meyer Bloomfield, who will leave soon for Palestine as a member of a commission of three appointed by some of the leading philanthropists of this country to make a social survey of the needs and the problems of the Holy Land, is the Harvard University lecturer on vocational guidance and special professor of this subject at Boston University. The United States government has sent Prof. Bloomfield on several important missions. In 1911 the War Department sent him to investigate social and educational problems in Porto Rico. Stimson put into effect a number of recommendations in that report. In 1912 he visited the Indian schools of the country, particularly those along the Pacific Coast, for the Department of the Interior. He has been in California for some time, lecturing at the State University.

Conventions Kill Art.

to everything else and this is not true vision.

The great man lives in the eternal and is not deceived by what they call modernity. Here is a word from Novalis, a little removed from my present intentions since it insists only on the single point of rythm, but it does somehow catch up the recurrence of events in a large loose fold of comprehension: "Seasons and time; Life and Fate—all are remarkable, rhythmic, metric, regular throughout. In all crafts and arts, in all machines, in organic bodies, in our daily occupations, everywhere there is rhythm, metre, accent, melody."

My point is that we cannot do without the big things, but that if we have this vast urge of life with some of its big thunderings and surprises threading our drama the details will take care of themselves and nobody will have to worry about the little questions of an age if the larger ones are accounted for.

Then, too, our style of today is becoming so frank and so blunt that it throttles poetry and blinds us to the big pictures. Nobody cuts loose any more. There is none of the sparkle and urge of life in what is done of late. Nobody piles up and spills over like waves and winds and clouds, and if we have anything worth while it is always done with this splendid giving up and unbending.

Commercialism has a lot to do with this as well. Men have begun to write plays for this theater, and that, and for a certain actor or cast of actors. I cannot conceive of a fine and permanent thing being done in this manner. There are actors who can do one thing better than another, but I doubt that any man will ever write a big play to their pattern. After the big plays are written the artists best suited for it ought to have a chance at its production. An actor may become great through the choice of the right vehicle, but a playwright will not become great by a conscious effort to provide this vehicle.

Percy MacKaye seems to become more and more of a poet as his work matures. He writes a lot of indifferent stuff along with the good, but now and then he breaks out into something precious. He is doing too much unless it was better. But out of the lot one may pick out the gems, and this would be the office of time. His last work, called "The Mask of St. Louis," contains a number of lyrics of a pure and radiant quality. I want to offer two of these because they seem to contain the right spark. They are not great, but their lines are lit by the dream. The first is named "The Chorus of the World Adventurers." It reads:

A star—a star in the west!
  Out of the wave it rose;
And it led us forth on a world-far quest;
Where the mesas scorched and the moorlands froze
  It lured us without rest:
  With yearning, yearning—ah!
It sang (as it beckoned us)
  A music vast, adventurous—
    America!

A star—a star in the night!
  Out of our hearts it dawned!
And it poured within its wonderful light;
Where our hovels gloomed and our hunger spawned
  It healed our passionate blight:
  And burning, burning—ah!
It clanged (as it kindled us)
Of a freedom, proud and perilous—
    America!

⁂

The second is finer in form and just as optimistic. Read then "The Chorus of the Stars."

What of the years—the years—
  As they yearn on earth?
Day and dark are their gliding tears,
And the heart of man is their urn,
And maiden brings flame and mother gives birth
  As they yearn.

What of the souls—the souls
  As they climb toward God?
Doubt and faith are their darkling goals,
And they soar or sink in the slime,
And demon clambers where angel trod,
  As they climb.

Lonely they wander, apart
  From the joy they cherish:
Lonely of heart
  They perish,

Only to rise again
  At the fall of an angel's feather,
Out of their separate pain
  Climbing together.

Lord of the years—the years
  As they yearn from earth,
Life goes forth with his pioneers,
And the planets shake as he sings,
And out of the slime he laughs in the mirth
  Of his wings.

MADAME ISE'BELL'S BEAUTY LESSON.

THE HANDS—THEIR POSSIBILITIES.

The beauty of the hand is much a matter of training and care. The hand is far less sensitive than the face. It should far outlive it, but often through cruel abuse and neglect the hands become wrinkled and unlovely long before the meridian of life is reached. My pupils sometimes say to me: "There is nothing I can do for my hands now beyond having my nails manicured." They are quite wrong. I have often seen a few months' intelligent care transform discolored, wrinkled hands to smoothness and attractive whiteness. Is it not worth trying?

Soap and Uncleanliness.

Most hands are harmed by the too frequent and indiscriminate use of soap. Dirt becomes grimed into the skin and the quickest and most thorough way of getting rid of it is to use strong soap. Both the dirt and the soap are bad for the hands. The sort of soap that removes dirt quickly, the kind you would use to clean any soiled fabric, soon dries the natural moisture from the skin and wrinkles result.

The escape from this dilemma, my dear friends, is to protect your hands; do not ever allow them to become stained or very much soiled. I am not going to ignore the fact that many of you do housework, work in your gardens, or perform other hand-routine tasks, but it is possible to do all these things and still care for the hands.

Mrs. F. G. writes me regarding an excessive dryness of the scalp. The best remedy for this is regular massage of the scalp, which will excite the natural flow of the oil glands. In a future lesson I shall give directions for complete scalp massage. I also recommend that Mrs. F. G. rubs yellow vaseline into the scalp every other night, using only a little at a time, and taking care not to get it on the hair.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Vice-President Marshall has had a prejudice against wearing any form of sock supporter. He insists that when one considers the small amount of a sock that extends above the shoe tops, the wearing of a formal support for the sock is perilously close to putting on airs. However, when he became Governor of Indiana, friends prevailed upon him that he owed it to himself and his position to take some action looking to the proper support of his socks. Rather than hurt anybody's feelings he gave in to the extent of making a slight compromise. That is, he got himself a pair of safety pins and used them to keep up his socks. By the use of those homely instruments he felt that he was still safe from being a dude. One of his friends was not satisfied even then and bought Marshall a pair of patent sock upholders.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said Marshall. "I'll keep these and if I ever get to be President I'll wear them."

"Nothing was said about the Vice-Presidency," remarked Marshall, "but to be perfectly fair in the matter, I'll wear one of them. If I'm ever President I'll put on the other one."

And that is the reason the Vice-President today wears a regular fastener on his right sock, but not on his left one.

A commercial adviser probably is to be added to the staff of American advisers of the Chinese government, as it has requested Dr. Albert A. Snowden, David M. Parry of Indianapolis and John Kirby, Jr., of Dayton, O., a delegation from the National Association of Manufacturers, to appoint such an adviser.

The first secretary of a Chamber of Commerce in the United States to be distinguished by an honorary degree is Munson Havens of Cleveland, O., who was recently awarded the title, master of arts, by Oberlin College, in recognition of "his making larger and higher ideals for Chambers of Commerce throughout the country."

The ascent of the famous peak known as the Moench, which rises 13,468 feet beside the Jungfrau, was recently accomplished under the most unfavorable conditions by Thomas W. Brady of Baltimore, who took with him two Grundelwald guides. This was the first ascent of the season and the climb occupied ten hours.

Representative Sherwood of Ohio set a new precedent last week in a request for leave of absence for five days from the House. The Ohio veteran asked for five days off to repair "vital energy." Representative Mann, minority leader, said he would not object to that request from Gen. Sherwood, but that if any other member of Congress wanted to repair his energy he would have to wait until adjournment.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Senora Ramonas R. Flores, recently promoted to the rank of colonel in the fighting forces of the Mexican Constitutionalists and attached to the brigade of General Carrasco, is one of the half-dozen women to hold commissions in the rebel service, all won by action on the field of battle. She is the widow of Major Flores, an artillery officer, who was killed in the first Madero revolution of 1910. She has taken part in thirty-two battles and engagements, and has twice been wounded.

Dr. Louise Pearce of the department of pathology and bacteriology of the Rockefeller Institute, New York, has been made an assistant to Dr. Simon Flexner. She went to the Institute last August from Johns Hopkins University.

Mrs. T. H. Bailey of Atchison, Kansas, has done the family washing at the home of G. B. Buck for fity years. It is believed a better record for faithfulness is unrecorded in the annals of washwomen.

FOR WOMEN AND MEN.

Facts, Features and Fancies.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

THE GOOD HOUSEKEEPER'S HINT: In her effort to make easier the many labors connected with the care of the family clothing, the Good Housekeeper has devised a plan for removable buttons upon the summer gowns. To each of the fabric-covered buttons which are to be taken off when laundered, she adds one of the dress snaps, sewing the fastener to the garment. The better fasteners are made from nonrusting metal and may be allowed to remain on the garment.

Blessed be the Camera!

How many a happy hour is spent conning over the pictures taken during pleasant trips! "Oh, I never bother to take a camera along," I heard an indolent woman say, "for I can always buy postals of the place visited and I consider them quite as satisfactory as anything I could take." What a mistaken idea. Even though the pictures taken with your camera may lack the artistic finish or the composition of the ones made by a professional, there is always the personal element, and this is worth more than anything else to most people. "There is Jack! See! The one on that overhanging limb! Yes, it looked dangerous, but he is a daring one. And there is Beth. The one with the big hat—yes—it shades her face so you could never tell, but we know. That was during the Laguna hike—and didn't we have fun!" And so on throughout the entire camera book. It is like passing over the ground anew each time the book is conned. Think what such pictures will mean in the years to come, when the young people are settled and reminiscent, and perhaps unable to add to the camera pictures of hikes and climbs. Their children and their children's children, perhaps, will look at those pictures and exclaim about the feats accomplished by their parents, and possibly will regret that those days were not theirs—or will it be the other way? And will they say: "Dear me, it must have been stupid to go about thus, instead of through the air as we habitually go? See that cloud! Remember the day our aeromobile was snowed under in that, and we afterward took that picture? See that mountain top, through the loophole in the dense fog? That was where we lost our soundings and hung suspended for eight hours, not knowing but that me might at any moment drop into the sea. I wouldn't live in any time but these!" Well, it may be that way. We cannot penetrate the future, save at 50 cents per hand, and even then we are not quite certain.

For Security.

The Chaperon always takes with her on the vacation trips everything which could possibly be needed, and some articles which none but she would ever think to take. Among these is a heavy wire bent into a "U." When this queer thing was produced from out her baggage the girls were all curiosity, until she explained by putting the implement into use. She just passed the wire over the door knob and through the handle of the key, and behold, a safety lock which no burglar or curiosity-seeker could turn. The girls declared that they would never again feel safe in a strange place without the chaperon's safety lock.

On Guard.

A slide and chain for safely fastening the watch while wearing a belt is one of the novelties for men's use this summer. The watch guard may be had in either gold or silver at one of the big jewelry stores.

Etruscan.

The newest design in table silver, shown by a leading Broadway jewelry firm is called the Etruscan. The shape and marking is extremely chaste and pleasing, both in the personal pieces and in the tea sets. "Family plate," as silver used to be called, is again as important a part of the household possessions as in the time of our grandmothers.

* * *

A Bright Touch.

A bright touch is given to some of the new "roll-ups"—the soft white hats of felt—by the use of narrow bands and bindings in brilliant shades to match the ties and hose.

* * *

New Slippers.

Some of the more dressy slippers for evening wear have rich brocades for the upper portion and the same material used as a part of the buckle. The effect is novel and excellent.

* * *

Condiment Sets.

In a new glass, of good quality but less expensive than cut glass, I observed a novel condiment set, consisting of oil and vinegar cruets, salt and pepper, all set within a dainty tray of glass in an interesting, oblong shape. For salad days one of these pretty sets would form a useful addition to any table.

* * *

For Porch Teas.

There is something cool and attractive about glass for summer use. For instance, for the porch tea, one of the cube sugar racks of glass might appropriately replace the one of sterling silver. The glass ones are quite inexpensive.

* * *

Very Traveled.

If you have ever doubted the durability of a certain make of luggage just take a look at that trunk shown in the window of the specialty house in luggage and note how brave and ready for further use is the trunk here shown, despite the fact as stated, that it has traveled 121,000 miles, under the trying circumstances which usually besets baggage. Such a piece of luggage well deserves its name, which is the equivalent of undestroyable.

* * *

To Outshine Us.

If men generally adopt the new tartan effects in clothes women will be obliged to adapt the rainbow to their needs in order to hold their own in dress. A Spring-street clothing house, which always leads in styles, has among its new importations for men, tartans in charming color combinations such as green, purple, and red on backgrounds of soft brown or dark gray. They are also showing stripes—running the proper way, of course! We may be out-Romaned, if we do not take care. For, by contrast to some of these new suits for men our modest dark blue serges, even when illumined by brilliant touches here and there, seem dull indeed.

By the way, the same Spring-street house has quite as authentic a showing in women's garmentry as in that for men.

"The Biggest West of—."

"They say that is the biggest store west of—goodness knows what!" Thus exclaimed a girl who had been hearing for the first time about some of the wonders of Los Angeles. But really, when it can be truly said that a single furniture department is fifty feet by 150, and equal to ten stories in height, it may safely be said to be the biggest west of somewhere—don't you think? And this is the size of that newly-extended furniture department in that big Broadway store, where many of the departments are quite the size of individual establishments. The expansion of this department will be celebrated the coming week by a sale as wondrous as is the department, judged by values and prices.

As Dame Fashion Will Appear.

Extremely deep cuffs will be very smart.

Upstanding ruff collars are more and more liked.

Fall skirts are being made with clusters of pleats.

Entire skirts are occasionally made of Roman stripes.

The velvet sash is a new and very effective note.

Embroidered taffeta dresses are among the novelties.

Fur trimmings, it is said, will be in good standing for fall.

Figured basques are seen worn with plain black tunic skirts.

Velvet millinery will surely have a great vogue this autumn.

Cavalier capes are being made nowadays for quite little girls.

There seems to be a decided return to long simple lines in dress.

Pique is more used than any other material for collars and waistcoats.

OPEN SEASON FOR JOYRID

Children Still Make Merr "Times" Guests.

Three Glad Caravans T to Venice Midway.

Tired, Yellow Dog Her Exciting Episode.

It is the open season for joy- "Neptune," the big Times au livery truck, is still making a like a luxury wagon. City-broke, and sound, he makes round tri Venice three times a week with of kids.

Ever since Mr. Dill owned only pickle, kids have loved a joy- Whether it be on a low-gear hay or a high-gear gasoline wago simply as chauffeur on an Irish going down hill, it is all one to just so he gets a chance to the scenery go by and holler.

Neptune took the care out of van for 150 youngsters last T when, with some brother auto tained by an enterprising Ninth-street summer school its swift way to the seaside. Seve street summer school took a tr Wednesday and the boys of land Home on Friday.

The chauffeur, that long-su impresario of the joy-rides, has an experience that makes the lady with the eccentric tastes in dences look like a nun on a island. Stage-managing fifty y sters on the Venice midway is as strenuous as herding flea many have been his adventures those of the various nurses and ers who have helped him cha these youthful proteges of the Pep.

A small boy came to Seventh- summer school, leading a weary-l ing yellow dog by a string. The was old, and his teeth being on his upper lip gave him a ously sinister appearance. Never less, "love me, love my dog" was small boy's motto. The chauffeur him kindly but firmly that the could not go; that the auto was so full of children that couldn't squeeze a toothpick tween them. Nevertheless Fido to go, according to that small who sat down low on the edg the auto, and, by reason of strange twist in boy psycholog it out on his pet by pulling on the rope the creature had to on his hind legs to keep from choked to death. The chauffeur not start and the boy would leave the dog behind; wherefore caravan did not budge.

"Aw, leave um home!" impa ly admonished Johnny's friends Johnny remained adamant and on with his grouch, continu jerk Fido's line as if he were in a big fish. Fido stood this as as his dog patience could stand Then he took things into his paws. A small boy in the back was leaning forward over the sea front, nearly doubled up, reaching his lunch basket and saying he was going home. Just then F taut line was loosened, and knew how he did it, but somehow took a flying leap and landed ly in the center of that portion that small boy's geography was open to attack. This ca the small boy into the seat and Fido got a better hold. It was exciting moment. But the cha used to emergencies, with great ence of mind, started the auto dog let loose, jumped up master's knees and pricked ears and laughed a most dog laugh, to show there was no hard feelings. The boy, himself uninjured except as sense of dignity, made friends the dog, and Fido sat up and good a look at the scenery as body. Down on the Midway would not let him into the sions, so he sat outside each and howled dismally till his appeared. They did sneak him the bump the bumps, and a surprised canine you never saw he hit the midway again, a and a wiser dog, with lowered a sign of defeat, he made beach, and buried his shame sand, refusing to come forth lunch was spread. Then a juicy bone proved too much for his gish pride and he consented to his eyes and eat.

One of the "functions" was party by the little girls of street, who brought their chi wax, and bisque with their beauty, and set-piece smiles for the day. The dolls were equal to Chinatown and Rub and only stared in polite Also only one fell off of the Through the Clouds; but wh came to bathing in the ocean of their charms succumbed, was a sorry-looking bunch of that went home.

Next week some more child Ninth street, Seventh street and street summer schools will ta trip.

MEN AND EVENTS.

For singing hymns in a loud, raucous voice, regardless of the pitch and beat observed by the other members of the congregation, Charles Tunstall, the village blacksmith of the village of Tunstall, has been sent to jail on the charge of disturbing the peace. The complaining witness was one of the church wardens, who testified that Tunstall's singing was so loud and so bad that the nerves of the churchgoers gave way and the blacksmith became almost the only regular attendant at service. Jail sentence was imposed in lieu of a one-pound fine with costs, which the defendant refused to pay.

Bryan Wise of Crane, Mo., with an eighteen-year-old crop of hair, awaits the election of William Jennings Bryan to the Presidency before he will submit to a shearing of his locks. His long locks are kept in place by bright-colored ribbons of tasty and attractive appearance. Young Wise was born in 1896 and soon became an admirer of his namesake. He steadfastly has followed his chief, and so devout has been his faith that he has endured the jeers of those whom he meets rather than have his hair cut.

A strange story of a deaf and dumb diver recovering his speech and hearing after ten years comes from Ashford, Kent. While performing conjuring feats in the cattle market, the man, named Egan, had a fit, which is believed to have removed a clot of blood, and when he recovered he surprised his friends by speaking quite clearly. Egan says that ten years ago, while diving near a wreck in American waters, he was attacked by a shark, which bit him on the leg. The shock caused him to become a deaf mute and he had since eked out a living by traveling about performing conjuring tricks. He intends to return to the United States, where his relatives live.

Arthur Lamb, who having successfully passed the entrance examinations, will enter Harvard University in October, is but 14 years old. He is one of the most accomplished and youngest pipe organists in the country. Last year he served as assistant organist at old St. Paul's Church, Boston, at the week-day services.

A. C. Carmichael, minister of public Instruction in New South Wales, has been visiting England, and finds it a sad place. In restaurants and on buses when he heard anybody talking cheerfully it was sure to be a foreigner. At a hotel table sat a man and woman, English; in the course of the meal the woman said "mustard," and "bring some vinegar;" the rest was silence. In Australia, he said, people read Bernard Shaw for amusement; he was surprised to find that in England people seemed to take even Shaw seriously.

John Logsdon, 41 years old, of Louisville, Ky., has a bullet-proof skull, according to the story he told local hospital attendants, when taken there for treatment. "I put a 22-cal. revolver at the top of my head and fired three times," he explained, "but it didn't seem to have much effect, so I stuck the barrel in my eye and pulled the trigger. That hurt a little. Then I put it to my forehead and once at the side. That was all the bullets I had."

The New York State Superintendent of Banks, E. M. Richards, speaking at a convention in Atlantic City on the excessive lawmaking in America today, said that "to enforce the hundreds of miles of statutes now on the books would require 100 attorney-generals, 1000 district attorneys and 1,000,000 policemen."

THE END OF THE WORLD.

[Buffalo News:] When the bottom of the sea gives way from some future volcanic disturbance the whole earth will be consumed in flames, just as other worlds every day are being consumed, according to Louis Babourdin, the French scientist. Recent volcanic disturbances led this scientist to believe that such a time is not far distant. The earth's crust is very thin at the bottom of the sea, he says, and he adds that the floor on which we stand is more frail than we are led to believe.

Mr. Rabourdin imagines a disaster so great as to involve the whole earth, if such an event should occur. He thinks that from a distant world its appearance and progress would exactly parallel what we ourselves see in the case of the "novae," or distant stars, that blaze out in the heavens from time to time.

Mr. Babourdin says: "Suppose that following upon an extraordinary twisting movement, due to retreat of the central mass, a large mass of the sea bottom should give way, and falling suddenly, should let in the mass of the ocean's waters upon the incandescent interior matter? The water would be decomposed by the heat, the hydrogen would burn, and it would burn more as it had access to more oxygen. The conflagration would thus gain gradually in force, accompanied by electric phenomena, and the greater part of the earth's crust would probably be displaced. The earth, passing through a critical epoch and returning for the time being to its formative period, would again be nothing but a globe of fire.

"For the far-off worlds that swing in sidereal space this would be the phenomenon of a new star that blazes out all at once, increases in brilliancy as if it would eclipse the luminous splendor of all its neighbors, and then becomes feebler and feebler, to disappear finally forever in the profound darkness of the limitless distance."

When such a catastrophe takes place, if ever it does, that will be the "end of the world" so far as we at least are concerned.

GOVERNMENT PAYS ROYALTY.

United States Uses German Engines on Naval Vessels at Heavy Expense for Plans and Right to Use Same.

[Washington Star:] The utter dependence of the United States on foreign countries for some of the latest developments in power producers was humiliatingly shown before the House Committee on Naval Affairs recently when Rear-Admiral Griffin admitted that after a most thorough investigation of the various types of heavy oil engines the navy had been forced to select a German make for one of the American vessels.

The admiral told the committee that the German firm was to be paid $32,098 for the plans and for a license to manufacture two of the engines, each of 2500 horse power. The engines, which are to be placed in the twin-screw oil fuel ship now building at the Mare Island navy yard, are now being made at the New York navy yard. If they are successful it will be necessary to pay royalty to the German company before other similar engines can be built. Rear-Admiral Griffin further explained that all of the principal types of heavy oil engines on the market are of foreign design. This declaration interested the members of the committee and they brought out the fact that the United States navy is paying a royalty of 50 cents per horse power on turbine engines, the royalty on the battleship New York, with 34,000 horse power, being $17,000.

It is expected that the two engines for the oil fuel ship will cost a quarter of a million dollars. Admiral Griffin said that some of the foreign manufacturers wanted the whole appropriation of $250,000 for the plans and license to make two of their engines, making the cost of manufacture an additional expense. The engines to be installed on this ship are a representative type of Diesel engine, an engine that uses oil in the cylinders, the oil itself being sprayed into the cylinders with a jet of air and fired by the heat of compression of the air in the cylinders.

LAURA JEAN LIBBEY TALKS HEART TOPICS.

Are Homely Men Popular With Women?

"'Tis the pang alone to part
From those we love that rends the heart;
That agony to save,
Some nameless power in nature strives,
And blossoms, and our hope revives."

The brainy young man whom nature did not favor with a handsome face should not stand back discouraged and let his good-looking chum push ahead of him, when there are young and sociable women about.

Men who lack brilliancy of speech, as well as good looks, often fly in the opposite direction when they see women approach. They imagine they cut a poor figure and because of no confidence in their powers to entertain they would rather refuse the invitation of a pretty girl to her home than accept.

If the homely man musters up sufficient courage to call upon a young lady whom he admires and finds a handsome dashing young fellow in her parlor, he would gladly beat a hasty retreat ere he has had the opportunity to seat himself. If he but knew it, while young women duly admire manly beauty, when it comes to taking a life partner ten girls out of a dozen would prefer the homely man.

Why? Well, they would tell you of a score of reasons, but giving you just a few of them is sufficient. Where a man is given a handsome face he is apt to be a little selfish at heart. He is used to admiration and looks for it from women. Marriage does not seem to stifle this egotism. The homely man is used to having flighty, frolicsome girls pass him by for his frolicsome brothers. But when he finds one maiden in whose eyes the lovelight shines for him his sincere gratitude and delight are boundless. His reverence for womankind is part of his religion. He is so anxious to please and secure the girl that he doesn't stand long on ceremony, but proposes in short order to settle his doubts and fears.

Happy indeed is the woman who secures him for a husband. He is all devotion to her. Home, wife and children are his first consideration. He throws himself into business with a zest to surround them with comforts and luxuries. It is seldom or never the very homely man who figures in scandals or who is caught flirting with lively maids when his wife is off for the summer. His heart is a jewel, even though the setting is plain and rugged. Years go on; his peace of mind and contentment show in his face, his lips wear a smile. The man who is handsome in his youth and at last meets and battles with that formidable bugbear, Father Time, becomes disgruntled and cross. To outlive his good looks, pass through a crowd unnoticed, is a calamity to him. Good looks are well enough in a man if he does not bank too much upon them. In the race for love it is usually the homely man who carries off the prize. Plainness is not a handicap in a woman's eyes.

Address your letters to Miss Libbey, No. 916 President street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Correct name and address must be given to insure attention—not to print.

Love Should Not Be Bartered.

Dear Miss Libbey: I am a young girl of 22 and in serious anxiety. I am the eldest of a large family of children. My parents are poor in consequence. Father is a book-keeper in a mill. Lately his employer's wife passed away, and ever since then he has been paying regular calls every evening at our home. We soon found out I was the attraction that brought him there. I absented myself a few times and he grew exceedingly angry. He told my father that if he expected to keep his job he had better see that I was there. Father is over 50 and could not get another position and is greatly troubled. You see, I have a young man I love. He has not proposed to me yet, but I am sure he means to do so. He is not well off and is out of a place just now. Mother sides with me, but father says I ought to accept the widower if he asks me. What ought I to do? ALICE.

The situation is truly a crucial one. Be present when the widower calls, but try your womanly wit to disenchant him. A frowning, complaining lass could soon weary him if she also proved a dull companion. It is always wisest and best (save in a very few rare exceptions) to wed the man you love, refusing the man to whom you might give your young life, but not your heart.

Entertains When She Cannot Afford It.

Dear Miss Libbey: I wish you would write up something about the discouragement of the husband whose wife spends all he earns in entertaining lavishly so-called friends who do not care two buttons for her. She has a veritable mania for giving little luncheons, dinners and restaurant parties. How can I put a stop to it? BANKRUPT.

Have an earnest heart-to-heart talk with your wife, explain that your life is being sapped up with incessant work, discouragement being constantly present because you are unable to save any part of your salary. If she refuses to see the matter aright, withhold the pocketbook from her grasp for a few weeks. This will bring even the most extravagant of wives to their senses.

A Little Lad's Woes.

Dere Mis Liby: I jest wish youd give my sister a peac of your mind about boys. She tells things about me to my father and gits me lickd almos every day. I am goin to run awaw ef it keps up. Bat her jes as hard as ever you ken.

BEN THURSDAY,
Twelve years old.

It is sad to receive such a pitiful appeal revealing in its every line the crushed spirit and sad heart of a dear little lad. I would say to this sister: be kind to the boy, years fly swiftly, you will not be long together under the family roof tree in all probability. Elder sisters should make home a place of content and joy to their little brothers. Be a peacemaker, sister, and do your utmost to shield him from the punishments his boyish pranks may merit. Hold him close in your arms and kiss away his tears. Let him feel that he has a sister who loves him to confide in and help him out of his scrapes. People often wonder why children are glad to get away from home at such tender ages. When they do, there's generally a reason.

LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

Prof. F. Soddy, F.R.S., declares that it is only a question of application to change lead into gold. He says that, while now we can only work with electricity at 100,000 volts, it is only a matter of perfecting the method to be able to work at ten times that voltage, when the baser metals can be changed into the more precious. In other words, electricity, when brought to its highest efficiency and application, is the real philosopher's stone for which the alchemists of the middle ages searched so long.

Gorgeous 6 to 10-inch ribbons go into this Monday sale at 59c

King Cotton wrote us weeks ago about how he schemed and planned to get these wonderful silk ribbons at a fraction of their worth—but it wasn't until the ribbons themselves put in an appearance that we fully understood what really sensational values they were.

Why! the writer saw 7-inch Dresden ribbons in pink, blue and delicate shades of yellow with plain moire borders on both edges an inch wide, that you would have been glad to pay double 59c for. Then there were 6 to 8-inch Dresdens in darker colors that were quite as good values and brocaded satins 6 to 8 inches wide in delft blue, pink, black and salmon and brocaded velvets 5 to 7 inches wide that were wonder values—but perhaps you'll be most interested in those 6 to 10-inch plaids and Roman stripes that are included. You can well imagine how much they're underworth. The store opens at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

If you knew what sharp reductions he has made on these dresses you'd expect to see more than enough women waiting for our doors to open Monday morning to take every one of them. They're all exquisitely made—most of the styles and a great many of the materials and trimmings came from abroad. In ever so many cases the laces on them would cost as much as King Cotton has marked the whole dress. These pictures show but a few of them—there are scores of others. The materials include crepe de Riz, crepe de ajour, crepe Croquelle, French voile, organdie, marquisette and net. The sizes range from 14 to 44.

These pretty wash dresses are to be $6.95

—but it's only because King Cotton put his foot down flat and insisted that the price is so absurdly low. Every one of the department people declared that these dresses would sell just as readily at more—but King Cotton has gone to no ends of trouble to get them and he wanted to see them go flying out Monday, and they will.

—The styles—let the pictures tell about them—the materials include crepes, voiles, linens and novelty fabrics in pink, Copenhagen, purple, navy and white and in combinations of these colors. The sizes range from 14 to 44.

50 dozen lingerie waists to go at $1.00

Here's an item that came rushing in by express at the very last minute—and the values are so unusual that King Cotton made us hold up this advertisement until the 11th hour. They're all cool, summery styles with low necks and with either long or short sleeves. 50 dozen of them will be put forward at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

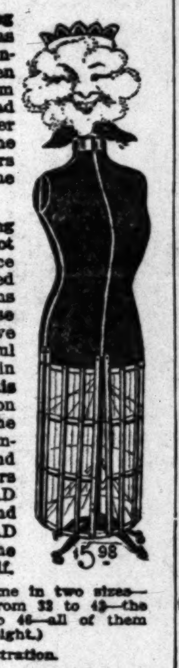
Fourth Floor—Jacoby's.

Queen Cotton!

King Cotton's consort has come with him this year and she's going to take an important part in this great sale of her King's. She's brought her spinning wheel along and will show you just how cotton was carded, spun and reeled in the days of old. She will be in one of our windows in the morning at 10, and in the afternoon at 1:30. The cotton which she uses is from our own Imperial Valley—its splendid long staple Egyptian cotton furnished to her by the California Land and Water Company of "Niland" fame. Queen Cotton will be glad to tell you all about Cotton, how it is grown and spun and woven.

King Cotton said:

—"I'm enthusiastic over these adjustable dress forms at $5.98. Where did you get them to sell for so little?"



And we told King Cotton just as we've told hundreds of women how we buy them by the carload getting a lower price from the manufacturers and saving on the freight, too.

And then King Cotton forgot about the price and enthused over these forms again because they would prove such a wonderful help to women in making up his sheer soft cotton weaves into the prettiest of summer dresses—and he gave orders for a rousing AD for them, and here's the AD—a picture of the dress form itself.

(These forms come in two sizes—one adjustable from 32 to 42—the other from 36 to 46—all of them adjust to any height.)

He so thoroughly enjoys humbling things not cotton by underpricing them when they think they're new enough and pretty enough to bring full price. King Cotton is going to sell thes —and he must have done more than just coax and tease to get these wonderful lace sets to sell at this price—they're practically the same pieces that we've seen sold in the regular way at 2 and 3 times 50c.

Plauen lace collar and cuff sets at . . 50c

The pictures show some of them—but there are dozens of others both square and round—some very elaborate separate collars are included too. They should cause a mighty stir at 50c.

South Aisle—Jacoby's.

King Cotton urged us to quote the worth prices of these pieces in this advertisement but the writer contends that you and other women know that any scarf, square or centerpiece is priced ridiculously low at 23c—and these are all neatly and very prettily trimmed with lace insertings and edgings. King Cotton has discarded far and away the bigger part of their price. They'll go like wild fire at 23c—Main Floor—Jacoby's.

King Cotton names half prices on Men's Furnishings

He's going to lend us all his power, his energy and enthusiasm to help clear out the Men's Furnishings Store. With such values as these he has prepared for Monday, the clearaway should be effected in no time at all. As quantities are limited on all of the items listed below, we will be able to accept no phone orders nor will we send any C. O. D. or on approval—none will be exchanged.

Cooper's gray ribbed shirts and drawers in most all sizes, 75c.
Hansen's reinforced work gloves, 62½c.
Balbriggan drawers, sizes 30 and 32 only—at 12½c.
Shawknit socks, tan only in sizes 9½ to 11 at 12½c.
White bosom shirts, sizes 17½ and 18, 50c.

King Cotton has taken 1000 yards of shadow lace and repriced it 39c

King Cotton says that this 16th sale of his is going to be far and away the biggest of them all and if we're to judge by the reductions that he has made on these laces, it will more than come up to his expectations.

Some few of these lace flouncings have been reduced about a half but the greater part of them are 'way less than half price—some of them are but a third of what they were originally. Among them is a wide variety of floral and conventional patterns in white, cream, ecru and black. The widths range from 18 to 27 inches. Early choosing will be wise.

North Aisle—Jacoby's.

42-in. embroidered flouncings at 50c

Note that width again and be sure you understand the full importance of this offering. They're of a splendid quality rice cloth, very deeply and heavily embroidered with mercerized thread in quite an extensive range of patterns. They're the very ones you'll want for making the summer's new long tuniced frocks and skirts. They're very, very special at 50c.

North Aisle—Jacoby's.

King Cotton must have been just a little bit jealous when he invaded the silk store and marked these—

24 to 40-in. Silks at 39c

And he might well be jealous of these silks, but it is hard to understand why he marked them at such a ridiculously low price. But they're marked and they're to go Monday—that's the part you and I are interested in. Among them are silk foulards, eponges, poplins, crepes, and novelty silks in plain colors and fancy patterns. They should cause as much of a sensation at 39c as any of King Cotton's own star items.

200 yds. silk at 65c
Pure silk tub shirtings that have been taken right out of our regular stocks and repriced especially for this 16th Semi-annual Sale of King Cotton's.

750 yds. sateen 7½c
These are mill remnants, but they're most of them long enough for any use that you'll put them to—they're all in black—they're all 36 inches wide.

Wool Canton crepes 48c
Some splendid mohair suitings are included too—both materials come in black, white and ever so many new colors. Widths range from 40 to 50 inches.

Center Aisle—Jacoby's.

81x90-in. Dallas sheets 55c

We doubt if King Cotton could have hunted out an item that would have aroused as much enthusiasm among housekeepers and hotel-keepers as will this one.

These are the famous Dallas sheets than which there are none better in all Sheetdom—they're bleached as white as snow and are made without seams—you know how much such sheets usually sell for and how much you save when you buy them at 55c.

32 in. India linon 9c
King Cotton says this is so much underpriced he's going to move it down to the Main Floor where more of you will see it and have an opportunity to buy it.

If only we could tell you how much it's underprice, this full case which we will put forward Monday would be gone long before noon. You'd better plan to buy what you need, early.

Main Floor—Jacoby's.

63x90-in. seamless Dallas sheets at 35c
These are unbleached, but it will only take a washing or two and a few hours of our Southern California sun to make them white as white can be. They're priced so you can make splendid savings—savings that will make it worth your while to buy a dozen or more.

54x90-in. Sheets at 32½c
Seamless, unbleached Dallas sheets—and they're quite as much underworth as those at 55c and 35c. They should prove of unusual interest to those who have single beds.

45-in. pillow casing 12½c

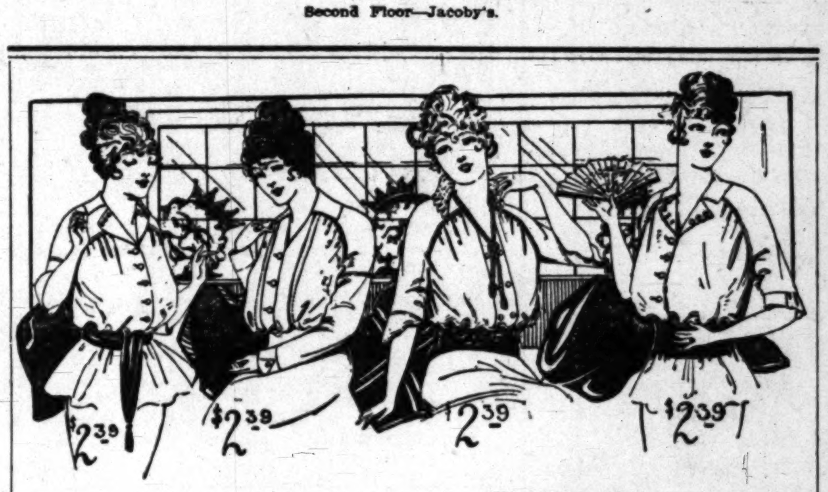
90-in. Dallas sheeting 22½c
This full bleached Dallas sheeting will last no time at all at this low price King Cotton has named.

Second Floor—Jacoby's.



Crepe de chine waists $2.39

King Cotton must have some wonderfully good friends in the eastern markets to get such waists as these of crepe de chine to sell at his cotton prices. The pictures show the styles—let us only add that they come in white, tan, maize, and pink and that the crepe de chine is an exceptional quality. Some of them are in one of our windows today.

4th Floor—Jacoby's.

A new movement has been started at Sing Sing prison, New York, that of providing sports for the convicts. The first day's result was encouraging, as at the conclusion the 1530 prisoners were moved from the yard to the cell houses and locked in within eight minutes, for the first time since the prison was established, in 1825. Also for the first time, there was no man in solitary confinement.

Heretofore prisoners resentful of severe discipline have hidden in the shops and other buildings, and keepers have had to search for them. The introduction of sports into Sing Sing has brought a new era that apparently is pleasing to the convicts.

Susan Davis, who died recently in Philadelphia, made a $5000 bequest to St. John's Orphan Asylum, although her estate was valued at only $10,000.

Miss Mona Dunne, the beautiful daughter of Gov. Dunne of Illinois, recently proved herself a girl of courage and rare presence of mind, when she rescued two girl companions from an automobile which was dashing down an embankment at Geneva Lake. Frank Nelson Gifford, who was acting as chauffeur, was crushed to death.

A $200,000 mansion, furnished complete, provided the occupants should not drape or disturb the statuary, is what the Salvation Army has fallen heir to in Covington, Ky.

Several months ago a meek, retiring woman called upon Brigadier Dunham, representative of the Salvation Army in Cincinnati. She informed him that she was Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, and had decided to give her residence to the Salvation Army, to be used as a woman's training school, where domestic science would occupy first place in the curriculum. As the place cost more than $200,000, the brigadier nearly fainted when informed that it was the Salvation Army's for the mere taking.

But the quiet woman stipulated that none of the statuary should be removed, draped or in any way tampered with. She declared that no member of the family would tolerate any attempt on the part of any person to improve on the work of the famous sculptors.

The Shinkle mansion is one of the best appointed private dwellings in Kentucky. It is situated on a lofty eminence, which commands Covington, Cincinnati's Gretna Green. It is surrounded by gardens and lawns, in which fountains play almost continually. Playgrounds, walks and other attractions are found on the two acres of ground surrounding the mansion. Inside the house is gorgeously decorated with some of the finest specimens of the painter's art. Col. Bovill says it is more like a palace than any property owned or controlled by the Salvation Army. Thirty-five rooms are at the disposal of the young women.

Among these rooms is a classroom, where all arts which concern the housekeeper will be taught. It is planned to receive as guests only such young women as are willing to qualify themselves for the proper conduct of a household.

Mrs. Charles P. Taft, former President Taft's sister-in-law, and many leading society women of Cincinnati, have united with the Salvation Army in its efforts to make the home a success.

Three-fifths of the $10,000,000 which Henry Ford, head of the Ford Motor Company, is sharing annually with his employees is being saved by the workmen, according to estimates by company officials and bankers with whom the majority of the workers do business.

Since the profit-sharing plan became operative, six months ago, the employees have increased their bank deposits by nearly $3,000,000.

When Edward Tilden of Delavan, Wis., was a boy, he wished very much to see a circus, but did not have the price of admission. The circus, for him, remained unseen.

That is why Edward Tilden, president of Libby, McNeill & Libbey, for the third time has entertained the school children of Walworth county at a picnic and circus on his 1600-acre farm at Delavan.

A special train of entertainers carrying the Chicago Band of forty-three pieces, magicians, balloonists, parachute jumpers and circus performers were brought to town. Six parachute jumps from a height of 2000 feet were on the programme; also two band concerts. About 4000 children were at the picnic. The entertainment cost Mr. Tilden more than $12,000 each year. The circus tent in which the luncheon was served had room for 3000 diners.

The blind poor of New York City last week received their semi-annual contribution for support from the Department of Charities. To 475 men, women and children $31 each was given by the charities' officials at the bureau. There were 630 applicants, each led by a relative or friend.

The Board of Estimate last year voted $150,000 for distribution this year among the needy blind and decided to make the gifts in semi-annual instead of annual payments. The contributions were limited to $100 each.

Chief of Police Cleary of Trenton, N. J., received a letter last week from Miss Mary McFaul, a stenographer of Philadelphia, which contained an amount of money equal to that given to her about two weeks ago by Police Judge Hulme as car fare to get her back to her home.

Miss McFaul came to Trenton after finding it impossible to get employment in the Quaker City. She walked all of the distance of thirty-four miles to that city, where, weakened and disconsolate, she sat down to rest. Her presence was noted by a motorcycle policeman.

When the story had been told at police headquarters, Judge Hulme went down in his pocket and gave Miss McFaul sufficient money for the moment. She tearfully promised to return it to him.

Lord Allendale, who has just been appointed to represent the home office, that is to say, the Department of the Interior, in the House of Lords, is one of the political lords in waiting of the King, was formerly captain of the yeomen of the guard, and has an American sister-in-law, in the person of the wife of his younger brother, Hubert Beaumont, married to Eliza Mercedes, daughter of Michael P. Grace of New York. Both Lord Allendale and his brother Hubert are very rich indeed, being at the head of the lead mining industry of Durhamshire.

OREGON SENATOR'S WIFE.

Mrs. Lane Is a Native of Her State, Something of Which She Is Very Proud and Both She and Her Husband Belong to Families Which Have Made History in the Territory of Lewis and Clark.

BY MARGARET B. DOWNING.

Mrs. Harry Lane,
Wife of the Senator from Oregon.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Senator and Mrs. Lane are young in the social and official circle but they have made the record of having survived two continuous summers in Washington. In fact they have dwelt at the capital ever since Dr. Lane became a member of the upper house of Congress in the spring of 1913. It is probable that Mrs. Lane and her daughter will not visit their western home for another year though the Senator expects to go to Portland in the early autumn.

"My family is of the home-loving type," said Mrs. Lane, "and even for a summer flitting, we enjoy having a little nest of our own and our own family rather than the mental and physical exertion implied in hotel life. Then it has never occurred to me to be anywhere except where my husband has to be, so that if Congress is from December to December, I shall be here and at the domestic helm. In the West we are as a rule more chained to our voluntary matrimonial obligations, and to desert the home because it is warm or cold or rainy or windy while the head of the house must keep his routine, does not find wide popularity. Just now we have a cool, wide house, just the type to be found in our home city, Portland, with commodious porches, extensive grounds and just sufficiently near to the city not to expend one's whole day going and coming. It is all we wish for creature comfort and we have all settled down to outsit Congress in perfect content.

"Washington as a winter resort has claimed attention from a long list of celebrities, literary, artistic, political and foreign. But I am making a study of it from the standpoint of the compulsory summer resident, and I find much to admire and some things to criticise. Now as to markets. How the Portland people would open their eyes if they entered even the most modern and up-to-date market at the beautiful capital of the nation. It is a fine market as to wares exhibited and it is built on generous lines to display these commodities but how they are exhibited! I venture to state no city west of the Mississippi River would permit eatables of the most perishable description to be purchased out in the open street and without the protection either of screens or of glass. The western market dealer must place his meats, vegetables, fruits, everything under glass or he pays a fine. Washington is a clean, well-kept city and there are fewer insect pests than in most large communities, but the law to protect those articles which absorb germs and that applies more or less to all varieties of food, should be enforced. Those who are accustomed to such regulations would feel more comfortable in the purchasing of the raw material. The western home keepers temporarily in Washington should have a rally and compel the modern methods in the selling of food. Out West we use the word 'efficiency' very often and we make every one measure up to what it means. I should like to make 'efficiency' popular here.

"Washington's beauty is a national asset and must be acknowledged by all, no matter how we boast of what we have at home. A summer can be delightful—drives, boating, short river excursions and fascinating spots to visit in the city and the suburbs. As for heat, summer is summer and one must expect to get heated while the dog days last, no matter where one may go, short of a dash to the North or South Pole. Keeping busy and interested in what one's duty may happen to be is the best way to rout climatic troubles, either of heat or cold. I find my days merging into each other with alarming swiftness and I rarely accomplish all that I hoped to in the week. I have been interested in the gardens of Washington for, as all the world knows, Portland is a garden city. Granting the difference in climate, there is a tremendous difference in the extent of the efforts of private individuals in their homes. I realize that whereas we live in our homes all the year around, many residents of Washington reside here only a few months and those during the winter. Still Washington would be a lovelier city than it is if every householder had the garden habit. It becomes a habit after a little practice and it means so much for health and contentment, not to speak of the aesthetic culture it gives.

"Everyone in Portland raises roses from the millionaire who has a Scotch gardener to the cottager who has but a few feet frontage or a tiny enclosure in the back. We all talk roses a good portion of the year. Every spring a week is given to the queen flower and every civic honor is paid. Our rose festival is worthy to be classed with the great carnivals of the world. Imagine carriages, large motors, every variety of wheeled vehicle wreathed in the choicest roses and parading the streets. Imagine festoons of roses suspended in the business streets! Besides this glorious spectacle, the cut blooms exhibited in the horticultural hall are worthy of a trip across the continent to see. A big percentage of the population exhibits roses in some form. To elevate civic pride and at the same time to add to the beauty of the city, there is no movement comparable to a flower show. We have hedges of roses, those soft, delicate and highly-perfumed roses known as the Caroline Testout in all our resident streets. It is our queen rose in Portland and Madam Caroline receives most loving and enthusiastic homage from her subjects. Imagine what Washington would be if hedges of roses lined the many grass plots knows as city reservations—if they were placed against the parking and filled up the ugly, bare places between trees in the residence section or in the wide streets of the broad boulevards. Think what any city would be if the citizens were consumed with love of the rose as we are in Portland. Few flowers can be produced with so little expense as to the plant itself. The government could root from plants already in its possession sufficient roses to stock the entire city and to give way to all those who wished the slips for their gardens. We give away slips in Portland by the tens of thousands and the return which the city obtains for money so expended is beyond the power of reckoning by mere dollars and cents. Cultivation and care are all that is required to make roses thrive in almost any climate and, of course, watering in dry weather. But Washington has a splendid water supply and to pay the extra amount for keeping a few plants alive during a drought would not be felt except by the very poor. All this forms another of my diversions as a summer resident of the capital, and I rarely ride about the wide, excellently-planned avenues without having a mental vision of how magnificent they would look with a few Killarney, Teplitz, Caroline Testout and Cochet roses dotted along the drives."

Mrs. Lane denies any fads other than those involved by her long residence in the West. The wife of a physician who has served as State Health Officer, she early became engrossed in the study of modern sanitation and the germ theory. But she avoids all extremes in either, maintaining all that is necessary for health without making life a burden for her family. She has taken the same position in regard to schools and to city problems. Mrs. Lane is not an active suffragist and never had the time or opportunity to give more than a tacit aid to the cause. Now that the State has conferred on women the right to vote she faithfully fulfills this obligation and gives earnest consideration to the merits of the candidates. Her ideals of a wife and mother and keeper of the family comfort are of such an order that she could never be a public woman nor have the inclination to shape policies even indirectly. Mrs. Lane was before her marriage Miss Lola Bailey, and her mother was born a Stevenson and came from Albion, Ill. Her mother came to the territory of Oregon in the pioneer times and she was the type produced by those trying days—calm, steadfast, self-reliant, able to perform almost any service in the home. Home-keeping was an art prized above all others in those days and Mrs. Bailey taught her daughters the intricate problems. Mrs. Lane therefore finds her home and family all that she can attend to properly, and her leisure is given to reading, traveling and gardening.

Senator and Mrs. Lane furnish another example of the successful issue of a boy and girl romance.

"I do not remember when I first began to know my husband," she laughed, "and I should be afraid to state how young we were when we became engaged, for I have two daughters unmarried and such knowledge might prove a bad example. We were children of neighbors and our parents were good friends. I can recall first thinking eagerly of Harry Lane when I was about 9 years old but I had been playing with him for years before that. This tender age was when I first began to single him out from all my playmates and to like him better than any of my other companions. When I was in my early 'teens we had our understanding, but we did not marry for some years. We wished to, but prudent counsel prevailed and we were persuaded to wait. I believe firmly in early attachments and early marriages.

Take the boy and girl who have been playmates. They have tried each other in a way which gives the key to their characters. If they play fair with each other during childhood they will be apt to play fair all through life, and that is essentially what a happy marriage means. Then there are no surprises for each other in the manner of characteristics. They know all the best and the worst and yet they are willing to unite their fate. Those to whom a shorter experience is granted run greater risks.

"Oregon has always been my home and I am proud of being a native of the splendid old State. We have a glorious history from the first dawn of it and we are making the best kind of history now, that which pertains to the tilling of the soil and the making of homes. After our roses we take pride in our apples. Travel where you may and you will find the Oregon apple adorning the board and furnishing the best of nutriment to the world. We have fruit exhibits which would appeal to the reformer, for of all foods which aid to exterminate bad habits, the eating of good juicy apples is the best. I received most of my education in Portland and all my associations cluster about it. In my younger days we lived in what was called West Portland, separated by the river and accessible to the larger city only by ferries. We have splendid bridges now, many of them comparable in every way to the bridges which unite so many cities in the old world."

Senator Lane is also a native Oregonian and of heroic lineage. He is the grandson of the first territorial Governor, Gen. Joseph Lane, who was candidate for the Vice-Presidency on the Democratic ticket with Breckenridge and afterwards first Senator from the newly admitted State. He is the son of Nathaniel H. Lane and is a close relative of Franklin Knight Lane, Secretary of the Interior. For the past fifty years his kindred have been prominent in the annals of the Northwest. Dr. Lane has filled many offices in the gift of the people, notably as Mayor of Portland for two consecutive terms from 1905 until 1909. He married his boyhood's sweetheart in 1882, and there were three daughters. The eldest, Lola, married rather romantically in New Orleans a few years ago, Nathan McBride, a well-known socialistic labor leader who has made a profound study of conditions in the South and West. Mr. and Mrs. McBride passed part of the winter as guests of their parents. The second daughter, Miss Harriet, is a charming girl who graduated from the Oregon State University with high honors. She belongs to the Tri Delta and was prominent in the meetings at Goucher College, Baltimore, through the winter. Miss Lane is, however, rather fragile and she has given her attention to the literary and artistic side of Washington life, rather than the social. The third daughter is a lovely little girl, Miss Marjorie, just 4, and naturally the pet of the household and one of the much admired juveniles in the official set.

Senator and Mrs. Lane are Episcopalians and were members of St. David's congregation in Portland. Their summer home in Woodley is adjacent to that picturesque shrine, St. Albans, a quaint little chapel which rises near the foundation of the great Episcopalian cathedral which was the dream of the late bishop of Washington, Rt. Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee. It is only across a lawn which separates the Cathedral School for Girls from the Cathedral Close, and one of the genuine joys of the summer retreat is to hear the ringing of the silvery bells and to join the open-air evening prayer offered every Sunday afternoon before the Peace Cross.

George Annard MacKenzie, who recently obtained his M.A. degree at Cambridge University, is deaf and dumb. Five years ago he won unusual academic success by taking the degree of bachelor of arts. He has already wooed art with success, and has become both a portrait and a landscape painter. He astonished many as to the capabilities of the deaf by the production of Shakespearean plays enacted by mutes. After much work in this direction in Liverpool, he proceeded to Oxford, and later to Cambridge, where he founded the Cambridge Mission to the Deaf and Dumb and took a second-class in the theological special. His father was a writer of ability.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

LOS ANGELES, July 31.

Regina Dear: Knowing your little weakness for all the gossip, I hasten to unburden my tongue. I'm simply bursting with piquant secrets which I mustn't tell to anyone but you—you being so discreet, darling.

For instance, you know that delightful Davies boy with the haughty Titian mamma and the ultra solemn papa? Well, it has leaked out that he has demanded their approval of his approaching marriage and is calmly exacting all sorts of concessions and promises, but declines to inform them who his bride is to be until they have conceded one or two vital points. And we hear her name is Mabel. We have been flummaging our heads to think which Mabel it could possibly be and why this mysterious secrecy. He is, as you know, very young, but very grown-up and he certainly has a masterful way with him. Titian-headed mamma adores him and has repeatedly assured us that the dear boy is "always right." "His judgment is so wonderful" is a favorite expression of hers and the mater tried to reassure her by reminding her of this. But now she's not so sure. How could his judgment on a prospective wife be right without mamma's assistance? He wears a conquering air these days and seemc quite unperturbed, so we may as well regard him as one of the fall bridegrooms.

When you come to think of it, it is rather clever of him. Usually the bride gets all the eclat and the bridegroom is merely the salt which adds to the flavor and is rather an essential ingredient, but somehow never gets any credit for the tastefulness of the dish.

You heard about Trudy Workman going on the stage. She left for New York on Wednesday amid the congratulations and wistful longings of her many girl friends—that's even better than a stylish society debut or a fashionable wedding.

Of course the Ross girls had a gorgeous time in Europe. They were in Los Angeles with Mrs. Von Behrens for a few days before returning to their Ventura ranch home and will come here again in a few weeks' time. Ida looks quite radiant and blushed delightfully when some one asked which particular foreign nobleman she had decided to espouse. There certainly is something of the kind sur le tapis, and we know for certain that she had no less than three aristocratic offers for her hand—and fortune. Some one suggested that she had her eye on a very nice Los Angeles boy—naming no names, cherie—but that is much more likely to be true of Josephine, the younger sister, who believes that California and Californians beat the world for charm. Ida likes European society of the haute monde. Royalty and the peerage have been her daily diet for eighteen months now and she can never go back to plain "merchant princes." And since she can luxuriously afford to do as she likes, why there you are!

The garden fete really was a lark, but the most piquant of all the episodes was lost to us through the gentlemanly tactfulness of the police. Fancy, dear, no less than seven pickpockets and a lady forger were "apprehended" at that fete and we never knew a word about it until afterward.

Really the Dorsey place was ideal for such a fete, their gardens right in the heart of town would make Buckingham Palace jealous. Rare and gorgeous plants everywhere and placed with an artist's regard for color combinations and landscape effects. The Senator does all that part of it himself, you know, and he made several of the very nicest young women, which includes me, happy with bouquets from his chefs d'oevres.

Mrs. Rand made a striking figure as she strolled round the grounds with her adoring retinue—especially after dinner when the retinue included about twenty distinguished guests, largely masculine. That's when the cigar and cigarette stand did such a roaring trade.

As for dear Mrs. Dorsey—isn't she a brick?—we are afraid the joke was a little against her. For when she offered the gardens, you know, she stipulated that she should do none of the work, have none of the worry—not a bit. Whereas, of course, she was responsible for pretty well everything, and I believe she changed her shoes to rest those poor tootsies of hers no less than a dozen times during the day. Feet are a great handicap.

She made an adorable hostess and we met that charming little friend of hers, Mrs. Taylor, who kept on telling us about a handsome husband she owned who was expected every moment, but, like most of the handsome men one hears about, he didn't materialize.

But Louisa did. Louisa is Mrs. Taylor's colored maid who was loaned for the occasion—and it wouldn't have been a success without her. She is a managing genius and mothered all the hostesses with an iron hand. She specializes in hairdressing, her own being a triumph of the art. Naturally the mere sight of her put us all in a good temper right away. She must be an invaluable asset when the Taylors entertain.

Connie Colwell's gorgeous red befringed shawl was the triumph of the society saleswomen's sartorial achievements—who would have thought that red hair and blue-green eyes would have looked so ravishing in scarlet? M'yes, there will be more news of Connie shortly, but even I mustn't tell you that secret yet or I shall get my head snapped off.

The MacNiel contingent flew into town to repack their trunks for a few days, but were soon off again. The R. J. Schweppes left for Europe on Wednesday and Eleanor Banning tore herself away from the yacht long enough to give a garden party for Peggy Calder on Thursday.

Edith Mathis's wedding to Clinto Seccombe was a pretty, charming little affair. They held it at that pretty little Church of the Angels near the Annandale Country Club. The new hairdressing suits Edith so well, makes her look thoroughly distinguished. So many of us look merely scrags—it's an awful test of beauty. They won't be home from the honeymoon until September.

Couldn't give your message to Katherine. She has been down at San Diego with the McKinnon and Carlton Burke crowds. Don't think the fascinating Mrs. Thomas went, too, though. No wonder she manages to keep so beautiful, dear, she employs a whole army of manicurists, hairdressers and masseuses to keep her in trim and never fails to get her full beauty sleep.

Now that Los Angeles is growing so big society is much more interesting, isn't it? A very little while ago one knew everybody and met the same set everywhere. Not now, though. One can meet a totally different set of people several times a week and all equally nice.

And now I better desist. A letter that is too long is almost as bad as one that is too short, so au revoir, cherie. Your loving

DOLLY.

THE WEEK.

PARTIES, RECEPTIONS, DINNERS, WEDDINGS AND THE LIKE.

FIVE hundred Los Angeles people, including a number of the most prominent figures in local society, are at present in those parts of Europe and Asia controlled by the triple alliance and the triple entente—in other words, where the clouds of war are darkest. Further, there appears to be every prospect of many of them having to remain indefinitely in the threatened war zones by reason of the withdrawal from trans-Atlantic service, of a number of the principal passenger vessels, to be used as possible army transports by England, Germany and France. According to telegraphic advices from London, Hamburg and New York, the list of indefinitely-deferred sailings so far, includes the Imperator, of the Hamburg-American line from Hamburg; the Vaterland and Amerika, from New York and Boston, respectively; the President Grant, recalled by wireless to New York; and the Aquitania (possibly,) from Liverpool.

Cablegrams from London and Paris say the steamship offices are jammed with Americans anxious to take the first possible boat. Among those planning to leave Europe in the near future are Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner. Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori and Miss Juliet Boileau, were successful in securing passage, and they will arrive about August 15.

On the other hand, the steamship officials are positive in their statements that there will be no possible danger to those who are obliged to remain in Europe. There are, further, not a few Angelenos who will leave during the coming month for the continent—if they can secure passage. Among those who see nothing to fear in the war situation—for Americans—are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Braly, whose remarkable elopement was told exclusively in The Times recently. Mr. Braly and his bride, who was Mrs. Mary Howard Gridley, arrived at Poughkeepsie on Friday and expect to sail from New York tomorrow.

The following list of some of the Los Angeles people now in Europe is furnished by D. F. Robertson, manager of the steamship department of the California Savings Bank:

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Quinton, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Selby, Mrs. F. W. Nichols, Mrs. F. J. Finlayson, C. R. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jacobs, Miss Ruth Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Neilson, Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Tholen, George Restall, Miss Dorothy Restall, Mrs. Charles Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ephraim, Mr. and Mrs. John Summerhays, C. A. Kunou, Mrs. Margaret Robbins and others.

Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Conaty, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Barret, Mr. Herbert Earlscliffe, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Newman, Col. . B. Lankershim, Mr. J. C. H. Ivans, Mr. and Mrs. L. Kleinberger, Rev. and Mrs. Baker P. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wetzler, Rev. Thomas F. Fahey, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Fitzgerald, Mrs. B. V. Collins, Miss Doris Collins, Miss Pauline Vollmer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bilharz, Miss Harriett Bilharz, Mr. George Zobelein, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Christopher, and Dr. R. W. Livingstone.

In San Francisco.

William May Garland is one of the popular Los Angeles men who went north for the Bohemian Club jinks and upon his return with Mrs. Garland, will enjoy short motor jaunts to nearby resorts. A long trip this summer will be impossible as one of will claim his attention for several their sons is busy with studies which months.

Summer Teas.

Out-of-doors entertainments are planned by the clever hostess for these summer days, one of the most interesting being the high tea served in the patio of the Hancock Banning residence on West Adams street, with Mrs. Banning and Miss Eleanor presiding. Miss Peggy Calder of San Francisco was the motif for the enjoyable affair, which was shared by members of the society, who have not yet left for their summer outings.

Mrs. E. P. Johnson, Jr., of West Twenty-eighth street, was another hostess who entertained with a high tea last week. The large veranda overlooking the back garden was the place chosen for the entertainment, and the honored guest was Mrs. Walter Jaccard of Kansas City, Mo.

Musical Afternoon.

Miss Alice Lohr of No. 1356 South Hoover street was a musical hostess Wednesday, entertaining in honor of Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Gates of Mexico City, and Mrs. Reginald Smale of Seattle. The excellent programme was presented by the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Laughlin of Chicago, and Miss Florence Howard. The guests who enjoyed the affair were Mrs. S. Pearson, Mrs. Frederick Stephenson, Mrs. Clem Wilson, Mrs. W. H. Cline, Mrs. Sumner Kent, Mrs. Harmon Ryus, Mrs. John Mauer, Mrs. Charles Gobel, Mrs. Frank Stiff, Mrs. Walter V. Pomeroy, Mrs. Will Wyatt, Mrs. William Guyton, Mrs. Joseph Zemansky, Mrs. Harland Clatworthy, Mrs. Hattie Reitz, Mrs. Frank Richards, Mrs. James Cordary, Mrs. Norman Hendershot, Mrs. Fred Fleming and Miss Ethel Stimson.

Miss Rimpau Honored.

Miss Rosa Belle Rimpau was a charming hostess of the past week, entertaining with an Orpheum Theater party followed by a supper at Hotel Alexandria. This pleasant affair was planned as a courtesy to her sister, Miss Marguerite Rimpau, whose engagement to Joseph L. Mayers was a social surprise of a fortnight ago. The table was attractive with a large mound of sweet peas surrounded with feathery ferns, and bride place cards bore the names of Mrs. Rosa Belle Rimpau, Mrs. C. E. De Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Herman R. Johnson, Mr. Mayers and Donald Kellar.

Another smart affair for the popular bride-to-be was the chrysanthemum dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Herman R. Johnson at their home, No. 222 West Forty-fifth street. Wedding Announcement.

At the residence of the officiating clergyman, the Rev. J. M. Schaefle of the Pico Heights Congregational Church, Miss Vivian Gerne became the bride of Lester Martin. Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Martin of No. 1424 Mariposa street. Upon the return from a trip to San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Martin will reside at No. 1224 West Forty-first street.

Boyd-Ostrander Nuptials.

Miss Ethel Cornelia Ostrander and Forest Boyd of Palo Alto were united in marriage by Dr. F. J. Mundy Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ostrander, No. 5605 Hollywood boulevard.

The bride was given away by her father and was lovely in a beautiful bridal robe of white crepe de Chine, made en train with a long tunic of chantilly lace. Her bodice was trimmed with pearl ornaments. A long veil completed her attire and she carried a shower of bride's roses and valley lilies. Miss Mary Boyd, the groom's sister, was the maid of honor, and wore a pretty gown of pink messaline with an overdress of dew drop chiffon. She carried Cecile Brunner roses and maidenhair fern.

Seven bridesmaids preceded the bridal party, descending the long stairs, singing the wedding march. They wore pink silk frocks and carried arm bouquets of Cecile Brunner roses. They were Misses Hazel and Lola Cooper, cousins of the bride, from Sanger; Misses Ethelyn Hunkins, Celia Gray, Nina McMillan, Lulie Veall Beattie and Margaret Graepp. Little Irene Ostrander, the bride's niece, carried a basket of rose petals which she scattered in the pathway of the bride. Miss Coral Cooper presided at the piano and announced the party with the Lohengrin Wedding March. J. Marvin Ostrander, brother of the bride, was the groom's best man.

The Ostrander home was elaborately decorated with pink roses, asparagus fern and quantities of pink tulle. The bridal couple stood under a floral bell suspended from a canopy of fern.

Covers were laid for eight, and at the conclusion of the repast, music and informal conversation occupied the remainder of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hess of No. [illegible] South Fifth street have returned from a delightful month's outing, which included a trip along the northern coast to Alaska. A number of friends were in the party and a most enjoyable time was had.

Monrovia.

THE Christian Church picnic at Eastlake Park Saturday was a successful affair. Motor trucks carried about 125 members of the Christian Sunday-school classes to the park in the morning and an all-day outing, with a big dinner at noon and a visit to the many places of interest in the park in the afternoon, filled the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Gillogly, who left this week to make their home in Riverside, where Mr. Gillogly will go into business, have been guests of honor at a number of delightful social affairs tendered them by the large circle of friends they have made in this city.

Last Saturday night Mrs. E. B. [illegible] was hostess to a crowd of the younger married set of Monrovia at a charmingly-informal dancing party, given in honor of Miss Miriam Bryan of Napa, Cal. Chinese and Japanese lanterns were used most effectively in the decorations in the Japanese garden and in the dancing pavilion. Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour.

A score of friends, most of whom are pioneers of Monrovia or near-by communities, helped L. Barnes celebrate his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Barnes is one of the "oldtimers" himself, having come to this section before Monrovia was started, and has seen and helped in the development of the city from its incorporation to the present day. Naturally, the conversation of host and guests was of a reminiscent nature, and many old stories were recounted. At the close of the quickly-passed afternoon Mrs. Barnes, assisted by Mrs. George Spence, Mrs. Minnie Kidd and Mrs. S. A. Glasgow, served delicious refreshments. Mr. Barnes was presented with a handsome leather chair as a memento of the occasion.

Thursday afternoon the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church held its annual mid-summer meeting in the east parlors of the church. The devotional exercises were led by Miss M. L. Hutchins, and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine, Mrs. M. L. Clark and Mrs. Walter Leffler had charge of "The New America," telling of the changing conditions in the immigration question. Miss Bessie Rogers read a paper on current events and Mrs. Edward Scott read another on Alaska. Mrs. S. A. Cochran was hostess.

Mrs. Elizabeth Reeder was hostess to two dozen ladies Monday afternoon at her home on East Orange. Auction bridge was the game, and a two-course yellow and white luncheon was served. Ward, Mrs. Daisy Dogelman, Mrs. Alfred Ottoway of Los Angeles, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Auten and Mrs. Howard of Pasadena.

Casa Verdugo.

A DELIGHTFUL dancing party was given by Misses Alpha Clement and Ruth Brown at the home of the latter, No. 1621 Stocker street, in compliment to their departing guests, the Misses Irene and Grace Grady of Berkeley, who have been the house guests of Miss Alpha Clement, for the past month. The charming home of Miss Brown never looked more inviting nor cheery, the color scheme being yellow and brown, Japanese baskets filled with great golden zinnias helped carry out the design. Dancing was the feature of the evening, and at a late hour dainty refreshments were served. The young hostesses were assisted in receiving by Mrs. A. B. Clement of Pacific avenue and Mrs. E. S. Clement of Lindsay, Cal. Those enjoying this delightful affair were the Misses Grady and Miss Virginia Carter of San Francisco, the guests of honor; Misses Dorothy Hobbs, Lola East, Grace Beach, Marjorie Duncan, Harriett Bayard, Lillian Leppleman, Rae Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles U. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bourne, and the Messrs. QUITE the most enjoyable function of the season was that given Friday evening by Mrs. H. V. Platt in honor of the birthday of Mr. Platt. The early part of the evening was devoted to Five Hundred and handsome prizes were awarded Mrs. J. A. Matthews and J. W. Park, while Mrs. Ellis Barnett was given an artistic brown basket filled with lucious fruit as a consolation. An elaborate supper was served at the card tables, after which the floor was cleared and Herbert Cornish and Charles S. Mann staged some jinks and fancy dancing, much to the amusement of everyone. Mrs. Platt was assisted by her daughter, Miss Virginia, and Mrs. Lela Carr. Among those present were Messrs. and Mmes. F. M. Rublee, C. F. Norton, F. M. Price, C. S. Mann, E. R. Barnett, J. W. Park, Don Porter, J. A. Matthews, G. D. Tully, J. M. Pomeroy, D. M. Small, K. V. Redpath, R. D. Verder, F. J. Ephlin, Herbert Cornish and Mrs. E. E. Calvin of San Francisco.

One of the most cleverly-arranged dinner parties ever given in the canyon was that of Tuesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Foster M. Price entertained with sixteen covers, in honor of the departure of Mrs. C. S. Mann for a visit in Salt Lake and Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Norton for a month's outing in their auto. In the center of the long table was a miniature train and auto, each appropriately placarded, and the favors were small trunks and suit cases of bonbons. Pink echantress carnations were used in profusion about the house, and on the table, and clever sketches of views en route marked places for Messrs. and Mmes. C. S. Mann, C. S. Norton, Don Porter, E. R. Barnett, G. D. Tully, D. M. Small, Mmes. H. V. Platt and Lela Carr. Cards were enjoyed in the evening and handsome prizes were awarded Mrs. Ellis Barnett and Gerald Tully.

On Wednesday evening Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Small gave the second of a series of dinner parties, the guests on this occasion being Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Conner and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Baker of Hollywood, and Messrs. and Mmes. F. J. Ephlin, K. V. Redpath, R. D. Vorcher and F. M. Rublee. The decorations were baskets of delicate pink sweet peas and the evening was spent playing Five Hundred.

Mrs. E. E. Calvin of San Francisco was the house guest of the H. V. Platts several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Norton and baby, Bettie, left Saturday for a month's outing in the Lake Tahoe country. Their big auto has been converted into a palace hotel, with all modern conveniences, and their only regret was there was not room for all their friends.

Frank Small and daughter, Alace, and Verne Elliot of Los Angeles were week-end guests of the D. M. Smalls.

THE most wonderful gala night of the season was that enjoyed on Tuesday evening, when Elks from Santa Ana, Orange, Fullerton, Huntington Beach, La Habra and Laguna Beach, to the number of several hundred, were entertained at Eagles' Hall with a banquet and an entertaining programme of music and brilliant specialties. The arrival of the visiting Elks in automobiles was a stirring and really impressive sight, handsome machines flashing by, brilliantly lighted, through the streets that were lined with spectators. The street procession, marshalled by an excellent band, preceding the social affair at the hall, was several blocks in length. Exalted Ruler J. C. Burke of Santa Ana was a host in himself, and under his skilful and courteous direction, the various numbers and delights of the evening moved harmoniously. The programme numbers were managed by E. S. Morrow of Santa Ana. The banquet was an elaborate one, enjoyed alike by the Elks and the many invited guests.

Mrs. Hans V. Weisel was hostess recently at a delightful evening party given in honor of her sister, Miss Leila Gentry of Ocean Park, who was a house guest at the Weisel home. Attractive deckings added to the charm of the home, and a round of entertaining pastimes sped the hours much too swiftly. Those invited to meet Miss Gentry were Miss Adele Huch, Miss Alva Stark, Miss Margaret Young, Misses Elsie and Mabel Zieg-

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Weatherly was the scene of a gay juvenile party on Tuesday afternoon, when the third birthday of the small son of the house, Master Jack, was celebrated with due merriment and honor. A goodly number of the little friends of the 3-year-old honoree were invited to help him enjoy the occasion, and with jolly childish games that were played both indoors and out, the afternoon soon flitted away. Good things to eat were served to the little ones.

The juvenile guests enjoying the birthday party were little Misses Louise and Dorothy Fillius, Margaret Storm, Clara Backs, Ruth and Nellie Fagan, Irene North, Nellie and Violet Schobc, Marcella and Bernardine Servatius, Edwin Fisher, Clifton Fagan and Jack Weatherly.

Among the affairs of the week may be numbered the Five Hundred party given on Thursday evening under the auspices of the L.O.O.M. Only greenery was used in decorating and this color note was carried out in harmonizing shades at the collation that completed a very enjoyable evening. Many were present from out-of-town points.

Miss Helena Goodale has as her house guests the Misses Stella and Vera Gammon of Pasadena. Several social affairs have been planned in their honor.

Mrs. William Oelke left during the week for an extended tour through the East. She expects to spend several weeks, with her daughter at Asbury Park, New Jersey.

THE largest affair of the current week was the garden dinner party, served cafeteria style, given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fisher Hobart at their home in Oneonta, Wednesday evening, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jaeger of Chicago and Miss Hortense Hobert of Minneapolis, their house guests. The beautiful grounds, laid out with Japanese effect with pagodas, bridges and many rare shrubs and flowers, were lighted with Japanese lanterns and electric lights. Here the three long tables were laid, with bright red geraniums scattered over the snowy cloths. Games were enjoyed on the lawn, after which dancing was the pleasure to a late hour. Tropico.

THE vine and fern-embowered pergola, cool, shady veranda and spacious lawn of Mrs. Charles A. Barker, on South Glendale avenue, furnished a beautiful setting for the garden and card party given by the Tropico Thursday Afternoon Club Thursday.

This delightful social event had long been anticipated by many society and club ladies of Tropico, and Glendale; consequently, there was a large and fashionable assemblage of handsomely-gowned women. Mrs. Charles A. Barker was assisted by Mrs. Charles Millard Turck, Mrs. Arthur Lewis, Mrs. Andrew Stephenson, Mrs. Leigh Bancroft and Dr. Jessie A. Russell.

A pleasing feature of the delightful afternoon entertainment was the flitting to and fro of the pretty young girls in dainty summer frocks, who assisted the hostesses in serving the ices and refreshments.

This bevy of girls included Misses Carrie Stone, Marjorie Imler, Katherine Lewis, Helene Morgan, Mary Jane Evans-Hough, Eleanor Collins, Regina Bacon, Ida Busser and Elizabeth Smith. Five Hundred was enjoyed by 100 or more of the guests, each one striving for one of the five handsome prizes. When the score cards were tallied the trophies were awarded Miss May Cornwell, Mrs. V. Price Brown, Mrs. Harry Lynch, Mrs. Hal H. Davenport and Mrs. Arthur Beach.

Dr. Joseph Lane Hancock of Chicago, the eminent and world-renowned entomologist, biologist and author, who is the acknowledged authority on entomology and biology, who, with Mrs. Hancock and daughter, Miss Katherine Hancock, are the guests of Dr. Hancock's sister, Mrs. William Harvey, Jr., of Tropico avenue, were the complimented guests at an elaborate course luncheon Wednesday, at which Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hancock of Lemoyne street, Los Angeles, were host and hostess, and for which covers were laid for sixteen.

This is the third trip that this eminent and distinguished scientist has enjoyed on the Pacific Coast.

One of the many works on entomology and biology that Dr. Hancock has written is the text book, "Nature Studies in Temperate America," which is used in the Chicago University of Illinois. Aside from the many interesting books written by Dr. Hancock, he has found time to devote to his brus hand palette, and many fine paintings are the result of the artistic brush of this distinguished scientist.

Mrs. Charles A. Barker entertained the Tropico Auction Bridge Whist Club luncheon at her home on South Glendale avenue, Tuesday. Following luncheon, that was dainty and replete in all of its appointments, auction bridge whist was enjoyed, at which Mrs. Arthur L. Lewis scored for first prize. Other guests whom Mrs. Barker entertained included Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, Mrs. Charles Millard Turck, Mrs. William Harvey, Jr., Mrs. Tom Richards, Mrs. W. C. Mabry, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Leigh Bancroft.

Covers were laid for over twenty guests, who enjoyed a delightful breakfast under the grand old pepper trees at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ayers on Palmer avenue Sunday morning.

This unique, though interesting mode of entertaining their friends has long been the custom of Mr. and Mrs. Ayers. It is whispered, too, that Mrs. Ayers prepared some of the most delicious dishes that were served at Sunday morning's breakfast.

Miss Mabel van Hazelen was most delightfully surprised at her home on Friday evening, when a coterie of her friends, remembering that her anniversary occurred on that date, decided to commemorate the event by surprising her, enjoying a pleasant evening at Miss Van Hazelen's home on West Park avenue.

The honoree was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Miss Ada van Hazelen, and Miss Jeannette Meurs of Wilmar. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moir, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Payne, Misses Alberta Ellivess, Connie Sly, May van Allstyn, Marjorie Little, Messrs. Jack Frazer, David Loper, Francis Stevens, James Frazer, Earle Payne, Percy Lee and David Frazer.

Santa Ana.

THE CHARMING suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Grubb on Edgewood Road was a real center of gayety on Friday night when those hospitable entertainers were host and hostess to the Thursday Evening Whist Club. As the club playfully designates Mr. and Mrs. Grubb as the "farmers," they determined before entertaining the club on this occasion to justify the title by awarding bucolic prizes to the holder of high and low scores, Mrs. Frederick J. Parsons and Russell Scott, and Mrs. J. P. Hatzfeld and Robert Shaffer, respectively. To Mrs. Parsons was given a green and brown basket filled with fresh eggs, and to Mrs. Scott was awarded a handsome Rhode Island Red rooster. Two cunning pullet's eggs in a tiny basket consoled Mrs. Hatzfeld and Mr. Shaffer was given a goodly supply of choice potatoes. All of these were "home grown" products, and the novel awards were an innovation that provoked unlimited mirth. The rustic idea was developed in the two course supper served at a witching hour, hot biscuits, chicken salad and similar dainties being results of home industries. The surprise offered to the guests was cleverly matched by them when they presented the hosts with a set of handsome salad plates for their near-by wedding anniversary. Those at the card tables besides Mr. and Mrs. Grubb were Messrs. and Mmes. J. P. Hatzfeld, Russell M. Scott, Frederick J. Parsons, Robert R. Shaffer, Clyde J. Walker, O. K. Forgy, Miss Louise Grubb of Santa Ana and W. B. Jewell of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Newton H. Cox was hostess on Friday afternoon to a group of attractive young matrons who form the membership of the Twenty-two Club, a card club recently organized. The pretty Birch street home was daintily decorated with Cecile Brunner roses and ferns massed in baskets. Delicate refreshments were served on small tables after the award of prizes. A dainty Japanese basket went to Mrs. W. A. Lowman for high score and Mrs. Will Elliott was consoled with a pretty Japanese fancy dish. Mrs. Cox was aided by Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Horace Head and Miss Percy Head in entertaining. The guest list included Mrs. Lowman, Mrs. Fred Chapman, Mrs. G. D. Darnell, Mrs. Hubert H. Dale, Mrs. H. O. Garlock, Mrs. Harry Lash, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Frank Cannon, Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Loggins.

Decidedly one of the jolliest eve in the social annals of the Sun school class of the United Pres terian church of which Mrs. Lea W ren is the teacher, was a seaside p nic and "hike" recently enjoyed the girls and their teacher. An ea car carried the party to Hunting Beach where surf and plunge ba ing, wading in the ocean, and a g appetizing midday picnic din rounded out half the day delightf A "hike" to Newport Beach, seve miles distant, was proposed and once begun. The trail led through th surf with an occasional detour to th sandy beach, and all the time it w the Roadway of Joy. "It's Coming! Oh, Look! It's Here!

"The One Sale of the Year"

"Commencing Monday, August 3rd
"Continuing All Through August

"Just see the Throng surrounding Bullock's—
"Let's Hurry—and read this advertisement—so we can make our plans to be at Bullock's Bright and Early Monday Morning—Store Opens—Sale commences sharp at 9 o'clock."

"The Foremost of all Southern California's Merchandising Events—the only time of the year, with the exception of the week between Christmas and New Year's, when Bullock's permits the general quotation of comparative prices."

—A Real Sale—and a Great Sale

—In every sense of the word—a Sale in which every section of the store participates and in which extraordinary values are demanded and are the rule—
A sale that means Clearance for Bullock's Regular Stocks and for certain chosen lines whose manufacturers recognize the importance and character of Bullock's Clearance as an outlet—
A Sale—distinguished by its difference—and its individuality—
A Sale that comes but once a year—and that is known and looked forward to by thousands of buyers—
A Sale of Reputation—that is jealous of that reputation—and that depends largely for its success upon the patronage of those who know it for what it is—

To those—the mere announcement of the fact that Bullock's 8th Clearance is to start Monday at 9 a.m. would be sufficient, but—

This 8th Clearance is to be so extraordinary even for a Bullock Clearance that

It has been deemed advisable to print this great series of advertisements in order to, in some measure, give publicity to the unusually large number of more than unusual low prices that are to obtain on merchandise of the highest quality—
It would be impossible to cover the ground thoroughly—in even double the space that has been taken—suffice it to say—that never before has the writer been privileged to be connected with a sale that has offered such a range of remarkable values and he believes that —If even a moderate percentage of the buyers in Southern California read this advertisement appreciating that it is vouched for by Bullock's

Closes at 5:30

—If another faction of Southern California's Buyers will make it a point to see the Clearance Values on display in Bullock's Windows—
—then there is every reason to expect that Monday at Bullock's should prove the busiest day a Southern California store ever had (excepting possibly during the Holidays)—the Inauguration of a Wonderful Month of Wonderful Business.

For the values are here (half prices and less than half prices on merchandise of quality—in scores of sections)—the varieties are here—the volume is here—and the heart is within this business that will round out this sale with "service."

A highly-enjoyed fraternal outing was that of the Royal Neighbors, who lately hied themselves to Newport Beach for a day at the seashore. There were almost thirty ladies in the party, and the journey to Newport was made by automobile. Two brave men accompanied the feminine contingent of picnickers and were rewarded by being favored guests. Amply supplied with all the delicacies and more substantial viands than the most epicurean appetite could desire, the ladies feasted royally after the invigorating ride to the beach. Those in the picnic party were Mrs. W. W. Wilson, Mrs. L. E. Jones, Mrs. Mary C. Jackson, Mrs. Harry Winslow, Mrs. W. E. Clement, Mrs. Ray Valentine, Mrs. John Kaiser, Mrs. Sarah Hyle, Mrs. T. W. Several of Orange's most popular society girls who were guests at a merry house party at Newport Beach during the past week were Miss Otta Birnbaum, Miss Virginia Flippen, Miss Mabel Havens, Miss Lorica Danner, Miss Jennie Flippen and Miss Leona Blank.

An interesting family celebration was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Field, when the birthday anniversaries of Guy and Fenn Field were happily observed. The evening was entirely informal, and the house was gay with decorations of flags and flowers. Two handsome birthday cakes graced the table where an ample birthday feast was spread. Flags and bunting were used effectively in table decorations. Those at the table, besides the immediate family, were Mrs. L. W. Field, W. Field and family, Mrs. J. E. Guthrie, Miss Dorothy Guthrie and Miss Gladys Vanhise.

The Reason for the "California's" Reputation is the Service Given—Reputation, fame, note—call it what you will—never comes first.

Paris is called the center of art—California, the best State in which to live—Edison, the greatest known inventor—"Cowan," the synonym for finest cabinet work—and so on, ad infinitum.

These peers had something unusual to offer—something not obtainable elsewhere. Reputation came as a consequence.

Years ago the "California" resolved to offer only the most exclusive, high-class furniture and home furnishings the foremost cabinet shops and art looms could produce; but, priced on the lowest possible profit margin. We have adhered most faithfully to this ideal. Our reputation as the most economical place to come when about to furnish a home—values considered—came as a natural consequence.

Our Close-Margin System of Pricing.
Every article in this store is marked at one price. That price is never changed, and represents the lowest possible profit under which we can successfully operate. Whether you wish a few inexpensive rugs for your bungalow or summer home, or a complete setting for the most pretentious residence, you will find the "California" the most economical place to buy.

We cordially invite you to call and make liberal comparison of our values with any others offered in the city. Upon this comparison we base our claim to your patronage.

This week our window contains many striking examples of superior values in exclusive and distinctive furniture and home furnishing accessories.

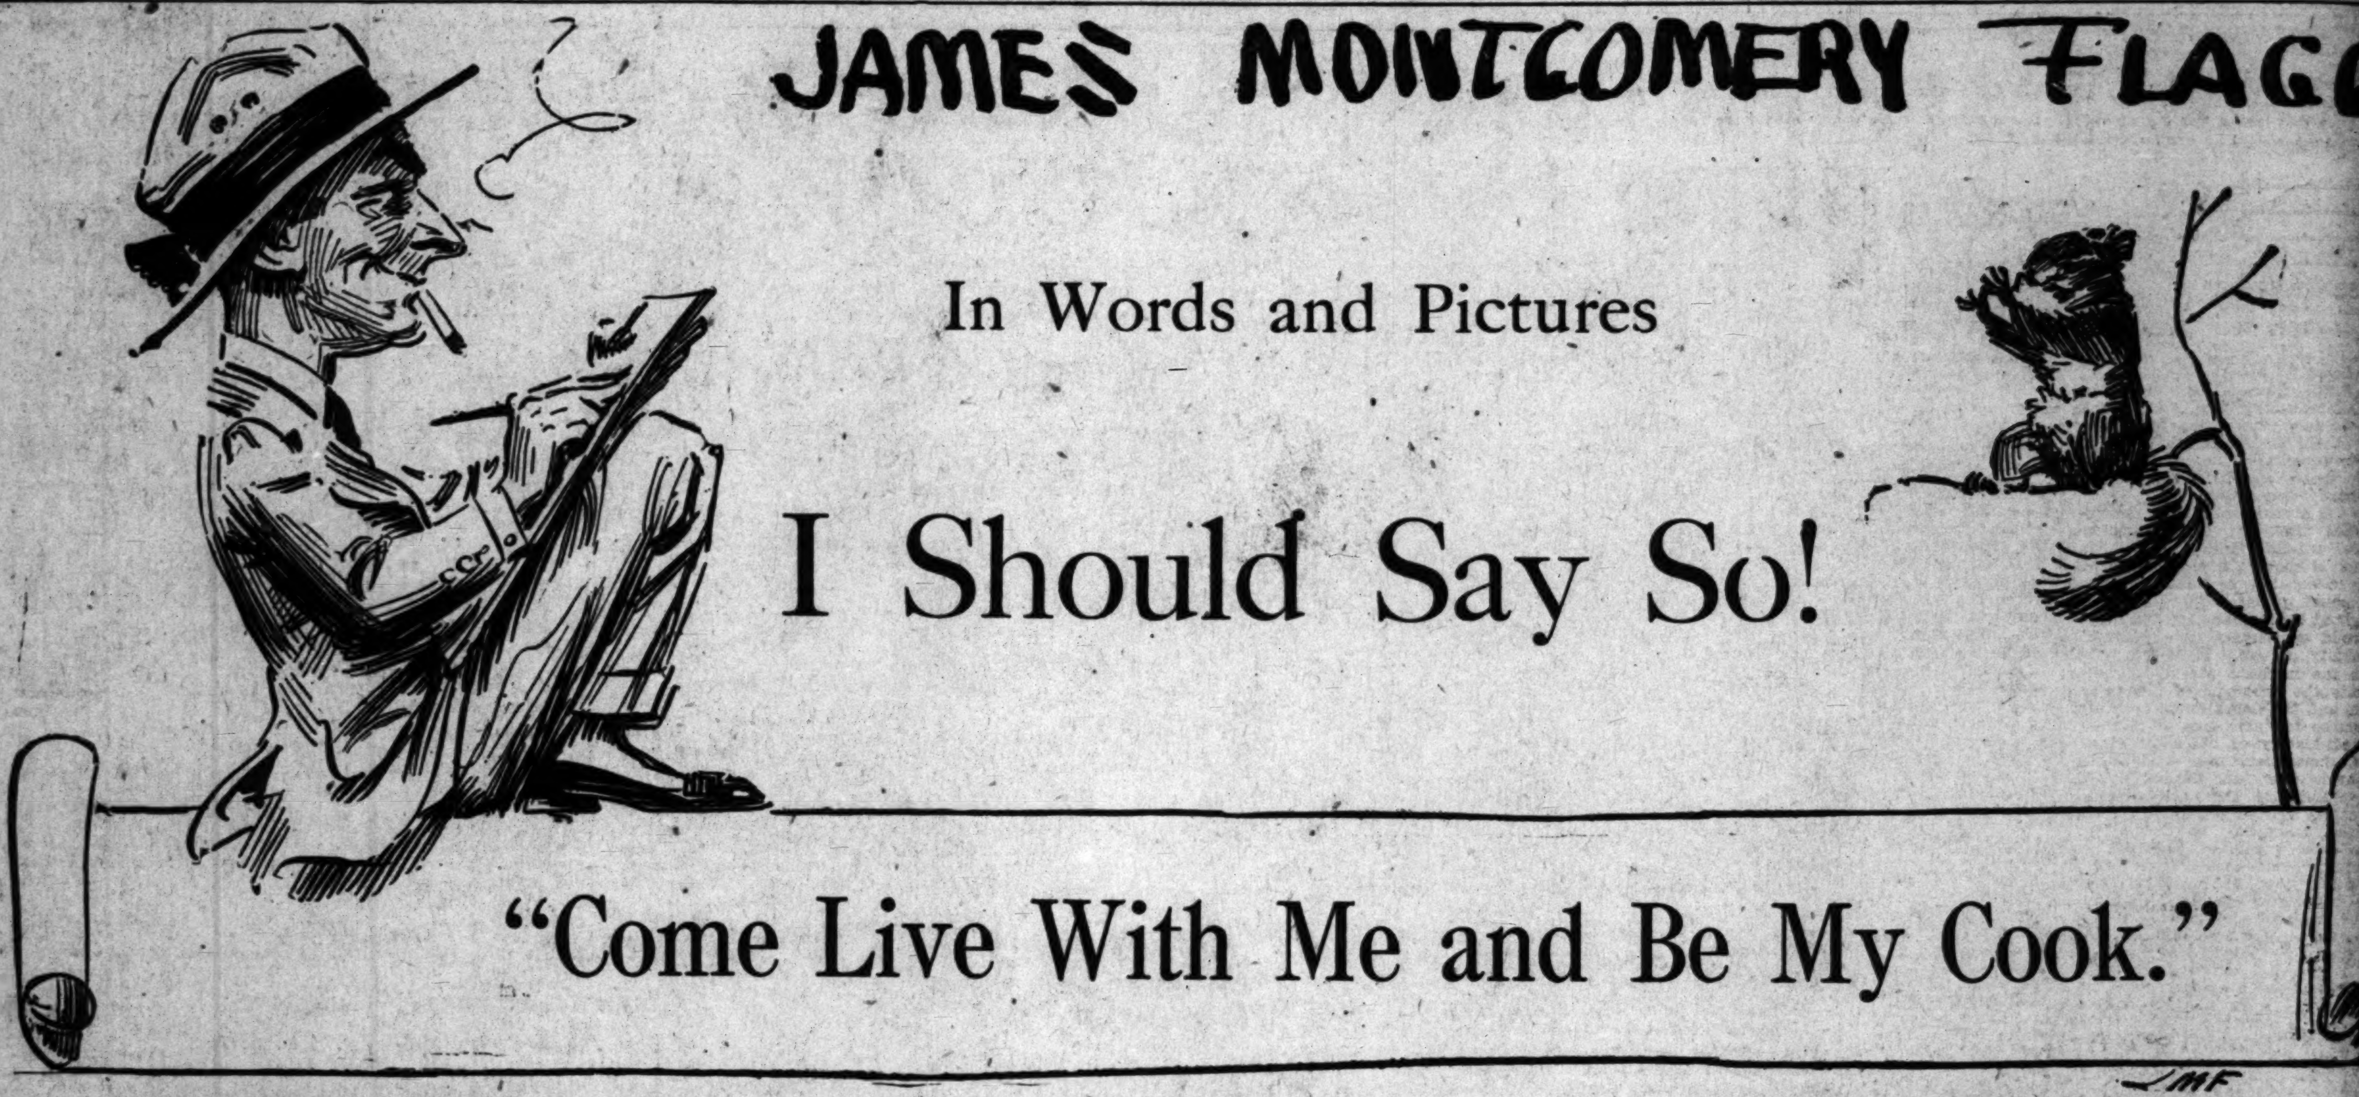
JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG

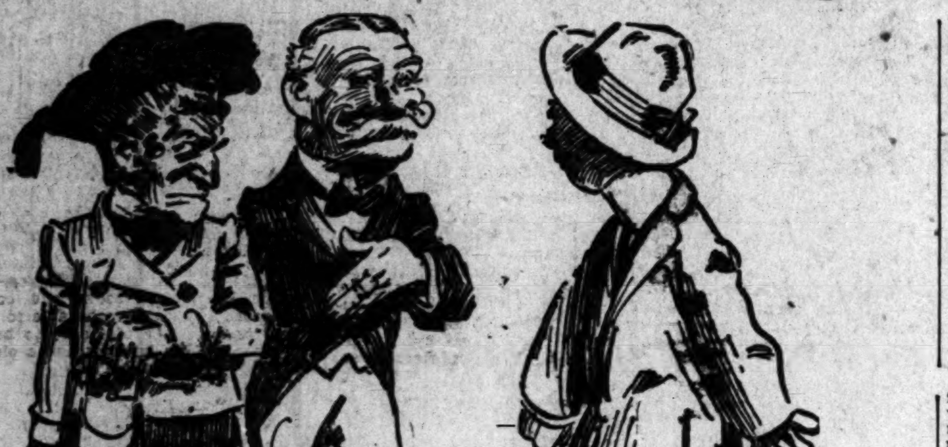


In Words and Pictures

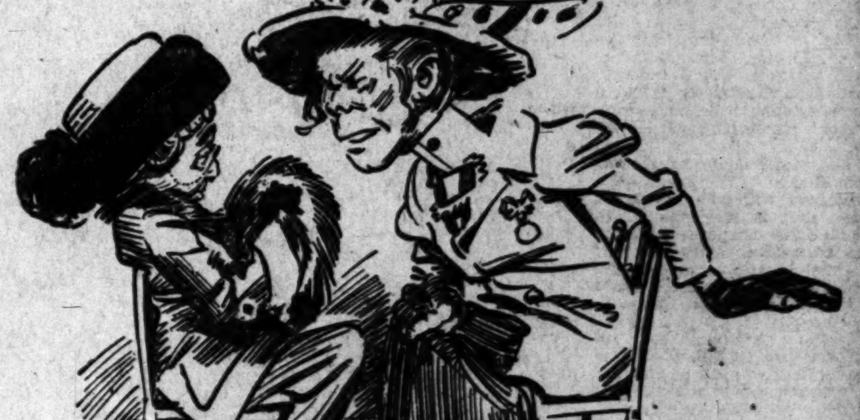
I Should Say So!

"Come Live With Me and Be My Cook."

JMF



"This is it," smiled S. H. Ludwig.



Being menaced by the powers of Europe.

"I'll bet I can bag a cook, and bring it home today, at that!"

"Go to it, Billy," smiles Polly, punching another pillow in the solar-plexus and poking it behind her as she settled herself on the lounge.

"Smile on, woman, but I mean it. It's arrant nonsense to say there isn't such an animal."

"I didn't say so; I said I hadn't found one yet!"

"You've been at it for eight days and we are still eating the messes that Great Auk sends in to us. I have said nothing."

"Nothing," snorts Friend Consort on the lounge. "You have made a noise like an outraged husband at every meal!"

"Well, be that as it is isn't, the time has come for action! I can no longer stand having burnt suspender buttons called fried potatoes, nor yet can I with any degree of pleasure cut into an Indian basket filled with concrete because the Great Auk has broken a bottle of Burnett's vanilla extract over its bows and murmured, 'I christen thee apple pie!' The crowning piece of wanton deception was this morning when I, in my trusting and fatuous innocence, thought she had sent in some brand new chamois pen wipers and was about to rise and lay them on the desk."

"You refer to the griddle cakes?"

"Aye, verily, none other! This ends today! I shall bring home and lay at your feet a regular cook! Adios!"

Billy knew that in order to get a cook one had to hike over to Fourth avenue and look up the Swedish Embassy or the Finnish Legation. He soon came to one of them. There was a long line of limousines drawn up at the curb. Billy noticed that the chauffeurs were all looking anxiously up at the doorway of the Embassy.

From the expressions of these chauffeurs' faces he gathered that the employers had told them to wait within ear shot, and if they heard the slightest report of a revolver to break in immediately!

Getting a cook was a more serious game than he had imagined!

He went up the steps with a manner of well-simulated confidence, and entered. Around the walls of the shabby genteel office sat humble American ladies backed threateningly into corners and being menaced by the powers of Europe!

The ladies sat well back in their chairs, holding their muffs or bags up for protection. The foreign powers sat well forward, catechising and cross-examining their potential mi??tre??e?

"I want to get a—a— Let's see—"

Billy could hardly tear his eyes away from one corner of the office where a rangy brute of a Norwegian laundress was giving a timid little lady from the Bronx a bad five minutes.

"Yes, sir."

"Oh, yes, I am looking for a—what d'y' call 'em—cook!"

"What wages will you pay, sir?"

"Thirty-five dollars. And I want a damn good cook at that!"

"You can't expect a first-class cook, of course, for those wages. Still, I think I have what you want." Squarehead Ludwig disappears behind a partition. "Young and good-looking!" Billy yells after him.

"What's this?" asks Billy.

"This is a nice young Danish cook!"

"She may be Danish, but I categorically deny that she is either nice or young, and I doubt her cooking! Take it back." Billy waved his hand.

S. H. Ludwig raises his wooden eyebrows and returns to the den with the nice young thing from Denmark. Billy can hear him arguing vehemently on the other side of the partition with some unseen female. He catches such phrases as, "Only two in the family," and "Nice, easy" something—whether himself or his wife, Billy doesn't catch.

Re-enter Ludwig with another terrible blight, with a mustache no sophomore would need to be sensitive about, and circular earrings like sailors are supposed to wear, which have almost pulled themselves away through her ears.

"I am not engaging a company to play 'Macbeth,' or I would take her for one of the witches of Endor! Where is the young Norwegian girl cooking-school graduate that you advertise?" Billy is getting a bit peeved.

"This is it!" smiles S. H. Ludwig, but waves her back.

Billy prays for self-control.

"You have the nerve to call that a young girl? That woman who was a grandmother when Charlemagne was in prep school! Good morning!"

Billy dashes out of the place and hunts up another one and enters. He is shown a string of cooks of all sizes and ages, as in the first place, and begins to have a nightmarish sort of feeling that he will have to, or at least in all decency ought to, marry one of them. He feels a little woozy with this parade of all the nations going on.

"For the love of entrees, bring in something that was born since Aaron Burr shot Hamilton W. Mabie! These Banshee harems are getting on my ganglionic nerve!"

By this time Billy feels that he is going daffy, and decides to give in to the sensation weekly.

He glares at the ancient stove-wrestler.

"So, my young Swedish flapper! Let's see your references!"

She fumbles in a bag and fishes out several dirty letters.

"Yes, yes, but where is your reference from Augustus Caesar's wife recommending your rendition of Roman Punch?"

"There," exclaims Billy. "This is something like! Why have you been hiding this Scandinavian Venus from me all this time?" Venus giggles, and looks down at her feet.

"Can you come right along with me now?" Billy grins delightedly.

"How many in fam'ly?" asks Venus.

Oh, just two—myself, my wife and myself," says Billy. "Come on!"

"Do I have to wash?"

"Well, really, I shall leave that to your better and higher nature."

Ludwig interprets: "She means, does she have to do any of the washing!"

"Oh, excuse me! I didn't quite get you. No; everything of ours is sent out to the laundry. Come ahead!"

"Do you have much company?"

Billy is beginning to realize that there is another side to acquiring a cook. "Come over here and sit down and pour your little heart out to me."

Se he and Venus sit down, Billy looking anxiously at Venus.

"Now, do we have much company? Never! I detest company! We never have an outsider in the place!"

"That's too bad! I like to have company. I like to cook for dinner parties."

Billy wilts, and mutters to himself, "can you beat that! I could have sworn I was saying the right thing!"

"What I meant to say was that we are always giving dinner parties. I thought you meant company, you know, just strangers off the street!"

"Do I have a room with another girl?"

"No, certainly not; you have a room all to yourself!" ("There, I know that's right; all maids like rooms to themselves.")

"I not like that. I bane lonely!"

Suffering crumpets! Couldn't he have guessed?

"How many in the kitchen?"

"Well, that depends, sometimes there are anywhere from three to ten. I've seen nine in there at once myself, including the night watchman, but—"

"How many servants?"

"Oh! Just two—yourself and a waitress."

"Just one. I not take the place!" She bounces up and retires.

At the next embassy Billy was trying to describe the sort of a cook he wanted, and he suddenly grasped the mahout by the wrist and pointed rudely.

"There! the one with the black hat with the white feather duster on it! She looks like what I'd prefer to have around the house; bring her over; let me talk to her."

Billy promptly has an attack of sunstroke mixed with asthma and the pip!

"That's where I ought to have blown in, in the first place! Still, perhaps it is all for the best! Bring on some awful villagers!"

They have a little parade for him, and he wishes that some of them would carry torches and some come in on floats to vary the monotony. It has become second nature to him by this time to repeat mechanically to each one: "Two in the kitchen, two in the family; no washing; the cook has to wait on table twice every other week; do you mind living in an apartment? Yes, you have a room to yourself; we have quite a little company. Can you make all kinds of hot breads, pastry, desserts and entrees; $35!" After which, he gasps, "Mmka!"

The ones that answer correctly and have no objections to anything at all are of course the ones he wouldn't consider at all.

As he said to the mahout: "As the cook will have to wait on the table twice every other week, she has to be able to pass things without sticking her stomach at you at the same time, if you know what I mean!"

By this time the afternoon sun is stepping over the Palisades, and Billy has had no lunch. He has been to every ignorance parlor on Fourth avenue, and he feels as if he had been seeing Europe.

There are no more cooks to see! In the last place he entered all they could dig up was a general housework girl, who refused to come with him because he said to her, "I see you're Finnish!"

So when worn out and with a rotten headache, he let himself into his home about 6 o'clock, of course Polly was waiting for him with a peculiar smile—a smile that combined affectionate sarcasm with a sort of motherly pity.

"Well?"

"Well, what, dear?"

"Where's the cook?"

"What cook?"

"The one you were going to lay at my feet, Billy dear!"

"Be sweet to me, kid!"

[Copyright, 1914, by Otis F. Wood.]

PROSPECTOR'S GOOR WORK.

Alaska's Development Largely the Result of Finding Gold in the Klondike Country.

[Chicago Blade:] Alaska has produced in minerals $229,200,000, the production in 1912 totaling $22,100,000. The results have been secured by a small, scattered population of 32,000 whites, working under th most adverse and costly conditi ever experienced by pioneers in a frontier land.

With Alaska opened to develo ment and costs reduced by the co struction of railroads, wagon ro and trails, I believe mining will r ceive an impetus that will greatly i crease the production beyond comparison with the present outp opening up as it will immense d posits of low grade ore and furnish ing more advanced bases of supplie from which the prospector can pu further into the unknown and u cover the hidden wealth that wou always remain covered were it not f his unexcelled enthusiasm and e ergy. The pioneer prospector is d serving of every encouragement a help; his reward is never comme surate with the great value of hi work to humanity and civilizatio

It was the cry of "Gold in th Klondike" that first lured him o and now the cry of "Gold in th Chisana" is to him a fresh impet It is through the prospector and hi work that Alaska has become kno to the civilized world as a storeho of mineral wealth unsurpassed.

HEALTH OF THE ARMY.

Medical Corps Has Robbed Yello Fever of Its Terrors and Typh Eliminated by Inoculation.

[The Outlook:] The record of th army medical corps for the pa decade, and particularly for the pa five years, has been one of consist and rapid progress—one of which t men who made it may well be prou Yellow fever was robbed of its te rors to the soldier by the investig tion carried on after the Spanis American War, and now typho which has been the dread guest at s many camps, has been reduced to negligible factor in the army mo tality rate. In 1909, the year th inoculation was introduced into th army as a preventive for this disea there were 173 cases of typhoid with a death rate of a little mo than one to every 4000. Durin 1912 there were two cases, with n deaths. An objection that has bee alleged against typhoid inoculatio which an American soldier must no undergo once every four years that it increases the subject's susc tibility to tuberculosis. This theo has been held by few reputable ph sicians, and it is not borne out b figures which show that during th same five years in which typhoid ha been practically wiped out of o soldiery the hospital admission ra for each 1000 men for tubercul has decreased from 4.39 to 2.6 Among the other ills to which th fighting man is heir, venereal dise alcoholism, and malarial fever a the most troublesome. Statistics o these diseases for 1913 are not y available, but in the period fr 1908 to 1912, inclusive, the admissi rate for venereal diseases was r duced from 155 men out of each 10 to 116, for alcoholism from 30 to 1 and for malarial fevers from 24 to 1 Such figures speak for themselve Since typhoid inoculation and oth prophylactic measures have succeede in the army, they might well be adopted generally by the vast pr vate corporations whose employe are legion. The increased efficiency and the money saving that would b sure to result are incalculable.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

THE PHILOSOPHER'S VIEWPOINT.

NIETZSCHE And Other Exponents of Individualism. By Paul Carus. The Open Court Publishing Company, Chicago.

PAUL CARUS appears in this volume as a pragmatist denying positivism. With absolute flatness of expression he denies much that other philosophers have maintained; denies it without argument or controversy and trusts to our intelligence to agree with him. Usually, we do.

Nietzsche, as almost every one knows, "was abnormal, titanic in his pretensions and dim, and erratic. Breaking down under the burden of his own thought, he ended his tragical career in an insane asylum. . . . Nietzsche's philosophy is unique in being throughout the expression of an emotion—the proud sentiments of a self-sufficient sovereignty of self. It rejects with disdain both the methods of the intellect, which submits the problems of life to an investigation, and the demands of morality, which recognizes the existence of duty."

A condensed history of Nietzsche's life, and a brief, though succinct, analysis of his philosophy is given, and the author unhesitatingly pronounces the dean of intellectual anarchists right or wrong at various points. Carus, marveling at Nietzsche's assumption, even presumes to override his presumption—but, as has been said, we usually agree with him; nevertheless, it is almost amusing to see him do it.

It is questionable whether George Moore is honored by being designated as "Another Nietzsche." Certainly Moore has been violent enough in his enunciations of denials, but he has never been consumed with the fire of sincerity. When George Moore speaks he listens to hear how it sounds—[illegible] roared and the words tumbled out with a peculiar force.

Moore says: "If the principle of an unlimited egotism be right, George Moore is as good as Nietzsche, and any criminal [illegible] the smart abominable vices would be no worse than either."

That's sufficient to bristle the hair and [illegible] the eyes of all the Nietzscheites in Christendom and set them angrily chattering like disturbed popinjays, for if there [illegible] now existent it is among the enthusiastic sect worshiping Friedrich Nietzsche.

A bloody and picturesque prognostication comes from Moore: "The French revolution will compare with the revolution that must come, that is inevitable, as a [illegible] on the roadside compares with the [illegible]. [illegible] will hang like pears on every lamp-post, in every great quarter of London there will be an electric guillotine that will decapitate the rich like hogs in Chicago."

In the discussion of "Nietzsche's Disciples" the observation is presented that they make a great fuss over his dogma, but attempt to practice the impossible doctrine that he advocated. "His philosophy, as far as he is concerned, is a purely [illegible] love of an unattainable star whose [illegible] dazzled the imagination of a child-[illegible]ceful weakling. . . . Nietzsche's [illegible] upon professional philosophers is relatively weak," but the spectacular, [illegible]-minded hastened to swear allegiance to the principles of subliminated [illegible] principally for the reason that it [illegible] them excuse for attacking and [illegible] all things established in politics, [illegible] or ethics. An iconoclast is only an [illegible] with a hammer.

[illegible] pays his compliments to those who "be slaves to morality" lest it interfere with their "aesthetic spirits" and [illegible] the following from a radical German, as expressive of the "intellectual [illegible]": "I am against matrimony because I am a poet. Wife, children, family—well! They may be good enough for a man possessed of the herding instinct, but I object to trivialities in my life. I want something stimulating, poetry! A wife would be prosaic simply on account of being my wife; children who would call me papa would be boring. Poetry I need! Poetry!'"

[illegible] is a class growing in intrusion [illegible] persons misinterpret for wider [illegible] and respect that seems to think [illegible] a sign of genius and immorality [illegible] intellectual brilliancy. It may be [illegible] less accurately defined as a pseudo-[illegible]ical and literary epidemic, a sort [illegible] plague. It may not, at present, [illegible] that this moral meningitis is diminishing, [illegible] it seems reasonable to observe [illegible] are not a sufficient number of [illegible] persons in the world for it to [illegible] make progress. And if there [illegible] men and women, with the intellectual and literary qualifications of Paul [illegible] discussing the subject with blasting [illegible] much logic, the zymotic pestilence [illegible] more readily be eradicated.

MANY-SIDED GENIUS.

[illegible]SURPRISING that the younger generation seems to know little of William Morris. In a general way, disparaging or [illegible]tory according to the pinnacle of [illegible] he is classified as Socialist and his generally recognized memorial of fame [illegible] chair devised for comfort which [illegible] name. The better informed regard him as a sort of successful and artistic [illegible]-Trades; and those who know [illegible]—and it need not be enough to [illegible] of learning—of the great men [illegible] century cannot be ignorant of [illegible]markable character whose splendid [illegible] was manifest in so many forms [illegible]. Yet he died but a few years [illegible]

[illegible] a Socialist, and if all that sect resembled him the world would be different [illegible] it is or what they are trying to [illegible] He was a man of letters whose [illegible] poems have never been surpassed, [illegible] translations of Virgil and Homer [illegible] by many people to be far better [illegible] so discerning and interesting a [illegible] Mr. Clutton-Brock gives them credit [illegible]. Morris was, also (at the command of Rossetti, whose flat made artists [illegible] worshipful young men,) an artist, [illegible] there seems to have been few [illegible] which the more artistic capabilities [illegible] that William Morris did not succeed in doing well. He [illegible] wall paper or a cathedral; [illegible] almost say he first established that [illegible] at a time when it was neither [illegible] both beautiful and comfortable. [illegible] he was lovable, a tremendous [illegible]yant with vivacity, intolerant [illegible] with just enough faults to gratify the charitable generosity of his admirers.

This new addition to the Home University library covers the life and work of Morris effectively, and has the exceptional value of not being dull.

DRAMA.

THE VOICE OF A RUSSIAN.

GENERATION after generation stood up, suffered and died in Russia. The world heard moans and cries, but the people—the Russian masses—were inarticulate. That is no more: Mighty voices have found speech, and the most tragic literature to which the ears of men have listened has come out of Russia during the last half century. The voice of Leonid Andreyev is one of the mightiest.

"Savva" represents the failure of an anarchist's bomb to prove there is no God. But it does not fail to show that the deity presiding over the "wonder-working" ikon—or idol—and worshiped by the boiler-bellied monks, is a careless sort of divinity, who, instead of curing the cripples that come on feast days, allows them to be trampled to death.

Savva, a young anarchist, believes that he can convince the peasantry that the ikon is only wood, and not divine, by blowing it to bits with a bomb, and hires a monk to place the infernal machine. But the monk gives away the secret, the ikon is removed, the bomb exploded, the ikon is then put back and lo! the people believe that a miracle was wrought since the precious image does not bear a scratch. Savva is trampled to death. All of the characters in "Savva" are mad or else silly. Savva himself is a little of both. As a play it ridicules the manifestations of religion and portrays the revolutionary doctrines of the anarchist class which hopes to destroy all forms of authority and property so that universally men shall be equal.

On an entirely different character and of a superior value is "The life of Man." Its theme may be called the Russian counterpart of our wellknown English "Everyman," but the treatment is much finer, more graphic—so simple, and yet lifting itself with broad and majestic proportions.

Five scenes show the life of man: "The Birth of Man and the Mother's Travail," "Love and Poverty," "Wealth, Man's Ball," "Man's Misfortune," "The Death of Man." "Some One in Gray, Called He," speaks from time to time and with what eloquence and precision of words this may serve to show: "Being born, he will take the form and name of Man, and in all things will become like other men already living. . . . Limited in vision, he will never see the next step which his unsteady foot, poised in the air, is in the very act of taking. Limited in knowledge, he will never know what the coming day will bring, or the coming hour, of the coming minute. In his unseeing blindness, troubled by premonitions, agitated by hope and fear, he will submissively complete the iron-traced circle foreordained."

"Some One in Gray" listens passively to curses and prayers alike. He moves silently, watchfully, inexorably, side by side with man from the cradle to the bier, indifferent to man's misfortune or opulency.

Truly, "The Life of Man" is one of the great things that have come out of Russia.

THE WRATH OF DEMOS.

THE MOB. By John Galsworthy. Scribner's Sons, New York.

MR. GALSWORTHY is in need of a discerning enemy. This man of letters who seemed rising into the rank of preeminency now appears likely to suffer the fate of Icarus, and some of us who thought him winged by genius are beginning to detect what appears to be the melting wax with which he arranged the feathers to make his flight. Now comes "The Mob" to substantiate the fear, steadily growing with the appearance of certain courteously called "essays" in periodicals of recent date, that Mr. Galsworthy will disappoint those who have admired him, perhaps over-much. After the literary manner of the times, he seems to think the world may be cheated in giving a welcome to prolific mediocrity, for prolific he certainly is, and mediocre he is certainly becoming. To repeat: Mr. Galsworthy is in need of a discerning enemy who, untempered by admiration, might make him realize that because an author has written "Strife" and "The Silver Box," is no reason why "The Pigeon" and "The Mob" should be well received.

And there is no reason, other than the respected name of the author, for according consideration to "The Mob." Anyone who undertakes in the drama to show what a monstrous fool is Demos is in much the same position as a man who hires a hall to prove an axiom. If he would be well received, he must have something new to say, some point of view not so ancient as Shakespeare's fame, and must depend on other than the antique clap-trap long ago discarded by others than amateurs.

"The Mob" is constructed by the same blue-print that served for "The Fugitive," excepting that in the latest play the victim is a man, and the public sentiment that hounds the victim to death is displayed instead of implied. The motif—if it may be so called—is different, but notwithstanding, is founded on a matter of conscience.

Most disappointing of all, especially coming from John Galsworthy, "The Mob" preaches—it more than preaches, it fairly rants and the most insipid, platitudinous sort of ranting.

Stephan More, as a member of Parliament, believes that his conscience demands that he oppose popular patriotism and the national fanaticism to make speeches against a war into which England has entered with a smaller country. His friends and family, in humiliation and with resentment, leave him; and ultimately he is assassinated by "the mob."

The climax is farcical despite the tragedy. A girl shouts that he is a friend of "them" that killed her lad, filches a knife from the belt of a Boy Scout (overt slap at juvenile militarism?) and stabs the conscientious but uninteresting peace advocate.

FICTION.

A BOY'S ADVENTURES.

A LAD OF KENT. By Herbert Harrison. The Macmillan Company, New York.

HAD Mr. Harrison dispersed, as the story goes along, a few of the reasons for the muddle of events that keep young Philip in danger and in adventures from the beginning, the climax might not be so dramatic and unexpected, but the book would be far more interesting. It is the publisher's reputation more than the author's technic that holds the reader to the book. We know that there must be something to redeem the mystifying, yet not wholly apparent, conspiracy to get Philip out of the way, else the book would not have been published.

In the end it is all explained, as they do in detective stories. Two or three hundred pages are devoted to befuddling the reader, and at last the author pops up with the explanation and makes his figurative bow in acknowledgement to the same sort of applause for cleverness that seldom exists.

But "A Lad of Kent" has redeeming features. The episode of the "press gang," which comes ashore in the name of His Majesty, attempting to annex some of the sturdy seafaring men at Folkestone is interesting and exciting. The period dealt with is the early part of the nineteenth century, when smugglers and adventurers were abroad, and sheep stealing and robbery were common forms of gaining a livelihood.

Philip is not only an orphan, but his guardian dies and, wholly unconscious of how important it is to a certain English gentleman that he shall be killed, is forced into one perilous situation after another; and, no matter how hard we may wonder, he cannot be more puzzled at what it is all about than is the reader. But in the end it is all romantically and satisfactorily explained.

WHOLESOME AND UNIQUE.

THIS delightful and uniquely-written story is full of quiet smiles, suppressed laughs and open guffaws. It is told in the first person of the several characters concerned, in different chapters. Sir Edward Fanhope's narrative is by far the best, Sir Edward is a dear, testy old baronet, with a great warm heart, a superabundance of dignity, and an ardent hatred of automobiles. His deceased son has been a source of grief and disappointment to him on account of wildness and alleged dishonesty and is the cause of estrangement between two good old friends. Dick Witham comes to the old man on his birthday and exonerates the dead son, even twisting facts to soften the memory of the boy, and make his old friend happier. He tells him of a grand-daughter somewhere in America. Sir Edward ships at once, his loving old friends accompanying him to Southhampton, with presents and tributes of flowers. The adventures begin at once on the ship, when Sir Edward meets with the other dramatis personae. One is a grand larcenist, who bears himself with such dignity and impressiveness that Sir Edward is won at once. The scamp is planning at the time to rob an opera singer of her valuable emeralds, having in his possession imitation gems which have been made for the purpose of substitution. Sir Edward is won by the fellow's deferential kindnesses to himself. The scamp has, in fact, taken a very real and lasting fancy to the old man.

There is also on board Ivo Talboy, the open-mouthed, laughing, spontaneous, breezy type of young English manhood, of whom Sir Edward decidedly disapproves, particularly after he tries to drop a word of warning in the baronet's ear concerning his newly-found friend. The baronet resents this, and even after the larcenist's malpractice is discovered puts his own interpretation upon the crime, and retains his friendship for the criminal.

There are several romances developed. Ivo has been so indiscreet as to pay devoted attentions to an American heiress on board, which, in view of future developments, places him in an awkward position. A peep into the underworld is given, with all of its pathos and horror. Revelations are made as to how unfortunate women are compelled to remain what they are by a system so brutally perfect in New York, and so strongly supported politically that she has no chance to redeem herself. Her persecutors are protected in dragging her back to shame in the very view of a gaping, leering populace.

The book has that charm of style which characterized the writers of the New England school of the past century.

CHARMING STORIES.

AT THE CASA NAPOLEON. By Thomas A. Janvier. Harper & Bros., New York.

THE death of Janvier removed an author, not widely popular, but much beloved by those who knew his work. "At the Casa Napoleon" embodies rather long short stories which are wholly characteristic of his art that took the form of deep sympathy with people, and especially those people in the Latin-American quarter of New York.

The "Casa Napoleon" affords the settings for these stories. It is a hotel presided over by Mme. and Don Anastasic, and had its peculiar name bestowed because madame, being French, held out for something distinctive of her country, and Don Anastasie, being Mexican, was equally determined that the very name of the hotel should proclaim his patriotism.

We may well marvel that two such wholly delightful characters succeed in the business of maintaining a hostelry, but under the kindly supervision of the author they do succeed, and make life the more pleasant for many people who come into the "Casa Napoleon." The stories of Jack and Prudence, who find refuge and fortune there, and of the Efferati family, and of Dr. Theophile, kind and efficient, and of Col. Witherby, are all written with an affectionate sympathy and a penetration that makes them—both stories and characters—distinctive and pleasing.

A THRILL A MINUTE.

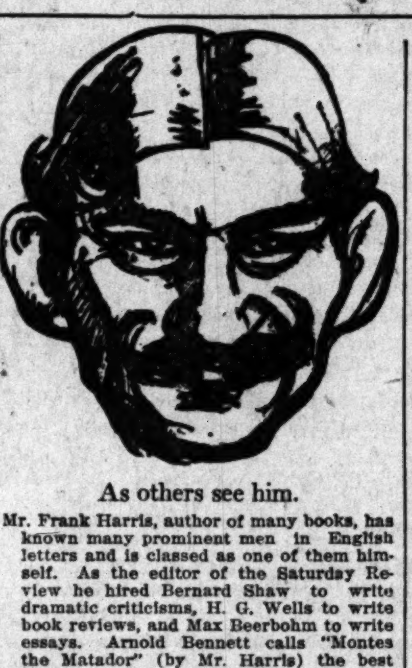
Ho, gallant tars and true, fall to!
Up anchor, lads, and sheets unfurl.
Let engines throb a low tattoo;
It's "All aboard for Panama."

THUS the author opens the dedication of the novel, with a fine swing and verve. The spirit is there, even if his verses are short on the laws of ethics of versification, and even if he does leave you in doubt as to whether you are going to embark on a schooner or a steam yacht. The story, as far as treasure-hunts and pirates are concerned, is a good one. Add to that a dainty romance of love at first sight, and what more would you wish? To be sure, many of the situations are far-fetched and forced. When the author finds himself in a corner, and the game not working out, he deliberately lifts up his pawns and places them where the game may go on, the author winning, of course. The prologue of the story embraces the looting of a mine and an isthmus city. Circumstances most accommodatingly, if not logically, fall into line with the plans of the pirates. The treasure is loaded on a transport in the night, and conveyed to "Doubloon Spit," where it is buried by the last survivor of the pirates, and path of the treasure being marked by dissension and bloodshed. The father of the young lady who furnishes at least half of the romance has received the map of the country in which the treasure is buried, and the directions for reaching it. At his death he leaves the map to his daughter. There is a wicked cousin, Boris, half Russian, who learns of the existence of the paper, and attempts to wrest it from the young lady. In a most extraordinary way it comes into the possession of the hero of the romance. A wealthy friend finances the expedition, which embarks, accompanied by the young girl and her chaperon. Of course the wicked Boris follows on their trail, succeeding in stowing himself away on the yacht. The story is full of adventures and thrills.



As others see him.

Mr. Frank Harris, author of many books, has known many prominent men in English letters and is classed as one of them himself. As the editor of the Saturday Review he hired Bernard Shaw to write dramatic criticisms, H. G. Wells to write book reviews, and Max Beerbohm to write essays. Arnold Bennett calls "Montes the Matador" (by Mr. Harris) the best story in the English language. Mr. Harris's latest book—"Great Days," a romance, will be reviewed on tthis page next Sunday.

SHORT STORIES.

THE COST OF WINGS. By Richard Dehan. Frederick A. Stokes, New York.

MR. DEHAN'S volume of short stories has nothing in particular to recommend it; they are rather a high-class form of mediocrity, the "Red Book" type of fiction—interesting manikins. One doesn't get an intimate view of the characters; in fact, while the comparison is hardly just, we can explain what is meant by saying they are totally lacking in those personal qualities that have made O. Henry's characters so attractive.

Among the more clever stories, and Mr. Dehan sparkles at times, are "A Fat Girl's Love Story;" "The Motor-Burglar" and "How the Mistress Came Home."

A NEW INSIGHT.

THE HAPPY IRISH. By Harold Begbie. George H. Doran Company, New York.

THE Irish people are presented in a new and interesting light in this volume. The author has gone among them, studying the conditions which surround them; studying the Irish nature, and the circumstances in the history of the nation which have brought about the conditions surrounding them now. He calls up the seven centuries of persecution in Ireland by England, and the barbarities by which even the extermination of the Irish was attempted—when not only men and women, but children and babes were slaughtered by hundreds. It is not a pretty page of history for England to remember. The author tells how, one by one, the industries of Ireland were cut down and ruined by English legislation, and how finally she was denationalized. Any one who is minded to criticise the Irish people needs but to remember these things to forgive almost any defect.

Conditions in Belfast—the child labor in factories, the dreadful poverty in which these little laborers live today, the frightful exposure of young girls in their incipient womanhood, to the inclemency of the weather, inadequately clad—these things and many more stand as a reproach to paternal England, who has wrested from Ireland the right to regulate her own industrial conditions, and made her powerless to protect herself from those which the stronger nation has thrust upon her.

Mr. Begbie has given the reader an insight to Irish character, domestic life and womanhood which could not be obtained by a casual glance at the conditions of living among the people themselves. The illustrations are most interesting, displaying among the Irish children, even in their rags and shuddering with cold, an incipient beauty.

NEW SERIES ON CHILDREN.

THE HIGH SCHOOL AGE. By Irving King. Bobbs-Merrill Company. Indianapolis.
NATURAL EDUCATION. By Winifred Sackville Stoner.
LEARNING AND DOING. By Edgar James Swift.

BOBBS-MERRILL announce regarding this new series "In an endeavor to place before parents and teachers the best modern knowledge concerning the care, training and welfare of the young, we have undertaken the publication of a series of books designed to cover every phase and aspect of childhood and youth in a thoroughly practical and helpful way."

Unquestionably, the publishers have made a good beginning.

"The High School Age" by Prof. King of the University of Iowa, deals with co-education at the age of adolescence, and considers questions of health and school work, and practical matters pertaining to the conservation of the energies of high school pupils, and making their work in school more efficient.

"Natural Education" by Mrs. Stoner, describes the direct and simple manner in which her own daughter was educated by making learning pleasant.

"The Child and His Spelling" by Prof. Cook of the University of Colorado and Prof. O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin, is an effort to contribute something definite to the solution of the difficulties of spelling, and represents the result of a long investigation.

"Learning and Doing" by Prof. Swift of Washington University undertakes to explain the most effective means of having children apply themselves and offers suggestions on how to utilize the juvenile, and often recalcitrant, energy. Many of the problems met with by parents and teachers are discussed lucidly and at length.

The books are attractively bound in dark green cloth, completely indexed, and make up a part of the "Childhood and Youth Series."

FOR EVERY YOUTH.

TEN SEX TALKS TO BOYS. By I. D. Steinhardt, M. D. J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia and London.

THESE sex talks to boys are among the most sensible products of their kind that have come to hand. They eschew any dependence upon religion for their effectiveness. The author does not make his appeal to his boys upon moral grounds. These, unsupported by a knowledge of the law of cause and effect, have proven a failure in the upbringing of children of health and red blood. Dr. Steinhardt first explains as fully as possible without entering into inadvisable technicalities, the anatomy of the male being, and its meaning. He explains the functions of sex in its relation to procreation. He explains how evil and contamination may approach a child without the child's recognition. He explains the physiological reason for the preservation of purity, and the avoidance of promiscuity. He shows why virtue is as important in the fathers of humanity as in the mothers. What he explains in connection with venereal diseases will freeze the laugh on the lips of the careless. The tragedy of the little mite of infected humanity that is brought into the world an innocent victim of the vices of its progenitor, is a picture that should be presented to every youth while he is young enough to be impressed with the heart-breaking spectacle. After reading this volume the author will be almost ready to assert that health spells morality, and that morality, in its fullest sense, cannot exist without health. Ernest Thompson Seton has written the preface, producing some very pungent facts, which are better than advice to fathers concerning the attitude and duties of fathers toward their sons. A few very necessary and instructive plates are distributed throughout the volume.

WITH THE MAGAZINES.

With full admiration for the commanding names of contributors on the index page of the Red Book Magazine, still the most important thing in the magazine is the announcement of a new novel by Rupert Hughes, beginning serially in September, called "Empty Pocket." Oh, yes, but we are forgetting the performers already on the field: This month Albert Terhune, Arthur Train, E. Philip Oppenheim, James Francis Dwyer, Ellis Parker Butler, Reginald Wright Kauffman, Opie Read and Arthur B. Reeve are among the short story contributors.

Though there are many good things in the Atlantic Monthly (as usual) "Victorian Hypocrisy" by Annie Winsor Allen, is especially worthy of notice as an analysis of the perhaps "purely psychological" change that has come over the domain of literature since the death of Victoria. Simeon Strunsky again proves himself an observing and amusing essayist and this time by investigating "The Game"—which, of course, refers to baseball. Among the other contributors are H. G. Dwight, Fannie Stears Davis Fifford, Frederick Trevor Hill, Margaret Sherwood and Samuel McChord Crothers.

The feature of the Smart Set this month is "The Twenty-three Days of Nazimov" by W. L. George, a tale of love in Germany. "We We" by George Jean Nathan, is a clever thrust at the Englishman's (American's, also) vocabulary in Paris; Richard Le Gallienne grows prosaically poetic in an essay on "The Snows of Yesteryear" (how it must hurt that fellow to smell a rose!) Freeman Tilden discusses "Wildcats" in a story—not felines, however—with what the editors are pleased to call his "characteristic satire." "Some Mischief Still" by Joyce Kilmer, a play in one act, is an exceptional, amusing feature with a surprising ending. Some twenty and more other contributors make up the number.

The fiction number of Scribner's includes a formidable array of names: Rudyard Kipling, Edith Wharton, Theodore Roosevelt (now we have him where Mr. Savage-Landor says he belongs!) James B. Connolly, Katherine Gerould, Albert Bigelow Paine and many others. Of course, Mr. Roosevelt writes of his travels in the Brazilian wilderness, but the others avowedly deal in fiction.

McClure's also has a prominent array of names and a first-class collection of stories for August. "Bill Came Back" by Henry Kitchell Webster, deals with a business man who "went in" for aesthetics; "The Gulf Stream" by Coningsby Dawson, tells how failure may make a successful playwright; Holworthy Hall, who seems to have gone to college quite recently, writes of "Henry Pours Gasoline." An article that surprises and alarms is "The Farce of the Pure Food Law" by Burton J. Hendrick, who shows that it is legal for us to buy disguised poisons. Among the other contributors, well known, are George A. Birmingham, Alice Hegan Rice and Edward Mott Woolley. The insipid serial pictures of Orson Lowell continue.

Great names also loom large in the "Fiction Number" of the Century. The leading story—"Under Silken Skins"—is by Maria Thompson Daviess, and among the others who have already "arrived" are Zona Gale, Arnold Bennett, Hamlin Garland, Alice Hegan Rice, Edward Alsworth Ross ("The Slavs in America"—not fiction,) and Albert Bigelow Paine. "Reminiscences of Tolstoy" by Count Ilya Tolstoy, also continue and are as interesting as ever—which means they are indeed interesting.

Everybody's — "Fiction Number" also—musters a fair-sized company of "famous ones," including Emerson Hough (describing travels in the Rocky Mountains,) George Randolph Chester (typical story,) Frederick Palmer (information on Mexico,) Ellis Parker Butler (trying as hard as usual to equal his one best story) and Henry Kitchell Webster, whose short stories have style and plot and seem to be developing a vogue among the editors. "More Clouds in the Balkans" by Stephen Brozovic, is a timely article on the trouble-center of Europe. Everybody's announces that the prize winners in the "Rum" contest will be published next month.

REVIEWS IN BRIEF.

HEROINES OF MODERN RELIGION. Edited by Warren Dunham Foster. Sturgis & Walton Company, New York.

Among these heroines are numbered Maud Ballington, Anne Hutchinson, Susannah Wesley, Elizabeth Ann Seton, Lucretia Mott, Fanny Crosby, "Sister Dora," Hannah Whitall Smith, Frances Ridley Havergal, Rambel Dongre Medhavi. Each chapter of the volume is contributed by a different author. By modern the author signifies within the last four centuries in which women have left their imprint upon the religions of civilization. As far back as the sixteenth century Anne Hutchinson's remarkably acute intellect and sturdy initiative led her to make a determined stand in religious matters, at a time when anything out of the beaten track was cried down as heresy. Even to non-sectarians this book will furnish most absorbing character studies, and will prove that independence of conviction among women is not peculiar to recent generations.

A singular and rather pretty story, this, of a young girl brought up as a boy by her father, because the father has been through an unfortunate experience by which he lost faith in women. But it would seem that he has done the very poorest service to the girl, who is utterly unprepared to meet the exigencies of life in her proper character of woman, and thereby almost wrecks her own young life.

This is a careful and painstaking volume, not differing greatly from other works on the same subject, and not always objectively accurate in its premises. But in other places truth is brought home unerringly, and the author is awake to his purpose in every page.

It is only in the writings, or the intimate biographies of great men, that we get the true history of their times. That period of history which includes the public life of John Quincy Adams is of importance to Americans. In this volume of correspondence we find expressions of opinion from a President upon all sorts of topics—politics, divorce, diplomacy, books and commerce. It is most gratifying to be able to read the unaffected opinions of men who have been prominent in affairs, and such a pleasure is offered through this volume.

THE TWO AMERICAS. By Rafael Reyes. (Translated by Leopold Grahame.) Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York.

This is a timely work of value. The opening of the Panama Canal alters the relation of the two immense countries on each side of the new hand-made channel, and Gen. Reyes has treated the subject comprehensively, giving for the first time emphasis to the South American's viewpoint. As an ex-President of the Republic of Colombia he is naturally conversant with world affairs, and writes from a perspective that embraces a wide radius of observation.

PICTURESQUE NEW ZEALAND. By Paul Gooding. Houghton-Mifflin Company, Boston.

New Zealand has a history that the world is the poorer for being ignorant of. Mr. Gooding has not had as his purpose to write that history, but he arouses interest in it by frequent allusions and brief sketches. The value of his work lies in the intimacy of his association with the peculiar island, and his descriptions have a charm that may be partly due to his obvious conscientious effort to make the reader understand thoroughly the various scenes to which attention is given.

This old favorite of many years, edited by Stanley Lane-Poole, M.A., Litt.D., is reprinted in Bohn's Popular Library series, in four small volumes. Nothing need be said either of the original or the translation, but the handy-volume form may share the popularity of the text.

The author of this volume believes that all "fundamental industries," such as mines, forests, oil wells, etc., will before many years be nationalized, and that all "monopolies" will be either wholly operated by government or so completely controlled as to be practically so operated. Other industries, which he designates, he states must eventually be controlled by the municipality.

THE CAMPAIGN OF SEDAN. By George Hooper. MacMillan Company, New York.

These two volumes make valuable additions to the Bohn's Popular Library, the purpose of which is to place classics within the reach of any person whose tastes incline them toward the best and the rare in literature. Henry Vaughan, almost a contemporary of Shakespeare, devoted his talents to the writing of sacred poems. "The Campaign of Sedan" is a critical study of the last war between Prussia and France, and describes the different methods of fighting and preparing for war used by the two nations.

Few works of this nature have been found more artistic and comprehensive. Artificial lakes, birdhouses, pergolas, Japanese effects, fountains, walls and walks are treated at length and illustrated by photographs. As the title says, it has been the effort of the author to show that the artistic is practical, and in this she has been successful.

So important was the part played by Senator Plumb in Kansas from 1837 to 1891 that it may well be said, as do the publishers, "the life of Senator Plumb is the history of Kansas." The author has assembled a great quantity of information relative to almost every phase of Senator Plumb's activity, and devotes special attention to troublous days on the Kansas border.

HOW TO REST. By Grace Dawson. Thomas Y. Crowell Company, New York.

A little booklet of practical advice on the restful way of living, and common sense suggestions as to nerve conservation.

Do You Know

—That the advertising copy which you are reading in this announcement is first written as an accurate description of the merchandise to be sold, with relation to quantity, size, widths, and whether perfect or imperfect?

—That it is then rewritten, sent to the newspapers, set-up by the compositors, returned to the advertising office for verification, where it is carefully read and checked, then sent to the Department Manager for a second verification? That after the merchandise is placed upon display, under the sign which gives the price, the merchandise is checked again to see that it substantiates every claim made for it?

—This last and final checking is made from a customer's viewpoint by an impartial critic, who looks for the fulfillment of the written word to the very letter.

—This is the way Broadway's announcements are prepared. That's why you may depend upon the statements we make. You can depend upon what you see in Broadway ads, you can believe Broadway signs—and merchandise that appears in Broadway windows is sold in quantity and valuation just as it appears.

MRS. MASSON, the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life. Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry. WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

POLITICAL TIPS.

The death of Justice Lurton of the Supreme Court gives President Wilson an opportunity to put another Democrat on the Suprehe bench, although that body is supposed to be non-political. Thus far, the President has not felt it incumbent on him to go outside of his party to find available men for all vacancies that have either occurred or been made since the administration came into power. In this respect, President Taft was very liberal, as he made White, a Democrat and former Confederate, Chief Justice; later he appointed Lurton, another ex-Confederate, and Lamar, a Democrat. All the appointments that President Wilson has made on the reserve board have been Democrats, although propriety would have called for a division between the parties of the members of such a non-political organization as the reserve board. When the Republicans are in power a good deal is said about discrimination against the members of other parties, but in looking around, it will easily be seen that in comparison with the present administration, the Republicans came very near giving a non-political administration.

The important office of Treasurer of the United States, under the administration of John Burke, former Governor of North Dakota, has become so balled up that experts have been called in to straighten out the book-keeping tangle, that the government may know where it stands. As the Treasurer's office is a practical clearinghouse for all governmental checks the situation is a serious one. Burke's own defense is that it has been difficult to get an office corps of civil service people, which is no excuse for having swapped the members of the old force that was doing the work when the Democrats came into power.

Representative McDermott of Illinois gets out of the tangle in which he was placed by the testimony of Martin M. Mulhall in the lobby investigation by resigning. He says he is going to put it up to his constituents for indorsement, but they will probably vote him the privilege of remaining at home. In order to live in Washington McDermott was compelled to borrow considerable money from the money lenders and the brewers of Chicago, so when legislation affecting their business came up he was naturally on their side, which may have been only a coincidence, although it does not look like it. Even the voters of the packing-house district in Chicago cannot stand some of the things that McDermott has done, so when they vote on his reelection they may accuse him of having capitalized his Congressional office, and it will be hard for him to explain why he could not live on his salary as a Representative.

Such a pressure is being brought on Senator Root of New York to induce him to be a candidate for reelection that there is a belief prevalent that he may yield, although he has strenuously repudiated all overtures thus far. If his being a candidate will save the Republicans from defeat, Mr. Root will be a candidate. Congress needs such men as he, as in many lines he is the ablest man in the country, and is so recognized by all parties. The necessity of appealing directly to the people for an election is not attractive to Mr. Root, who does not desire to enter into such a campaign when he would much prefer to retire to private life.

The proposition of Mrs. James J. Brown of Denver to become a candidate for the United States Senate does not appeal to such level-headed women as Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Suffrage Association. "No man would think of running for the Senate without having had political experience in his own State, which Mrs. Brown has not," says Dr. Shaw. "No one could do more for the suffrage amendment than Senator Thomas has done. Putting forward a woman at this time to defeat Mr. Thomas merely because he is a Democrat is just about the degree of political sagacity that I should expect of the Congressional Union. They have the greatest lack of that quality of any group of women I have ever heard of. If they want to accomplish anything for suffrage let them go out to the campaign States and make speeches. They will never get anywhere by going up and down hill to Congress."

John Skelton Williams learned to enjoy the luxury provided for the Secretaries of the Treasury Department and was, therefore, very loth to move to the room provided for the Comptroller of the Currency. He delayed nearly a month after his appointment, during which time he had his new office re-equipped with rich furnishings and modern appointments. The thing one will now notice on going into Williams's new office is the floor covering, a rug of solid red—making the reddest red floor probably ever seen outside of a slaughter-house. As the color of red excites to activity, Mr. Williams is probably hustling the business of his department. No person can live in a red room without being excited to do something, so we may hear more from Mr. Williams.

Senator Campbell Russell of Warner, Okla., is an original campaigner. The campaign circulars that he has issued have been written in Indian-English, after the manner of a troubadour of the Five Tribes territory. The other day he made his first appearance as a campaign speaker at Muskogee. He "introduced" himself, telling the audience that gathered on the street corner what a good man Campbell Russell is and pointing out his merits. Then he said: "I now have the pleasure of presenting Campbell Russell." He stepped to the box that served for a table and after taking a drink of water from a glass there, stepped to the front and began his address by saying: "Ladies and gentlemen." Many of his hearers had not known during the introduction that the introducer was also the speaker.

Down in Kentucky the Progressives are in about the same boat that they put the Republicans into in this State at the last campaign. The Circuit Court of Kentucky has refused to grant the Progressives the right of representation on election boards at the State primaries. The Progressives contended that their party vote at the last general election entitled them to one-fourth of the election officials. The court says nay.

Missouri is getting tired of the State primary law and there is strong talk of repealing it at the next meeting of the Legislature. It is contended that the law is just the reverse of what it was intended to be, that it has strengthened the bosses instead of putting them out of business; that it entails such an expense upon candidates that it closes the door to office to many good men, and that it keeps the people in a constant state of agitation.

Mr. Bryan's attack on Roger Sullivan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, in Illinois, has not received much support even from the White House, as the statement is made there that his part in the Illinois campaign was that of an individual rather than as a representative of the administration. Eighteen of the twenty-nine Illinois Democratic Presidential electors of 1912 have also signed an indorsement of the candidacy of Sullivan. This would make him pretty nearly an administration candidate, Mr. Bryan to the contrary notwithstanding.

Former Congressman J. Adam Bede of Minnesota is not a present friend of woman suffrage. In the recent interview, he said that "95 per cent. of the votes cast by women in Chicago in the recent election were influenced by the husbands of the voters. The others were cast by undesirables." He continued: "Women suffrage will be the ruin of our girls. In New York City alone, 10,000 would be demoralized through the champagne suppers and joy rides used by politicians in buying votes. The same conditions would prevail in all large cities. I realize that woman's suffrage is coming and coming fast, but personally, I am opposed to it. I hope my daughters are never eligible to vote."

In La Crosse, Wis., 161 election officials were employed for a day, and the whole election formality gone through with at an expense of about $2000, in order that a vote might be cast for the single office of justice of the Supreme Court. There was only one candidate for the office, and almost no one took the trouble to vote.

Senator Bristol of Kansas, who is a candidate for re-election, is remaining in Washington attending to his legislative duties, while Curtis, his opponent for the Republican nomination, is making an active campaign for support throughout the State. Curtis is also seeking to enlist to his support the friends of Arthur Capper, candidate for Governor, who was a Mooser last year but who has now come back into the Republican party. In his campaigning Mr. Curtis pleads the cause of Capper, but although he and Capper live on opposite sides of the same street, they have not spoken to each other for several years.

It's a question of water why ex-Speaker Cannon wants to go back to Congress, he says. Washington's drinking water is filtered from the Ptomac and is said to be germ-laden, but Mr. Cannon says he doesn't care anything about that, it's the greatest tonic in the world for him, and he just has to have it for his stomach. Only a pipe line from Washington to Danville will make him resigned to stay away from Washington.

President Wilson has decided to fracture another precedent by going on the stump in some of the Congressional districts during the coming campaign. Other Presidents have refrained from taking an active part in the election of Congressmen in the year following their inauguration, but in the coming campaign the President and his administration will be the real issue, and the Democratic members of Congress have asserted that victory or disaster to their party must be charged up to the President. Hence the shattering of precedents.

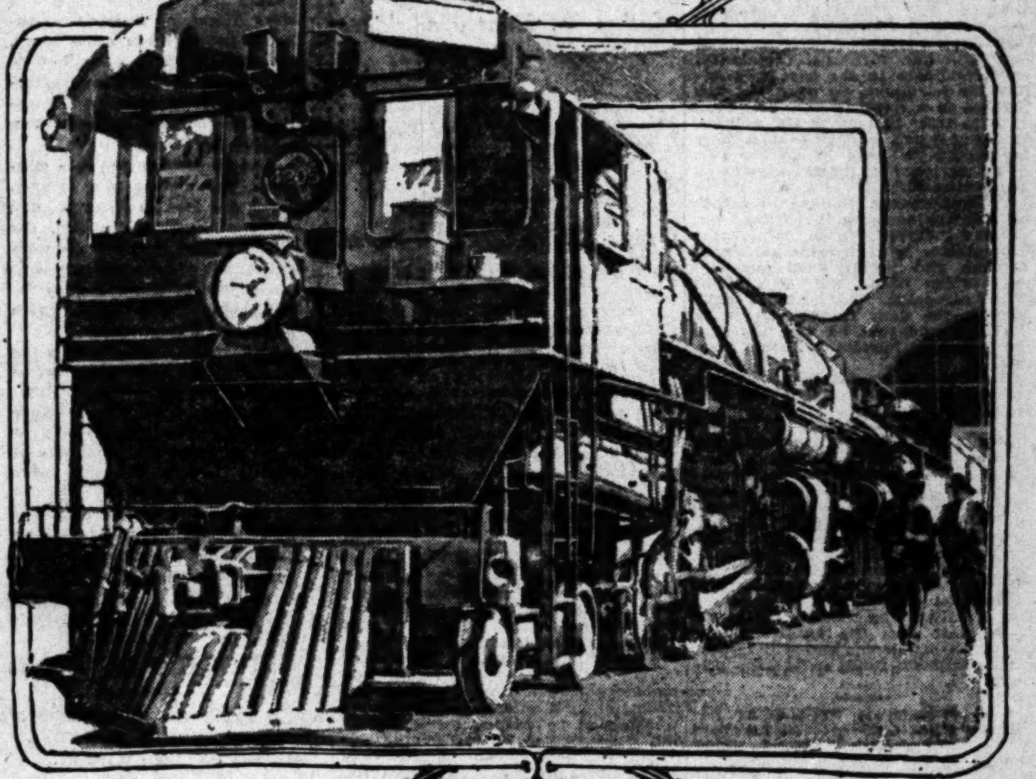
The Ohio Legislature has made a commendable record for itself by meeting in special session and adjourning the same day after passing a bill for the reduction of the State tax levy. The Legislature met at 10 o'clock Monday morning and adjourned at 9 o'clock in the evening. It was the shortest session in the history of Ohio.

Since Senator Bristow of Kansas gave up his Progressive affiliations there is only one Progressive left in the Senate—Miles Poindexter of Washington—and it looks as if he would be defeated for re-election, as the Progressives in his State have been following the bent of those in other States and going back to their old parties in large numbers.

The New York Sun has made a canvass of New York State and finds that there is a probability that twenty-one Democratic Congressmen will be defeated at the coming election, and that unless heroic measures are adopted at once nine or ten of the present Democratic Representatives from New York will decline to run again as defeat is apparently certain and to make a campaign is to waste money. The canvass indicates that all the up-State districts which flopped from the Republican to the Democratic column in 1912 will return and that others will follow suit.

It is estimated that it will require sixty hours to count the ballots that will be cast at the September primary election in Chicago and the law requires that the election officials do not separate until the count is completed. An indication of the gigantic nature of the task of counting the primary vote is given in the fact that up to today petitions of 505 Democratic candidates had been filed. There were 450 candidates of all parties on the ballot in 1912.

Gigantic New Locomotive for Los Angeles Trains.



To run over the mountains between here and Bakersfield.

This engine, which arrived yesterday, weighs over a hundred and ninety-one tons, cost fifty thousand dollars, and is the only passenger mogul in the Southwest. The cab is just above the cowcatcher, and the ponderous machine has two smokestacks.

Big as a House.

POWERFUL LOCOMOTIVE FOR MOUNTAIN GRADES.

An experiment with the strangest looking craft, also the most powerful and costly, that ever jerked a train up a Southland grade, is being made by the Southern Pacific. Officially, the craft is known as Mallet mogul No. 4205, and it is the latest accession to the Southern Pacific's growing stable of high-class passenger locomotives. It made its first trip in here yesterday on the Owl and will hereafter perform on that train between here and Bakersfield over the stiff Tehachepi grade.

In the parlance of the railroad craft, this Mallet is capable of tying a knot in a mile of cars on a steady grade. In other words, it is powerful. It is more powerful, for instance, by 50 per cent., than any other locomotive now in the service of the Southern Pacific. This access of power cost money, the price of this Mallet, fully equipped, being just a shade under $50,000. The usual run of locomotives can be bought in the open market for $25,000.

But, as Southern Pacific officials figure it, they will get dividends out of this extra investment in the Mallet. It will climb the Tehachepi, for instance, with fourteen loaded, all-steel passenger cars without a "helper." In other words, no extra locomotive will be required to help it top the summit.

Swinging across country the Mallet is sure to attract gaping attention. It has two smokestacks and is a regular centipede in number of driving wheels. Also, the cab is atop the pilot, or the cowcatcher, as the generality calls it. The general impression is that the regulation assembly arrangement for a locomotive had been dispensed with and the engine turned rear end forward and the tender hitched on behind.

Nearly every locomotive builder and motive power official has at some time tried his hand at getting the engineer and fireman up forward. One evolution was the "camelback" of the Lackawanna and the Lehigh Valley, with the cab riding the boiler. The Mallet is of the electric-railway type, with the engineer, who corresponds to the motorman, right up where he can pick out semaphore signals, either right or left, without hanging out of the cab window or squinting along the long length of the boiler barrel.

If this Mallet comes up to the builder's promise, the Southern Pacific expects to make the type standard for heavy passenger service over the Tehachepi, the Siskiyou and Truckee grades.

For several years railroad builders have been busy with the prophecy that the locomotive has reached the ultimate of size capable of operating over the standard gauge of four feet, eight inches. But circling around this Mallet, like one would around a house, and contemplating the array of terraced running boards and ladders by which one climbs to the cab or the engineer rambles around looking for "hot boxes" on a fast run, one gets the idea that after while locomotives will be built on the specifications of an office building.

Aboard the machine, even the old engineer might get lost. You push on the throttle instead of pulling on it; the "corner" for the lever is in the opposite direction from the smoke-stack; the injectors are in new and outer positions.

Some idea of this colossus among locomotives may be gained from the fact that the weight on the driving wheels, 320,100 pounds, is 15,100 pounds greater than the total weight of the powerful Mikadoes that the Southern Pacific recently ordered. The total weight of this Mallet is 384,800 pounds, while the weight on the front trucks is 21,000 pounds and on the rear trucks, 43,700 pounds.

Hidden from public view in the place where they will do the most good is nearly two miles of boiler tubing—9900 feet of it, to be exact—while there is over a half-acre of heating service in the firebox and nearly two acres of it in all, the figures being 23,559, and 71,175 square feet, respectively.

DEFEND EIFFEL TOWER FROM GERMAN AIRSHIPS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Two batteries of artillery have taken up their position opposite the great Eiffel Tower to prevent German dirigible war balloons from destroying or attempting to destroy the wireless arrangements of the tower by means of which France, should the cables be cut, could keep in direct communication with distant places.

Spring Creek Canyon, bandits' vantage point,

From a remarkable photograph made by Mode Wineman August 24, 1908, when a single robber held up fourteen coaches and a hundred and fifty passengers and took from them many thousands dollars. Last Wednesday's hold-up of twenty-five coaches and robbery of a hundred and sixty-five sightseers by two desperadoes was on this identical spot. Mr. Wineman, seeking beautiful views in the great national park, stumbled upon the hold-up of six years ago and secured the above snapshot.

KING GEORGE COLLAPSES UNDER GREAT STRAIN.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—King George has broken down under the tremendous strain of the last few days. Last night he was unable to receive Sir Edward Grey and at his interview with Premier Asquith in the early hours this morning His Majesty had to break it off for a quarter of an hour owing to the fit of weakness.

The King is suffering from a nervous breakdown. During the past two days his name has not appeared in the court circular and all private engagements have been canceled.

Box Trap.

PARK TOURISTS ROBBED IN THE SAME PLACE.

THE two great Yellowstone National Park hold-ups—that last Wednesday and that of August 24, 1908—were in the same place, Spring Creek Canyon, a natural box trap in which the advantage is entirely with the desperadoes. In this beautiful spot, only six miles from Old Faithful Geyser, two bandits the past week stopped twenty-five coach-loads of sightseers at the muzzles of loaded rifles and robbed 165 passengers, of thousands of dollars. Six years ago fourteen coaches, carry 150 tourists, were held up by a single robber and looted. Other similar crimes have been committed there, according to persons who have spent much time in this vast domain. Only government officials or employees in the park are permitted to carry arms, hence the highwaymen have things their own way, and usually escape through the forests to the Jackson's Hole country.

During the last exciting moments of the hold-up in 1908 Mode Wineman, the nature photographer and interpreter of the wilds, who has specialized in the national parks many years with his camera, and was then on a long walking trip seeking beautiful Yellowstone views, stumbled upon the scene. He emerged from the thicket along the stage trail just in time to obtain the remarkable snapshot reproduced above by his courtesy, and which is now a part of his famous national collection in the Rosamond Borde gallery at Santa Monica.

Keeping Flowers With Sugar.

According to the Florists' Exchange, two professors of the School of Agriculture at Rennes, France, have made some interesting experiments in prolonging the lives of cut flowers. One hundred different flowers were used in the experiments, and it was found that sugar helped to keep most of them fresh, but was positively injurious to lilies and sweet peas. It hastened the opening of roses and orchids, but did not thus affect tulips, daisies, or chrysanthemums.

Experiments were made with small quantities of chloral, ether, glycerin, alcohol, limewater and ammonia salts, each of which served to lengthen the life of various flowers. Some of the flowers, kept in sugar and water, lived four times as long as they ordinarily would.

The sugar does not have an exactly equal effect on the different flowers it preserves. Carnations seem to like a 15 per cent. solution, and roses do better in a solution of from 8 to 10 per cent.

FREAK SHOOTING IS INVESTIGATED

Officers Doubt Story Told by Arizona Rancher.

Bisbee's Traffic Ordinance Is Strictly Enforced.

Gila County All Worked Up Over New County.

BISBEE (Ariz.) Aug. 1.—Officers are investigating a peculiar shooting which occurred at the ranch of J. R. Price, in the Sulphur Springs Valley, near Pirtleville. Price received a number of shot in his back and shoulders; his 2-year-old daughter was shot in the head and an 11-year-old girl had one arm shattered.

According to Price and his wife, their 4-year-old boy took a loaded shotgun from hooks on the wall, where it rested, and began dragging it through the house. It was discharged and the three injured persons were in the line of fire.

Several facts cause the officers to doubt the story. Several shot were located in the wall and they were driven straight in, as though fired by an adult from the hip. Certainly they could not have come from a gun discharged while being dragged over the floor by a child, the officers say.

HOMESTEADER KILLED.

Albert C. Harris, a homesteader from Texas, was killed near Sonoita by falling from a railroad bridge on which he was working. He was using a crowbar to pry up a tie when he lost his balance and fell into the creek bed below.

SLEEPER'S ODD TASTE.

Some one in the Warren district has a peculiar taste in the way of sleeping quarters. Recently when a patient was taken to the Bisbee pest-house it was found that one of the beds had been occupied. Apparently someone had been sleeping in it every night for some time.

NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE.

Bisbee now has a modern traffic ordinance which is being strictly enforced. The speed limit is fifteen miles an hour; mufflers must be kept closed; traffic in front of business houses must not be blocked; the rules of the road must be observed strictly. Rules for the conduct of horse-drawn vehicles are also included in the ordinance.

HIGHWAY SECTION FINISHED.

The first section of the Bisbee-Tombstone highway, three miles in length, is now complete. It is being constructed with convict labor and cost $39,667.32. The claim is made that this is the most permanent piece of road in Arizona. At present the convicts are working farther west toward Tombstone.

KERMEEN'S CONVICTION.

W. W. Kermeen, who was convicted of the murder of J. F. Harrell, a former bank clerk of Oklahoma and Los Angeles, has been sentenced to hang. This is the first time in sixteen years that the death penalty has been pronounced in Cochise county. Kermeen's defense was that he had an irresistible impulse to kill any man he saw lying down. He is wanted in Redding, Cal., for the murder of a woman.

SMUGGLING OF CATTLE.

Charles Tribolet, an American smelterman and rancher, has been held to answer to the grand jury on a charge of cattle smuggling. It is alleged that he smuggled across the international line sixteen head of cattle belonging to Rafael Elias of Sonora. It is also charged that the cattle were driven from a district where Texas fever ticks were recently discovered.

ARIZONA NOTES.

Prosperity reigns supreme in the Sulphur Springs Valley. Heavy rains have fallen and summer crops are coming along in splendid shape. Watermelons and cantaloupes are being marketed in great quantities. It is estimated that the total value of the valley's crops this year will be a quarter of a million dollars.

The most prosperous farmers are those who have pumping plants to supplement the rains. Several are buying auto trucks to transport their products to market.

Throughout the valley the roads are so soft since the rains that a great many automobiles have mired down.

NEW COUNTY OF MIAMI.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Aug. 1.—All Gila county is much worked up over the initiated law to create the new county of Miami. Feeling between the citizens of Globe and Miami runs high.

For some time the claim was made in Globe that, under the Arizona Constitution, no matter affecting only a single county could be submitted to the voters of the entire State. Investigation, however, has shown that the bill, since it is initiated, must be passed upon by all the people next November.

It is charged in Miami that the Gila Supervisors are planning to spend county money in conducting a campaign of publicity for the defeat of the measure. The Supervisors, and in fact all the county officials, are opposed to division.

The Gila County Taxpayers' Association, which has headquarters in Globe, has taken a decided stand. This association has offered prizes for essays giving the best reasons why the county should not be divided. Other avenues of publicity are being used to the utmost.

Miami county, if it is created, will be the smallest in Arizona. It is to be carved out of the southwest corner of Gila.

A credit association has been organized by the merchants of Globe. Similar associations exist in nearly all the other large cities of the State.

Al Arvizu, a carpenter's helper, was killed by falling from the roof of the new Globe High School building. He slipped and while hurtling to the ground struck a scantling. Internal injuries resulted in his death five hours later.

USES PIANOS FOR SWINDLE.

Forged Receipts Used by Smooth Youth.

Police Seek Young College Man as Crook.

Another swindle involving losses estimated at more than $5000 was brought to the attention of the police late last night on evidence indicating that an unnamed eastern criminal was operating in this city in the name of the Southern California Music Company, of No. 334 South Broadway.

Altogether more than 800 residents of Southern California and Arizona are alleged to have been swindled out of sums ranging from $6 to $15, and detectives from the Central Station were detailed to run down the alleged crook.

According to information obtained by Detective McNamara, the swindler first made his appearance in several Arizona cities, and announced that he was the regular representative of the well-known Los Angeles music house. By means of forged receipts and other papers containing the name of the firm, the alleged criminal is said to have sold hundreds of pianos on time, collecting only the first installment to "insure prompt delivery."

After working the desert cities the swindler, apparently becoming bolder, came into Los Angeles a few days ago and began a systematic campaign to obtain funds through the fraudulent use of the company's name.

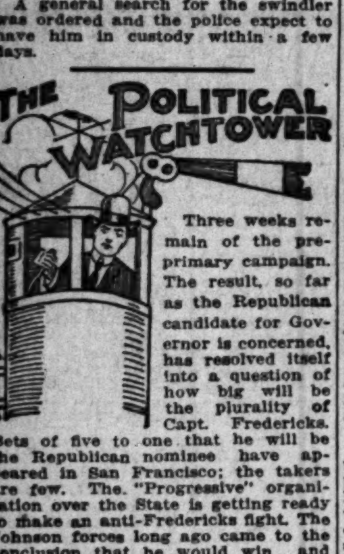
Yesterday several complaints were received by Detective McNamara, and an investigation was started.

F. E. Peterson, secretary of the concern, later reported to the police that the swindler, who had used his name wrongfully, had agreed to furnish pianos ranging in value up to $1000 for a small deposit, and in every case receipts were given the victims.

The alleged crook is described as a probable college graduate, about 28 years old, and of cultured appearance and manners.

With an ingratiating exhibition of his musical knowledge, the swindler is said to have engaged "prospects" in a learned argument in favor of having a piano in the house, and by subtle references to the fact that the house he said he represented had recently bought thousands of new pianos from a firm going out of business, the rest was easy, and it is said that he rarely left a home without collecting at least a small installment in cash. In order to protect legitimate customers, Mr. Peterson called upon the police to aid in capturing the smooth crook.

A general search for the swindler was ordered and the police expect to have him in custody within a few days.



Three weeks remain of the pre-primary campaign. The result, so far as the Republican candidate for Governor is concerned, has resolved itself into a question of how big will be the plurality of Capt. Fredericks. Bets of five to one that he will be the Republican nominee have appeared in San Francisco; the takers are few. The "Progressive" organization over the State is getting ready to make an anti-Fredericks fight. The Johnson forces long ago came to the conclusion that he would win and when the District Attorney made such a splendid impression in the northern counties, it only added to the impression that his three opponents will offer but nominal opposition.

One of the "Progressive" papers in Alameda county says: "Reports from the north coast counties, where Fredericks is holding a series of meetings, are to the effect that everywhere he appear he is greeted with the largest audiences that have yet assembled to listen to any candidate." On top of the captain's record-breaking meeting in San Francisco, the ovation he gets in the counties north of the Bay City are merely going to make the whole State unanimous.

A prominent politician in Los Angeles told The Watchman that he would be surprised if the other three candidates for the Republican nomination get 10,000 votes in Los Angeles county. That is a pretty low figure, but the fact remains that the other candidates have done little or nothing in the way of cutting into the Fredericks vote in the south. One after another they have found organizations pledged to Fredericks, and the rank and file of the party with no other candidate in mind. Some of the old Republican war horses are still hovering about headquarters of other gubernatorial candidates, but they are fearfully lonesome. Two of Capt. Fredericks's opponents have had to import managers and workers from the north.

The Ralston committee, which is much smaller than it was a few weeks ago, is suspected of double-crossing the former Senator, although he doesn't give color to this suspicion himself. It is whispered about that some of the members of the committee have made application for seats in the Fredericks band wagon, providing the band wagon will drop one or two "undesirable" passengers who have been aboard from the start.

As the Fredericks supporters here are pretty well satisfied with the situation and are not the ones to crow over the ascendency of their candidate, they are at work putting a couple of new decks on the wagon and letting all who may climb in, at the same time honoring the tickets of passage held by the men and women who were among the first passengers.

The gore-smeared war in the First Supervisoral District, where nine candidates are seeking the nomination for Supervisor, has progressed far enough to have passed the stage of intervention or mediation. Contending armies have marched and countermarched over the district, leaving upon the bloody battlefields crumpled reams of paper, crippled invective and shattered canards. In the battle royal, two candidates stand out as having the best of the going. They are F. G. Randle of Alhambra and J. J. Hamilton of Pasadena. It looks as though these two will survive the primary and scrap it out in November.

Behind Hamilton the Progressives are rallying, while Randle is supported by most of the Republicans and by other partisans. He is the only candidate in the race who has had the hardihood to print the fact that he is a Republican. You don't have to trust to luck in the political grab-bag when a candidate is honest enough to label himself properly, no matter what the law says about non-partisanship.

C. D. Manning, the incumbent, is regarded by some as out of the race. He has incurred the ill will of the Progressives by registering as a nonpartisan and purely local questions have arisen which will be a factor in the campaign. Manning has many friends who deny that he is out of the race, and that he will hop over the primary hurdles without exertion.

Hamilton is an inveterate charter tinkerer and has a hobby for new political thought.

Just when Harry Lyons had saved up and set aside a campaign fund for his candidacy for Assemblyman in the Sixty-fourth District, a burglar broke into his house on North Boylston avenue the other night and stole it. The burglar found in the fund $100 and near by it was a gold watch which was taken for good measure. As Lyons has three opponents for the nomination, that 100 iron men will be sorely missed. It is reported that the burglar has a list of all candidates and will inspect their campaign funds before the primary.

Gov. Johnson is complaining because a great number of newspapers are abusing him. Suffering Mike! Did he expect to get away with his selected gubernatorial nomination without a protesting word? Did he expect Republicans to forget what happened in 1912? Because he muzzled his own party and stifled opposition did he expect kid-glove treatment from the opposition? The Republican party will put the ram in Hiram in November and slip him all the abuse, meantime, that he so eminently deserves.

The Women's State Republican League is planning to build a $5,000 clubhouse at San Francisco before the exposition opens. Women evidently figure on being a permanent institution in our political structure. The wonder is they hadn't been given the chance to do these things long ago.

The pace set by the Republican campaigners over the State has proved too hot for the Johnson administration. It was originally intended to remain silent until after the primary in all cases where there is no opposition for the party nomination. And in instances of contest it was arranged by the leaders to let the opposing candidates fight it out. Now Holy Hi has seen a new light. State-paid henchmen, deputies and all, have been scattered out over the State to preach the gospel of Progressivism. The roving commissions are sometimes covered by State expense and sometimes by the party fund. No matter whether these administration boosters be under the civil service or not, they must get out and drill.

In Los Angeles a deputy county tax collector was fired for daring to aspire to a Republican nomination, on the ground that he would be politically active!

Dismissal of Spanish War veterans from the government service in the Philippines, which is raising a storm at Washington, has elicited from United Spanish War Veterans in Los Angeles a set of hot resolutions. Taking the lead, Roosevelt Camp upbraids the Wilson policy of supplanting Spanish War civil service men with Filipinos. "We demand that in providing for the larger participation of the Filipino people in the affairs of their government our government provide for the men who have made the condition possible." This is the word sent to Washington. The Committee on Legislation of Roosevelt Camp is P. C. Mulqueeney, chairman; Dana R. Weller, E. A. Lane, Capt. John D. Fredericks and John T. Curtin.

Here's a ballot a yard long and a foot wide that no sane voter can properly vote inside of ten minutes. It encourages "single-shooting," which means that a voter selects only one candidate for any office where several candidates are to be voted for. If a voter should get worried over the pressure of time in the voting booth and decide to vote for only one candidate for Superior judge, for instance, when ten should be voted for, that one vote will be ten times more powerful than if accompanied by a vote for the full ten.

Another serious flaw has been discovered in the new direct primary law, and this makes Flaw No. 759. The law provides a way for the appointment by partisan county committee of delegates to the State convention where there is a vacancy by reason of death or by the failure of a candidate to qualify at the primaries. But the law does not empower county committees to send their own partisan delegate to the State convention in place of the candidate of another party who has stolen the place through a cross-nomination.

One of the candidates for a certain office was complaining to The Watchman the other day that he wasn't getting as much "publicity" as his importance and the importance of the office to which he aspired justified. It was suggested that there are two excellent ways in which the desired publicity may be obtained. One is to

Let us suggest that, owing to the great size of the ballot, every voter take his lunch into the voting booth.

The candidate for State office who is taking a decided stand upon certain State issues in this campaign may be making a tactical mistake. While the people want to know what a man's record is and what he stands for, the primary struggle is more of a personal rivalry, in which the individuality of the candidate counts for more than anything else. If a candidate for Governor, for instance, should state his views on a number of vital issues and the State convention, following the primary, should put him and his views in the minority and adopt a platform diametrically opposed to those views, it would leave him in an embarrassing position.

Insane legislation, a corrupt administration, political grand larceny, the unnecessary existence of the "Progressive" party, the hunger of Holy Hi for power, the insincerity of his views, together with the failure of the Democratic tariff and other policies—all these afford ample room for discussion and any good Republican convention won't fail to take them into consideration in the platform.

NINETY PER CENT FOR FREDERICKS.

Confident of Immense Vote at Primary Election.

Union Bricklayers Indorse Los Angeles Candidate.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 1.—Motley H. Flint, former postmaster in Los Angeles and brother of former Senator Frank P. Flint, stalwart wheel horse of the Republican party south of the Tehachepi, was at the Palace Hotel today renewing old acquaintances.

"Yoy may say for me," said Flint, "that 90 per cent. of the Republican vote in Southern California will be cast for Fredericks, and I shall estimate, in round figures, that 95 per cent. of the registration of all parties will be voted. The primary election will see the biggest total vote polled in this State that has ever been counted. The reason for this is that there are so many candidates on the ballot; every candidate has his friends whether he is running for justice of the peace, chief justice of the Supreme Court or any of the offices. The ballot this year will look like a roll of wall paper unfurled.

"It's a poor office that hasn't a dozen candidates aspiring for it, and the direct primary system certainly has this virtue—that the drawing power of the multiplicity of candidates will bring to the polls every registered voter that is not a paralytic—this without regard to party.

"Of course, Ralston, Belshaw and Keesling have friends in Los Angeles and other southern counties, and they will get a vote down there, but I should be very much surprised if it is more than 10 per cent. of the total Republican vote cast."

UNION FOR FREDERICKS.

That Capt. Fredericks is receiving substantial support among labor unions is attested by the following strong resolution indorsing his candidacy and pleading support throughout the State, passed by the Bricklayers' Social Club:

"Whereas, on the evening of Thursday, July 30, 1914, at Duvenecker Hall, at Twenty-fourth and Church streets, in the city of San Francisco, Cal., the Bricklayers' Social Club was duly organized by the members of the union of said occupation for the purpose of aiding in the election of Hon. John D. Fredericks to the office of Governor of the State of California; therefore be it

"Resolved, that it is the unanimous opinion of the eighty-six members present that the interest of each and every member of said club in our State will be more fully protected, advanced and conserved by Hon. John D. Fredericks's occupation of the office of Governor; therefore be it further

"Resolved, that each and every member present work to his utmost to the end of said election and the primary preceding, for the election of said Hon. John D. Fredericks, personally interview each and every member of his own local union and such other members of the union within the State as may be possible, with the purpose of inducing each and every one of said members to vote for said John D. Fredericks, and further be it

"Resolved, that a meeting be called of this club by the president thereof for each and every Thursday prior to said election and primary election at said hall at the hour of 8 p.m., for the purpose of furthering said candidacy, and further be it

"Resolved that these resolutions be typewritten in triplicate and each copy thereof be signed by the proper officers of this club and a copy thereof so signed be presented to Hon. John D. Fredericks as evidence of the unanimous wish and opinion of this club.

MAYOR AT THE HEAD OF IT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN GABRIEL, Aug. 1.—The petition circulated by Mayor Daken and other prominent citizens for the improvement of Angeleno avenue, from Mission drive to San Gabriel boulevard, is meeting with success. The petition calls for a five-foot sidewalk with curbing on both sides of the street, with a forty-foot strip in the center of the street to be finished in oil and gravel, and provides for the erection of ornamental lamp posts 200 feet apart to be placed in the center of the street, which will prevent the obstruction of the light by trees.

The movement for an increased tax levy is steadily gaining, the heavier taxpayers being strongly in favor of an increase, which will mean the assurance of good streets and well-lighted thoroughfares.

Extensive preparations are under way for the garden fete to be given Tuesday evening, August 4, at the home of Judge and Mrs. Albert May by the San Gabriel Woman's Chamber of Commerce. These women plan, by a series of novel entertainments, to restore one of the old adobes near the mission to its original condition.

An orchestra has been made up of local musical people, who will provide the music for Tuesday night's event, and there is some talk of its becoming a permanent organization. Already enrolled are the names of Mr. and Mrs. George Dake, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wakeman, H. J. Muller, George Killenger, William Muller, H. Holmes, Mrs. Orpha Hancock, Mrs. B. N. Jefferson and Miss Bertha Muller.

SPARKS FIRE MILES AWAY.

PASADENA, Aug. 2.—The sparks from the big grass fire near Highland Park, Los Angeles, nearly three miles away, set fire to and consumed a wagonload of furniture yesterday soon after noon, on the Annandale boulevard, near San Rafael Heights.

The sparks dropped on a mattress and before the owners, Louis and Bennie Kazaran, discovered there was a fire, the chairs and other furniture were in flames. The discovery was made just in time to allow to unhitching of the horses, which had become frightened.

The smoke from the little fire was so dense and of such great volume that every one in Pasadena thought it some Orange Grove avenue mansion and as a consequence the remnants of society left in the city were out en masse to see it.

Cinders and sparks from the Los Angeles fire fell all over the business section of Pasadena up to San Rafael Heights.

JUDGE WATCHES POLICE AT WORK.

WELL PLEASED WITH METHODS HE OBSERVES IN RIDES ON PATROL WAGON.

Determined to test for himself just how far the alleged night life of the city infringes the laws, Judge Grant Jackson of the Superior Court visited police headquarters at midnight and spent several hours riding on the patrol wagon.

On his first trip Judge Jackson found Andras Peterson, a Dane, at First and Main street counting a large roll of bank notes in the presence of a number of spectators.

As the stranger seemed unable to take care of himself or his money, the judge thought it wise to send him to the station for the night. Patrolman Stevens arrived in time to prevent one of the bolder spectators from robbing the Dane of his money in full view of the judge. At the Police Station Peterson produced $318.40 in currency and was locked up pending his release in the morning.

After witnessing the methods of the police in taking care of drunks and others unable to look after their own interests, the judge asserted that he was well pleased.

Judge Jackson intends to make a special study of criminology and was invited by Lieut. Kriege to avail himself of the patrol wagon whenever his investigations brought him to the City Jail.

REDUCES RATES VIA THE CANAL.

Wholesale Cut Is Announced from San Francisco.

Will Become Effective When Big Waterway Opens.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 1.—Wholesale reduction in freight rates between San Francisco and the East, to go into effect immediately following the opening of the Panama Canal for traffic, was announced in this city today by the officials of Grace & Co., the American-Hawaiian and Luckenbach steamship lines. Their action is expected not only to bring about a revolution in trade conditions between the Pacific and Atlantic seaboards, but eventually to lead to the establishment of San Francisco to its destined place among the chief distributing centers of the world.

Some of the changes show that a general slashing of figures is in progress. In a number of cases the rates are lower than the rates from Chicago to New York, a distance of 900 miles.

NEW OCEAN RATES.

As an example of these reductions, the following figures are quoted to show the ocean rates from San Francisco to New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Charleston, in cents per hundred pounds:

Canned goods	$ .45	$ .30	$ .15	$ .85	$ .55
Dried fruit	.50	.40	.10	1.10	.10
Beans	.40	.35	.05	.85	.50
Wine	.50	.30	.20	.75	.45

High Seas.

TWO SHIPS REACH GOTHAM, FIVE SAIL FOR EUROPE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Only two trans-Atlantic passenger-carrying steamers of all the fleet whose movements on the high seas are being so closely followed now that hostilities have broken out in Europe, reached New York today. La Lorraine of the French line, from Havre, got in during the forenoon and the St. Paul of the American line arrived tonight too late to dock.

Vessels traveling westward that that were within the wireless range were the Frederick VIII of the Scandinavian-American line from Copenhagen, which was reported early today off Sable Island; the Uranium of the Uranium line from Rotterdam reported from Cape Race on July 30 and which calls at Halifax on her way to this port; the Martha Washington of the Austrian-American line from Trieste; off Sable Island at noon; the Columbia of the Anchor line from Glasgow, also near Sable Island at midday; the Minnehaha of the Atlantic Transport line off Sable Island this morning; the French liner Rochambeau from Havre off Sable Island this afternoon; the George Washington of the North German Lloyd line from Bremen reported off Sable Island at 8 p.m. Friday and not since picked up by wireless; the Italian liner Europa from Naples off Cape Race on July 30 and the Bergensfjord of the Norwegian-American line from Norwegian ports off Sable Island at noon today. The trans-Atlantic fleet today numbered only five vessels. The departing steamers were the White Star liner Oceanic for Southampton, the Minnewaska of the Atlantic Transport line for London, the French steamer Santa Anna for Marseilles, the Italian steamer San Guglielmo for Naples and the Belgian steamer Zeeland for Antwerp.

ENGLAND NOT PREPARED TO ENTER GREAT WAR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 1.—A dispatch to the New York World from Erskine Childers says that Great Britain is in no way prepared to take part in a great war on the continent of Europe at this time. Childers says England is scarcely able at present to defend herself and her colonies. John Bull is represented in the dispatch to be essentially organized for defensive and offensive operations by sea, rather than by land, a fact which, he says, the English jingoes do not seem to understand.

REPORT AUSTRIA MAY ARBITRATE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 1.—An unofficial but creditable report is current in diplomatic quarters that Austria-Hungary has offered to withdraw her troops from Servia and to submit her grievances to an international conference.

Costly.

HEAVY TOLL OF LIVES IN WORLD'S GREAT WARS.

OF THE six great powers involved in the present strife, France has had twenty-five wars, winning twelve and losing thirteen. England and Germany each have had ten wars, winning eight and losing two each. Austria, with fifteen wars, lost ten and won five, while Russia lost her four wars. Italy won three and lost five of her eight wars.

MacLaren, authority on war, asserts that the loss of life in battle since authentic history began amounts to 1,400,000,000, or the entire population of the globe for the last 330 years. From 1683 until 1815 the Old World saw sixty-five years of solid warfare, which cost the people $5,945,000,000, not counting a debt of $4,000,000,000. Since then the cost of supporting vast armies and navies in time of peace as well as war, has been enormous.

The total losses of the allies in the Crimean War was 252,600, and of Russia, 256,000; the cost to England was $345,000,000, to France, $465,000,000, and to Russia, $710,000,000. In the Franco-German War 28,000 Germans were killed and 101,000 wounded; 156,000 French soldiers were killed, 143,000 wounded and 720,000 surrendered to the Germans or to neutral states.

The most recent war in which any of the great powers has been engaged—the Russian-Japanese conflict—seems to indicate that the losses will be in even greater ratio than the above in the next armed meeting of the powers. In the three-weeks' engagement at Mukden the aggregate loss was 163,000.

In addition to the comprehensive war news reports received daily by The Times through the Associated Press and by Atlantic Cable, an extensive and well-arranged compilation of news received through the foreign press and from authorized correspondents on the spot will be printed in Part III of Sunday's Times.

OFFERS TO PAY ELECTION COST.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 1.—Councilmen passed to its third and final reading last night the resolution of an intention to call an election to vote a million dollars in bonds for the purchase of the Drake beach property and the erection of a fine municipal auditorium. The ordinance calling the election, naming a date early in September, will be passed immediately.

The feature of last night's seassion was the squelching of a small lobby led by Charles Censor against the action of the Council. The Councilmen were a unit for the adoption of the resolution, anyhow, but when Censor protested against the expense of the election Col. Drake there offered to pay the election expenses win or lose.

COLORADO PICNIC.

An eloquent oration on Colorado by Judge A. R. Rittenhouse of Denver was the feature of the annual picnic of the Los Angeles and Long Beach Colorado societies this afternoon. Mayor Whealton welcomed the Coloradans, who had gathered in the forum to the number of 600, and F. E. Hart, president of the Long Beach Colorado Society, responded.

Mrs. S. L. Carpenter, president of the Los Angeles society, delivered an address, and H. P. Forsythm of Montrose was heard. Arthur Wilding Broiles, 6-month-old son of Mrs. F. T. Broiles, and Swithin Chandler aged 3 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Chandler, won the prizes at the baby show which followed.

Officers were elected by the Christian Church convention this afternoon as follows: President, C. C. Chapman, Fullerton; vice-president, F. M. Rogers, Long Beach; treasurer, S. J. Chapman, Los Angeles; directors, G. H. Waters, Pomona, W. F. Holt, Redlands, J. S. Billheimer, San Dimas, Frank Ainsworth, Orange, L. J. Massie, Long Beach, Lloyd Darsie, Hollywood, and R. W. Blackburn, Los Angeles.

A Neglected Industry Verdict of an Expert.

BY ARTHUR W. KINNEY,

It is estimated that within a radius of 100 miles of the city of Los Angeles, 2,000,000 pairs of shoes, or two pairs of shoes to every inhabitant, are sold annually at an average price of $2.50 per pair. This would mean an expenditure of $5,000,000. At the present time there is not a single large shoe factory operating in Los Angeles, the city "Where Nature Helps Industry Most," and all this vast sum of money is being distributed among eastern cities when a large amount of it could be kept here, creating pay rolls and increasing the prosperity of our whole people. Shoe factories in the vicinity of San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Tacoma have been in operation for many years, one at Torrance has opened recently for business, and all have done fairly well. Los Angeles should have engaged in this industry long, long ago.

There is room today in Los Angeles for several large shoe factories—moreover, there is a demand for them. We are surrounded not only by a contiguous territory, affording splendid markets, but we are the distributing center for the large southwestern section of our nation. In addition to the foregoing, the countries to the south of us are buying considerable quantities of American shoes. The exports from the United States of boots and shoes to Latin-American countries on the Pacific Coast are increasing rapidly. Last year they were as follows:

Panama	$ 662,712.00
Mexico	1,319,209.00
Chile	175,000.00
Ecuador	32,344.00
Peru	275,903.00
Colombia	32,344.00

MARKET AT OUR DOOR.

Our far off possessions, the Philippine Islands, also afford a growing market. Their imports of this commodity have increased nearly $300,000 in the last two years. There are over 600,000 pupils in the public schools in the Philippines and as these reach the higher grades, they begin promptly to wear shoes. As the Filipinos progress in civilization, we may look to see a large demand among them for American shoes and Los Angeles being the nearest port, should some day be in a position to supply the demand. At this time there is but one shoe factory in Manila. Australia bought our shoes last year to the extent of $260,618.

Recent investigations made in China by American shoe manufacturers have resulted in a decision to establish retail stores at Shanghai, Hankow and Tien-tsin, for the purpose of handling American-made shoes exclusively.

New England has something over 1000 shoe factories located in about 100 of her cities and towns, but Los Angeles has not a single one to its credit. New England has over $100,-

BY ARTHUR W. KINNEY,
Industrial Commissioner Chamber of Commerce.

It is estimated that within a radius of 100 miles of the city of Los Angeles 3,000,000 pairs of shoes, or two pairs of shoes to every inhabitant, are sold annually at an average price of $1.50 per pair. This would mean an expenditure of $5,000,000. At the present time there is not a single large shoe factory operating in Los Angeles, the city "Where Nature Helps Industry Most," and all this vast sum of money is being distributed among other cities when a large amount of it could be kept here, creating pay rolls and increasing the prosperity of our whole people. Shoe factories in the vicinity of San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Tacoma have been in operation for many years, one at Spokane has opened recently for business, and all have done fairly well. Los Angeles should have engaged in this industry long, long ago.

There is room today in Los Angeles for several large shoe factories—moreover, there is a demand for them. We are surrounded not only by a contiguous territory, affording splendid markets, but we are the distributing center for the large southwestern section of our nation. In addition to the foregoing, the countries to the south of us are buying considerable quantities of American shoes. The exports from the United States of boots and shoes to Latin-American countries on the Pacific Coast are increasing rapidly. Last year they were as follows:

Panama	$ 662,712.00
Mexico	1,919,209.00
Chile	175,000.00
Ecuador	32,344.00
Peru	275,903.00
Colombia	32,344.00

MARKET AT OUR DOOR.

Our far off possessions, the Philippine Islands, also afford a growing market. Their imports of this commodity have increased nearly $300,000 in the last two years. There are over 600,000 pupils in the public schools in the Philippines and as they reach the higher grades, they begin promptly to wear shoes. As the Filipinos progress in civilization, we may look to see a large demand among them for American shoes and Los Angeles being the nearest port, should some day be in a position to supply the demand. At this time there is but one shoe factory in Manila. Australia bought our shoes last year to the extent of $260,618.

Recent investigations made in China by American shoe manufacturers have led to a decision to establish retail stores at Shanghai, Hankow and other points, for the purpose of handling American-made shoes exclusively.

New England has something over 1000 shoe factories located in about 200 of her cities and towns, but Los Angeles has not a single one to its credit. New England has over $300,000,000 invested in the shoe industry, which brings to it $400,000,000 annually. Los Angeles has not a dollar invested in a local shoe factory, but her people have many thousands of dollars which could be profitably placed in such enterprises. It would not be necessary to place these shoe factories on expensive sites in the heart of our city. They could be scattered through our suburban towns and do us just as much good from a financial standpoint. Boston is the great center of the world's shoe industry and has shipped nearly 3,000,000,000 pairs of shoes in the last forty years. The whole world is familiar with the names of three of the great shoe-producing cities of Massachusetts—Lynn, with an output of $50,000,000 per year, Brockton with $53,000,000 per year, and Haverhill with $27,000,000 per year. Here, then, are three cities whose average income from one manufacturing industry alone brings in a tide of gold comparable to the entire orange crop of Southern California. These cities not only receive millions of money, but they get priceless advertising in every corner of the world where shoes are worn. More than all this, they possess the pay rolls that give sustenance to their people and that real solidity upon which every truly prosperous city must be based.

The shoe factory has invaded the South, it has prospered in the Middle West and the Pacific Coast now offers it splendid certainties for profit and success.

ALL THE REQUISITES.

Los Angeles has all the requisites for the successful manufacture of shoes. It has the cheap power afforded by oil, natural gas and electricity. Mechanics in this line have been and are coming into this territory daily and are obliged to resort to other means for a livelihood for the reason that the shoe industry is not represented here. We have here a climate which adds so much efficiency to labor that we should have no trouble in competing with other cities from a labor standpoint.

Ever since the days of '35, as described by Dana in his book, "Two Years Before the Mast," Southern California has been supplying hides to the world's great leather markets. It is estimated that Los Angeles alone ships 35,000 hides per month to the tanneries of other cities to be made into leather and the leather to be shipped back here, largely in the form of shoes. In addition to the quantity shipped from this city, there must be as much more shipped from other cities in Southern California, and in addition to this, many thousands of hides are brought in from Mexico and sent East in carload lots.

Los Angeles has only one tannery of any considerable importance. This concern does not tan cow hides, but turns out a beautiful quality of sheepskin in carload lots, which is largely used by manufacturers in the East. It is safe to say that much of this leather, made into various fancy articles, finds its way back to the stores of Los Angeles. Sheep and goat skins are largely used in the manufacture of shoes, and as Mexico furnishes large quantities of both, Los Angeles has a great advantage over the shoe manufacturing cities of the Middle West.

While our State is in its infancy as regards shoe and leather concerns, there being but one here to every fifty in the State of Massachusetts, it is not because of the scarcity of leather. California tanneries up to date have turned out leather to the value of nearly $100,000,000.

MANY TANNERIES.

California has a number of the best equipped and most up-to-date tanneries to be found in our country, including those at San Farncisco, Benicia, Napa, Santa Rosa and Vallejo. The supply of hides is ample. California water is well adapted to tanning purposes, and tan bark can be obtained in extensive quantities in Mendocino, Humboldt and Sonoma counties and in Southwestern Oregon. In fact, it is estimated that we have in the forests of Oregon and California over one and one-half million cords of standing bark suitable for tanning purposes.

The Pacific Coast is one of the world's greatest oak bark producing sections. Our bark contains at least 50 per cent. more tannic acid than the bark produced in Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The Industrial Bureau has been advised by nearly every wholesaler of leather in this city that there is no reason at all why shoe factories cannot be operated successfully here, if they are sufficiently capitalized and in the hands of capable management. They state that there is no reason why such factories could not obtain all of their leather supply in this vicinity; also that California leather is recognized the world over as being of the finest quality made.

Los Angeles will welcome the shoe factory. Let it come quickly.

FIRST OF FINE HOMES FINISHED.

LAUGHLIN PARK VILLA READY FOR OCCUPANCY.

Other Costly Places to Be Started at Once in the Magnificent Hollywood Hills Subdivision—Last of General Improvements of Tract Installed.

The first of a number of costly homes projected in the Laughlin Park tract in Hollywood has just been completed by C. F. Perry. The house is of the Italian villa type and occupies one of the most commanding sites in the magnificent northwest hill subdivision. The dwelling was planned by B. Cooper Corbett.

The next house to be started in the tract will be built by W. J. Dodd, a Los Angeles architect. This place will be set in the midst of formal gardens and will enclose a patio, in the center of which will splash a fountain. Plans for the house have been completed and ground is to be broken within a few days.

The general improvements of the beautiful hill property are now all in, with the exception of an electrolier system, the posts for which are on the ground. All lighting and telephone wires have been placed in conduits. Sewer, water and gas mains have been installed.

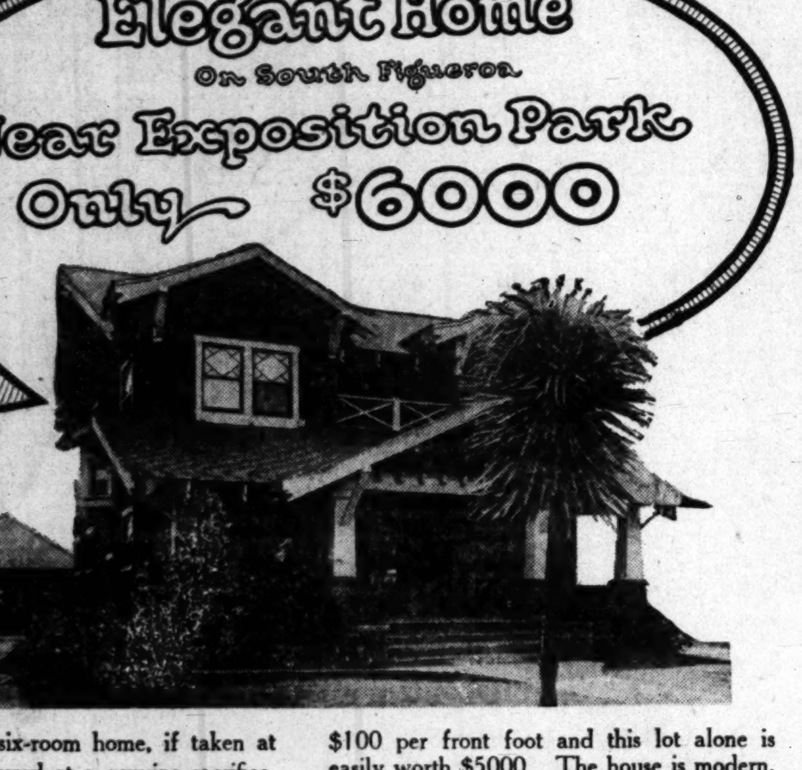
The present Laughlin Park tract was originally laid out as a splendid private estate by the late Homer Laughlin. The landscaping was entrusted to Nathan F. Barrett of New Rochelle, N. Y., planner of Tuxedo Park and other famous residence districts of the East. In twelve years over 50,000 trees, shrubs and plants were set out on the property. These have attained their growth for the most part, and as a result the thirty-three acres comprising the tract constitute what is today probably the most highly developed residence holding in Southern California.

Laughlin abandoned the idea of building a great mansion on the site just before his death three years ago and sold the property to a syndicate. The new owners organized under the name of the Laughlin Park Company and later reorganized with Homer Laughlin, Jr., as president. This company has subdivided the holding in such a way as not to interfere with the beautiful landscaping effects conceived by Barrett.

CHURCH FOR HARBOR.

The architectural firm of Montgomery & Montgomery has been commissioned to prepare plans for a church to be built for the Roman Catholic parish at Wilmington. The edifice will be constructed of hollow terra cotta blocks and will contain an auditorium seating 300 persons. There will also be a rectory adjoining.

Elegant Home
On South Figueroa
Near Exposition Park
Only $6000



This handsome six-room home, if taken at once, can be secured at a genuine sacrifice. It stands on a large lot amid charming surroundings and is in the heart of a choice neighborhood. Beautiful residences fleck either side of the wide paved boulevard which passes the property. Vacant property in this section is held at $100 per front foot and this lot alone is easily worth $5000. The house is modern, with a pretty lawn profusely decorated with fine palms and rare plants. A garage at the rear is large enough to accommodate two autos.

This is an extraordinary bargain and will be snapped up quickly. Information given only by Mr. Cooper.

SEVERAL LA FAYETTE SQUARE LOTS SOLD TO PROSPECTIVE BUILDERS OF HOMES.

The Crenshaw Security Company, owner and agent for La Fayette square, reports the sale of a house of the Italian villa type at No. 40 Virginia road, in that subdivision to William Wright of Winnipeg Can., for William J. Morris. The consideration is given at $16,000. Other sales in La Fayette square, made by the Crenshaw Security Company in July, are reported as follows:

To Mrs. Molly M. Wylie of Mineral Wells, Tex., vice-president of the Mineral Wells Bank, eighty feet at the southwest corner of Victoria drive and St. Charles place, $8000. Mrs. Wylie will build a $25,000 residence.

To Charles D. Wagner, 180 feet on Victoria drive, $10,800. Two fine houses are now being erected on this site. To J. H. Smailes, president of the Atlas Building Company, 120 feet on Buckingham road, $6600. Smailes has started a handsome fourteen-room residence of the colonial type.

Edmund Burke, residing in La Fayette square at No. 45 Virginia road, has purchased the adjoining sixty feet for the purpose of carrying out an Italian water garden landscaping scheme.

TAKES OVER OLD FIRM.

Guy M. Rush Company Absorbs Business of Edward D. Silent & Co. and Will Enlarge Business.

An interesting real estate development of the past week was the taking over of the Edward D. Silent Company by the Guy M. Rush Company. The latter concern, which now has offices at 901-5 Story building, will occupy the entire space heretofore used by the Silent company in the Silent building at No. 733-735 South Hill street as soon as alterations to the structure, made necessary by the consolidation of the two firms, can be accomplished. These alterations, it is believed, will have been completed by August 15.

Edward D. Silent Company was established in 1882 and was incorporated in 1904. It has played an important part in the realty operations of the city for a quarter of a century, and has built up an extensive business in insurance, rentals, loans and general real estate. All of these lines will be taken over by the Guy M. Rush Company, which has heretofore done a subdivision business exclusively.

Guy M. Rush, president of the Guy M. Rush Company, is expected home from the East within the next ten days and will give personal supervision to the reorganization of the business. Robert L. Ware, who has been manager of the real estate department of the Silent company, will have complete charge of the insurance, rentals and loan departments of the Rush company. The subdivisions of the Rush company, including Seal Beach, Ingledale Acres, Lawndale Acres, Plymouth Acres, Municipal Harbor Acres, Brooklyn-West and Riverbank, will continue in the hands of the heads of departments, H. E. King, W. L. Brownlee, George H. Matthews and C. L. Edwards, and these, together with the other real estate lines, will be under the general supervision of Robert E. Armstrong, general manager of the Guy M. Rush Company.

Edward D. Silent, who was president of the Edward D. Silent Company, and Roy Silent, his son, who was vice-president, will engage exclusively in a mortgage loan and stock and bond brokerage business from now on.

NEW INDUSTRY.

Union Tool Company to Manufacture Farm and Orchard Tractor at Big Torrance Plant.

A new industry has just been established at Torrance by the Union Tool Company, which is preparing to manufacture a powerful orchard and farm tractor. The new tractor has been christened the "Velvet-tread" because, it is announced, of the ease with which it moves about the roughest plowed field. The tests which resulted in the decision of the tool company to manufacture the tractor have been conducted at the Leffingwell fruit ranch near Whittier.

The "Velvet-tread" tractor is designed with particular reference to displacing the horse on the farm, and is said to be the only tractor built for both round and track-laying wheels. It is unusually simple in design and will be built in two sizes at the Torrance plant, one size being intended for orchard and farm work, such as plowing and cultivating, and the other for hauling and marketing.

The Union Tool Company will soon begin construction of the first allotment of the new oil-burning Diesel engine at its Torrance plant. The two products alone will enable the company to make extensive local and foreign trade expansion.

CALIPATRIA, Aug. 1.—The scene around Calipatria reminds one of the "Sunny South" because the harvest of the vast acreage of cotton in this section is now under way, sixty days ahead of previous years. It is estimated by those who are thoroughly familiar with the situation that during the next sixty days fully $500,000 worth of cotton will be picked in the valley. Most of this early picking will be marketed promptly, thus bringing additional ready cash into the valley in a good stream from this time on.

Calipatria is now making extensive preparations to handle all the cotton grown in this section and expects to have two of its cotton gins in operation shortly. The town itself is the headquarters for the large number of pickers in this locality.

While there is a vast acreage in cotton at this point this year, the land devoted to cotton another year will, it is believed, be almost double what it is now. Schader & Beach, handling real estate in this district, report a great demand for cotton lands and say that many sales have been made recently to people who will put cotton in next year.

PROGRESS REPORTED.

Arrangements Being Made for Financing of Large Academy for Girls on Wilshire Boulevard.

Arrangements for the building of a fine new campus group on Wilshire boulevard for the Marlborough School for Girls, are reported to be progressing to the satisfaction of the management of that institution. Architectural plans for the first of several contemplated structures have already been started by John C. Austin.

The building now being planned will be of brick construction and two stories in height. It will cover a ground area of 156x170 feet. The style will be colonial. The walls of the structure will be plastered with white cement and the roof will be of clay tile. Provision will be made in the building for dormitories and classrooms.

The new site of the academy is just outside the city limits and practically adjoins Windsor Square on the west. The school is at present located at No. 861 West Twenty-third street.

BUILDING TOTAL TWELVE MILLIONS.

July, with a construction valuation total of $2,100,451, brought the aggregate outlay for building operations for the year to date, up to $11,954,247. This amount represents the cost of 6431 new structures of various kinds in all parts of the city.

The month just ended boasted the largest valuation of the year and suggested the busy days of the first half of 1913, before the national slump from which the country is only now recovering, made itself felt in Los Angeles. It is believed to presage a constantly increasing activity throughout the rest of the year.

That August also will be a good month is already assured as the result of the filing on Friday of an application for the issuance of a permit covering the construction of the eight-story office building to be erected by Hulett C. Merritt of Pasadena, at the northwest corner of Eighth and Broadway. The structure, costing $500,000, will be one of the finest on the Coast. A perspective of the building was recently published exclusively in The Times. Reid Brothers of San Francisco are the architects. The permit for the improvement will undoubtedly be added to the August building statistics.

NAMES COMMITTEES.

The first step in the preparations that are to be made by the Los Angeles Realty Board for the entertainment of the big convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges in this city next year was taken yesterday when President Mines appointed an "Executive Convention Committee for 1915." The members named for this committee were W. M. Garland, Charles G. Andrews, George N. Black, Robert Marsh, John D. Foster, Herbert L. Cornish, L. T. Bradford, Harold S. Cook, Harry H. Culver, H. H. Cotton, Horace G. Hamilton, C. C. C. Tatum, Herman Janss, W. H. Akin, Lee C. Gates, O. A. Vickerey, Victor G. Kleinberger, A. F. Pomeroy, R. B. Armstrong and Walter P. Story. President Mines will act as chairman.

The committee will have entire charge of all details pertaining to the convention and will shape plans and programmes of entertainment for the 8000 to 10,000 prominent real estate men of the United States who, it is expected, will be guests of Los Angeles next year. Additional committees are yet to be appointed and these will be named at an early meeting of the committee.

To celebrate the victory of the Los Angeles Realty Board in securing the convention for this city and the feat of the Membership Committee in bringing the total enrollment of the aggressive local organization up to nearly 550, a "get-together" smoker and midsummer meeting is now being planned. The affair will be held some time this month.

GREAT BARGAIN.

This charming bungalow is located on a large lot in one of the prettiest restricted bungalow districts in Los Angeles, having every convenience such as sewer, gas, electricity, phones, etc., and an excellent car service, being only 25 minutes out. Hardwood floors throughout, expensive electric light fixtures, dainty and artistic wall paper, French bevel-plate glass in the massive buffet, all built-in effects, and, in fact, the bungalow has everything that the exacting buyer demands in an up-to-date home.

In the cosy den is a disappearing bed, built-in desk and bookcases. The breakfast-room is finished in light blue with large hand-painted light fixtures to match; white enamel buffet and French doors opening out upon the side porch. There are two large bedrooms and bathroom between all, opening on the hall.

The kitchen is unusually nice with a world of cabinet space, bins, cooler, enclosed hot-water heater, hood for the stove and conveniently-arranged lights. This bungalow is a revelation and must be seen to be appreciated. The price is reduced for a quick sale to $4200 and until now has been held at several hundred dollars higher. The terms are very easy, only $500 down and $30 a month, including interest, or the owner would take a good clear lot in the southwest to value of $1200 as part payment. Be sure and telephone for an appointment to see this bargain, as it certainly will not last long.

AN ABSOLUTE SACRIFICE.

$18,500 —PRICE REDUCED TO— $18,500

FOR SALE— Business Property.

FOR SALE—THE OWNER OF A BUILDING AND 99-year lease, situated between Spring and Broadway, not far from the Hamburger Bldg., has fallen down on his payments. There have been attachments on the property, and the creditors have agreed to make a sale at an extreme bargain. The building cost $36,000 to erect, and we have the receipts and contract to show. He paid $10,000 for the 99-year lease, which is an exceptional lease, making a total investment of $46,000. He owes the following amounts to bank and other creditors, secured by the building: $15,450, $5850, $950, $4400, $1600, $2500, or a total of $30,800, and this is what it would take to get this property and it is a great snap. The rental value is $1200 per month at the present time. The rent of the lot is $800 per month. Part of the building is rented and the balance will soon be. If there ever was a snap offered in Los Angeles, this is it, and it is a real one for the reason that the owner has fallen down and the creditors only ask for the amount that is due them. Address REPRESENTATIVE OF THE COMMITTEE OF CREDITORS, 1007 Union Oil Bldg. A4268.

FOR EXCHANGE—NET INCOME ABOUT $4300 PER year, gross $8000. This fine apartment-house of 84 rooms has been placed in my hands for immediate sale. I am not a real estate agent, but corporation desires me to reduce its holdings, even though they get rid of splendid income properties—they are going out of business. This house is completely furnished, always full, close in, brings in about $8000 a year. I have a manager—allowing for all expenses it nets the company over $4300—if you run it yourself I believe you can make it pay close to $6600 per year. Corporation has placed the low price of $55,000 on the property—mortgage $12,500. I can sell it or take in about $25,000 exchange, if your property is clear, might take in a little more.

I am not a real estate man, want to talk direct to owners and we can get down to business quickly. I disposed of holdings amounting to $50,000 last week. MINER P. GOODRICH, 503 Citizens' Bank Bldg. Main 2043, 60654.

Look at all the other acres in the Los Angeles Metropolitan District and then come see

TORRANCE ACRES

A new subdivision of fine high ground, directly adjoining the best residence section of the Industrial City of Torrance. We believe that on its merits, just as a place to live and to have a prosperous, comfortable, producing home, this land is the superior of any other acre-farm offering in the Los Angeles metropolitan district.

But besides all this, Torrance Acres are directly in the line which the growth of Torrance MUST TAKE—and this means a value for every lot into which every acre will subdivide—six large lots, eight small lots—a value for every lot as great as the value of a whole acre now.

Better look TORRANCE ACRES over and make up your own mind how long it will be before these acres are needed for lots.

We make the trip to Torrance easy, pleasant and it costs inquirers nothing to take it. Better go this week.

FOR SALE—
160 acres out of 1080 will produce $15,000 to $20,000 annually.

In 8 years we have never met such an unusual bargain. This magnificent ranch in the Paso Robles, Atascadero district, consisting of 1080 acres. Has 160 ACRES SET SOLID TO COMMERCIAL VARIETIES OF APPLES AND BARTLETT PEARS just coming into bearing!

THE 160 ACRES IN APPLES AT PREVAILING PRICES planted land in this district would bring $400 TO $500 PER ACRE. The balance of the land is easily worth $30 per acre. Just figure it out and see what a snap this is for someone. The fruit should produce at least $100 per acre net in 2 or 3 years—this means at least $16,000 a year. The place is now self-supporting and can cut up easy into 4 places, each one of which would bring $30,000 to $50,000 in a few years.

50,000 ACRES OF LAND comprised in the Atascadero and Santa Margarita ranches are now being subdivided and sold in the immediate vicinity of this property. Values will jump fast here. IT IS THE LAST WEST! 20 head of cattle, 9 horses, 30 tons hay, etc., goes with the place. This ranch has been improved and is under the noted management of a noted fruit expert. There are 2 owners. One of them has met reverses and must sell, and the other will sell or stay and manage the place, as preferred.

No use offering exchanges on this. Money and only money talks. It will take $20,000 at least to swing the deal—the balance can be arranged to suit. The property is clear, and if it's worth a cent it's worth $100,000.

Our option at this price is good only for a short time! We may get it extended, but not sure. Better make immediate investigation.

GOVERNMENT LAND—

LAST CALL FOR
U. S. GOVERNMENT
CAREY ACT LANDS.
50 CENTS AN ACRE!
Under $1,000,000 Irrigation System
COMPLETED and in Operation.

This is your last opportunity to buy United States government land in the famous tested and proven Delta Project of Central Utah.

Former California ranchers who have bought and settled on this project value their lands at more than $200 per acre. If you have not exercised your Carey act right—at at once! Splendid water system completed and in actual operation. State of Utah has limited price of water to $60 an acre—$7 per acre cash and 18 years' time to pay the balance. For the land you pay only 25 cents an acre down, the remaining 25 cents an acre in three years.

Delta is now a settled district with ready markets and good schools. Only 5 hours from Salt Lake City and 20 hours from Los Angeles. Excellent climate and good, pure water. Water from irrigation system ready for delivery to every acre open to settlement. Come prepared to settle and establish yourself—speculators and those with practically no means are not wanted on this project. Fifteen tons of sugar beets to the acre have been raised here, up to 50 bushels of wheat and 100 bushels of oats from land one year from the brush. $75 to $100 an acre netted from alfalfa seed, 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre the first year. This type of land should soon pay for itself. Write or call at once for folder, containing detailed information, testimonials, etc. Special Homeseekers' excursion leaves Los Angeles Wednesday and Saturday mornings at 9 o'clock. Apply at our offices for special rates. This is a wonderful land opportunity. You should take advantage of it immediately if you are in a position to do so. Call or write for booklet giving testimonials from former California ranchers. Title to land is perfect; passes from the Federal government to the State and from the State to the settler.

Safeguard Ships From Collision.

[Youth's Companion:] Joseph Conrad, the novelist, who followed the sea for years, and who holds an English shipmaster's license, has made a suggestion for safeguarding steamships against the dangers of collision that is astonishingly simple and apparently quite practical. He would have all ships obliged to protect their bows with "puddings," or stuffed fenders such as almost all tugboats now carry. For an ocean liner the "pudding" would be two, three or four feet thick; and although it would certainly detract from the grace and beauty of the ship, it would rob its knife-like prow of the power to rip open the side of any vessel that it touched. Mr. Conrad believes that if the Storstad and the Nantucket had been thus equipped, the Empress of Ireland and the Monroe would be afloat today, and that more than a thousand lives would have been saved.

BUYS CORNER FOR GARAGE.

REALTY BROKER PURCHASES OF PROPERTY AT NINTH AND GRAND VIEW.

A. B. Chittenden has become the owner of the property at the northwest corner of West Ninth street and Grand View avenue, comprising a frontage of 150 feet on Ninth and of 133 feet to an alley on Grand View. The site is now vacant, but Mr. Chittenden is having plans made for a garage and mercantile building to occupy the corner ninety feet. Plans are also shaping for the utilization of the other sixty feet. The property was secured from Fred L. Hunt at a reported consideration of $41,500.

Wise & Downie, recently incorporated, and a firm that has been engaged in the manufacture of camp meeting and tent equipment for tent cities for several years, have purchased through the agency of A. B. Chittenden property on the east side of San Pedro street, between Sixth and Seventh streets. The lot is 50x150 feet in size and is to be improved with a modern building. The consideration is reported as having been $400 a front foot. Charles F. Lindsey of Oakland, the seller, bought the property for $800 twenty-five years ago.

WHOLE EAST COMING.

C. C. C. Tatum, vice-president of the Los Angeles Realty Board, and one of the victorious Pittsburgh delegation that won the 1915 convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges for this city, returned to Los Angeles on Friday, the last of the local realty men to arrive home from the scene of triumph. In addition to being an officer of the Los Angeles board, Mr. Tatum is vice-president of the California State Realty Federation, and was the only representative of the State organization at the eastern meeting.

Mr. Tatum took the opportunity while in the East to make a thorough study of business conditions in the larger cities of the country, spending considerable time in New York, Chicago and St. Louis. He reports a growing feeling of optimism in all three places. Speaking of crop conditions yesterday evening, Mr. Tatum said:

"It would be impossible to speak too enthusiastically about the crops of the East and Middle West. I never saw anything like them. The farmers are happy as larks. There has been just the right amount of sun and the right amount of rain to make things grow, and the harvest is going to be the fattest in a generation. Those crops spell prosperity for Southern California. It is absolutely certain that the people on the other side of the Rockies will flock to the two Pacific Coast expositions next year as they never would have done had their crops been poor or mediocre. Everyone in the East is talking about coming to California in 1915."

FOR WELLS-FARGO MAN.

Announcement is made of the award to the Kling Company of the contract for the construction of a fourteen-room, two-story residence to be built by Roy Stevens, superintendent of the local branch of the Wells-Fargo Company, on West Adams street near Ninth avenue. The house, which was planned by Charles E. Shattuck, will cost about $15,000. It will be of the English type, having a blue brick veneer on the first story and half-timber effect above. The roof will be of slate. Oak, birch and mahogany will be used in the inside trim.

Frank M. Tyler has drawn plans for a ten-room house, to be built by G. F. Sloan at Washington and Grand View streets. The exterior will be of plaster and shakes. The interior finish will be in hardwoods.

From plans by W. A. Wells, John Mushrush, as contractor, will at once begin the construction of four eight-room double houses and one four-room single house for J. E. Menzie on Wilcox avenue, north of Hollywood boulevard, in Hollywood.

Among other residence projects now taking shape may be mentioned the following: H. D. Gilbert is about to start a ten-room house at No. 4148 West Pico street. H. B. Neece has had plans drawn for a nine-room house at No. 820 South Oxford avenue. W. F. Rogge will build a twelve-room house at No. 3451 Percy street.

HALF MILLION-DOLLAR PIPE.

Made for the Late Shah of Persia; Other Rulers Have Been Extravagant with Swords, Broughams, Etc.

[Washington Star:] Among the royal treasures of Persia is a pipe set with diamonds, rubies and emeralds to the value, it is estimated, of no less than $500,000. This pipe was made for the late Shah and is said to be even more valuable than his famous sword.

In the matter of swords, it is said that the Gaekwar of Baroda, who, on the occasion of the coronation of George V. in India, added to his fame by snubbing the monarch, possesses the most precious blade in existence. Its hilt and belt are incrusted with diamonds, rubies, sapphires and emeralds, and its value has been put at $1,000,000.

There are many costly swords in the treasure rooms of eastern and European rulers, notably those of the Czar of Russia, the Sultan of Turkey and the King of Siam; but the sword of the Gaekwar outshines them all. The most valuable sword of Europe is that presented by the Egyptians to Lord Wolseley. The hilt is set with brilliants and the whole saber is estimated to be worth $10,000.

The Maharajah of Ghened is the owner of the most costly brougham in the world. The handles of the doors are of solid gold, while the rest of the vehicle is of silver.

The new Emperor of Morocco came into possession of a curious piano, manufactured to the order of his predecessor, which is probably the most expensive instrument of the kind ever made. The piano was made in parts, each being small enough to be carried by a slave, as it appeared that the former Emperor firmly refused to trust them to the care of his camels, which formed the only other available means of transport. This expensive musical instrument was made principally of tulip and orris woods inlaid with unpolished jacaranda parquetry and decorated with scroll work of pure gold. The actual sum paid for it was $20,000.

BANKERS ADVISE ENGLISH LOAN.

New York Financiers Will Confer With Wilson.

Emergency Currency May Be Issued Next Week.

Plan Aims to Give an Ample Circulating Medium.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Extraordinary action was taken by the leading financial interests of America today to avert financial unsettlement in this country as a result of the European war. Relief measures are under way which, in the opinion of the bankers, will preserve the public confidence. This is the situation:

Emergency currency probably will be put into circulation next week. If occasion requires, this currency, issuance of which is provided for by the Aldrich-Vreeland act passed after the 1907 panic, may be supplemented here and elsewhere by clearinghouse certificates such as were used in 1907.

Bankers from the principal cities of the country arranged a meeting to be held in Washington on Monday to formulate a plan of action.

The suggestion for a loan of $100,000,000 gold to England was made at a meeting today of representatives of the principal foreign exchange houses. For the last two days business in foreign exchanges has been virtually suspended and it was deemed essential to the financial interests of this country to devise some plan of restoring equilibrium.

GOLD SHIPMENTS.

It was proposed to ship the gold to England, or, what met with more general approval, to hold the gold here. In the latter case this money would be placed to the credit of England, perhaps under the supervision of representatives of the British government. Another proposal was to purchase a special issue of British bonds to be underwritten here.

The primary purpose of such a step, however, would be to halt the unprecedented outflow of gold from this country, and to enable Europe to pay for exports, principally of foodstuffs, which it is expected will be made in the near future. With $100,000,000 to foreign credit here, it was said, the necessity for further exports of the metal would nearly if not wholly disappear.

Annually at this season millions of bushels of grain are sent abroad, and this year, on account of the war, the demand will be unusually heavy, if it is possible to make shipments. The suggestion was advanced that Europe might make the settlement by drawing against a reserve fund in New York.

OPINIONS ON LOAN.

Difference of opinion arose as to the advisability of the suggested loan to England. A committee of five was appointed to devise a plan and the committee held a stormy session. It was finally agreed that August Ulrich and Max May, vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company, should go to Washington tonight.

It is estimated that from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 of American stocks were thrown on this market for whatever they would bring by panic-stricken European holders. Canada also unloaded.

Next week the bills drawn against these sales of stock will reach New York. Part of the $45,000,000 gold shipped abroad on vessels now on high seas is in danger of capture. Even these shipments leave a huge total of foreign credits to be satisfied. Today's statement of the New York banks showed a decrease in cash holdings of more than $53,000,000, due principally to the loss of gold and in place of the surplus reserves of $26,000,000 reported last Saturday, there was today a deficit of $17,000,000.

Early today there was a conference of some of the leading bankers of New York. Later there was a meeting of the National Currency Association of the city of New York, an organization provided by the Aldrich-Vreeland law, at which arrangements were completed for issuance of emergency currency next week.

VANDERLIP EXPLAINS.

To give assurance that the steps taken would amply meet the needs of the situation, Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank, said tonight:

"The action of the New York Currency Association in getting all the machinery ready for the issue of additional bank notes should give assurance that there will be no lack of an ample circulating medium.

"The banks of the country under this law may take out $500,000,000 additional national bank notes. There is no probability that anything like that amount will be needed, or could be used."

None of the bankers would discuss the chances of the issuance of clearinghouse certificates in addition to emergency currency. It was learned that no final decision had been reached on this point. The result will hinge upon the necessities of the situation as presented in the near future.

Francis L. Hine, president of the First National Bank, and William Woodward, president of the Hanover National Bank, will act as the representatives of the New York bankers at Monday's conference in Washington to be attended by bankers from a dozen of the principal cities of the country. At this conference, which is expected to include William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, a means of meeting the present situation is to be considered and an effort made to devise a comprehensive plan of action throughout the country.

In addition to the comprehensive war news reports received daily by The Times through the Associated Press and by Atlantic Cable, an extensive and well-arranged compilation of news received through the foreign press and from authorized correspondents on the spot will be printed in Part III of Sunday's Times.

WAR ORDER DISCOUNTED.

LITTLE EXCITEMENT ON CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE.

Beyond a Temporary Convulsion in the Wheat Pit the Effect on Prices by the Action of the German Emperor Was Generally Expected to Be Restrained.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Germany's declaration of war on Russia was received with eager interest tonight by leaders of the Chicago Board of Trade, but in no case with the least show of excitement. It was virtually the unanimous opinion that the consequence so far as the wheat market was concerned had been to a great extent discounted.

Beyond a temporary convulsion perhaps in the wheat pit, the effect on prices was generally expected to be much more restrained than in the case of Austria's declaration against Servia. Fifty million bushels of wheat was said to be already under contract for shipment to Europe and unable to get away from United States ports. Even with immediate amendment of the navigation laws, it was declared that an adequate outlet would still be lacking, as shipments would have to be confined as far as possible to neutral ports such as Amsterdam and Rotterdam, or run the risks of delay and loss by blockades.

"The declaration of war between Germany and Russia will not, in my opinion, have a great effect on the wheat market outside of possibly at the opening there may be some flurry one way or the other. As a matter of fact, at the present time war between those two countries is not a bullish argument, for the reason that there are large quantities of wheat at the seaboard, or moving to the seaboard, or ready to go to the seaboard from the country elevators and farmers, and under present conditions very little of this wheat can be safely loaded. Therefore our export business will be at a standstill temporarily until things are more settled. Some of this wheat which is intended to go for export may be offered for sale in American markets, and this in itself will prevent any high prices at the present time.

"It is hoped that the United States government will move as promptly as possible and endeavor to provide laws under which some of the foreign vessels may be registered as United States bottoms and in this manner provide ships sailing under the American flag to take care of the quantity of wheat there is in the United States ready for export which can be sold at good figures and in this manner draw back in payment gold. The United States has this year upward of 300,000,000 bushels of wheat which they can spare for export, and it is for the benefit of the farmer, community, banking interests and everyone to have this wheat go abroad, which it cannot do under present conditions."

President C. H. Canby of the Chicago Board of Trade said:

"Germany's declaration of war makes it absolutely imperative for Congress to immediately amend the American navigation laws so as to allow foreign vessels to register and sail under the American flag. Unless this is done our export business will be practically paralyzed for the present, and there will be no adequate outlet for our immense grain crops."

BANK NOTES IN DEMAND.

APPLICATIONS REVIEWED BY CURRENCY COMMITTEE.

All Machinery for Quick Action Under New Law Is at Hand and It Is Believed a Sufficient Amount Can Be Issued to Meet Demands for Circulating Medium.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Executive Committee of the National Currency Association today considered applications for a substantial amount of national bank notes to be issued under the provision of the currency act. All the machinery for quick action under this act is at hand and it is believed that a sufficient amount of these notes can be issued to meet any demands likely to be made for circulating media. It is said that large amounts of these notes are ready for distribution and it is expected that the notes for New York banks will be forwarded here and deposited in the subtreasury for immediate use.

Under the terms o fthe law, national banks are permitted to take out additional bank notes up to an amount equal to capital and surplus of each bank, although there is a total limit of $500,000,000 upon this form of additional currency.

Banks may deposit either commercial paper or securities with the Currency Association Committee, which passes upon the character of collateral and which is also passed upon by representatives of the United States treasury.

Commercial paper may be deposited for additional notes up to an amount equalling 30 per cent. of capital and surplus of a bank or the bank may deposit securities for such additional circulation as it may obtain.

Banks may apply directly to the Treasury Department without intervention of the Currency Association, if they have State or municipal bonds of approved character which they may wish to deposit as additional security.

There are already printed a total of $524,000,000 of completed bank notes, which are stored in the emergency vault of the treasury in Washington.

Paroxysmal Symptoms in the Money Markets of the World. Quotations Point to a Catastrophe So Grave as to Carry Within Itself Strong Incentive to Avert It.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—On the financial market of the world was focused the full effect of the week's rapid spread of the war cloud. While diplomatists discussed and generals planned, the money markets acted. Symptoms of the markets were so paroxysmal as to paint a vision of the breaking down of European civilization itself. The warning there contained pointed to a catastrophe so grave, as to carry the strongest incentive within itself to avert it.

Credits in the exchanges and commerce were disorganized. The peril was shown in the losing of the primitive instinct to hold gold which induced the raid on bank reserves at the great money centers. This raid nullified all other considerations. No parallel exists for the jump from 4 to 8 per cent. made by the Bank of England discount rate on Friday thus marking the exigency of the crisis. The closing of the New York Stock and other exchanges was a like measure of protection against the deluge of liquidation from Oold World money markets in their desperate scramble for cash.

WHEAT DEALS ARE HALTED.

TRADESMEN AWAIT PROTECTION OF THE AMERICAN FLAG.

General Disinclination to Postpone Business Until There Is Some Assurance that Cereal Sent Abroad Has the Protection of the Greatest Nation Not Involved in the War.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Wheat transactions halted to a great extent today, awaiting the outcome of a movement to give exports from the United States the protection of the American flag.

After relatively narrow changes the market closed steady ⅜c lower for near-by deliveries and ¼ to 1¼c up for the more deferred options. Corn finished at an advance of 1½ to 3½c above last night, oats with a rise of ¾ to 1½c and provisions higher by 2½ to 15c.

Hysteria vanished today from the wheat pit. Anxiety in regard to settlements for July contracts was a thing of the past, and it was evident that for the time being war news, no matter how exciting, probably would not affect the market with any such violence as had been the case during the preceding four days.

Removal of the French import duty on wheat had considerable to do with helping to harden prices in the last hour of the session.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET

The first car of Bellefleurs from the north has arrived and the boxes of fruit distributed despite Watsonville protests against this handling of unripe apples. Local dealers declare there is a demand for green apples if only for baking purposes. Other fruits moved on orders and prices all through the list were unchanged. There were no changes in fresh vegetables either.

Local staple products were all unchanged, there being no session of the Produce Exchange. In San Francisco the market on eggs advanced to 30 cents and this made dealers hold tight to stock on hand here. Receipts of locals were 227 cases. Butter was in fair call with a continued 25 cents price in the north and receipts of 51,900 pounds here. The cheese market north was up ½ cent on full cream. Here there was no change. Cheese has been active during the week.

The market on potatoes during the past few days has been weak, but dealers are all of the opinion that prices should be advancing instead of dropping owing to the end of the local production and the big demand that may come from the Rocky Mountain and even Middlewestern States this year for California potatoes. There is a shortage there. Receipts were 1530 sacks yesterday. Sweet potato arrivals were 108 sacks. Apple receipts were 2418 boxes and the daily average of the week has exceeded 1800 boxes. Grapes and pears showed a few more than 1000 boxes received while of peaches there were 2400 boxes in.

DECLARES WAR ON SHARPERS.

Realty Board to Make It Hot for Land Sharks.

To Protect Exposition Year Hosts from Fraud.

Free Information Bureau to Be Established.

The Los Angeles Realty Board has declared war upon the real estate sharks and financial harpies who will swoop down on this city as soon as the two 1915 expositions open. No ultimatums have preceded or will precede the hostilities, which, according to President Mines, will begin the moment the crooks start anything."

"There will be hundreds of thousands of visitors in Los Angeles during 1915," said Mines yesterday, in discussing the board's war plans, "and many thousands of these will be wanting to buy property in Southern California. Such conditions ordinarily present the fattest kind of pickings for the sharks and grafters, but in this case these gentry are going to get what's coming to them.

"The Realty Board is not undertaking to protect the tourists from the jackals of the real estate profession through any pious spirit of reform or through any desire to show off. I want to make that plain. The legitimate brokers see in the coming here of hosts of prospective investors the opportunity to put the real estate business in Southern California on the soundest and most permanent kind of a basis and to advance their own interests and those of the section. They realize the harm that wildcatting operations would do to legitimate business, not only next year, but afterward. Our war on the crooks has its inspiration in the principles of sound business expediency.

"And we are going to make war on them, too. If there is any cleaning out of rascals to be done in advance of 1915 we shall do it with a will. The board has put a number of local operators behind the bars in the past few months and is hot after others. While we are mobilizing to meet the invasion from outside we expect also to clean out the local talent in the field of fraud. In that way only can we hope to gain and keep the confidence of the public."

PROTECTIVE METHODS.

Several methods of meeting the situation that will be created when the hosts of exposition visitors begin to pay their respects to Los Angeles and Southern California are now being devised by the Realty Board. Leading in favor are the plans of organizing and maintaining throughout the coming year free bureaus of information and land appraisement for the service and benefit of strangers. It is now practically certain that such bureaus will be installed in the Realty Board headquarters on the sixth floor of the Los Angeles Realty Board building, No. 631 South Spring street.

The board owns the most complete set of maps of the section in existence. These show at a glance the elevation and general topographical features of every district in the Southland. Also available in the same collection are maps and charts giving quite accurately the soil and water data of different regions. The mass of information contained in these is being elaborated and enlarged constantly by additions to the board's collection. Every available bit of reliable literature on the various parts of Southern California is being assembled. In charge of the whole the board will place a competent man, whose business it will be to answer questions.

The function of the appraisement bureau will be that of advising prospective buyers of acreage. This department will, in all probability, be in charge of a special committee, composed of impartial experts on land values. Inquiries in writing left with the bureau will be considered by the committee and where it seems advisable, will be answered in kind. The advice given will be based not only on the data provided by the information bureau, but upon the personal observations and knowledge of the committeemen.

"It will not be the purpose of the appraisement bureau to offer estimates as to the value of individual holdings handled by reputable firms," said Mines, in commenting on this phase of the board's protective efforts. "We expect to give reliable information concerning different districts, as districts, and to state as fairly as we may the probable values in such regions. There will be no 'butting in' on the business affairs of honorable individuals or firms. Our service, as it affects established districts and reliable dealers, will be of

PLAN TO STOP TIDE RAVAGES.

CURVED SEA WALL SUGGESTED BY ENGINEERS.

Originators of New Protective Idea Say High Waves Will Roll Back Against Themselves After Hitting Convex Surface of Concrete Barrier.

After nearly a year of study and preparation, two Los Angeles consulting engineers have just finished plans of a sea wall which they declare is capable of permanently stopping the damage to the Southern California beach towns caused by the annual rampage of the Pacific Ocean. They also claim that their plans, if generally adopted, will not only save millions of dollars but will provide a beach front which for smoothness and safety cannot be excelled. The engileers are Ralph Bennett, who in conjunction with Frederick Law Olmsted laid out the industrial city of Torrance, and A. E. Rau, formerly of New York.

The plan for the new sea wall, which is similar to that constructed many years ago on the coast of France between the cities of Bayonne and Rochfort, has been submitted to several owners of beach-front property between Venice and Playa del Rey, and it is said to be probable that a test wall will be built in that district in time to anticipate the high tides of the coming winter.

The chief feature of the Bennett-Rau sea wall, as it is described by the originators, is the convex curve of the surface presented to the tides. This curve offers no obstacle to the waves when they reach the wall and causes them to describe a circular movement, operating as a device to turn the wave impact against itself. Fronting the sea wall proper and extending outward from the shore are a series of concrete projections known technically as "groins." These groins are twelve inches across the top surface and widen out on perpendicular lines from less than one inch on the shore side to two feet at the end which projects into the ocean. They are set about ten feet apart and extend twenty or more feet into the water.

In the space between these groins a bed of concrete six inches thick is laid, and this forms a floor over the surface of the upper beach. The action of the waves in a short time causes these spaces to fill up with sand, thus providing a natural and smooth beach floor. To give this floor a permanence and solidity, heavy wood piles are placed under the groins at intervals of three feet.

Provision is made in the Bennett-Rau plan for a broad esplanade running parallel with the sea wall. Stairs at the end of each street give access to the beach, and a system of ornamental electroliers provides illumination.

NEW SCHOOL ASSURED.

A school house to house fifty pupils is to be built before the autumn term of school in the townsite located in Nuevo Rancho, a fruit subdivision in the Lakeview-Hemet-Perris Valley section, according to representatives of the James R. H. Wagner Company, which is conducting extensive real estate operations in the district. The same building that will care for the children is to provide quarters for religious denominations, and will temporarily be used as a town hall and public library. A site for the building has been set aside by the Wagner company and an architect is now completing the plans. The townsite, it is announced, will probably be given the name of Nuevo. Several houses and stores are now being erected in the place. James Simons of Orange county, one of the purchasers of the week, bought twenty acres of the Nuevo Rancho subdivision and will plant the land to apricots and olives. L. K. Wear, who owns a ranch near Santa Barbara, was the purchaser of ten acres which he will set out to various fruits.

HARBOR ACTIVITIES.

Patrick C. Campbell & Co. report the sale of lots in River and Harbor tract No. 2600, in the Long Beach-San Pedro district, to eleven buyers during the week. The sales, it is announced, were made on the occasion of a harbor excursion last Wednesday. The same dealers report the sale of nine lots the week before.

CITY ASKS BIDS.

SOUTH PASADENA, Aug. 1.—Bids for the construction of the new municipal building were ordered advertised by the City Trustees during the week. Plans for the new building, which have been accepted, were drawn by Norman F. Marsh of Los Angeles. The police department, fire department and the City Hall will all be housed in the one building, the fire engine-house being erected on the rear of the lot, which is on the corner of Mound avenue and Mission street. White sandstone has been chosen as the material for the building, to harmonize with the library and High School building.

Gilbert & Co., report the sale for J. M. Herndon of Venice, to Charlotte Anderson of this city, of 50x200 feet on Rollins street, between Fremont and Meridian avenues, improved with a four-room California house, at a consideration of $900. Charles Arndt has sold to B. Fitzsimmons of Los Angeles, 50x175 feet on Milan avenue, between Monterey road and Oak street, the consideration being given at $2700. The buyer will build a house on the lot, which is situated in the middle of an orange grove.

Walton J. Wood has sold to Sebald Cheroske of Los Angeles, 50x150 feet on Palm avenue, between Mission and Grevalia streets, improved with a bungalow. The price is not named. Cheroske will occupy the place as a home, while the Wood family will move into a new home on Electric avenue.

Two new rooms are being fitted up at the Marengo schoolhouse by the Board of Education to take care of the increase in the number of pupils in that district.

INGLEWOOD PARK.

Sales of twenty-eight plots of land in the new Inglewood Park tract of the James R. H. Wagner Company are reported in the last twelve days. The recent purchasers, with the prices they paid, are announced as follows: F. Villasenor, two and one-half acres, $3725; G. P. Bentley, one-half acre, $575; T. T. Scott, two lots, $2400; T. E. Hall, two lots, $2425; Mary Christian, two lots, $1850; George Markanir, two lots, $2100; and one lot each to C. H. Hoffman, $1200; Estelle Herschell, $1325; Phoebe Snyder, $1025; P. J. Yorba, $1325; L. F. Crenshaw, $1325; C. Henderson, $1025; L. H. Harrod, $1200; E. Starr, $1200; C. S. Hamilton, $1200; Nick Strora, $625; Pearl and Harry Biggs, $1100; L. R. Dupinshire, $1025; W. Klingbiel, $975; A. R. Schwab, $1100; E. Carillo, $1200; G. W. Koebel, $875; E. Stevens, $625; T. L. Helms, $1100; L. T. Gosselin, $1025; W. G. Held, $900; L. B. Howard, $1100, and W. T. Arton, $1025.

BUILDING PLANS TAKING SHAPE.

Many store, flat and apartment-house projects for various parts of the city are reported by architects, contractors and builders. Of these the following, among others, are now taking definite shape:

Plans are being drawn by L. L. Jones for a three-story brick hotel projected by A. W. Fisher, for a site on Hope street between First and Second streets. The structure will contain about ninety rooms and will cover a ground area of 60x150 feet. J. F. Kunst is drawing plans for a two-story frame apartment-house to be built by M. Paulsen at No. 1224 Crown Hill avenue. Whiting Thompson has completed plans for a two-story frame store and apartment building to be erected by J. B. Montgomery at Forty-first and Hoover streets.

M. S. Yaeger & Co., will build a two-story frame flat building for Theodore Karstin at No. 477 North Figueroa street. C. F. Campbell has the contract to build a four-flat structure for F. Fossler at No. 1425 West Eighteenth street. A similar building is to be erected for Mrs. A. Parker by A. S. O'Neil at No. 405 West Thirty-third street. W. B. Noe has drawn plans for a two-story frame apartment-house to be built by Peter Adler at the corner of Fourteenth street and Pacific avenue, San Pedro.

Plans have been prepared for a flat to be built by J. M. Haff at No. 1206 North Alvarado street. A permit has been granted for a flat to be erected by S. A. Thompson at No. 1151 North Vermont avenue. William Hudson is planning the erection of a four-flat building at No. 751 East Thirty-first street. F. R. Monnell has taken out a permit for a flat he expects to build at No. 969 South Vermont avenue. W. J. Grettin is drawing plans for a flat to be built by Mrs. B. Gibbons on Parkgrove avenue, near Washington street. L. D. Underhill will build a flat for John Hoskins at No. 1522 Girard street.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Work to Be Begun at Once on Six-Story Concrete Loft Building at Eighth and Santee.

To Carl Leonardt was awarded during the past week the contract for the construction of a six-story reinforced concrete loft building to be built by C. Q. Stanton, at Eighth and Santee streets for the Western Electric Company. The structure will be thoroughly modern in type and will, it is announced, be started at once. Ralph M. Snyder drew the plans and F. T. Flaherty was the engineer in charge of the structural details. The building will cost about $40,000.

Plans have been completed by William Curlett & Sons for a three-story brick warehouse and factory building to be erected at Alameda and Palmetto streets for the Rudgear-Merle Company of San Francisco and Los Angeles. The structure will be 100x300 feet in size and will be faced with pressed brick and terra cotta.

The Davidson Construction Company has been awarded the contract for the construction of a two-story brick warehouse projected by C. H. Nance for a site on Fourth street near Los Angeles. The building was planned by Morgan, Walls & Morgan and will occupy a ground area of 80x140 feet.

READY TO GO AHEAD.

Work to Be Resumed on Downtown Skyscraper.

Terra Cotta Shipment to Put End to Delay.

Structural Steel Skeleton to Be Clothed.

Following a delay of months, occasioned by the holding up of deliveries of terra cotta and brick, work is to be resumed within a week upon the modern thirteen-story store and office building that is being erected by the Mason Company at Nos. 720-24 South Spring street. This announcement was made yesterday by John C. Austin, who, with W. C. Pennell as associate architect, planned the big Spring-street skyscraper.

The steel frame of the building was finished some time ago and the structure itself would now be well along toward conpletion but for the absence of the facing materials. The structural skeleton has been the source of considerable mystery to passers-by during the present summer.

The front of the new block will be faced with light brown terra cotta made in Tropico and the filling of the order for this special product has taxed the facilities of the manufacturers. The complete shipment is promised in ten days. The laying of the brick wall facing on the sides of the building will be begun at once. The building is to be ready for occupancy within ninety days, say those in charge of the work.

The Mason Company building is one of the noteworthy improvements of the year in downtown Los Angeles. It extends to the full height of 150 feet allowed by law and has a frontage of 60 feet by a depth of 101 feet. Architecturally the style is that of the Renaissance.

The Mason Company owns considerable property in Los Angeles, notable among its holdings being the Mason building at Fourth and Broadway. The officers of the company are: H. M. Mason, president; Dean Mason, vice-president; Mayne Mason, second vice-president; G. M. Baldwin, secretary, and P. D. Mason, treasurer and manager.

The company is contemplating the erection of a modern office building of ten or more stories on the site at Fourth and Broadway upon the expiration of the leases now in force on the building at that location.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN JACINTO, Aug. 1.—The twenty-acre ranch of W. G. Vosberg on South Central avenue was bought this week by W. R. King of Los Angeles. The property is well improved with a house, barns, a pumping plant and an alfalfa field. There has been considerable activity at Idyllwild for the past several weeks. Several new cottages have been completed and all the old cottages renovated and refurnished. A splendid tennis court and well-planned golf links are also among the new attractions of the resort.

GETTING READY TO TAKE OIL.

Dutch-Shell Contract Soon to Be Filled.

Standard Abandons Deep Well in Midway.

Developments at Lakeview Property.

BAKERSFIELD (Cal.) July 31.—Trenches are being dug for the eight-inch pipe line which is to connect the wells of the General Petroleum Company with the tank farm of the Royal Dutch-Shell interests, north of Fellows, a distance of about three miles. The building is being done by the General Pipe Line Company, and will be used to deliver oil to the European combine under a contract made a year ago. The total amount to be delivered is about 2,000,000 barrels.

The European interests have as yet given no sign of any immediate intention to build a pipe line between Coalinga and Midway, their present contracts and plans, as far as made public, contemplating only a line from Coalinga to Martinez. The storage of oil at the big tank farm, however, makes it absolutely certain that immediate transportation facilities are to be built.

In all probability the Midway oil is destined to go to Martinez and there will be a pipe line between Coalinga and Midway soon after the completion of the line now about to be built, but there have been continual rumors that a refinery may also be built at a point on the Coast between San Pedro and San Luis Obispo, and some time ago it was reported with full details that the Europeans had purchased from T. O. Turner, former general manager of the Pacific Pipe Line Company, at that time in their employ as a right of way man on the pipe line to Martinez, all the surveys and rights of way of the Pacific company. The report was never confirmed, and Turner has presumably since left the employ of the European combine as he was last heard from at Calgary waiting for something to turn up.

Standard Deepest Well.

The Standard's No. 4 on section 16, 31-23, North Midway, drilled with a rotary to 4625 feet without finding a sign of either gas or oil, although surrounding wells showed good, is to be abandoned. The Northern Exploration Company's No. 3 in the immediate vicinity has an immense flow of gas, although not a trace of gas pressure was encountered in the Standard No. 4.

This Standard's well is one of the deepest ever drilled entirely by a rotary in the world. To prevent water trouble the hole is being plugged.

Lake View.

Floyd White, manager of the Lake View No. 2 Oil Company, says he expects to have the treating plants destroyed by fire rebuilt and in operation within two weeks. The loss to the company, he says, was mostly covered by insurance. It has been found that the equipment removed from the warehouse and placed on the ground, while somewhat marred by the heat, can nearly all be used in the work of reconstruction. The loss of oil he estimates at about $80,000.

One of the biggest factors in saving the company's great well from destruction by the fire was the disaster which happened on the lease two weeks ago when a great crack in the earth opened two of the company's largest sumps and allowed the oil to empty, running away down the flat. The fact that the two sumps were empty was alone responsible for the fire being controlled, for had the oil remained, there is but little doubt that the fire would have worked its way to several derricks and would have eventually set the gases around the big well aflame.

The company will start building a new warehouse at once and expects to stock it as soon as the roof is on. All new fittings and other equipment will be ordered at once and will be on hand for use at an early date.

The principal damage to the company is from the loss of the income derived from the sale of 10,000 barrels of oil daily from the lease, which has been more than enough to pay the running expenses of the property. However, on Tuesday morning the treating plants, twelve in number, located at the big Cornfield sump, where 1,500,000 barrels of oil is stored, were completed and 10,000 barrels of oil is being marketed each day from that point.

Looking for Land.

F. D. Cooper of Los Angeles was here a few days since and went to the Lost Hills with Joseph Loeb, president of the Lost Hills Realty Company, for the purpose of looking over some property with a view to floating a company to try for oil.

SUSPEND WORK ON WELL.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, July 31.—Work upon the drilling of the oil well on the ranch of former State Senator A. T. Currier has again been temporarily suspended because of a break of a large steel cable and the necessity of procuring a new one. Operations will be resumed as soon as possible. The well is now down to a depth of 3400 feet and about $50,000 has so far been expended drilling it.

A Wife Sentences Husband.

[Washington Post:] Thomas Brennan was arraigned before Recorder Keffer at Atlantic City, on charges of threatening his wife and chasing lodgers from the boarding-house she operates to earn the living he seems to be unable to earn for her. Brennan had performed like that several times before.

Judge Keffer stepped down from the bench and said to Mrs. Brennan:

"Get up there, madame, and give him a dose of medicine he deserves."

The wife climbed upon the judge's bench, picked up the gavel, turned, and asked, "What's the limit, Your Honor?"

"Fifty days," came the instructions.

"Then that's it. So long, Mr. Thomas," said the skirted justice.

"Take him below," ordered Judge Keffer, and below went Brennan to wait transportation to the county prison.

Standard's Prices.

The following is the new schedule of prices for oil announced by the Standard Oil Company to take effect July 30:

San Joaquin Valley—14 to and including 20.9 gravity, 40 cents; 21 to and including 26.2 gravity, 42½ cents; 27 to and including 28.9 gravity, 45 cents; 29 to and including 30.9 gravity, 55 cents; 31 gravity and lighter, 60 cents.

Ventura county—21 to and including 24.9 gravity, 50 cents; 25 to and including 27.9 gravity, 60 cents; 28 to and including 30.9 gravity, 70 cents; 31 to and including 32.9 gravity, 80 cents; 33 gravity and lighter, 85 cents.

Whittier-Fullerton—18 to and including 20.9 gravity, 42½ cents; 21 to and including 29.9 gravity, 45 cents; 25 to and including 27.9 gravity, 55 cents; 28 to and including 30.9 gravity, 65 cents; 31 and lighter, 70 cents.

STILL NEEDS MORE STORAGE.

STANDARD TO ADD TO LARGE "FARM" IN KERN.

Twenty-six More Thirty-five-Thousand-Barrel Storage Tanks to Be Constructed Soon—Capacity Will Then Be Two Million Barrels—Another Big Well.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TAFT, July 29.—The Standard Oil Company will soon add to the present capacity of their great tank farm on section 16, 31-24 by the erection of twenty-six new 35,000-barrel storage tanks, making when completed a farm of fifty-five tanks with a storage capacity of 1,925,000 barrels. The twenty-nine tanks now on the farm are full. They hold in storage over 1,000,000 barrels of oil. From a distance they look like a group of mushrooms, all being painted white.

The Lakeview No. 2 Oil Company, on section 4, 11-23, has had rather more than its share of fires this week. The first fire occurred Sunday and consumed the cookhouse to the last splinter. The cookhouse was situated about 200 feet from the Lakeview gusher, and all efforts were directed toward preventing the well from igniting. The second escape of the great spouter, when the sumps and treating plant were consumed, was probably due to the fact that the wind was light and blowing from the south instead of the southwest, as usual.

BIG WELL.

Well No. 2 of the Miocene Oil Company, on section 32, 12-23 of the Maricopa Flat, went into the big sand from which the Obispo and General Petroleum Oil Companies are taking much oil from their gushers Monday evening and was brought in at once under perfect control, producing at the rate of 4000 barrels per day. It flowed with increasing pressure and by Tuesday morning was doing better than 7000 barrels. The production tests better than 23.5 in gravity.

The big sand was encountered at a depth of 3110 feet after the hole was deepened from the second product sand, where it was finished some time ago. When the well was finished in the second sand it came in with a flow of 10,000 barrels, but this soon turned into emulsion and it was decided by the officers that it would be best to abandon that sand and go deeper.

The company leases from the National Pacific Oil Company.

The No. 4 well of the American Oilfields Company in the Maricopa district, which was brought in as a gusher under perfect control about two weeks ago, is flowing at the rate of 5000 barrels a day, but is capable of doing several times that amount if allowed to run without restraint. It is estimated that this well flowed at the rate of 50,000 barrels during the first twenty-four hours of its career. After this test the flow was pinched down to the present production.

The well has attracted more attention than the average gusher because of the fact that it was brought in under complete control.

LOST HILLS.

In the Lost Hills field development steadily continues. The Lost Hills Development Company is busy on section 19 building a new camp. Pipe lines are being laid, telephone poles are going up and as soon as the material can be hauled to the ground the rig for the No. 1 well will be built. The July production of the General Petroleum Oil Company in the Lost Hills field promises to surpass that of the Universal, which company has hitherto taken the lead. The General company will have 80,000 barrels for the month, or about 5000 more than that of the Universal.

The Mascot Oil Company on Twenty-five Hill, section 25, 32-23, has thirty-seven wells on the beam, steady producers, and two wells now idle will soon be put on the producing list. No. 31 is being redrilled. No. 6 well will be.

The California Counties well No. 5 will be started in a few days on section 4, 32-23.

The C.O.D. Parcel Post.

[World's Work:] The telephones and the parcel post work beautifully together. The housewife calls up the village store and asks to have certain things—perhaps dress goods or household utensils—sent out immediately. In the old days she would have had to go to "town" herself, or have the "hired man" harness up, or wait for several days until some friend could do her errand. Now her purchase arrives in the morning with the rural carrier. The "C.O.D." system facilitates the operation. In the smaller cities the same expedition prevails. The local merchant finds that his area of patronage, which was formerly limited to the city itself, has a radius of 150 miles. He has one advantage over the mail order house in a lower rate within this distance. Within this zone of 150 miles the rate is virtually a cent a pound; outside, it is larger. A merchant 150 miles from Chicago, therefore, has a large area within which, because of his lower postage, he can still do business. And the fact that the local merchants have already outgrown their apprehensions of the parcel post.

Oleaginous.

CHINA MAY BE SCENE OF WAR.

Standard Prepares to Test Shenshi for Oil.

Other Concerns Anxious to Get Foothold.

Empire Is Strategic Point for World Trade.

Soon the testing of the Shenshi province in China for oil by the Standard Oil Company under the arrangement effected with the Chinese government, will be well under way, and the celestial empire will, if a discovery is made, become the scene for a new oleaginous war.

Already various interests are beginning to snap at the Standard's heels, as the company lays its plans for conquest in the Far East. The Peking syndicate, a firm composed jointly of English and Chinese interests, is understood to be investigating the Shenshi province, with a view to pressing claims for their rights, based on an old charter given an English firm to mine in the province many years ago. It is asserted by the Britishers that this clause will support their claim, and they have taken a number of prominent Chinese into their confidence to assist in carrying out the political end of the project.

Representatives of other companies are not behind-hand in getting into the field to secure their share in the district, in case a discovery of importance is made. China is, of course, well situated for an international trade, and the discovery of oil would place the Standard in a position to cope in tremendously successful fashion with its great rival in the Far East, the Royal Dutch Shell combine. It is certain that the foreign interests will bring every pressure to bear to restrict the operations of the Standard in Chinese fields.

Some twenty expert oil-well drillers sent out by the Standard have by this time arrived at the scene where the prospect work is to be carried on, and have probably already taken preliminary steps toward the test operations.

The drillers left for Shenshi from Shanghai early last month. They proceeded via Hankow, on the Yangtse River, to Honanfu on the railroad line between Hankow and Peking, and from there about forty days were required to reach the oil fields. Several hundred tons of American oil-drilling machinery, capable of drilling to a depth of 3000 to 4000 feet, were taken along. This machinery came from the United States, and was landed at Taku, near Tientsin, whence it was removed to Honanfu by rail.

The chief refined product in which the local trade will be built up in China is kerosene. Fuel oil and other products would probably be sent to other sections of the world, should crude be discovered in Shenshi.

Big as Ever.

NOT DAUNTED BY THE REVOLUTION.

MANY GREAT WELLS FINISHED IN MEXICO.

First Half of This Year Sees Twenty-four Producers Completed. Royal Dutch-Shell Corona Gusher Yields Nearly Half Big Initial Aggregate Output.

Twenty-four wells, out of thirty-seven completed in Mexico during the first half of this year, came in with an aggregate initial production of 175,000 barrels a day, or an average per well of close to 7000 barrels.

Were the production to be maintained at the rate indicated by these completions for any length of time, California's great output would be surpassed by that of the southern republic. The new wells just mentioned would alone supply about 70,000,000 barrels of oil, and older ones could be made easily to yield enough to make up the remainder of a hundred-odd million barrels necessary to exceed the record of this State.

Nearly all the big wells which came in the first half of this year have been shut in to the utmost. The great Royal-Dutch-Shell gusher, La Corona No. 5, which began producing early in the year over 100,000 barrels daily, and nearly as high as 200,000 barrels at times, has been checked, until it is doing only a little over 1000 barrels a day.

The La Corona well ranks as the greatest which was brought in during the first six-months' period. Other notable completions were the National Oil Company's No. 1 Chijol, whose initial output was 20,000 barrels; Freeport and Mexican Fuel Oil Corporation's No. 3 Zurita, which produced at the start 20,000 barrels daily; Mexican Eagle's No. 4 Los Naranjos, 10,000 barrels daily; Vera Cruz Mexican Oil Syndicate's No. 5 Peralzta, 5000 barrels.

Thirteen dry holes were drilled. The field which recorded the greatest number of completions and the largest wells was Panuco. The Mexican Eagle Company (Lord Cowdray's) completed the most wells of any single company. The Royal-Dutch-Shell combine secured, however, the largest initial production of any single concern.

Shipments of crude oil from Mexican ports, as given by the Oil City Derrick, aggregated 10,650,622 barrels, of which over 8,000,000 barrels were sent to the United States, nearly 2,000,000 to various points in Mexico and the remainder—approximately 100,000 barrels—was divided between South America, England and Panama. Most of the oil transhipped to Mexican ports was sent to the Mexican Eagle refinery at Minatitlan.

The remarkable showing in new wells was made under the most unsatisfactory circumstances, owing to the fact that the Mexican political situation, especially in the vicinity of the oil fields, developed some of the most threatening aspects it has since the first revolution broke out.

PRODUCTION UP FOR THE MONTH.

GAIN SHOWN IN M'KITTRICK YIELD FOR JUNE.

M'KITTRICK, July 31.—Quite a marked increase in the production of the McKittrick fields is revealed in the final figures for the month of June recently issued, and a showing equally as good is anticipated for the month just ending.

The increase in June over May was 1598 barrels, daily average, the product being 11,505 a day as against 9907 in May. The number of producing wells in the field was 248, or eleven more than in the previous month. The increase in production is ascribed to the fact that wells recently have been redrilled and deepened in the field with good results.

In the Lost Hills-Belridge district, where 242 wells were producing, (six less than in McKittrick field,) the output was 396,442 barrels, an increase of but twenty-three as compared with May. The month witnessed the completion of two rigs, and the drilling of ten, while four wells were finished and one was abandoned. Two hundred and thirty-four wells were producing in May (eight less than in June.) The daily average in June was 13,215 barrels, and that for the month of May, 13,192. Lost Hills and Belridge may show a falling off for the past month, owing to the drop in light-oil prices.

The physical properties of the companies in the McKittrick field are in better condition than ever before. The same is true of Belridge and Lost Hills fields, where, considering the difficulties encountered in their earlier development, the outcome has been good. The principal operators in the Belridge field are the Belridge Oil Company, the Standard, the General Petroleum and the Mannell-Minor companies. The leading concerns in the Lost Hills field are the Universal, the Standard, the Associated, the Dudley & Dudley, the Lost Hills Development Company and the General Petroleum Company.

PASADENA, Aug. 1.—Among the most artistic of the smaller houses in the Oak Knoll district of Pasadena, is the nine-room residence, being constructed by the G. Lawrence Stimson Company, on South Molino avenue, for Mrs. Shirley Vance Martin.

Of a pure colonial type, both the exterior and the interior will follow the best examples of old New England farmhouses. Mahogany and white enamel will be used in the finish of the hall, the dining-rom and the upper chambers, while mahogany and green will be used as a finish for the living-room. The house will have two baths and two large sleeping porches.

The exterior finish will be in white with green blinds and roof. The house is being built on beautiful grounds which will be improved and made more attractive when the residence is completed.

NORMAL DEMAND FOR ACREAGE.

PORTERVILLE, August 1.—Increasing confidence marks the tone of the realty market of the Porterville district, and according to the dealers, the demand is normal for this period of the year. All brokers are looking forward with confidence to a busy fall market. Deals for the past week were varied in character and included a wide range of property.

Charles L. Bullard and H. S. Harrison, both of Los Angeles, have received deeds for property recently acquired by them from W. E. Sprott and others in the Monache district east of the city limits. The tract includes forty acres of orange land, on which improvements have already been started. The consideration has not been given out.

C. F. Clinton, formerly of Nebraska, where he has been in the railroad business, and who more recently was a resident of Los Angeles, has purchased from P. F. Hobart an eighty-acre tract of general purpose land near the Deer Creek district. The property includes about thirty acres of improved alfalfa. Clinton has taken up his residence on the place and will this fall set out forty acres of walnuts.

H. F. Olmsted, recently from Los Angeles, has purchased from J. H. van Emon twenty-five acres of orange land in the Strathmore district. The property brought approximately $200 per acre. It is to be improved.

John Hinkle of the Poplar district has sold to H. S. Williams of this city, his eighty-acre alfalfa ranch one mile from the Poplar store. Hinkle plans to make his future home in Pasadena. Williams will make his home on the ranch and will start a series of improvements.

NEW VERMONT SQUARE.

Sales of houses in New Vermont Square, are reported as follows: Wilber Scholes to F. L. MacDonald, seven-room bungalow, No. 1937 West Forty-first street, $4000; Murray P. Coover to Charles A. Stromberg, six-room bungalow, No. 1946 West Forty-third place, $2700; Paul H. Muskat to Mrs. C. Jackman, seven-room chalet, No. 1854 West Forty-third place, $3800; Dan Klein to A. N. Wayne, seven-room bungalow, No. 1847 West Forty-third street, $3850; C. A. Harshbarger to Maud Krieger, seven-room bungalow at No. 4107 Van Ness avenue, $4200, and Seben Schultz to Z. H. Harris, six-room bungalow, No. 1807 West Forty-third street, $3500.

RENEWED ACTIVITY.

With the paving of National boulevard to the city limits of Santa Monica, the improvement of Fremont avenue and the announcement of the Santa Monica City Council that Ballona avenue, which connects Fremont avenue with National boulevard, also is to be paved at once, renewed activity in sales of National Boulevard Heights property, lying just outside of Santa Monica, is being manifested, according to Robert Marsh & Co., owners of the tract. Recent purchasers of half-acre lots in the tract are reported as follows: E. H. Skinner, $1500; C. S. Lindberg, $1250, and Dr. W. O. Henry, $1500.

NEW BUNGALOWS.

Three new houses are in process of construction on the North Lankershim Irrigated Farms tract of the Janss Investment Company. H. L. Miller has almost completed a bungalow costing approximately $1500; W. N. Taylor is finishing a similar place and preparing to occupy a new house.

FOURTEEN NEW HOMES.

In Ramona Acres and Ramona Acres Annex during the past three months, fourteen new houses ranging in cost from $1500 upward have been erected, according to the Janss Investment Company, which is marketing the subdivision. Among the recent builders are A. L. Hoffman, H. K. Goode, O. L. Blackman, H. J. Payne, W. C. Kimble, F. M. Baker, R. Minech, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Bishop and J. Skinner.

Sugar-Growing in Peru.

[The Argonaut:] Heavy production of sugar cane to the acre is one of the surprises of Peru. Where it is grown the land is level and planting is an easy matter. When the cane reaches the height of two feet further attention in regard to cultivation is said to be unnecessary, and in from eighteen to twenty-four months maturity is reached. That the growth is luxurious may be known from the fact that an average crop of forty tons an acre is obtained, while sixty and even seventy tons is not uncommon. In other sugar-growing countries, including Cuba, twenty-four tons per acre are considered a good average, according to sugar experts.

the nature of an accommodation to all concerned.

"One thing we do expect to accomplish, however, and that will be to nip in the bud the efforts of the crooks to unload mountain tops, irreclaimable desert wastes and submerged coast lands on unsuspecting purchasers. Personally, I think that will be the most important business of the board in its efforts to protect the city's guests from imposition and robbery. Visitors to the appraisement bureau will be given straight tips as to the character of all shady operators and all shady operations, even before the law takes a hand.

"We expect also to wage war on misleading and fraudulent advertising and to hit hard at all forms of fake publicity. The launching of a crooked advertising campaign will be for the board the signal to institute criminal proceedings. This is promising a whole lot, but the public may rest assured that we mean business. It is our ambition, aim and purpose to put the real estate business in Los Angeles once and for all time on a high professional plane."

THE CONSERVATIVE CHINESE.

Fail to Understand How the Government Can Be Run by the People Without an Emperor.

[New York World:] The peace-loving nature of the Chinese and the indifference of the general Chinese population living away from the larger commercial cities is well illustrated by a story which K. H. Cheng, secretary of the Board of Communications, relates.

Last year the then Minister of War, Wang Sze Cheng, traveled into the interior to meet a certain general; he alighted at Shia Chia Chang, on the Hankow-Peking Railway, and took a cart to reach the appointed place.

As they jogged quietly along the country road the driver broke the silence and inquired where his passenger came from. On learning it was from Peking, he followed this up by asking, "Where is the Emperor?"

The Minister of War replied, "Oh, we now have a republic."

"But what is the meaning of a republic?"

"A republic means that the country is now governed by the people."

"But," inquired the driver, "how can the people govern? They all have their own work to do."

The Minister tried to explain, but the driver continued: "A country without an Emperor is like a shop without a boss and without business. If every one governs, then every one is like the Emperor and we have no one to look up to."

After considerable talk of this nature the Minister gave up in despair the task of explaining and said: "The Emperor is too young to rule; he is only a baby, and we have sent him away to be educated."

The cart driver persisted, and said: "But why send him away? Before we had no trouble; now we have nothing but trouble."

This illustrates the attitude of the bulk of the Chinese people toward politics, and also their one desire to be let alone in peace.

The Chinese have no ideograph for the word "republic," and in their written word it takes several ideographs to explain it.

ANCIENT IRRIGATION.

The Original Garden of Eden Is Said to Have Been the Result of an Artificial Plan of Irrigation.

[Washington Star:] American pride in the great reclamation projects, through which the desert has been made to "bloom like the rose" and turned into the habitation of man, was given a great and rude shock recently when an eminent Englishman, Sir William Willcocks, visiting Washington to learn about Yankee methods of irrigation, told the government engineers that the original garden of Eden was the result of an artificial plan of irrigation, just as scientific and correct from an engineering standpoint as the plans for the government's largest reclamation projects in the West.

Sir William, whose fame rests upon the building of the great Assouan Dam, in Egypt, where he has turned the lands of the Pharoahs back to their original fertility, has been recently engaged by the Turkish government in reclaiming ancient Mesopotamia. The success of the English engineer in Egypt caused the Turkish government to loosen its purse strings to the extent of $75,000,000, and the work is now under way in sections. The English irrigation expert and his engineers have made a careful survey of Mesopotamia, and have discovered parts of an ancient system of irrigation so well preserved that some of the canals are to be used in the new project after the mud of centuries is taken out.

It was while on this survey that Sir William found what he believes to be the location of the traditional garden of Eden, with full equipment of irrigation canals. He explained to the engineers of the reclamation service and other government officials that the Garden of Eden could not have been a garden at all without the irrigation system.

The supposed location of the garden is surrounded by a wall or dike two feet high, with openings for the canals. The English engineer said that during high water in the rivers Euphrates and Tigris the dike kept the water from flooding the garden and in the dry season the gates were open and the water entered the canals.

In this irrigation work in Mesopotamia Sir William will have to meet many problems similar to those which have been conquered by the government's engineers in the West, and the purpose of his visit to this country is to make a thoroughgoing investigation of what Uncle Sam has done in his line of engineering. While traveling over the western irrigation projects this summer the distinguished English visitor will serve the United States Reclamation Service as consulting engineer whenever he is called upon for advice.

THE WONDERS IN INVENTIONS.

Experiments that Many Have Tried Gave Wonderful Results When an Inquiring Mind Was Aroused.

[National Geographic Magazine:] Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor, told a class of young students at Washington the other day about putting his head under water and striking two stones together beneath the surface. "It sounded as if a man were hammering for all he was worth at my very ear."

Next he sent a boy a mile away to strike the stones, and "the signals came perfectly clear and distinct."

In these little facts, and the other fact that sound goes over 5000 feet a second through water to its 1000 feet through air, lay for somebody the germ of the submarine bell signals used on ships.

Now, in exploring the earth's surface as it lies under deep waters, a great deal of time and labor is expended merely in ascertaining the depth.

"Why," asks Prof. Bell, "should we not send down a sound instead and listen for an echo from the bottom?"—thus accomplishing in four seconds a work now taking sometimes more than four hours.

And we should learn by the shorter method something of the nature of things below. "A flat bottom should yield a single sharp return, whereas an undulating bottom should yield a multiple echo, like that heard when you fire a pistol among hills."

Prof. Bell then gave an account, which is here condensed, of an invention founded on a smell:

First, a chemist detected in sulphuric acid waste an odor which on analysis was found to come from a hitherto unknown substance. This was called silenium.

Second, silenium crystallized was found to be a conductor of electricity of phenomenally high resistance.

Third, the new resistant, having been put to use in place of whole coils of wire to balance the Atlantic cable during the period of laying, was found to have at night twice its resisting power of the daytime.

Fourth, Prof. Bell, playing upon silenium's sensitiveness to light, produced the photophone, by means of which one may talk over a beam of light.

Speaking of the possibility of making the trans-Atlantic trip by areoplane, Prof. Bell did not venture upon prophecy. He did, however, mention the fact that a flying machine flies faster the higher it mounts, the resistance being less in rarified air and the propeller more rapid.

"A fifty-mile-an-hour machine flying two miles high will fly much faster than fifty miles an hour. Besides, at that height a twenty-five to fifty-mile breeze blows in the general direction of Europe.

"Calculation shows that, taking all these circumstances into consideration, our best machines should be able to cross the Atlantic in thirteen hours."

Cottonseed Flour as Food.

[Youth's Companion:] According to Prof. George S. Fraps, State Chemist of Texas, cottonseed flour may be a wholesome food for man when used in small amounts to replace meat or to reinforce a diet poor in flesh food; yet it is probable that not more than two or three ounces of cottonseed flour should be consumed in one day. He also says that "only experience and experiment can tell us the part that cottonseed flour should play in nutrition, and under what conditions it may prove unwholesome." Chemists are now studying the effect of the addition of cottonseed meal to the diet. If their reports favor its use, the world may obtain a new and inexpensive food, the source of which is virtually inexhaustible.

A VOLCANO IN ACTION.

Colima, the "Old Faithful" of Craters, Explodes Once a Year, and Usually Without Much Warning.

[Montreal Herald and Star:] It is singular how indifferent to a persistently threatened danger human beings can become. Harry H. Dunn tells of a case in which a whole townful of people lie under the constant threat of extinction by a volcano.

The roof of the little box-like hotel in Colima was freshly drenched with water in a vain effort to fight off some of September's heat. I think there were eighteen of us gathered there in the cool, gray night. The almost silent town lay like a black and white checkerboard at our feet.

Twenty miles away, across a valley still green with the rains of summer, rose a conical mountain, almost solitary. Even by night it looked sinister; by day it was terrible, with its barren, lava-coated sides, its gas-exuding cone shunned even by the vultures which haunted mountain and plain. It was the volcano of Colima, the "Old Faithful" of craters, which explodes regularly once a year—and it was almost due for an exhibition.

"He should begin soon," droned the hotel-keeper. "Maybe today, maybe tomorrow, maybe not for a week, but it is the middle of September, and it is his time."

The old man had scarcely finished, when a bubble, black as night, crowded itself out of the broken end of the mountain which we knew was a pot of molten stone, twenty miles away. The bubble, so dark that we could see it plainly, swelled like a growing puff-ball, and then, pushed out from below, rose like a giant umbrella, with incredible speed, into the sky. Behind it came a straight tubular column of smoke, such smoke as that of which the bubble was made; black and thick and ominous.

Up, up, up, rose the bubble, riding, it seemed, on the column below it. It appeared to hang, like a huge blanket, a thousand feet in the heavens; then, slowly, like some great octopus feeling its way along the bed of the sea, the bubble flattened and began to spread out. Probably it moved miles every minute, but it was far away, and so monstrous that we could not judge it by ordinary standards.

It seemed that the town below us heaved a long sigh. The thing for which its 10,000 or 12,000 inhabitants had been waiting was about to happen; the mighty drama was about to be enacted before their eyes, as it was before the Spanish conquistadores set foot on Mexican soil. Yet to them the spectacle was ever exciting, for its end might be death, might be destruction of their town, as it had been the destruction of the many smaller towns clustered more closely round the skirts of the gloomy peak.

The roofs filled with people. Here and there a woman screamed; many, both men and women, prayed; querulous cries and questions from children rose on the night air, and the bells in the churches began to ring, slowly at first, and then more rapidly as the fire god began to play about the crest of Colima. Like a waterspout on the crest of a lofty roller at sea, the smoke column and its spreading top rested for a moment on the volcano, and then, with a thunderous outrush of air, which must have been heard for at least a hundred miles, vanished into thin air. A column of fire took their place.

No ordinary fire was this; no flame ever kindled by human hands burned so white as that tower of luminous bits of lava and sand and stone and superheated gases that shot upward from the mouth of the crater. I gazed at it spellbound, as the light of day spread round, all over the valley and the city. A constant roar came from the volcano, a roar so insistent, so monotonous, that I could not hear what the old hotel-keeper who stood at my elbow was saying. I bent my ear to him and heard, "Not so bad as last year; mayhap we shall not be harmed."

A MANY-NAMED POTENTATE.

The Maharajah of Bikaner Can Answer to Ten Cognomens and Has the Alphabet After His Name.

[Chicago Journal:] If you should have occasion to address a letter to the Maharajah of Bikaner the proper form would be: Colonel His Highness Rai Rajeshwar Narendra Shiromani Sri Sir Ganga Singh Bahadur, Maharajah of Bikaner, Bikaner, Rajputana, India. If you like you may add to his name the magic letters G. C. I. B. K. G. S. I., K. C. I. E. and A. D. C. (If there is room on the envelope.)

The Maharajah rules, with the assistance of British officials, over a country 22,000 square miles in extent. Bikaner is in Rajputana, south of the Punjab, and has a population of about 1,000,000. While the Maharajah is surrounded by grandeur and pomp, most of his subjects are desperately poor. They live chiefly by pasturage, breeding camels and horses that are famed throughout India. The Maharajah's army consists of 1097 men, of whom 371 are mounted on camels and 119 on horses.

His Highness was born in 1860, and succeeded to the throne at the age of 7, although he was not invested with full ruling powers until his eighteenth birthday. He served with the British army in China, in command of the famous Bikaner Camel corps, for which he was decorated. He was also awarded a decoration for his public service in India, following the great famine of 1899-1900. The Maharajah is well educated and a thorough sportsman. Polo, tennis and motoring, as well as big-game shooting, are among his recreations.

New Jersey has a population of 324 people to the square mile.

If California becomes as densely populated as is Massachusetts there will be more than 64,000,000 people within its boundaries.

If California, with its opportunities, its resources, its undeveloped land, should house even one-tenth as many people in proportion as does Massachusetts, what will a good Los Angeles lot be worth then?

PROTECTS DEAD RICH MEN.

Frederick H. Goff Tells What Should Be Done by Men Having Large and Small Fortunes to Care for Wives, Sons and Daughters. Founds Remarkable Institution at Cleveland.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLEVELAND (O.) July 29.—A careful man, looking on spendthrifts with contempt, can throw all of his money away after he is dead. This, in the language of Frederick H. Goff, is the squandering of a fortune by a hand that is in the tomb. Shrouds, then, do have pockets.

Mr. Goff is a great lawyer. His income, before he became a banker, so rumor runs in Cleveland, amounted to $175,000 a year. Wealthy men and corporations, it is needless, perhaps, to say, were his clients. Millionaires and multi-millionaires, incidentally, had him write their wills.

Now a will is an arbitrary instrument, so long as it is unbroken by the court. Its order must be obeyed, though conditions, persons and families change after the maker of it is in the grave. He would have done thus and so were he living, those who knew him ,are sure, but he is dead, leaving behind him precise directions which cannot be invalidated. His property, accumulated by economy and labor, therefore, is often unwisely or unjustly spent.

Neither in the law nor out of it is Mr. Goff a technical and unimaginative man. He thinks for himself and is scornful at times of precedents. "Such is the common sense of this case," Chief Justice Marshall used to say. "Brother Story will quote the law as it is found in the books." Mr. Goff belongs to the John Marshall type of constructive pioneers.

Immense fortunes have been amassed in Cleveland. Some of them are being dissipated under wills of the conventional character. Money is running into the ditch. Mr. Goff saw the waste and thought out a plan which not only gives a rich man the assurance that his property will be used for the purpose he intends it shall be used but, come what may, that it will always be of the widest possible service to the community in which he lives.

WRITER OF WILLS FOR RICH.

It was a revolutionary conception of a prudently bold and original thinker. Furthermore, it perpetuates in living men the affectionate care, the forgiving spirit, the disciplinary attitude and the good judgment of the dead husband or father. Sons cannot pervert their patrimony. Daughters cannot be robbed by fortune hunters. Wives are protected against schemers and speculators.

"While a lawyer, writing wills for men of large means," Mr. Goff said to me, "I came to understand some matters of great importance that I had never thought of before, except professionally. I began, for example, to get to the roots of the subject relating to the disposal of rich estates. Men were growing wealthy all about me and, dying, were distributing their property unscientifically, which means harmfully and inefficiently.

"Fortunes gained by genius and honest effort were piled up, only to be misused after the death of those who possessed them. In this country, fortunately, the mind of a rich man does not go forward into posterity any further than his grandchildren. He desires to have his children live in the comfort to which they have been accustomed and he may be very fond of his grandchildren, but usually his affection stops with them. He has no family pride in the sense that he is vain over his name and desires to endow unborn generations who may bear it.

"Making his will, he provides for his wife and children and possibly for his children's children. In time he dies. Then many things, which he could not see, may happen. Promoters may impoverish his wife. Good friends, who likely enough, are good but feeble and impractical men, may give her foolish advice. Or she may think she has an able business head of her own. Anyway, she loses her property. An aged woman reduced to poverty after having lived in comfort, is one of the saddest sights that can be imagined. I have known many such women. I have seen them turned from affluence into actual beggary.

THE WRECK OF A FAMILY.

"And the rich man's daughter may marry a man who squanders her inheritance in evil ways of living or by engaging in some sort of business that was foredoomed to failure. So the daughter joins her mother in the destitution that has overtaken the female members of the family.

"Also this man left sons. Each, under the will, is paid his share of the estate. Perhaps the sons are young, with unformed characters. Getting their property, they spend it wildly. Idlers at first, they become drunkards. The whole family is financially wrecked and part of it is wrecked morally.

"The father was a strong character. He was wise in counsel and was feared and respected by his competitors. Doubtless he supposed that his sons would be like their father. Sagacious in all things else, he was weak and shortsighted, the world says afterwards, when he prepared his will—and signed it.

"Now this strong character likewise left something to charity. After making provision for his family, giving to each member enough on which to live indefinitely, he made a handsome bequest, let us say, to an orphan asylum. But that money, too, by the march of events was wasted.

"I know a wealthy man who enriched his daughters by his will and then bestowed the remainder of his estate on four hospitals—giving it to them in perpetuity. Now hospitals are a great blessing in any community, but they are human institutions and subject to the same mutations as humanity. One of the hospitals of which I am speaking, as I know, will eventually be abundantly provided for by the wills of two of the richest men in the United States. Over-endowment, obviously, is waste. The future of the other three hospitals is in doubt. One of them, at least, if it were to burn down, would not be rebuilt. But part of the money goes directly, and forever, you understand, to that particular institution.

DEAD HAND WASTES MONEY.

"This, as I term it, is the management of an estate by a dead hand. Men die and the whole face of things changes after they are gone. A Cuban or Panaman might have left $5,000,000 for building and maintaining a hospital for the treatment of yellow fever patients only, never dreaming that science would find the mosquito that caused the spread of the disease and would destroy the mosquito. Here again would have been waste and mismanagement by a dead hand.

"The incongruity and folly of despotically saying exactly what shall be done with one's accumulations after one's death are apparent to all who give the question intelligent examination. I saw that property gained by toil, self-sacrifice and ability, in many cases, was being frittered away—property, too, that was intended for the use of the public. We were conserving coal, iron and lumber and letting accumulated wealth, the finished product of labor, zeal and talent, drain away to no good purpose. The evil hurts the beneficiaries and society in general.

"Every one knows that turning money over to an idle and intemperate son is only to push him deeper into degradation. Giving it to women who cannot take care of it brings them woe and wretchedness. And all the time the husband and father of such unfortunate persons meant to be thoughtful, prudent and generous. Even the residuum of his estate, as I have shown, is frequently unwisely expended on charities which are obsolete or not needed. So, as it will be seen, both the beneficiaries and the public are injured.

"Again take the case of another man who sets aside definite amounts for the members of his family. He gives his sons, his daughters and his wife fixed annuities or the income from specified sums placed in trust. He believes he has eliminated all jeopardy from their future. But a crisis overtakes the family as a whole or certain members of it singly. The yearly annuity is not sufficient. Part of the principal is necessary if disaster is to be averted. The language of the will, however, is unmistakable. The trustee is powerless to change it.

THE STORY OF TWO SONS.

"One daughter may have married well. She requires no more than her inheritance. Another daughter may have a reckless or a worthless husband and a house filled with children. She needs more than her inheritance. Were the father alive he would, in his affection, reduce the allowance of one and increase the allowance of the other. But he is in his grave and the last word from him is found written in his will and testament. In such an instance as this, one of the beneficiaries suffers.

"As to the sons, one of them was a drunkard. The father cut him off entirely or with only a small sum. Everyone at the time praised the father's good sense and strength of character. But the son, coming to himself, changes the plan of his life and turns out to be a sober, useful and successful man. The will, however, reads exactly as it did when he was a sordid vagabond and a human failure.

"The second son, a joy to his father, may meet with business reverses. Fifty thousand dollars from the principal of the family estate might permit him to ride out the storm that has overtaken him. He is a good man and an able man, but a voice from the tomb denies him assistance. Here two beneficiaries of the will are injured.

"Tragedies like these, coming to my own notice, set me to thinking as I have said, about the disposal of property by men of wealth. The dead hand, I saw, should be lifted from all matters of the present. I wrote wills, when I could, which gave trustees more freedom in the management of property placed in their custody—to use the principal, if necessary, for the well being of the family; to protect wives and daughters when necessary; to deal justly with sons who proved themselves worthy; to restrain sons who were unfit to handle their inheritance.

TRIED TO MAKE WILLS HUMAN.

"In short, I endeavored to write wills which, in the persons of the trustees, would continue the counsel and conduct of the men making them. I sought to humanize such documents, to prevent waste; to say to a young fellow drawing $5000 a year: 'You will be reduced to $50 a month or less—go to work, quit drinking, be serious, and, having shown your manhood, you will be justly treated.'

"On being elected president of a trust company, I brought my ideas into my new relations. I saw, however, that while the board of directors of a bank, meeting around a mahogany table, might be competent to deal with persons and families, that they would hardly take the broad view required in the disposal of the residuum of an estate set aside for public purposes. They are too much alike, you understand, in their opinions and prejudices.

"Now, I have had my own contests, as a lawyer representing large interests, with the people. Experience has proved to me that the people were as often in the right as I was. Therefore, I have learned to respect the plain people, among whom I was born and to whom I belong by tradition.

"As I worked out my idea for the conservation of wealth, I saw that it would not do to omit the people from the plan I hoped to carry out in one form or another. The directors of the bank could properly administer the affairs of an estate, but the revenues intended for public uses should be apportioned, it seemed to me, by a more representative agency.

"There came into my life, as the idea grew, the thought of a permanent foundation, the property and funds of which should be managed by the bank's directors and the income of which should be spent by a committee acting for the bank and the public. If that were done, I believe, all charities, educational enterprises and civic needs would be judged on their merits. That, in the rough, is the genesis, as well as the object of what is now known as the Cleveland Foundation.

PLEDGES FOR $30,000,000.

"I called in and counseled with a large number of men—manufacturers, merchants, bankers, editors, uplifters, reformers, labor leaders and so on. They all agreed that the scheme was sound and workable. Wealthy men were enthusiastic. They saw a safe and rational way of disposing of the property they purposed to leave for the benefit of the public. "'A century hence,' I said, privately, 'the fund will amount to $100,000,000.'

"My associates in the bank thought that I was entirely too sanguine. Consequently, I reduced my prophecy to $50,000,000. Well, inside of ninety days after the details of the foundation were made known we had pledges totaling $30,000,000. We shall have $50,000,000 in five years, I think, and $100,000,000 within twenty-five years, and possibly very much sooner.

"The sum we obtain, whether it is larger or smaller than my expectation, is to be given the foundation by men who, having made ample provision for their families, desire to devote the remainder of their fortunes to the uses of the public. The foundation makes the accumulation of wealth respectable by insuring the usefulness of that wealth. It makes it honorable for a man to build up a fortune in the community becau provides the means for the retur that fortune as a whole or in for the permanent service of community.

"Five persons—and sex is no q fication—constitute the comm which is to distribute the incom the foundation. Two are to be ch by the directors of the bank, one be chosen by the Mayor of Cleve one by the Probate judge and one the judge of the United States trict Court. Members of the com tee are to serve without comp tion. Not more than two of th and preferably but one of them, belong to the same religious den nation. A new member is to into the committee every year. fice-holders and office-seekers disqualified altogether. The m bers of the committee must be dents of Cleveland and informed cerning the social, civic, educa moral and charitable needs of t city.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Reddle.

JUNCTION (Ariz.) July 4.—Q.: By even mail, in other container, find sample of ore. This ore occurs in a peculiar way. It comes in as a lead, right in center of ledge; then loses itself, and in a few feet further sinking, comes in again. The claim from which it was taken is within eleven miles of Junction. What I particularly desire to know is whether this is some kind of copper ore; copper oxide, for instance? L. W.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The sample carries no copper. It is impure iron peroxide in opaque masses of a brick-red color. It soils the fingers and marks paper like red chalk. The streak of the mineral is more shining than the mineral. Fracture dull and earthy. It sticks to the tongue and gives off a clay-like odor when breathed upon. In water it falls into powder like Fuller's earth. Sp. gr. 1.55.

This variety of hematite is frequently used as a "marker," and it is good material for crayons. The sample is of sufficient purity (when ground to impalpable powder and washed) for use in polishing optical glasses, and so forth.

Dirt.

LOS ANGELES, July 4.—Q.: Please find sample in bottle, with my initials on paper, and paper pinned to the cork. J. R. L.

A.: The sample is mixed earth, aluminum silicate, three rusty pins, and a quantity of yellow mica mixed with pyrite traces, and which pyrite and mica might be confused with gold. Gold absent.

Magnetic Iron.

VICKSBURG (Ariz.) July 5.—Q.: I send you a sample of ore from near Vicksburg, and I would like to have you test it for tungsten. T. E. B.

Proustite.

LAKEVIEW, July 5.—Q.: I have a claim near Pluto Mountain that is down thirty-four feet, and the returns I have on assays show that the ore is silver-lead, but so far the ledge is narrow, and high-grade comes in narrow seams. I send you a sample of ore that carries silver, and it is from a half-inch seam. It comes in once in a while and peters out to nothing. Has this rock a name, and if so please name it? I would thank you to give me short field tests for silver. M. D.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The sample is named at the sub-heading. There are two varieties of "ruby silver," one of them is known as Pyrargyrite; it is of a darker red color than Proustite, and carries some 22 per cent. antimony. Proustite is of a lighter red color than Pyrargyrite; it is more transparent, and carries approximately 15 per cent. of arsenic. Both varieties of ruby silver carry approximately 60 per cent. silver. In composition Pyrargyrite is sulphide of silver and antimony, and that of Proustite is sulphide of silver and arsenic. Ruby silver is a rarely-found substance.

There are a great number of tests for silver. With the blow-pipe (on charcoal) silver sulphides yield metallic silver; proustite giving off arsenical fumes, and pyrargyrite antimonial fumes. Pyrargyrite is soluble in nitric acid, and without effervescence.

Chloride and sulphide of silver should be reduced to powder; the powdered ore mixed with one-third its weight of common salt, and then given a good sweet roast on a piece of sheet-iron. When the roasted ore is cold add some quicksilver and water. Silver amalgam is the product (when the amalgam is squeezed through chamois skin) and by driving off the mercury from the amalgam with heat, metallic silver is obtained.

Lead-silver ore can be tested by solution in nitric acid. Add chips of metallic copper to the solution, and the silver will fall to the bottom of the container. Salt water added to the solution instead of metallic copper forms a curdled mass of silver chloride.

The nitric acid solution of a copper-silver ore, to which is added (as a test) hydrochloric acid, yields a precipitate of silver chloride, and silver chloride turns to a blackish mass in sunlight quickly.

To a solution of a silver salt hydrochloric acid, or other soluble chloride, is added, a white, curdy precipitate of chloride of silver is obtained.

Some metals displace silver from solutions. The silver tree (Arbor Dianae) is formed by adding mercury to the silver solution.

Quartz.

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—Q.: Ore from Camp Orange, Humboldt county, Nevada. Please test. J. B.

A.: Iron oxides present. Free gold absent. This ore should be assayed for gold.

Not Radioactive.

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) July 7.—I am sending you by today's mail piece of rock found close to Searchlight and toward the California line. Think it may contain Carnotite?

A.: The sample proves to be a piece of altered limonite (probably). The botryoidal forms of the yellow matter are chiefly ferrous and ferric oxides. Uranium absent.

Lime Carbonate.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Q.: Enclosed I send you three samples of ore sent to me by man who did the assessment work on my claims in Esmeralda county, Nevada, and taken from 150 feet depth from crosscut after blasting through ten feet of very hard gray limestone (probably a horse in ledge or the casing of the ledge proper) and reporting a change in formation, Nos. 1 and 2 from seams, and No. 3 from face of tunnel. Proposition is a contact of lime-porphyry, for which I am prospecting. Values in copper, silver, lead and gold. Zinc, too. Kindly inform me through your columns the indications of samples. Next time when I go up there to finish my work I expect to send you something worth while to look at. Thanking you for past favors as well as present. K. L.

A.: Glad to hear from you, and hope you will find not only something worth while to look at, but that something will be of commercial value also.

The samples are: No. 1 altered limestone with trace of lead and trace of phosphoric acid. No. 2 is in the order of No. 1. No. 3 is lime carbonate, quartz present; trace of lead, and phosphoric acid, a trace of each.

Fine Specimens.

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—Q.: I am interested in mining. At times I find lots of samples that I would like to know just what they are. I have followed your "In the Earth" column ever since it was started, but never had to send you samples until this time to help out. I now send some ore from near Twin Buttes, Utah, and this ore was supposed to be tungsten ore, but an analyst of Salt Lake City reports tungsten none. This sample, consisting of two ores I mark on card as No. 1. No. 2 comes from a ledge south of Seven Troughs, Nev., and no one can tell me what it is; some say copper, others call it aluminum ore, and still others call it greenstone; has it any value? What is it? No. 3 is an ore that was taken from a mine south of Courthouse, Utah, and the crystals in the ore "get me" badly. If not too much trouble I will thank you if you tell me something about the samples. C. L. T.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No sample of No. 1 carries tungsten. The larger of the two specimens is a mixture of hematite with ilmenite, and the small specimen is anglesite (lead sulphate.) No. 2 is a radiated variety of vivianite (hydrous iron phosphate) and it is of a deep blue color; streak bluish. Luster pearly and vitreous; opaque; thin laminae flexible. Hardness 1.75. Sp. gr. 2.66. Vivianite fuses before the blowpipe easily; the fused globule is magnetic, and the flame is colored green. Approximately, phosphoric pentoxide is present in the sample 30 per cent. No. 3 is lead vanadate. The practical way to find commercial values is to offer samples to those who deal in the different varieties of ore and mineral represented by samples.

Tetrahedrite.

SAN DIEGO, July 10.—Q.: I send you today by mail, small sack of mineral taken from 100-foot shaft near here. What is this mineral called, and what does it contain? Has such mineral been found in large quantities? I.

A.: Tetrahedrite (gray copper of the mining boys) occurs in a great many varieties, and the term "gray copper" is often applied to mineral that carries bare trace of copper only.

Tetrahedrite (fahlerz) is found at many mining localities, and owing to its zinc, antimony, and other deleterious substances, there is usually a "penalty" attached to such ores by the smelters.

The sample is somewhat altered and carries antimony, iron, copper, sulphur, zinc, and arsenic. Lime present, and the values named are found in the sample chiefly as sulphides. Iridescent, "peacock iron" present. Not tested for gold or silver.

Carbonates.

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—Q.: Please test the samples, Nos. 1 to 6, and give results in the usual column. The samples are from a new locality in Nevada, and not very far from the Idaho-Nevada State line. T. McD.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is a light brown volcanic glass, it is a very handsome specimen, and it it furthermore known as marekinite. No. 2 is lead-carbonate ore; gold and silver present, and it very much resembles the "carbonate ore" of the Resurrection mine of Big Evans Gulch, near Leadville, Colo. No. 3 is also lead carbonate, but the lead in this sample is crystallized cerussite, and it is of large (cube) whitish crystals. No. 4 is zinc silicate (Smithsonite) in part. The zinc present occurs in attached crystals of a light-gray color, and are transparent. Of adamantine luster, white streak, uneven fracture, brittle, becomes phosphorescent when rubbed, and the sample is pyroelectric. It is partly soluble in acids, and from the solution a silicious jelly separates which is soluble (nearly all) in potassium hydroxide. No. 5 is opal, and it comes mighty near to the variety Girasol (fire opal.) No. 6 is ribbon jasper.

LINE COMPLETED.

El Segundo Now Has Direct Communication with Los Angeles by Way of Pacific Electric.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL SEGUNDO, Aug. 1.—The new railway line connecting El Segundo with Los Angeles has just been completed, and it is expected that the first car will be run over the route today. On Sunday, August 9, a monster barbecue will be held at El Segundo in formal celebration of the event. Excursion trains will be run from the Pacific Electric station over the new line to El Segundo. The programme of events will include a ball game and other festivities. The completion of the new line gives El Segundo two car routes, one by way of the Redodndo-Playa del Rey line, and the other the new line from the Pacific Electric station direct to El Segundo by way of Hawthorne. The Pacific Electric Company will erect a depot at El Segundo on a site donated by the El Segundo Land and Improvement Company.

WILL BE A FREAKY WORLD.

Scientists Declare That Girls Are Growing Taller Than Men and That Everybody Will Be Mad.

[Chicago Tribune:] A freaky place pthis world will be in some 300 years or so if the predictions of scientists come near being fulfilled.

Statistics show lately that girls are putting on weight right along and growing taller with a rapidity which has never been observed before. And, according to all indications, it seems that in the somewhat distant future the "females of the species" will be much taller than the "male." One of the main reasons ascribed to this development is the growing love of sports and outdoor exercises on the part of women. They have more time to devote to sports while the men are busy pursuing their business interests.

Careful investigation by the British Association spread over a lengthy period shows that girls of 13 nowadays are taller than the boys of the same age. The most striking development of the girls takes place between the eleventh and thirteenth years. Before that the boys and girls are generally about equal.

The late Dr. Forbes Winslow, a specialist in mental diseases, held that the increase in lunacy was so great that we would all be a mad race in 300 years or so. But he also thought that it was possible that the mad world might give way in time to a race of geniuses—a state of affairs, however, which, in some people's minds, would be just as mad as the mad era preceding it.

PLANS HOTEL.

CULVER CITY, Aug. 1.—Work is moving forward rapidly on the new Pacific Electric Depot, and plans are practically completed for a tourist hotel, which, it is stated, will be built on the triangle bounded by Washington boulevard, Del Rey and Main streets by B. F. Field. The building, it is reported, will follow the Spanish style, having white cement exterior and red tile roof. Field has already erected two brick buildings in Culver City. The handsome English villa home that is being erected for Harry H. Culver at the corner of Delmas Terrace and Washington boulevard is nearing completion.

ADD TO TRACT.

The Campbell-Bentley Company reports the opening of a new addition to Cliffton-by-the-Sea. The tract is near the Cliffton clubhouse, the Sea Gull Inn and the 100-foot esplanade that skirts the shore bluffs of the property. The addition was opened, it is announced by the company, on account of the success that has attended the marketing of the original plat, in which a large number of lots have been sold to builders of homes. It is stated that the improvements made to date at Cliffton-by-the-Sea represent a total investment of about $380,000. These include streets, concrete walks, curbs, tree-lined drives, sewers, gas and water mains and attractive buildings.

THE SUDDENNESS OF THINGS.

Flashes of Mind, Spirit and of Lightning Are the Result of an Immutable and Slowly Working Law.

[London Times:] The mind is often said to be illuminated by a sudden idea, or the will to come to a sudden resolution. The suddenness is not only apparent to the onlooker; it is felt by the subject himself, when light seems to flash into his mind, or his will to determine itself on an instant. He may talk of inspiration, meaning the unrelated act of some power outside himself. Just so we talk of the suddenness of lightning, the suddenness of an earthquake. We imagine earthquakes and lightning flashes as unrelated, independent happenings, and forget that every earthquake and every flash of lightning are the manifestations of an immutable and slowly working law, and could, had men but knowledge enough, have been foretold from the ages.

Things are sudden only because we do not foresee them, and their suddenness is no inherent quality in themselves; it is lent them by our ignorance. The striking of a match may be as sudden as a flash of lightning, and the fall of a pin as sudden as a pistol shot, but in normal conditions they do not make us "jump," because the conditions are the state of our nerves and the relative force of the impact upon our senses. A camel falls suddenly under the last straw, but it is the previous slow piling of all the other straws that is the cause of his broken back. Nothing is, in reality, more sudden than anything else; it is from ourselves, from our lack of comprehension and preparation that the lightning, the earthquake, and the pistol shot borrow their suddenness.

REPORT TELLS OF AURORA DEAL

Details of Goldfield Consolidated Purchase.

Earnings for Second Quarter Are Given.

High Output Record Made by Tonopah.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) July 31.—Complete information bearing upon the purchase on June 25 last by the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company of 87 per cent., or 592,000 of the 680,000 issued shares, of the Aurora Consolidated Mines Company, operating at Aurora, Mineral county, Nev., is contained in the report of the former corporation for the quarter ending June 30, which was made public today by A. H. Howe, secretary and treasurer of both companies.

The report shows that during the quarter named the production of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company totaled 84,357 tons of ore, giving a net realization of $452,913.71. The production and net profits by months was as follows: April, tons 28,221, net realization $150,764.47; May, tons 30,181, net realization $155,048.55; June, tons 25,955, net realization $147,100.69.

At the time of the consummation of the Aurora Consolidated deal, Goldfield Consolidated paid to the Jesse Knight interests of Utah, the owners, the sum of $388,800 and on July 25 $100,000, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum from June 25. On August 25 and September 25 installments of $100,000 are to be paid, and on October 25 the final installment, $74,211, will be paid. All installments bear 6 per cent. per annum interest from June 25. Continuing, the report, in part, says:

"At the time of the purchase mining and milling equipment, with an estimated capacity of 500 tons per day, was practically completed and ready to run, and there were general mining and milling supplies on hand sufficient for four months' operation, and the company's indebtedness was approximately $65,000.

"Fully developed, four sides, in comparatively small blocks, $417,000; probable ore developed, three sides, in comparatively large blocks, $476,000; total fully and partly developed, $893,000.

"There is good prospect that a large additional tonnage will be developed, indicating a long life for the property. The developed ore has an average gross value of $4.81 per ton, and our engineers estimate a net realization of $1.50, but the ore bodies are large and will be worked on the shrinkage system, which involves the accumulation of a considerable quantity of broken ore in the stopes during the first few months of operation. It is therefore estimated that practically no profit will be made during the first six months and that the net realization for the first year will be about $150,000. After the first year the net income is expected to be about $270,000 per year, or slightly under 30 per cent. on the combined sum of the purchase price and outstanding indebtedness.

"After making the first payment on the Aurora purchase, on June 25, the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company had cash in its treasury of $455,000 and bullion in transit of an estimated value of $154,000. Inasmuch as the company's cash resources at the present time do not admit of a dividend disbursement, it will be omitted."

Jumbo Extension.

Stockholders of the Jumbo Extension Mining Company—next to the Goldfield Consolidated the biggest shipper of the Goldfield district—held their annual meeting at Phoenix, Ariz., a few days ago. The board of directors was re-elected as follows: H. Schwalkert and Robert Byars of New York, Charles S. Sprague, J. K. Turner and Ben Gill of Goldfield. Schwalkert is president and Sprague is vice-president of the company.

The announcement that George Wingfield would be a candidate for State Senator on the Republican ticket attracted a world of attention here, where his interests are so large.

COST OF LUXURIES.

Over Four Billion Dollars a Year Is Estimated to Be the Cost of Extravagance by the American People.

[New York Commercial:] Man, poor man, is constantly charged with extravagance because he uses tobacco in various forms. Woman, lovely women, thinks he should spend that tobacco money on her and she will never admit that she wastes on useless luxuries of a somewhat similar character more money than he does. The American Society for Thrift has compiled some statistics and it charges man with spending on cigars and tobacco about $350,000,000 per year. Women are the chief consumers of candy, soda water and chewing gum and the national waste on these articles exceeds the total expenditure for tobacco products by $87,000,000. Men use some of these articles, but not to the extent to which women consume them, so this may be considered a "stand off" between the sexes. The society estimates that $600,000,000, is spent a year for theaters and moving pictures, etc., and $400,000,000 for tango teas and other amusements of that class. The use of automobiles calls for another $600,000,000, and intoxicating drinks cost the country $1,700,000,000. The sum total of these items of extravagance is $4,087,000,000. Neither sex has a monopoly of wastefulness. We must be the richest people in the world when we are able to spend $40 a head or $200 a family for things we can do without. Half the Old World has to live on less than that.

Insincerity of the Antique Craze.

[World's Work:] Those of us who can afford it steal and borrow and beg the arms, the dress, the emotions of Greece and Rome. Too often we hang their rotting trophies upon our walls, ignorant of their origin, unacquainted with their meaning, and not even sympathetic with the emotions that produced them, bent only upon the paltry respectability that their presence argues.

MILL ASSURED FOR ROCHESTER.

Project Is Financed, Says Company Official.

Belleville District Feels the Mining Revival.

Developments in Sagebrush State Districts.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RENO (Nev.) July 31.—After a year and a half of development work in Rochester mining district, in Humboldt county, the proving of the extent of the ore zone to justify the erection of a mill has resulted in the announcement that the Rochester Mines Company, the parent concern, has completed arrangements for constructing an all-slime cyaniding plant, in the lower town where an abundant water supply is obtainable. It is to cost in the neighborhood of $85,000 and John F. Cowen, president of the Rochester Mines Company, states that financial arrangements have been completed.

A. A. Codd, president of the Rochester Hills Mining Company, is said to have secured a contract to deliver ore from the company's property on Nenzel Mountain, two miles by aerial tram to the mill, at 50 cents per ton.

The development work in the Rochester district has proved the ore bodies to a considerable depth. On the Codd lease, known as Lease No. 2, on Nenzel Mountain, at a depth of 425 feet, the vein shows about nine feet of ore, four feet of which is carrying values around $30 to the ton and the remainder, $10 to $15 a ton. As depth has been obtained in the Codd lease, the vein is freer, softer and not frozen to the talc walls.

The leasers in Rochester district are shipping to the smelter all their higher-grade ore at considerable expense in order to obtain funds with which to continue operations until the erection of the mill. Already over $500,000 in ore has been shipped from the properties on Nenzel Mountain leased from the parent company.

BELLEVILLE CAMP.

In the past two years there has been a revival in many of the old mining camps in Nevada. The latest to feel the effect is the old camp of Belleville, where the late Senator George Nixon was station agent and telegraph operator in the days before he amassed a great fortune in Goldfield. There are thousands of tons of tailings that have been lying idle for years. They are the waste from the old Candelaria mill and were never utilized, as the cyanide process was unknown in those boom days.

Recently processes have been discovered for treating this class of ore and the camp of Belleville, famous in the old days, will see a revival as a consequence. Already the water on the west slope of Mono Mountain is under development. Tanks have been put in and pipes laid to the plant which is being installed. Estimates place the tonnage to be treated at nearly $500,000.

Ten thuosand tons of ore are taken out every twenty-four hours on the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company's property at Ely. The ore averages 1.6 per cent. copper. Mining is done with steam shovels.

The report of a rich strike in the country to the north of Black Rock desert is attracting prospectors. It is in the Pine Forest range.

The Nevada Packard claims have encountered values around $25 a ton across twenty-five feet. There is an enriched streak in which values as high as $200 in silver and $21.10 in gold are found. These claims are in the canyon to the west of Rochester and Limerick canyons in Humboldt county.

It is reported that the Nevada Wonder mine has encountered the vein 375 feet from the shaft on level 13—that it is six feet wide, containing oxidized quartz of low value, the same as found on the tenth level. The management will start a south drift immediately.

A copper vein has been discovered in Black Canyon which assays show carries calues to 3 to 7 per cent. in copper and $4.50 in gold. Croppings thirty to forty feet in width are discernible about 800 feet long, with a garnet capping over a true fissure vein cutting through decomposed granite. The discovery was made on the Copper King group of claims upon which an option has been taken.

In Como district the Nevada Deep Mines Company is sinking on a rich vein encountered several months ago and is having excellent success.

The receiver of the Day-Bristol Consolidated Mining Company has accepted the tramway recently completed and forming the link between the mines at Bristol and the terminus of the Pioche Pacific Railroad at Jack Rabbit, built at a cost of $47,000. The use of this tramway will greatly reduce the cost of transportation to the leasers and enable them to make a fair margin on their ore. An extension has been granted the leasers until December.

A two-compartment main working shaft is being sunk on the Westminster Gold and Silver Mining Company's thirty-three claims in the Cuprite district, south of Goldfield. The shaft is down about 170 feet.

A shipment of ore from the Silverado property to the Thompson smelter gave returns of 262 ounces of silver and $4.80 per ton in gold.

JUNIPER FLATS.
GETTING RICH ORE.
[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) July 31.—Much rich ore is being stripped from the main vein on the Juniper Flats property, where William Truax and Oliver Zane recently made their important gold discovery. Ore taken out fifty feet from the discovery point assays $677 a ton. Rich ore shows for a distance of more than 500 feet along the lead.

Other claims in the group of five, which Truax now holds exclusively, are being examined. From one small opening $107 ore was taken, but the rock from another assayed only $9.20.

MINING DEAL IS HANGING FIRE.

Negotiations on for Union Hill Property.

You Bet and Anti-Debris People at War.

Guggenheims Are Active in Central District.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GRASS VALLEY, July 31.—Negotiations have been opened for the sale of the Union Hill mine to Los Angeles and Pasadena people. An examination of the property was made last week by F. S. Churchill, John E. Pelton, E. W. Knowlton and other Pasadena capitalists. Los Angeles people have also examined the property.

The Union Hill is a quartz proposition and adjoins the Brunswick Consolidated, which is disbursing substantial dividends. For years it has been worked with fair success under a bond arrangement, but restricted finances have militated against its operation on the scale the ore reserves warrant. It is fairly equipped, and has yielded much rich ore.

The Anti-Debris people are making considerable trouble for the You Bet Mining Company, which is operating hydraulically the Goodwin placer mine. It is asserted that debris is escaping from the restraining ponds, although the company has complied with every provision of the law regulating hydraulic mining in this field.

The company, which is composed largely of Los Angeles people, has expended large sums in equipping its property and providing massive restraining barriers. It is understood operations have been very satisfactory, and it is certain the company will stubbornly contest any attempt to close the mine.

The powerful Guggenheim syndicate is very active in Central California districts, and is devoting attention alike to gold and copper mines. A subsidiary company, the Pacific Dredging Company, has purchased a large acreage of placer ground between Oroville and Marysville and has arranged for the immediate building of a dredge. A large area near the wonderfuly prolific holdings of the Yuba Consolidated Gold Fields is also being prospected, and the engineers are reported to be well pleased with tests thus far made.

Operations at the Dairy Farm mine, one of the greatest of the copper properties held in California by the Guggenheims, have commenced on a broad basis. Contracts have been awarded for construction of a narrow-gauge railroad from the mine to Sheridan, a distance of seven miles, and heavy shipments of high-grade ore will be started early in the fall.

The Calaveras Copper Company is endeavoring to raise additonal funds to finance improvements at its big copper mines near Copperopolis. The general business depression has delayed activities at the group, but the owners have steadfastly refused to grant any leases on the ground, although several companies have made advances. The mine waters are being treated for precipitation of copper, and a fair income is earned in this way.

NOW A PAYER.

Another California gold mine last week joined the ranks of the dividend payers when the Argonaut Mining Company declared at the rate of $1.50 per share, a total disbursement of $300,000. It is officially stated profits for the first six months of 1914 exceeded $150,000.

The termination of the costly litigation with the Kennedy Extension Company, recently decided in favor of the Argonaut, enables the company to prosecute deep work in the richest portion of the mine, and the outlook is pronounced favorable for large future profits.

Excellent ore has been opened on the 4050-foot level ,the deepest working point. The old forty-stamp mill is to be replaced by a modern plant containing fifty stamps and additional concentrators.

Discovery of several valuable diamonds near Cherokee by William Fliedener and B. Yutz has stimulated gem mining in the district, and high hopes are again entertained for the uncovering of a commercial deposit of the precious stones. Some of the diamonds shown by Fliedener are of excellent quality, and were found in an oxidized portion of the kimberlite formation. A large number of moonstones and semi-precious gems were also found. The Cherokee district has produced over 300 diamonds and hundreds of other gems, and another determined effort will be made to discover the source.

The Melones Mining Company has started building a leaching plant at its big gold property, near Melones, Calaveras county. The company has an enormous quantity of tailings stored on the dumps, and tests indicate the leaching process can be profitably employed in extraction of low values.

Melones ores are generally low-grade, but by treating a large tonnage of the free milling product excellent profits are obtained. The mill contains 100 stamps and all operations are conducted with a view to rigid economy. Leaching has been extensively employed in the extraction of values from copper ores, but its application to gold quartz is unusual.

PROSPECTORS' LUCK.

An excellent example of the lure that draws prospectors to the gold districts of California was shown last week in Siskiyou county. On Empire Creek, near Gottville, the Irwin brothers accidently discovered a rich deposit of quartz after a long search for a suspected vein. One of the brothers happened to knock off a piece of a ledge jutting from the ground about four feet from the main road. Its peculiar color led him to examine it. The pannings showed $7.50 in gold. Work was immediately started on the shoot and shortly about $5000 was extracted. The shoot is stated to be widening and the owners report large daily profits.

Scarcity of water has prevented the recent operation of the mill at the Forbestown group, but underground development is proceeding vigorously and a large tonnage of good ore is available for stamps as soon as water is obtainable. Cross-cuts have opened several shoots of rich ore in the famous Gold Bank mine, formerly a sensational producer of rich rock, and deep work in other portions of the group is proving satisfactory. Southern California capital is interested.

Tests of large areas of dredging ground along Trinity River by the Hammond interests have proved so satisfactory that it has been decided to install a dredger. Owing to the distance of the holdings from the railroad it is probable that machinery will not be assembled until next spring, as the rainy season will be at its height before equipment can be shipped in this fall. Meanwhile vigorous exploration of several miles of land along tributary streams will be carried on.

A two-year lease and option has been taken on the St. Ives mine, twenty-five miles northwest of Bishop, by E. L. Johnson, L. M. Kind, Al Sites and Mark Mathews of Tonopah. The St. Ives lies in the Chicago district, and is owned by the Lone Star Company. The shaft is down 200 feet, exposing a five-foot vein, averaging about $16 per ton. The leasers have arranged to build a pipe line to bring water to the property, and a small mill has been ordered. It is also intended to carry the shaft deeper.

TONOPAH OUTPUT.
BEST FOR PRESENT.
[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

Tonopah (Nev.) July 21.—With shipments aggregating 12,038 tons, valued at $306,000, Tonopah has passed what will be the high-water mark until some new shippers come into being in the camp. Last week the tonnage excelled the best produced here, in spite of the fact that stocks have been steadily declining and the most pessimistic reports have gone into circulation about mines closing, owing to the low price of silver. The actual quotation of silver does not affect any of the big Tonopah producers, as regards reaching a point where they find production unprofitable.

The cost of silver in Tonopah is the lowest. The production expense at the big properties is nil, owing to the presence of gold content which pays the entire cost of mining and milling, thereby leaving the silver bullion as net profit.

Tonopah has hovered around the $300,000 mark in production for months but something has always interfered with passing that figure. The tonnage gains of this week were due largely to the increased output of the North Star, which seems to have taken a new lease of life, with almost daily shipments that call to mind the days when the property was verging on the dividend class.

Then, there is Tonopah Extension, which has climbed from 100 tons daily to 225 and is now arranging for a still further increase. Jim Butler has gone back to an output of 1000 tons which was interrupted by the installation of a $90,000 plant, that will result in a greatly increased tonnage next month as soon as fresh dumping ground is found for the waste.

SHORTS RUN TO COVER.

The declaration of a 5-cent dividend, equal to the distribution of $89,000, by the West End Consolidated Mining Company was a surprise that took the shorts back and led them to cover with some celerity, on a rapidly advancing market. There is no doubt that the West End has more than earned the amount called for in the dividend but it was not believed that the company would undertake to diminish its reserves, in view of demands of the courts which are just beginning to be felt in increased expenses.

West End would net enough to buy a 10-cent dividend every quarter, provided the burden of litigation expenses could be dispelled. Until some definite disposition is made of that incumbrance the future of the property will be clouded.

Extension has made a phenomenal showing in gross earnings for the past month and for the present week when shipments of bullion were far ahead of expectations. For the first half of July Tonopah Extension reported shipments aggregating $46,900 and to the end of the third week shipments are figured at $26,670 or at the rate of over $100,000 a month. The company finds itself loaded with so much bullion that hereafter shipments will be made weekly instead of semi-monthly.

Midway which abandoned its old workings about the first of the week is doing very well in the new quarter where efforts will be concentrated with the object of making a drive for the rich Merger ledge, which according to the best authority cannot be very far distant. For the past ten days Midway has been getting very rich stringers in the large ledge in the north cross-cut of the 1200-foot level.

Victor is improving and attention is centered on it and on Midway as the next important development is expected in one or the other. That the latter is rapidly approaching a fissure is attested by the fact that water is coming in very rapidly, indicating a pent-up volume held in check by the trachyte. The ledge may be struck any day and then the camp may have an awakening along new lines.

BIRD RUNS A RAILROAD.

An Innocent Thrush Learns the Signals and Whistling Them Creates Demoralization of Trains.

[New York World:] The switching station at Basle, Switzerland, has been for some time in trouble. Every day for weeks there have been difficulties. Trains have started before their time, sometimes an engine went ahead when it should have backed, and all sorts of other irregularities happened at a station previously noted for its perfect organization. The troubles always occurred as the result of a signal which nobody had given.

At first it was believed to be the work of some rascal, but that idea was soon dismissed.

Then the engineers and others were watched to see if there was a lunatic among them. Neighboring houses and sheds were searched for some mischievous boy amusing himself at upsetting a model station. All the boys and engineers proved above reproach.

Spies were stationed behind walls and hedges to catch the culprit. He proved to be overhead. Calmly perched on a bough, a fine thrush with an ear for musical sounds and a retentive memory has been diverting himself with repeating at intervals the whistled signals of the railway line. His nest was close to the station, and while attending to domestic duties he had been taking music lessons and had learned to whistle the signals to go ahead, to back, to go slow, and so on. From his safe bough he practiced daily to the distraction and disorder of those below. A price has been set on the "ruffian's" head.

Not His Encore.

KINGMAN (Ariz.) July 31.— promising claims have been in the Wallapai Mountains by Banks, Charley Heidenrich, J. George and the Kayser broth Samples from one of their veins results of nearly $200 a ton in Big milling values appear on the face at other points. One of the veins has a width of 100 feet length of 1000 feet, and is mineral throughout.

Immense veins carrying gold, ver, lead, zinc and other min seam the east side of the Walla Water and wood are plentiful that is needed to make the distri active one is a railroad down the Sandy. Thousands of tons are available for shipment, but the haul to Kingman is too expensive.

The big shaft of the Arizona ture Corporation, at Deluge Wash, reached a depth of eighty feet indications are encouraging. It pected that at 100 feet the vein be cut and a big ore body Camp buildings have been machinery set up and everything pared for an extensive campaign.

The intermediate shaft on the bian mine is now nearly 200 deep. It will be sunk to a depth 300 feet before cross cuts are open the big vein. At the 100- level drifts several hundred feet way have been run and great of ore developed. In places the shows milling values across a of thirty-five feet. Water is into the shaft and it is expected heavier machinery will be soon.

BUSY SCENE.
AT INSPIRATION.
[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MIAMI (Ariz.) July 31.—No scene is to be observed in the Miami district than around the compressor and hoist house of the spiration Consolidated Company. Nordberg compressor of 3000 feet capacity is already in oper and the main hoist, also a Nord product, is being assembled. Inger Rand equipment, which will 1325 cubic feet of free air a is being installed for under haulage.

In reality there are two hoists, one for each of the shafts, but it is possible to both from the same platform. ning automatically, they will a single machine.

Four skips, each weighing pounds and having a capacity of pounds, will be in continuous tion. To allow for emergencies repairs the hoisting period has limited to fourteen hours a day. this time the four skips will 000 tons of ore from a depth of feet.

Work has been started on the creting of the Inspiration comp 5,000,000-gallon reservoir. This ervoir represents a unique problem ferro-concrete construction as sides are sloping, with the two semi-circular.

Daily shipments of the Superior Boston to the El Paso smelter ave seventy tons. The ore runs all way from 5 to 10 per cent. It is pected that within another daily shipments will be 100 tons the ore in the east part of the ings is rapidly increasing in tity.

On the 600-foot level, where vein was again encountered the Quo Vadis fault, good ore is stoped. If conditions in this are the same as they are farther a big ore body will be opened the 600-foot and 800-foot levels. this reason the 800-foot level is driven eastward to pick up the body at a point directly below it was opened on the 600. An 200 feet must be cut before the sired point is reached and this will take not less than six weeks.

The face of the east drift on 1000-foot level is about seventy feet from the Quo Vadis fault. being driven in the footwall and cross-cutting will be done until fault is reached. If ore in any tity is developed in the eastern of the property another shaft have to be sunk about 2000 feet of the McGaw shaft.

Each day the hydraulic ram ly installed by the Superior & pumps 15,000 gallons of mine into storage tanks at the shaft, five feet above. Soon another will be installed for the purpose lifting water to a point 250 above. This water will be used domestic purposes.

Because of the present low of copper, the Iron Cap is more attention to development less to production. The force been reduced slightly. Last the Iron Cap shipped only four carloads of ore to El Paso. For present only enough ore to pay penses will be mined.

On the 800-foot level of the Cap the ore body has been op about 300 feet eastward from shaft. A development drift driven west, at a distance of 100 from the shaft, is beginning to vein matter with a heavy iron tent and some copper.

TOO MUCH ASKED BY ENGINEMEN.

Western Railroads Declare Demands Impractical.

Eight-Hour Day Entails Big Increase in Wages.

Managers Say Advance Cost Would Be Prohibitive.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The wage dispute between the enginemen of the western railroads and their employers reached a critical stage July 16, 1914, when, having failed to come to an understanding, the union chiefs and the managers' committee suspended negotiations and the labor leaders informed the managers that notice of a strike would be served immediately. To prevent a threatened strike, President Wilson has summoned the union officials and members of the federation board to Washington.

The men's original demands had been presented October 10, 1913, and negotiations had been going on about three months. Two days later, however, both sides agreed upon Federal arbitration, although the engine men previously had refused peremptorily to consider it, on the ground that the roads had refused to be governed by former arbitration court decisions. Matters with the men had proceeded to the taking of a strike vote, the result of which, announced July 14, showed that the men were almost unanimously in favor of backing their demands by a general walk-out.

Basing their demand on the increased cost of living, the men called for increases in pay and overtime allowances, which, they said, would just about cover the advance in the price of necessities in the past four years. In answer, the roads declared the increases asked for would amount to $41,000,000 a year or a 50 per cent. advance in wages and could not be granted.

CANADA AFFECTED.

Ninety-eight railroads were affected by the demands. They included virtually every line in the United States west of Chicago and also the Illinois Central road. In Canada every line west of Ft. William, Ontario, was affected except the Grand Trunk Pacific. One hundred and forty thousand miles of roadway and 55,000 engineers, firemen and hostlers drawing $67,650,000 annual wages were affected.

The Men's Committee was headed by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. A. W. [illegible]holm, general manager of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway, was chairman of the Managers' Committee.

The last general movement by the enginemen for an increase in wages was in 1910, at which time they obtained an increase of about 10 per cent. Since then, they declare, the roads have greatly increased their [illegible] and facilities. Preparation of the men's case indicated their close observation of the proceedings of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Every report of the roads to the Federal body apparently had been scrutinized and compared with former reports and deductions favorable to the men's demands drawn where possible.

OBJECT TO ARBITRATION.

Objection by the enginemen to Federal arbitration was asserted to be an alleged refusal by the roads to govern themselves by the recommendations of the board. They were recommendations and not court mandates, the men declared, and the roads either disregarded them or placed their own interpretations on them in such a manner as to nullify them. The Managers' Committee challenged Stone and Carter to name an instance in which such a thing had been done. When conferences between Stone and Carter and the managers apparently had come to the point of a strike, the managers were [illegible] that the Federal Board of Mediation and Conciliation should be appealed to. The Men's Committee reluctantly acceded to this, stating that it would have a bad appearance if they refused and asking only that the sessions begin immediately.

MEN'S STATEMENT.

The men's statement of their case presented to the board, is in part, as follows:

"Added responsibilities and the increased cost of living induced the enginemen in the western territory to make certain requests of the managements of their railroads. These requests asked moderate increases in pay and improvements in working rules, having for their object the standardization of wages and working conditions which were to be revisions and additions to the present schedule."

In their printed statement of their case the enginemen laid emphasis upon the increased traffic of the railroads, declaring that more powerful locomotives, larger freight cars and longer trains had vastly increased the earning power of the roads and had added correspondingly to the responsibilities of the enginemen, with no corresponding increase in their pay.

MANAGERS' REPLY.

The Managers' Committee replied that railroad conditions at the present time do not justify any increases in wages. The demands of the men, according to the managers, center upon the substitution of an eight-hour day for a ten-hour day in the computation of overtime.

"All employees know," the managers' statement asserts, "that it would be impractical to reduce the present working day in train service to eight hours. To do so it would be necessary to shorten practically all existing divisions, to relocate yards and terminals; in fact, to reconstruct the railroads at prohibitive cost. The men know the only effect of changing the basis of a day's wage from ten to eight hours would be merely to increase the overtime.

"In view of the present conditions there could be no justification for the managers in taking any step that would add greatly to their expenses. The managers of railways have no moral right to accede to requests of employees that would unduly increase the expense of railway operation."

Good Citizenship.

[Louis Howland in the Square Deal:] In a free country nothing can be called progress that does not involve a steady improvement in the quality of citizenship. And there can be no good citizenship without good citizens. So we are once more thrown back upon the individual. It is necessary to think, not of abstract citizenship but of the concrete citizen. Indeed, the less we have to do with mere abstractions in our political thinking the more likely shall we be to reach valuable results. Memorial day and the Fourth of July brings before us in concrete form the virtues that must be found in a nation that is to serve the world greatly. And we see that they are, after all, not so much the virtues of the nation as of the men and women who compose it—it is from these that the nation takes its color. It all comes down to a question of character, and character is an individual and personal thing. The man who, in a democracy, claims special privileges for himself or his class, and who would withhold from others rights which he himself would enjoy, is of necessity a bad citizen.

Total factory earners	7,850,000	$5,022,000,000

It is impossible for any other country in the world to make such a showing as that of people living by its manufactures.

American Workers' Savings.

The statistical record of the savings of American workers in savings banks, exclusive of postal savings banks, is:

Year—	Depositors.	Savings deposited.
1820	8,635	$ 1,138,576
1830	38,085	6,973,304
1840	78,701	14,051,520

1912	10,010,304	4,451,555,688
1913	10,766,936	4,727,403,951

What more striking testimony to the great value of the American factory and other pay rolls can be adduced than this showing of many and increasing savings bank deposits? Then why disturb those pay rolls and these savings deposits by foolish labor disputes?

Viewed from this standpoint of the larger industries and the total number of workers in each, one has a clearer idea of the comprehensiveness and dignity of American labor.

Factory Workers by States.

The States in which employment is given to 100,000 or more of the country's 6,615,046 factory workers (census of 1910) are:

Or nearly 200 per cent.

The 1912 distribution was:

Class—	Average per day.	Total for year.
General officers	$18.13	$ 19,298,782
Other officers	6.32	22,203,792
General, office clerks	2.50	64,739,954

All other employees and laborers	2.10	147,766,528
Total wages, 1912		$1,252,347,697

Off hand it is hard to see what there is to complain of in these rates of wages. In each case except "general officers" and "other officers" they are at higher rates than in 1910, and considerably higher than in preceding years.

American Liberties Jeopardized.

[The Square Deal:] The trend of legislation in favor of union labor is very marked and their continued demand for closed shop control of industries everywhere in this country is very persistent, to say the least. It makes men in all walks of life wonder if we are to be finally governed and controlled by a labor trust, a monopoly of the right to work directed by an American Federation of Labor syndicate. Surely the present administration is pro-union and is acting favorably to all legislation demanded by the labor lobby. Can it be that the mental attitude of fear for their political positions causes Congress and Senate to create class legislation—a thing which democracy cries so loudly against? Labor has been assumed by Congress to mean closed shop union labor, and the apathetic attitude of all classes of citizens who should oppose class legislation has resulted in our representatives doing the bidding of the unionists until American liberty is jeopardized, or has been lost sight of in the desire to conciliate these unions.

ANCIENT TRADE UNIONS.

[EDITORIAL.]

THE labor unions or guild system of the Middle Ages restricted craft-membership and the employment of apprentices, and regulated prices, hours of labor and other conditions of service. The glaziers of Paris admitted no foreign-born man to membership and no glazier who was not a member, even if he was a Frenchman, was allowed to set glass or repair windows in France.

The carpenters and joiners guild of Paris complained to the Municipal Council that joiners' work was sent from the provinces where labor was cheaper, and the council raised the octroi duty on all sawed and worked woods brought into the city. The laundresses of Paris demanded protection against competition of their suburban sisters and petitioned for an octroi duty on all clean linen brought into Paris.

The bishop of Liege reported in favor of reviving the old trade guilds and placing each under the guardianship of Christian lay employees and of the clergy. He further proposed that each trade or calling must be placed under the special protection of a saint, and brotherhoods should contribute to celebration of the saint's fete. The workers indorsed the recommendation of the bishop, all except that part of it which required a percentage of their earnings to be paid to the bishop. They balked at that. The labor unions of our day do not balk at contributions. They contribute of their wages to the bank accounts of Saint Sam Gompers, Saint Olaf Tveitmoe, Saint Job Harriman, Saint Clarence Darrow and Saint Joe Scott.

The Fishermen's Union of France obtained the passage of a law prohibiting Italians from fishing on the Mediterranean coasts and the French undertakers induced the Italian customhouse to levy fourteen pounds duty on a dead body sent from France to Milan for cremation, and the same amount of duty on the ashes as they were carried back into France.

One hundred years ago the labor unions of Leicester and Nottingham, who were engaged in stocking making, uprose against the introduction of stocking frames and destroyed them as opportunity favored. Over 1000 were destroyed in a single burst of popular fury. Houses were burned, the inventors were threatened and obliged to fly for their lives, and order was not finally restored until the military had been called out and the leading rioters had been arrested and either hanged or transported.

Half a century later says William Felkin: "The ultimate result of the change in the method of making stockings was that for every one person poorly fed, poorly paid, badly clothed and miserably housed, who at the commencement of the nineteenth century was engaged in making stockings on hand looms or in preparing the materials out of which stockings could be made, one hundred are now so employed for a third less number of hours per week at from three to seven times greater wages, and are living under conditions of comfort that their predecessors could hardly even have anticipated.

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES AND STRIKERS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

THE street railway system of St. John, N. B., is put out of business by a strike of the motormen and conductors. They quit work as a protest against the dismissal of a conductor for alleged breach of agreed rules.

Give Villa credit for knowing how to deal with the I.W.W. "Get! and if you come back you'll be shot." That may not be evidence of high civilization, but it is effective, and just as these anarchist-disturbers, these masters of sabotage, should be treated.

The striking bricklayers of Albany, N. Y., have gone back to work on orders from the international union, pending arbitration. Both sides are well pleased with this turn in affairs. It stops the loss of wages money.

Six thousand men of the New York Inside Ironworkers' Union have gone on strike for a new wage scale and new working conditions. The specific demands are a nine-hour work day, five days in the week and a five-hour work day on Saturdays, a minimum wage of $20 a week for finishers, $16 for helpers, and $12 a week for apprentices, a union agreement and sanitary shops. If there is anything more these men want it is a pity (?) they forgot to put it in.

Joseph Ettor, the I.W.W. agitator of violence and blood and murder (poisoned food by New York waiters,) has found congenial company in the person of Cole Blease, mis-Governor of South Carolina, the State in which, for the first time, I.W.W. strike agitation in the cotton mills is now rampant.

It is very much feared that the efforts of the United Board of Mediation and Conciliation will fail in the case of the strike threatening 55,000 western railway engineers and firemen. The board is now trying to find a basis upon which the dispute will go to arbitration. To this (Federal arbitration,) the men are very much adverse, even though the road officials unqualifiedly offer a guaranty that the award of the arbitration board will be obeyed by the roads. The railroad officials have also given the engineers and firemen full authority to say what the guaranty shall be. If, after these great concessions, the men strike, and thus injure the country's already legislatively-injured business, their action will really be criminal and as such will be bitterly resented by the general public. It's as true now as ever it was that a strike without public sympathy behind it is worse than useless.

In Toledo the I.W.W. is interfering with the Salvation Army in its meetings. Anything that is good invites attack from that anarchistic mob.

Several weeks ago the I.W.W.'s, better known as the "I-Won't-Workers," invaded Greenville, S. C., and attempted to get the mill operatives of that section to join their nefarious organization. Thousands of circulars were distributed in the various mill villages containing such openly false statements that little, if any, attention was given them. The history, says the Textile Manufacturer of Charlotte, N. C., of these foreign interlopers, led by that hair-brained idiot, Haywood (the coward who hid behind the laundry woman's skirts at Rochester, N. Y.,) is becoming so well known that their propaganda is now looked upon with suspicion, and rightly so. The people's estimate of their organization has been affirmed by their leader, Haywood, who threatened a general strike if our country was forced into a war with Mexico. Haywood proclaimed accurately the measure of the I.W.W. patriotism. Fortunately, the real American workman does not belong to the I.W.W.'s, and has no sympathy with them. From all over the country come expressions repudiating the policies advocated by Haywood, Ettor & Co. The effort to create dissatisfaction at Greenville was a complete failure. Those operatives there who joined the I.W.W. broke away quickly, says the Anderson Daily Mail.

The great St. Petersburg (Russia) strike of 200,000 is a reign of terror and blood. Many have been killed and very many more wounded in battles with the Cossacks. In spite of this thousands march, singing revolutionary songs and carrying red flags. Efforts are being made to destroy the bridges by fire and dynamite. Barricades in the streets are numerous. Telegraph and telephone poles are cut down. The strikers (revolutionists really) are repeating efforts to destroy the waterworks. Train cars (150) wrecked. Steam railroad trains held up outside St. Petersburg. At Riga, 40,000 men are "out." Thousands of others on strike in other cities of the empire. Odessa, Reval, Baku, etc. The "poisoning committee" is again at work, injuring many working women by the fumes of volatile chemicals.

Employers all over the country favor a general lockout. Three hundred car drivers and conductors injured.

No more "strike benefits" in British Columbia. The International Miners' Union declines to pay any more relief money. Only $15,000 available for special strike relief in Vancouver Island. The organization has been paying out $16,000 weekly on the island since the strike began two years ago. All that money and all the lost wages money is literally wasted.

Building of needed new schools at Buffalo still tied up because of the stonemason's strike, which has now spread to other jobs. Union masons claim that the non-union men don't know how to "serve" them. Union laborers want 80 cents a day more and the union masons refuse all help except union help.

In 1913, the Illinois coal miners, 11,861 of them, were on strike an average time of fifty-five days each. All sheer waste.

Shipbuilding at St. Petersburg has ceased by reason of all the shipyard workers being out on strike. Eight thousand from one works, for instance.

Soldiers are on duty in the violent street railway strike at St. John, New Brunswick. Indications are that the Ohio coal strike is in way of settlement. That's good.

The striking barbers of Troy, N. Y., will not get the half-hour off for afternoon supper which they demand. They close at 7 o'clock, anyway.

WAGES IN ENGLAND.

Women Work for a Dollar and Seventy-five Cents a Week in Free Trade Country.

[New York World:] The average wage of women throughout England, Mrs. Julia Scurr told Prime Minister Asquith in a recent meeting, is only 7 shillings ($1.75) a week. Many women, she said, support children and parents on this, although the immigration board has held that a woman cannot live in London on less than 17 shillings and 6 pence ($4.37) a week. To small wages and the severity of the struggle was attributed the large number of suicides among married working women of the city. Mrs. Scurr said the poor law attaches harsh and humiliating terms to the relief given and is thoroughly hated by the indigent.

In justifying the demand of the working women for suffrage, the delegates told the Prime Minister there does seem to be no other way to make their wrongs known to the public. Women are still sent to prison for inability to pay taxes and few who suffer from drunken and brutal husbands can afford the luxury of a divorce.

One suffragist, Mrs. Hughes, opened her argument by laying on the Premier's table a brush that retails at 10 shillings ($2.50.)

"For my share in making that I get 2 pence," said Mrs. Hughes.

Her pay, she explained, was 2d for filling 200 holes with bristles, and her husband got 2½d for finishing the brush. To support her home requires fourteen hours' work a day.

Another delegate said she is rearing a family of six children under the age of 13 on her husband's pay of 25 shillings ($6.25) a week as a docker.

How Germans Treat Employees.

A New Jersey mill making women's wear worsteds, owned by a German corporation, is described by the New York Post. All the overseers are Germans and until comparatively recent times all of the employees were Germans. They wore the same [illegible] style of wooden shoes that their people in Germany wore and clung to their old world customs as well as they could, but gradually they got Americanized and gradually, as immigration fell off, other operatives than Germans were taken in. The company has the mill enclosed within a tall fence, not to hide secrets, but for economy's sake. When visitors go through a mill, operatives turn and look. It may be only the loss of a second or two or three, but when [illegible] operatives each lose one or two or three seconds, it means a good deal of money out of pocket to the stockholders, especially if this is repeated dozens of times a week.

Rebel.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 19.—The big lockout of builders, which has held up building operations in London for months, is slowly crumbling without any definite settlement, and the army of ironworkers, masons, carpenters and other men are returning to their work.

The lockout arose from a number of sectional strifes, the men demanding better wages and shorter hours. Negotiations went on for week after week without any result, except for the members of the big and wealthy trades unions, who secured better terms, and have now returned to work, leaving the smaller unions, which refused all terms offered by the contractors, to shift for themselves. As these smaller unions are nearly bankrupt, the members are expected to follow the example of the more wealthy unions.

The story of the struggle shows how the men are revolting against the old leadership system. Three times the men refused terms agreed upon by their leaders.

Paternalistic.

ASK THREE MEALS A DAY FOR POOR SCHOOL PUPILS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 18.—Having gained their point that the State should provide children of poor parents with one meal a day at the schools, a section of the Labor party is now pressing for three meals, beds and other comforts for the pupils in the poorer districts.

The government will be asked to embody in the promised education bill such proposals as these:

Waste land to be used by local authorities for erecting movable buildings where in the children can be educated and given sleeping accommodation when necessary.

Bathing and washing facilities to be provided in schools, parks and public playgrounds.

Three meals a day to be supplied to scholars from public feeding centers.

Arranged alphabetically (with telephone numbers) for the convenience of readers who may require instant service.

CHILDREN'S DOUBLE LIVES.

They Act So Differently When Alone Compared to When in the Presence of Grown People.

In the Woman's Home Companion Mary Heaton Vorse writes a paper entitled "Adventures in Childhood," in which she says that the moment parents are out of the way children's talk is different. Their very voices, their words and their looks all change. She calls this other side of the child, "The Other One." She says that it is astonishing how quickly the Other One learns to hide. Illustrative of this point, she tells the following story of a mother named Alice and her small son named Jamie:

"There was Jamie, for instance, who was only 2½. If you even glanced at him when he went to the other side he knew it and came back. Alice knew that he danced to himself in the glass. She had found it out one day when he had forgotten that she was in the room and suddenly she beheld him jigging to himself. He held his hands above his head, fluttering them in time to one of those rhythms to which babies are forever beating time, that are forever apparently ringing in their ears. Some times he took quaint chubby dance steps, and again just jigged up and down from the knees in the same place. He was as absorbed as a scientist and as serious as if dancing were a religious rite. A solemn joy shone from his face.

"She spied on him after that and would find him dancing before the glass, keeping time to the music she couldn't hear. But if he heard her footstep first—whish! Guilefully he would pretend to be about something else. Often from afar she would hear him beating out his mysterious rhythms. Often, forgetting himself, he would absentmindedly play them with a spoon on the table during meal times.

"She so loved the spectacle of this dance that she wooed by playing foot-compelling airs on the piano and never looking around. She would be rewarded by hearing him jigging away behind her. She had a real triumph the day he tugged her by the skirt and when she followed unresistingly he towed her to the piano without speaking a word. That day she kept faith with him and never so much as glanced sidelong from the corners of her eyes. After a long time he became so tame that Alice could turn around if she did it unobtrusively and shyly enough—if you are embarrassed before them it sometime helps—and that was one of the days when she felt a decoration had been given her."

PLENTY OF BABIES.

About Thirty-six Millions Are Born to the World Every Year, Equal to Twenty a Minute.

[London Tit Bits:] It has been computed that about 36,000,000 babies are born into the world each year. The rate of production is, therefore, about seventy per minute, or more than one for every beat of the clock.

With the one-a-second calculation every reader is familiar, but it is not every one who stops to calculate what this means when it comes to a year's supply. It will, therefore, probably startle a good many persons to find, on the authority of a well-known statistician, that, could the infants of a year be ranged in a line in cradles, the cradles would extend around the globe.

The same writer looks at the matter in a more picturesque light. He imagines the babies being carried past a given point in their mothers' arms, one by one, and the procession being kept up night and day until the last hour in the twelfth had passed by. A sufficiently rate is allowed, but even in at the rate of twenty a minu an hour, during the entire reviewer at his post would only the sixth part of the host.

In other words, the babe to be carried when the tramp would be able to walk when mere fraction of its comrade reached the reviewer's post, and the year's supply of babies was ing to a close there would be a guard, not of infants, but of 6-year-old boys and girls.

HIGHWAY OF LONG AGO CLAIMS MOTOR TRAFFIC.

San Juan Capistrano to Elsinore Road to Be Repaired Soon for Benefit of Autoists Who Visit Southern California During Exposition Year, According to Members of Overland Party.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

IN THE earliest days of Southern California history the padres built a mountain road through scenic San Juan Canyon. This same road, in 1915, is to be one of the well-traveled highways of Orange county.

Mission San Juan Capistrano was founded in 1777; but Mission Viejo, six miles up San Juan Canyon from Capistrano, was built previous to that date. The San Juan Canyon road, between Mission Viejo and San Juan Hot Springs, was used extensively by the fathers and their oxteams before the days of the Revolutionary War.

When the fathers were gaining a foothold with the Indians and Mission Viejo was being enlarged, Spanish sailors made enemies of the Indians and an attack on Mission Viejo followed. The fathers made a hasty retreat down the canyon to the present site of Capistrano and a mission was founded at that place soon after.

BELL LOST.

Capistrano was the most pretentious of all the California missions, and at one time there were more than 1000 Indians behind its walls, being instructed by the fathers. Mission Viejo fell into ruins. The great bell, which had been brought over from Spain, disappeared. The walls crumbled away and all that is left today is an adobe mound studded with rocks.

For more than a century, the road built by the padres has been traveled. For many years, San Juan Capistrano Hot Springs have attracted visitors from various sections of Southern California.

Last year a road was built from the hot springs, through Siever's Canyon to Elsinore. The building of this road was an engineering feat and the mountain highway is one of the most scenic on the Pacific Coast.

SCENIC WONDERS.

From the schoolhouse at San Juan Capistrano, the road runs up the canyon. Passing the ruins of Father Quetu's home, which was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, the old cemetery and a number of fine walnut ranches, the highway enters the vast 250,000-acre O'Neil ranch.

The scenery of the O'Neil ranch is wild. The ruin of Mission Viejo is in the flats. On either side, the rugged hills present steep sides covered with heavy growth.

This is a great deer country. In fact, the deer are too plentiful on the O'Neil ranch. The range is divided with a fence running up the canyon. It is the custom to run the cattle on one half of the range until the tick is killed off on the other, and then, after the cattle are dipped, they are turned into the tickless range.

With the range full of deer, the tick is carried throughout the ranges as the bucks and does clear the high fence with no difficulty.

After crossing San Juan Creek several times, the road winds around the mountain side and finally drops down to San Juan Hot Springs. A short distance up the south fork of the San Juan Canyon is the old Siever

Detroit automobile dealers have sold during the first six months of this year approximately 12,436 automobiles. Eighteen of the local dealers, by their own figures, have sold 10,236 machines, and adding to this the estimate of 1200 machines sold by dealers who have not given their definite figures, gives the total of 12,436.

FOUR NEW CHAMPIONS RISE AT LONG BEACH.

BY WILLIAM M. HENRY.

LONG BEACH, Aug. 1.—Four brand new Southern California tennis champions were made yesterday at Long Beach, Florence Sutton and Clifton Herd being two of them, and Ward Dawson being the other two. Miss Sutton's honors were won in the women's singles, in which event she defeated her sister, Mrs. Bruce, in the challenge round, after a hard-fought three-set battle.

Herd took his honors along with Dawson, who now holds both singles and doubles titles through his double victory of yesterday. The feature Inspecting Raymond Willard's Lozier.

Charles Stromgren, head of the local Y.M.C.A. automobil school, telling the Lozier owner that his car does not need overhauling before making trip to the Yosemite.

OWNERS LEARN OWN CARS AT AUTOMOBILE SCHOOL.

AUTOMOBILE owners who are planning long tours are promised a boon through the system perfected at the automobile school of the Y.M.C.A. Every machine that is in need of repairs is given the "once over" by Charles Stromgren and an estimate is made of the cost of the repairs. Then the owner may leave his car at the school or may take it elsewhere for repairs.

Raymond Willard, a local contractor who has recently purchased a Lozier light four, is one of the automobile owners who is largely responsible for the excellent service possible at the school. One of the first things Willard did after his last long drive in the Lozier was to pilot the car to the automobile school and have it thoroughly overhauled.

This thorough overhauling consisted of raising the hood and listening to the motor. It was not necessary for Stromgren to do more. He gave the car the O. K. and now Willard is preparing for a trip to the Yosemite in order to test out thoroughly the guarantee with which he was supplied by the Y.M.C.A. official, who told him the car would go anywhere.

Equipped for expert work of all kinds the school has proved particularly popular with motor car owners. One of the special features which Willard has emphasized is the instruction given to the novice who is anxious to learn everything possible about his car.

It is astonishing even to the professors in charge of the different courses to learn how much ignorance there is among automobile owners, concerning the vital parts of the cars they drive. Questions which many schoolboys could answer become intricate problems for owners who are learning the first rudiments of the motor car they drive.

However, the instruction is simplified and every effort is made to avoid embarrassment.

Working models of the 1915 machines are always on the floor of the school. The student may learn from expert mechanics the mode of operation of the motor car. The clutch and transmission, the differential, the valves, in fact, the entire working parts of a motor car are explained and ignition is given special attention.

Because of the wide range of study the course offered this year at the summer school has become popular with many. Students are applying for courses every day and the school promises to be one of the most important branches of the local Y.M.C.A. where so many sections are being operated successfully.

Another One.

BEARDSLEY ELECTRICS ON TRAIL OF PACE CAR.

THE third monthly tour of Beardsley Electric owners was held yesterday. From reports this was the most enjoyable outing that has taken place to date. It was a surprise outing, planned by Volney S. Beardsley, president of the company, and many surprises were in store for the party.

In the first place, not a single member knew where they were going. The invitations said: "You will be on your way but you will not know where you are going," and Beardsley made good on his promise, and in spite of all manner of guesses no one seemed to guess right.

The owners and their friends met at the company's headquarters on West Seventh street in the morning, and the only instructions given were to follow the pace car which was driven by Mr. Beardsley.

The pace car left the crowd down Seventh to Broadway, then north on Broadway to Pasadena avenue and Avenue 26. At this point they were met by the Pasadena owners and the destination was still a mystery. Following out the San Fernando road, the pace car turned left at Tropico and many thought then they were headed for the beach. However, the pace car turned suddenly to the right and the crowd found itself leading into Griffith Park.

SOME PICNIC.

A general picnic was arranged at the pavilion in Griffith Park, which is one of California's most beautiful picnic grounds. On arrival there another surprise was in store. Instead of it being a strictly owners' picnic, they were greeted here by the employees, and their families, of the Beardsley Electric Company, and they found the pavilion as well as the big oak trees decorated for the occasion.

At this point the party suddenly increased to about 100 people, all of whom were entertained as guests of the Beardsley Electric Company.

One long table spread in the pavilion seated the entire party, and judging from the "clean-up," all enjoyed this part of the day's outing.

At 3:30 Beardsley announced that the owners and their friends should prepare to move on for an additional run, while the employees spent the balance of the day in the park.

The pace car then led the party back to the San Fernando road, through Burbank to Lankershim and Van Nuys. Another surprise awaited the members here when they pulled up in front of the new Johnston Organ Company's plant and were given an opportunity to go through the factory and see how pipe organs are manufactured. Also to see and hear one or two large organs just completed by this company on contracts.

From this point Beardsley led the party up through the boulevards of Van Nuys and Owensmouth and these boulevards, lined with roses on both sides, can hardly be duplicated on many of the city streets of Los Angeles.

The last surprise of the day came when the party arrived at the new Porter Hotel at San Fernando, where a special 6 o'clock dinner had been prepared. They were not only surprised at their final destination, but also to find so nice and comfortable a hotel at this point. After a bounteous chicken dinner the large sun parlor was turned into a music room, and another programme was rendered.

The day's run figured between sixty and seventy miles, and again every car made the complete trip without the slightest trouble.

Through these tours the Beardsley Electric Company is doing a great good for the electric vehicle business in general, and at the same time demonstrating to the public that the Los Angeles-built electric is just what it is claimed to be, a long-mileage car.

CAR TAKES WELL FROM THE START.

Al Lusby of the W. E. Bush Company, Pierce-Arrow distributors for Southern California, has been in San Diego the past week, exhibiting the new "38." The car created as much of a sensation in San Diego as it did in Los Angeles, and has been the center of interest for motorists.

In San Francisco, too, the "38" has been well received. The change in body lines has made it immensely popular this year.

The new "48" has left the factory and is expected here next week. The car was scheduled to arrive this week, but a delay in shipping has held it up.

The new line of enclosed cars, the first of which will arrive in Los Angeles next month, is said to be one of the most elegant ever put out by an American factory.

NO SKIDDING NOW.

President Woodrow Wilson does not believe in skidding. He also recognizes that not all dangers are in political skidding, as Manager Irving Reed of the Los Angeles branch of the Republic Rubber Company received word last week that the nation's Chief Executive had equipped his Cadillac with Republic Staggard-tread tires.

STEEL TIRES ARE GIVEN HARD TEST.

A trip of 780 miles over the worst roads in California has failed to disclose any weakness in the new Savage steel tire, which was invented by A. W. Savage, head of the tire company of that name, at San Diego. The Savage chief returned from the north Thursday, highly pleased with the way the steel tire behaved.

The testing department of the San Diego factory has not spent its entire time in testing rubber tires, many trips in the last season having been made to try out the new steel casing. From time to time improvements have been made and the tires which made the San Diego to San Francisco trip were the latest product. These tires showed up so well that work will be pushed on the casing and it will soon be ready for the final tests and the market.

The trip up the coast was made in a White touring car. The car carried in addition to Mr. Savage, Claus Spreckels and two others. The tonneau was loaded until the total weight of the car was 6000 pounds. Everything was done to make this test a rigid one.

That something must be done to obviate the nuisance of headlight glare on the highways is constantly growing more plain to automobile men, but exactly how the remedy is to be applied is by no means apparent.

Everybody Does It.

ARMY OFFICER MAKES LONG TOUR IN WINTON.

"ARMY officers are as enthusiastic over long-distance motor touring as are civilians. Capt. Richmond Smith of the United States army, who recently made a run from Los Angeles to El Paso in his Winton "six," was so enthusiastic over the way the Winton behaved on the long drive that he has completed a summary for the benefit of those who wish to make the jaunt in the near future. Following is some of the captain's interesting road data:

"Arrived in El Paso safely, July 10; might have made a quicker trip, but had to be careful of tires at the finish. Fared all kinds of roads from the finished State highways to paths that a respectable cow wouldn't travel. Found a little heavy sand west of Needles, but pulled through without trouble. Did not get rain or mud until nearly in El Paso, and then it was the regular sticky Texas kind.

"The Needles route is entirely practicable the whole way. The only change in route I had to make was to go to Prescott, Ariz., from Seligman, instead of Ash Fork. Also took the 'borderland' route from Phoenix to Tucson and Douglas instead of via Globe.

"The auto clubs have done wonders in the way of road work east of Tucson, and deserve great credit.

"To make this trip, a person should have every confidence in his car.

"From start to finish, 1700 miles, over all kinds of roads, I didn't put a wrench to the motor, the Bosch ignition never missed a shot, and I never even took out a spark plug. The car could start on a return trip today if needed. In fact, I can hardly say too much for it."

JAR CAUSE.

Tires and springs are not always responsible for the jars and jolts suffered by drivers of old cars. Rebuilt seat cushions often eliminate the rough riding and add to the comfort of the motorist. During the past few weeks, Bentel and Mackey have been doing a great deal of seat cushion rebuilding.

AUTO OUTING.

George Eno of the Jackson Eno Company, local agents for the Mohawk tire, left last week for Kernville, where he will spend two weeks camping. Eno took his trout rods and rifles and intends to spend much of the time hunting and fishing. He is driving his Kissel, which is equipped with Mohawk tires.

PREMIER

WE ARE pleased to announce to our clientage and the motoring public, our acquisition of the Premier line of automobiles.

During the last year, we have gone thoroughly into the Premier proposition with the carefulness and exactitude of the most scientific buyer, which position we can assume, from our eight years' experience as dealers of high-grade automobiles. No individual buyer could have such discriminating taste as we have obtained from our long association, both with the motoring public and the manufacturing industry.

We disassembled the car in our shops, applying all sorts of tests possible. Our Mr. C. F. Smith made two trips back to the Premier factory, investigated every step in the process of the manufacture of Premier cars, from the metallurgist test to the chemical composition of raw material itself to the final road test of the finished product.

We investigated factory conditions, such as financial permanency and their ability to place their cars on the market as a finished product, both mechanically and artistically, also in such quantities as to insure delivery and economy in manufacture, but not in those immense quantities which jeopardize mechanical efficiency and individuality in a motor car.

We next systematically circularized Premier owners throughout the country and interviewed nearly every owner in Southern California, inquiring as to the service and treatment they had received of the car itself and from the hands of the Premier factory.

We then investigated cars of our competitors selling around the same price, in order to perceive the superiority, if any, in the Premier line.

The results of our investigation were so astonishing and gratifying that we hastened to conclude arrangements with the Premier factory as noted in the first paragraph.

You, as a single buyer, would be satisfied with a demonstration showing power, flexibility and smoothness, but we, as buyers in hundred lots, have to go deeper. We have our reputation and future stability at stake.

We now have new 1915 six-cylinder Premiers on our salesroom floor at a new price—$2385 f.o.b. Indianapolis.

His Life's Ambition.

M'GRAW ON VERGE OF NEW PENNANT RECORD.

New York Manager Aspires to Beat Baseball Precedent by Winning Four Flags in a Row—National and American League Teams Have Always Stopped at Three—Cubs and Braves Dangerous.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

MR. M'GRAW is now engaged in a most momentous undertaking, that of trying to win four pennants in a row.

Should he accomplish his purpose, he will have done something never before accomplished by a human being in the American or National league.

Comiskey's St. Louis Browns won four rags in the old American Association, pausing only for a bath and change of underwear in between pennants, but that was back in the eighties and under conditions slightly different from those prevailing in this [illegible] little age.

Pennants run in shoals like fish, or come in bunches like bananas, the majority of clubs which are good enough to win a rag generally having enough vinegar left over to repeat once or twice.

The game's history is replete with clubs which have won from two to three pennants without stopping. Others have won three pennants, taken a year's vacation and then come back for another, as in the case of the Chicago Cubs of 1906-7-8-10.

Chicago won the first National League pennant in 1876, but remained on the job only the one year. Boston took the next two flags, and then abdicated in favor of Providence. Chicago then won three consecutive pennants. The next two flags went to Boston and Providence.

Chicago came back for more in 1885 and 1886. The following year Detroit horned into the championship, after which New York grabbed two pennants. The following year Brooklyn won its first pennant.

Boston reigned supreme in 1891-2-3. The following three years the Baltimore Orioles swept everything before them. This achievement was followed by the usual disintegration, and Boston became boss of the league for two years. Ned Hanlon's Brooklyn team won in 1899 and 1900.

The new century was marked by the birth of the championship Pittsburgh Pirates, rated by some critics as one of the greatest clubs of all time. Three years Clarke's men swept everything before them, and then encountered the inexorable something that heretofore has barred the way to four successive pennants. New York won the pennant in 1904 and 1905, winning the world's championship the latter year.

By this time the Chicago Cubs, under Chance, had grown into great, ferocious bruins, and for three years they wiped up with all rivals in the National League.

Three in a row, however, was all the prosperity that they could stand, and Pittsburgh popped into the championship in 1910.

Responding to the master hand of McGraw the Giants, who figure individually little better than a second-division club, began winning pennants in 1911 and have been at it ever since.

The Cubs are now crowding them, and the Boston Braves are providing one of the greatest sensations since [illegible], in last place in the old [illegible] league, rushed into the [illegible] position by winning nineteen out of twenty-one on its last [illegible] trip.

It may be that history will repeat, and McGraw fail of his life's ambition of winning four flags in a row.

In the American League, Detroit is the only club to win three [illegible] pennants.

The Athletics would have had four without stopping had not two world's championships proved too rich for their blood. They won the American League championship and the world's title in 1910 and 1911. They made the 1912 race a "joy ride," and were beaten out by Boston. You all recall what they did last season, and what they are likely to do this year. In fact, but for that 1912 lapse, the chances are that Mack's men would have made a record of five successive pennants, and an equal number of world's championships.

Following is the pennant-winning history of baseball since the day that major leagues were invented:

HAS CHANCE TO CAPTURE HONORS.

W. H. Rogers, salesman for R. L. Draper, Santa Ana agent for the Lozier car, is now in second place in the sales contest which is being promoted by the Lozier factory. The salesman who sells the most Lozier cars will be given a trip to Europe with all expenses paid, and as a result, salesmen from all over the country are striving to capture first honors.

A number of other prize trips will be awarded. Trips to the Lozier factory in Detroit being offered for second and third-place winners. Rogers has made a wonderful record in Santa Ana, selling a large number of Lozier four-cylinder cars during the past month.

NEW MODEL CAME OUT UNHERALDED.

Without any preliminary announcements, the 1915 Lozier "light four" roadster arrived in Los Angeles last week.

The new model is equipped with wheels painted a bright red and with the dark body for a background, they show up in marked but pleasing contrast. This color will be standard from now on and it makes a natty, racy-appearing roadster. A number of refinements are found on the new model, but material changes are few.

Van Says:

POPULAR BOXERS ARE NOT ALWAYS MONEY GETTERS.

Jimmie Britt Made a Fortune in the Ring, but Was Never Liked by the Fans Until He Was Beaten—Jim Jeffries Was Also an Unpopular Champion — Wolgast the Big Money Maker.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

While popular boxers are often the best drawing cards and good money getters, it is not always the case.

Jimmie Britt was never a popular boxer until he was beaten. Right in his home tome of San Francisco many boxing fans paid their money with the hope and expectation of seeing him licked, and I have often heard him say, when he was in the height of his prosperity, "Fifty per cent. of the fans who go to see me fight want me licked; 25 per cent. want me to win, and the rest go out of curiosity." And he about told the truth. Jimmie also made $225,000 in the game and said that a fighter's money was only worth 33 1-3 cents on the dollar.

It was never until Jimmie was defeated that he was popular in his own town.

This has been true of many fighters. John L. Sullivan was always a popular man, before and after he won the title. Jim Corbett was never popular until he beat Sullivan and when he lost his title to Bob Fitzsimmons, was more popular than ever.

Jim Jeffries, the greatest world's heavyweight champion we ever had, was never popular, either before or after he won the title. This was owing to the fact that he was not much of a mixer. He detested flattery and was always of a retiring disposition, and it is safe today to say that the big fellow, is more popular now than at any time in his life, notwithstanding many of the knocks he still gets from some who forced him back into the game and then lost their money on him when he lost to Jack Johnson.

He probably made more money after he lost his title than any boxer in the game. In talking over these things a few nights ago, the little Dutchman had this to say:

• •
•

"When Freddy Welsh and Abe Attell met in the memorable fifteen-round contest at the Vernon arena several years ago, they drew $8100. At that time I was little known and was never given a look-in as a lightweight champion. I had few friends but plenty of knockers."

I will admit that I believed at the time he was very much of a joke himself.

Any time Ad started the fans knew they would get a run for their money and they patronized his goes.

Before he became the champion, he and Lew Powell drew the largest house in San Francisco outside of a championship affair.

Another bumper house was when he met Harlem Tommy Murphy. Dick Hyland and Battling Nelson drew a little over 1600, and Bat and Dick both were popular in the northern city at that time. But when Wolgast and the Battler met, they drew $39,200, and Ad took the championship away from the Dane the same day.

• •

Since then he and Joe Rivers drew over $40,000 house and in a return match, after he lost the championship, drew $13,000 for ten rounds in Milwaukee.

He and Willie Ritchie also drew $40,107 in the same city and over the same distance.

Both White and Ritchie are given credit for beating Wolgast, but when they met in Milwaukee they drew less than $13,000.

Later still, the little Dutchman met the recent much-touted Johnny Tillman, in a ten-round go in Michigan and got $3750 for boxing Joe with one arm.

This is quite proof enough that it pays to box on the square and always try to win.

Yes, and if that little Dutchman's arms and hands hold out, he will still be as popular and just as big a drawing card as he ever was.

BIGGEST CAR.

Last week Frank McCrillis of Robinson, Ill., visited the Cole factory and when he departed drove a Cole "big six" to his home city. Word from that city assures the reader that the car is the "biggest in town."

Smith Brothers, Premier dealers.

T. C. Whitcomb, factory representative for Premier line, congratulating Clarence F. Smith, left, upon the announcement that Smith Brothers were to handle the Premier in addition to Peerless and Ohio Electric. Stanley Smith is shown at wheel of 1915 Premier "49."

Line Switched.

NEW HOME LOCATED FOR LOCAL PREMIER AGENCY.

SMITH BROS., local agents for the Peerless and Ohio electric, have taken over the Premier agency for Southern California. They are to take charge of the line at once.

The first shipment of 1915 models is due here today and will be placed on the floor of the South Figueroa-street salesroom tomorrow.

The Premier has always been one of America's standard makes and has established a reputation for quality. It is built by conservative manufacturers and only thoroughly-tried-out products are ever offered to the public.

Smith Bros. have ordered $30,000 worth of parts and will open a Premier service station tomorrow morning. Expert factory mechanics will be in charge of this department, and all Premier owners will be cared for.

The new agents have been considering this line for over a year. Receiving the information that at some future date they might have the opportunity of securing it, Clarence Smith went to the factory several months ago, and Stanley Smith has been conducting a circular canvass of the owners, not only in Los Angeles but throughout the United States. Clarence Smith spent a week at the plant in Indianapolis, studying the ability of the company and looking into the financial condition of the concern. He returned satisfied that the Premier company is one of the strongest in America financially and that the factory was one of the best equipped.

"No individual could possibly be as critical in the selection of a car as we were," said Stanley Smith. "Eight years' experience as dealers in high-grade automobiles placed us in a position to give the Premier cars rigid tests. The buyer of a single car would be satisfied with a demonstration showing power, speed and flexibility, but we had to go deeper. We are buyers in hundred lots and a mistake did not mean the misjudging of one car only—our business reputation was at stake.

"We went into the car, disassembling one in our shops and making every possible test. We applied micrometers to the interlocking parts and even went so far as to have a metallurgist decompose the crankshaft and rear-axle shaft and scientifically ascertain the chemical composition. We then applied compression and tension tests to the essential parts.

"Not only did all the tests prove that the Premier is one of the highest-grade motor cars built, but in the letters received from all parts of the country the owners had nothing but praise for the cars.

"We were also surprised by the small cost of upkeep. All of these facts forced upon us the realization that here was a sterling motor car."

The Premier line for 1915 consists of two models, the "6-49" and the Premier Wiedeley. Both are furnished in roadsters, five-passenger touring, seven-passenger touring and all-enclosed models.

This will fill out the Smith Bros.' line, as the firm will continue to handle the Peerless and the Ohio electric lines.

OLD CAR SCORES ON LONG TRAVEL.

Albert W. Seaman and wife of New York arrived in Los Angeles last Wednesday after completing a transcontinental tour from their home city in a 1910 Franklin machine. Mrs. Seaman drove the car almost all the way from New York. The Franklin was equipped with Firestone tires and one tire with 21,000 miles to its credit brought New York air put in June 1, 1913.

HUDSON Six-40
New Model $1550 f.o.b. Detroit

A NEW APEX IN FINE ENGINEERING

The HUDSON Six-40 for 1915 reveals many new standards for high-grade cars.

There are new beauties, new comforts and conveniences. There are many attractions found in no other car.

Last season's model seemed to mark the apex in refinement. But the new-season model brings out thirty-one improvements. The HUDSON engineers—headed by Howard E. Coffin—have spent a year on final touches, and the results of their work will delight you.

And Now a New Price

But the greatest surprise is the new-year price, $1550, f.o.b. Detroit. That's $200 less than last year—due to a trebled output. Now this light-weight Six—the finest HUDSON production—sets a record price for quality cars, either Fours or Sixes.

You will see here the finest example of the modern type of car—light, economical, impressive. Every detail shows infinite pains. There are two extra tonneau seats. There is every good new idea in equipment.

The greatest engineering corps in this industry have now spent four years on this car. Come and see the finished product. It will be a revelation to you in many different ways.

DEMONSTRATION PLANNED BY AUTO CLUB OFFICIAL

PLANS were announced yesterday by officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California for a motoring demonstration which will attract the attention of the automobile world to Los Angeles.

This celebration, to take place next week, will be attendant upon the breaking of a bottle of a well-known California product over the first transcontinental sign to be erected.

All of the events of the day, which will be set aside by 6500 members of the Auto Club for the ceremony, are to be filmed by the moving picture weeklies.

MORELAND THERE.

Led by a double-decked motor truck, which is being built at the Moreland factory for the Auto Club, and which will cross the continent, carrying the signs for placing, the parade will leave the City Hall at noon of the day selected. Behind the truck will come the city officials officials and directors of the Automobile Club and an escort of about 3000 members.

Prominent in the parade of well-known automobile enthusiasts, who have been responsible for

HARD TEST FOR AMERICAN CARS.

GOOD ROADS OF EUROPE BRING MOTORISTS TO HIGH SPEED CHASES.

It is claimed by A. W. Maxwell, manager of the local Studebaker retail branch, that automobiles are required to withstand harder service in Europe than in America.

The Los Angeles manager has received letters from the head of the Studebaker corporation's engineering department, who has just returned from two months spent in Europe, studying motor car conditions there and it is said that the common belief that the requirements are less rigorous in Europe on account of the good roads is erroneous.

While in Europe, the Studebaker official made his headquarters at the London Studebaker store and spent a great deal of his time touring throughout England, Germany and France.

He says that he was surprised to find that on account of the excellent roads found throughout Europe, cars were driven at a high rate of speed and the American-built cars were put to a severe test with the throttles wide open on long runs.

CALIFORNIA BEST.

That California has the best automobile climate and roads in the world is the firm belief of C. G. Barr, according to a letter received by Greer-Robbins Company from him this week. "My Hupmobile has done wonders in this New York mud, but give me California sunshine," he writes in a letter full of praise for the Hup and disgust for the eastern weather.

Along with Southern California's missions, stand the big hotels in the hearts of motorists.

"Is it a good hotel?" is the first question a motorist asks when he goes on tour.

The Auto Club landmark contest is going to show some of these hotels and see how well automobilists know them.

Practically each road throughout Southern California is marked by some well-known hostelry. Can motorists identify them, and are they ready to pilot the 1915 visitors to them next year? That is what the Auto Club officials will find out by the answers received at club headquarters when the contest is over in The Times. From San Diego to Santa Barbara, the gastronomic Riviera of Southern California. Between the Mexican border on the south and Gaviota pass on the north, lie the big hospitable hotels which motorists patronize in their vacation tours.

Today there is a Studebaker shown in front of a well-known hotel. The question is—which one? It may be in Imperial Valley, in Riverside, in Santa Barbara, in Pasadena or in Los Angeles, or somewhere else. It is up to Southern California motorists to pick the spot and tabulate their answer with the others for the prize distribu-

Fast Stuff.

BURNS ROADS, SPENDS DOUGH.

FAST RIDE IS DEMONSTRATION STAGED HERE.

Proebstel of Hanford Visits Los Angeles for Purpose of Purchasing Fast Touring Car and Insists on High Speed at Hands of Stop Watch Before Contract Is Signed.

Seventy-five miles an hour on the road was the somewhat severe test imposed by C. C. Proebstel of Hanford, who came to Los Angeles to get a fast touring car.

It happens that a friend has a roadster that rambles at the seventy mark and Proebstel determined to get a car that would go a little faster. He visited the Simplex headquarters. His proposition was immediately accepted and on a near-by boulevard the car easily showed a speedometer speed of seventy-five miles an hour, but the Hanford man insisted on timing with a stop watch.

Frank Sanhoffer drove the car and made the seventy-five on the first trial. Just to show it was no fluke the car was tested three times. Proebstel was satisfied and will leave this week to show the people of Hanford some real speed.

LUBRICATION.

The chief engineer of the Moon Motor Car Company urges automobile owners to watch the grease cups on the spring bolts. Every movement of the car will cause wear on the spring bolts if they are not properly lubricated and they will soon become loose

For His Country.

LOCAL AUTOMOBILE MAN READY TO FIGHT ENEMY.

AUSTRIA has a volunteer automobile corps numbering about 800 men, according to Charles Stulik, chief accountant of the Mission Motor Car Company of this city. Stulik is a native of Austria and served in the army of his country before coming to America a few months ago.

As he is still subject to recall, Stulik is expecting at any time to receive orders to return to his country and take up arms in the war against the Servians.

While in the Austrian army Stulik was a member of a crack artillery regiment; but he says that the automobile corps has a higher rating and if he returns to the service he intends to take an American-built automobile with him.

It is claimed that the members of the volunter automobile corps are required to furnish their own machines and Mission Company's accountant says he wil take his Detroiter, if the call comes from his government.

The Mission Company has the Southern California agency for both the Detroiter and Glide; but as the Austrian has owned a "Bullnose" Detroiter ever since he joined the local concern, he intends to use his own machine in the military service.

Owners Tour.

TRIP PLANNED FOR MOTORISTS.

AUTOISTS TO INVADE YOSEMITE VALLEY FOR OUTING.

Charles Yeager of Local Cole Agency Busy Framing Details for Run that Is Attracting Attention of Many Motorists, and Special Guide Is to Be Engaged.

Undiscouraged by the fact that the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association has determined not to conduct a tour to the Yosemite this season, several owners who were planning to make the trip have banded together for a tour of their own.

The party is to leave Los Angeles August 12, and is open to every driver who wants to make the trip. The journey into the Yosemite will be made by way of the Merced and Coulterville road. Several days will be spent in the valley, two weeks being required for the entire trip.

A guide will accompany the tourists, pointing out the places of interest in the valley. Hiking parties will be formed each day to visit the different scenic places of the valley, while those who care to fish will find the angling excellent in the Merced River, or in Yosemite Creek. Many limits have been taken this season, and the fish all run large.

A special representative will look after the interest and comfort of the party, securing rates at all the hotels and at Camp Curry, which will be the headquarters of the party while in the Yosemite.

Charles Yeager of the local Cole agency is taking great interest in the trip and says that at least six Cole owners will be members of the party.

Several members of the party will garage their machines at Merced, for the road from there into the valley is difficult. They will continue into the valley on the special train which will leave Los Angeles August 15 with a party of 100 on board. There will be several, however, who wish to drive their cars over the difficult road. Two days will be required for the trip, and the night will be spent at that picturesque village of Coulterville, one of the old mining towns which still retains in a measure the romance of the days of '49.

Those who wish to take the trip can make arrangements with Charles Yeager of the Cole company, or with Frank Springer, No. 206 Mercantile place.

LONG ROUTE IS THE BEST ROAD.

With the State highway under construction on the baseline road to San Bernardino the best road for easy traveling is south from Ontario to Corona and then to Riverside and San Bernardino. Irving Reed of the Republic Rubber Company, made the trip last week, and advises the Corona road.

The route through Corona and over the beautiful Magnolia-avenue drive is longer, but according to Reed the highway is smooth and the ride will be found enjoyable.

EASTERN TOUR.

E. E. Caister, sales manager for the California Motor Company, agents for the Packard lines in this city, left Wednesday for Cedarpoint, O., to attend the convention of Packard sales managers and dealers from all parts of the world. It is his intention also to visit a number of eastern points of interest for pleasure purposes, and will be gone several weeks.

SHORT TOUR.

"Doc" Kittredge enjoyed a two days visit at Riverside last week, driving up in his new Lozier light six. He reported the roads in fine condition and he was pleased with the easy riding qualities of his Lozier.

GOAT GETTER BUICK CHIEF.

C. S. Howard, president of the Howard Auto Company, who, accompanied by his family, has just returned from a week's stay at Catalina Island, brings back six fine goat heads which are being mounted as mementos of the trip.

Catalina completes C. S. Howard's record of having visited practically every nook of the Golden State, and is the only place of interest that he has not driven to in a Buick car.

The two Howard youngsters, Charles, Jr., and Lindsey, dispute honors with their father in bagging two of the goats. As the goats showed several wounds inflicted by the small-caliber rifles used by the juvenile nimrods, their claims are entitled to some consideration at least.

Howard's return to Los Angeles found the local agency in a turmoil of activity, samples of nearly all of the 1915 models having arrived.

MOTORIST HAS KEEN RAMBLE.

BEAUTIES OF TOUR SAID TO BE UNSURPASSED.

Machine Driven by Local Man Gives Excellent Demonstration of Modern Motor Car's Power on Trail-Blazing Run and Feather River Tour.

The call of the Northern California woods has been heard by local motorists. During the last month many cars have taken parties from here into the northern woods and to the lake country.

R. C. Johnson returned last week after a trip to Lake Tahoe and the Feather River country in his Chalmers light six.

Road conditions were experienced and mountains climbed such as are not duplicated on transcontinental tours. The Chalmers gave a wonderful demonstration of what a modern motor car will do.

Johnson left Los Angeles early in June in his Chalmers. He had traveled the regular road from Los Angeles up the valley, through Sacramento and Placerville the previous year and determined to blaze a new trail for the trip to Tahoe this season.

Across the desert to Owens' Lake by way of Mohave and the line of the aqueduct leads the trail.

From Olancha to Lone Pine, Independence, Big Pine, Bishop, Casa Diablo Springs, Mono Lake, Coleville, Merkleville and Meyers Station to Tallac, it winds through canyons and along the heavily wooded slopes of the high Sierras. Past a deserted mining village, along the shores of little lakes it leads, where the whirr of a motor is seldom heard. Camps were made often on the shores of these mountain lakes and Mr. Johnson often supplied the camp with trout.

"Wild wool" Irish robes are quite the rage among autoists just now. They are light in weight, dark colored on one side and plaided in soft colors on the other, with a deep fringe on the ends.

MOTORIST CHOOSES HARD ROUTE FOR EASTERN RUN.

PATHFINDING is a hobby of John A. Runcle, a Philadelphia driver, who has been visiting friends in Los Angeles for the last few weeks. Runcle left last week for the East by way of Lake Tahoe, Portland, Seattle, Spokane, the Glacier National Park and the Yellowstone. He intends to map out an entirely new road to Lake Tahoe, using one of the old wagon trails to Markleeville, and following the Sierra road from there to the lake.

The route is by way of Stockton, Angels Camp, the Calaveras big tree grove and Bloods Pass to Markleeville, and from there to Meyer's station and Tallac.

This road offers more scenic attractions than any other trail to the lake, and Runcle is confident that his big Fiat touring car will have no difficulty in negotiating the heavy grades. Only one car has made the complete journey before, but automobiles have been driven as far as Bloods Pass several times this season.

The Calaveras big tree grove is one of the many attractions of the trip, and is one of the few places of scenic interest that has heretofore escaped the motor tourist, to a great extent.

Silver Mountain, the old deserted mining town, of which only the stone jail remains, is another point of interest. This camp was a prosperous town of 5000 people in 1869.

Bloods Pass, where the summit is reached, is 8700 feet above sea level, and is the second highest pass over the mountains.

TRAFFIC SQUAD THING OF PAST.

MUSHROOM GROWTH PUTS FULL COMPANY IN FIELD.

Original Squad of Eight Seasoned Patrolmen Recruited Up to Strength of Garrison Infantry Command of Butler and Active Men Only Are Safe on Crossings Now.

The Los Angeles Traffic Squad is a thing of the past. Lieut. Butler now commands a full-grown company. The traffic division of the Los Angeles police department would make one of the finest infantry companies in the United States army, according to military experts.

There are just sixty-seven men in the traffic service of Los Angeles. Lieut. Butler is the company commander. There are three sergeants, eleven motorcycle officers, eight mounted officers, five depot men and thirty-nine crossing officers.

The traffic department of the local police department has grown from a squad of eight men and a sergeant in 1908, to one of the finest organizations of the kind in the world.

May 20, 1908, Lieut. Butler was transferred from desk-sergeant to traffic sergeant, with eight veteran patrolmen under him. Previous to that time, there were no rules governing traffic in this city; and the first traffic officers had little work to do.

Now, the traffic officers are among the ablest and most active in the local police service. Traffic on the streets of Los Angeles is so heavy that only an active and alert man is safe on a crossing.

GRAND CANYON TRIP MADE WITH OLD NATIONAL.

San Francisco Man and Auto Companion Enjoy Tour to Scene of Arizona's Scenic Wonders, and One Tire Change Is All that Mars Pleasure of Drive.

E. L. Anderson passed through Los Angeles last Friday in his National touring car on his way to San Francisco, which is his home city.

After driving the National for two seasons Anderson made the trip to the Grand Canyon, accompanied by a friend, H. S. Hill, and one tire change was all that was recorded against the machine on the long run.

The driver and his companion stated that the roads were not boulevards, but that any motorist should not hesitate to make the run down into Arizona to view the scenic wonders of the Grand Canyon and the petrified forest.

Previous to this summer the San Francisco motorist has confined his touring to the northern part of the State, but he says that he will make a long run each summer from now on as his annual vacation. He regretted that he could not stop in Los Angeles long enough to take side trips to San Diego, the Imperial Valley and the San Bernardino Mountains.

LITTLE GAS USED ON LONG JOURNEY.

Driving his Hupmobile 32, to a point south of San Juan Capistrano several days ago, E. W. Grannis states that according to an accurate measurement the total of seventy-three miles showed a consumption of merely three gallons of gasoline.

As an evidence of the consistency of his little car Grannis further states that following this trip he made the runs from Hollywood to Ventura, a total of sixty-nine miles, on exactly two gallons of fuel.

Plans are being perfected by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce for a convention of commercial vehicle interests to be held some time in October to further advance the work begun the past two years.

PIONEERING WITH OLD MOTOR CAR.

Probably one of the most strenuous motor trips ever attempted by a Southern California automobilist was completed by W. J. Burt last week in a 1912 model Auburn "40" touring car.

Accompanied by A. A. Harris of the Auburn sales force and William Harris, W. J. Burt left Los Angeles on what was intended to be a deer locating expedition. The drive to Fresno was uneventful; but in the eastern part of Fresno county quite difficult roads were encountered.

Out of Fresno the King's River road was followed east to the end. At that point the motorists were to secure saddle horses and pack mules for the trip into the mountains, but arriving at Maxon's ranch, where the horses were to be signed up, they were told that no pack animals were to be had.

ONE ROAD.

It was explained that the only way was to return to Fresno and from there take another road into the Dinkey River country. The rancher said that there was a mule trail over the mountains from King's River to Dinkey River, but no automobile had ever made the run.

After getting a description of the trail, Burt and his companions decided to try to make the forty-four mile run with the machine.

Burt says that he never has seen a road to compare with the trail they covered with the old car. They went through heavy timber, over rocks and stumps and up grades that were so steep that they could only make a few feet at a time. It was almost impossible to get traction. At no time could they get out of the intermediate and practically all the work was done in the low. There were places where the motorists had to bridge over rocks in order to clear the axles of the car.

The country is said to be beautiful, especially at the end of the run around Dinkey River, where they passed through some heavy timber land.

The trip was made without the slightest mishap to the car or even tires.

The Maxwell team has come to the front with rapid strides during the present racing season with the two Los Angeles boys and Hughie Hughes as pilots, and it is safe to predict another good showing at Elgin.

Crack Shots Hit Trail With Match on Schedule.

Fast Time Made Between Two Rifle Ranges.

Passengers Win Double-Head Target Contest.

The smooth-riding qualities of a Moreland truck helped win a rifle match last Sunday. The sharks of the Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver Club, having to shoot on their Glendale range against the Tucson Rifle Club in the morning, and having a date with the Turners at Schuetzen Park for another match in the afternoon, sent the Moreland Motor Truck Company a long yell of distress.

A big Moreland truck slid into the Glendale grounds at noon; the riflemen having made the biggest score of the season against Tucson, piled into the truck and were off for the afternoon match against the Germans, nine miles away.

The Moreland made record time, arriving in time for the team to get in all the practice needed before the match opened.

The results saw five of the rifle club men with the highest scores made in the three matches against the Germans. Three of them beat the highest man of the German team. The ten men on the team defeated the Germans by eighty-five points.

It was evident that the riding qualities of the big Moreland were such that rifle-shooting nerves were not disturbed by any jar. Only riflemen can appreciate the handicap that comes from a long, tiresome ride before a match.

The use of automobiles in Turkey continues to become more general, and American cars are seen frequently. Quite a number have been sold to the government. The postoffice administration in Constantinople has a powerful autovan for collecting and delivering mail matter between the central office in Stamboul and the branches.

Kettle, alcohol lamp, tea caddy, cream flask, butter jars and a small sandwich box can now be had, compactly fitted in small leather tea boxes for use on motor trips.

LATEST CONTENDER FOR LOCAL MOTOR HONORS.

Well-Known Auto Man Hears of Attractive Models Put Out by Detroit Factory and Hurried Trip to Plant Lands Agency for Southern California Territory.

The Car-Nation is to make its first appearance on the streets of Los Angeles next Wednesday. Brown and Ruggles, Southern California distributors for the Car-Nation line, received a wire yesterday stating that the first carload shipment would arrive in Los Angeles late Tuesday night.

During the past week inquiries have come in from all over Southern California and Arizona, to the Brown & Ruggles office, concerning the new car. Many applications for suburban agencies have been received and demonstrations have been booked over the telephone, by mail and in person, by interested motorists of Los Angeles and near-by places.

Herbert T. Brown of the local agency is the only man in the city who knows the new Car-Nation. Brown heard of the car being put out by the American Volturette Company and made a flying trip to the factory at Detroit. While there he put the machine through a series of hard tests, over the roughest roads he could find outside of Detroit, and when the car qualified, he signed up for the Southern California territory.

Both a touring car and a roadster are put out by the Car-Nation makers. The specified wheel base for both models is 105 inches.

The car is extremely foreign in design, with a V-shaped radiator, demountable wire wheels equipped with Firestone tires, left-hand drive, gradually-widening hood, and cowl to the full stream-line body.

It is claimed that the mileage secured to the gallon of gasoline averages from twenty-four to thirty miles.

LARGER SQUAD.

Three salesmen have been added to the force of the Weinstock-Nichols company to care for the increased business of this accessory firm. Leo Westcott will act as city salesman. Fred B. Egan will cover the country territory, while Henry Girke has been added to the store selling staff. H. E. Clem, who has been country salesman, has been promoted to the position of sales manager.

ROBT. BURDETTE HAMMERS MARKET POT HUNTERS.

An Eloquent Plea from a Great Writer, Asking the Voters of California to Protect the Wild Game of This State from the Phoney "People's Fish and Game Protective Association."

BY ROBERT J. BURDETTE.

A CRY for help has gone out in Southern California during the past month from lovers of wild life and fair play, in protest against a menacing combination in San Francisco, which is making a Statewide fight to kill the "no-sale" game law.

This would throw California open to an army of alien market hunters, who will devastate the State and wipe out its wild life. Birds and the various animals have had many enemies among men and other animals; but it has remained for certain market game men of California to produce an organization equipped with officers, directors, a pretentious title, and with a campaign fund, to accomplish what is, (in the estimation of the nation's experts,) the annihilation of much of the most important wild life and game of California.

So subtle is the working of this association; in such a virtuous and humane way does its name tinkle upon the ear; so clever are its arguments to swing into line the labor unions against the "idle rich," that more than one good man and woman has been deluded only too late to find out the hollow cant, the hidden menace, and the real motive—money—at the expense of the State of California.

The women voters of California are not well informed as to the game laws or game conditions in California; but the situation is as follows:

Such men as Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of the Audubon Society; Dr. Henry van Dyke, Dr. John Willis Baer of Occidental College, Dr. Bovard of the University of Southern California, Dr. Scherer of Throop College of Technology, and such women as Madame Severance of Los Angeles, Mrs. Clara B. Burdette, president of the Civic Club; Mrs. R. J. Waters, president of the Friday Morning Club; Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, president of the Ebell Club; Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, Mrs. Simmonds, vice-president of the Friday Morning Club; Mrs. James A. Garfield of Pasadena, and others, have become founders and advisers of a society called "the Wild Life Protective League of America." Its object is to prevent, in a sane, legal and just way, the extinction of animal life in California. Many of them have been working for years on this and similar questions; but this summer and fall they are confronted with a situation unbelievable, did we not have the facts.

It is well known to all intelligent men and women in America, that wild life, such as deer, bison, quail, grouse, doves, antelope, pigeons, trout, ducks, snipe, etc., has been so reduced in America by market hunters, that if placed on sale it would soon become extinct.

The members of the Wild Life League referred to, and thousands in California and out, know this, and some time ago, when many birds were faced with extinction, succeeded in securing the passage of a State bill stopping the sale of game on the market. It was a sane, just and humanitarian measure, and was a mailed fist thrust by "the people" in the nick of time between game and extinction. It put hundreds of market hunters out of business, took a few dollars out of the pocket of fish and game dealers in San Francisco, and interfered with some cafes.

The market men, market hunters, dealers and their allies, called this an interference with the "people's rights," an outrage, an obnoxious law. They claimed fish and game was the property of the State, and permission should be allowed every citizen to equally take and possess it. It was an insult to the intelligence of labor to use this argument, but you will find it in black and white in their petition and over their name. It was just as though a man should enter Westlake or Griffith Park and say, "This is the property of the State. I am a citizen and want my share," and proceed to make cordwood of the trees and do away with all laws which stood in the way.

The market men went about it in a dignified way. They wanted to "protect" their business. They were the "people," so they founded the "People's Fish and Game Protective Association of California." Here are the founders and the business they were engaged in at the start in 1913:

President, Hon. Barclay Henley, attorney for John F. Corriea, game and poultry dealer of San Francisco; vice-president, John F. Corriea, game and poultry dealer of San Francisco.

Executive Committee: Cecil Raymond, game and poultry dealer of San Francisco; L. A. Sischo, market hunter, (shoots ducks and game for public markets;) W. H. Maack, wholesale fish dealer, San Francisco; John B. Campodonico, game and commission merchant, San Francisco.

Of course every one did not know that these "founders" were trying to protect their own business only, nor did they know that the Fish and Game Commission of the State of California had had trouble with some of them, which has been given to the public everywhere as follows, by Frank M. Newbert, president of the Fish and Game Commission of California:

"L. A. Sischo (director of the People's Fish and Game Protective Association of California,) a market hunter operating in the San Joaquin Valley, was arrested twice in 1910 for violating fish and game laws. Director John F. Corriea and his company, engaged in the sale of game, has been arrested twenty-one (21) times in the past few years for fish and game law violations. Director Cecil Raymond, and his companies, also game dealers, was arrested thirty-one (31) times in the past few years for fish and game law violations. How many times, we wonder, did they get away without being caught?"

The name sounded well, and the average honest man or woman would offhand say that "The People's Fish and Game Protective Association of California" was devised to protect the people's fish and game from some enemy, and so it was. The enemies are Dr. David Starr Jordan, Dr. Hornaday of New York, the Audubon Society of California and America, with its 50,000 or more members, the presidents of all the women's clubs, and a great army of people in America representing millions who do not believe in extinction. But the people are careless and forgetful, and the market men and their friends invoked the referendum, secured 30,000 names to the petition, and stopped the "no-sale" law intended to save ducks and pigeons, and this will be voted on in November.

So easily accomplished was this, that in June they started an initiative petition around the State, to practically place all game on the market, and they are circulating their petitions now far and wide. If they can get about 33,000 signatures, this, too, will go on the ballot to be voted on in November, and might be passed if the people are careless and do not understand it. Should it pass, the restaurants and hotels of San Francisco can sell game during the fair, and all the work of all the wild life-saving societies of California for the past twenty years would be destroyed.

It means EXTINCTION, ANNIHILATION AND EXTERMINATION of wild game, demoralization of the game commission, and anarchy. The line is closely drawn. It is the market men, the market hunters and their friends, with their records as given by the Fish and Game Commission, against the colleges, men and women clubs, the highest intelligence of California, the great reform clubs of all America, the best hotel men.

It is evident, at a glance, that hotels would like to provide game—deer, ducks, antelope steak, quail and trout—to their guests. It means everything to them, but they know, at least in Southern California, that it cannot be done in California without menacing the life tenure of all game; so the hotels of Southern California, and such men as Mr. Goodwin of the Alexandria, Mr. Raymond of the Raymond, and Frank Miller of Riverside, stand with the "Wild Life Protective League" and have refused to indorse the action of the market men of San Francisco, who founded the misleading "People's Fish and Game Protective Association" to protect themselves at the expense of California's wild life.

As these lines are written, it is learned that the initiative, which places practically all wild game on the market, has failed—lacking many thousands of signers. But the dangerous referendum stands. It places wild ducks on sale and annuls the present righteous law saving these birds from extermination. This will be voted on in November. Perhaps you will have to vote "Yes," perhaps "No," but in any event the advice of the Wild Life Protective League is to vote against any change in the present law, which stands between wild life and extermination.

[Signed]

ROBERT J. BURDETTE,
Member of Advisory Committee of the Wild Life Protective League of America, Department of Southern California.

Work was commenced on the subway last year and its completion is of interest to autoists. It eliminates the heavy grade at that point and cuts the crossing of the Southern Pacific tracks, both of which were objectionable to motorists.

The New Studebaker Automobiles

One-Profit Cars Because They Are Studebaker Manufactured Cars

Today—or tomorrow—go to the Studebaker store and see the new Studebaker models, FOUR and SIX.

Two types of each—five-passenger SIX and seven-passenger SIX; FOUR Touring Car and FOUR Roadster.

You will find them competing with cars that sell at prices $500 higher; and you will also find them showing higher quality throughout.

Studebaker prices are lower because these cars are completely manufactured in Studebaker plants, carry but one profit, and impose no middleman's tax on the buyer.

But we do not want or ask you to consider Studebaker Cars solely on price.

If you ask why they are better—why they give and always have given thorough satisfaction—consider the aims, ideals and honesty of purpose behind them; the quality of Studebaker materials; the vast extent and intensiveness of Studebaker manufacturing methods; the excellence of their engineering design; and the fact that in each and every important or vital particular these cars welcome comparison with the highest priced.

There is only one way by which Studebaker quality can be put into a "Four" or a "Six" to sell at Studebaker prices.

That is the Studebaker way, which means complete manufacturing and the elimination of the parts middlemen and their extra profit; not the assembled or semi-manufactured way.

Complete manufacturing, its economies and the excess value it puts into the cars represent the Studebaker ideal.

In the case of the Studebaker, millions of dollars are invested in plants, machinery and special equipment.

Our huge production and sales turn our investments into manufacturing economies—we can well afford equipment the cost of which must be prohibitive to any producer whose output is smaller than Studebaker.

For example, we maintain the largest and most completely equipped laboratories in the automobile industry, which not only work out the special formulae for Studebaker steels, but test and analyze the steels to be certain they are up to specifications.

We maintain huge heat-treating plants for the heat-treatment of vital parts, like gears, axle shafts, front axles, etc.

We make our drop forgings in our own forge shops.

We cast and machine and build complete every Studebaker motor.

We make our springs in our own spring plant.

We make our bodies and tops in our own body and top factories.

In short, we make a greater proportion of the parts for Studebaker cars than other producers make for their cars.

And being complete manufacturers, we can and do make the parts of Studebaker cars of better, stronger, longer-wearing materials; and put better value into the cars at a stated price.

Ride in the new Studebaker and you will see the result of Studebaker complete manufacturing.

If you are not expert enough to appreciate this value, ask the advice of some man who is expert.

He will tell you that the way the Studebaker sticks to the road is due to its perfect balance, and that, in turn, is due to scientific design—complete manufacturing.

He will tell you that the lack of vibration is due to perfect fit and alignment of parts—again the result of complete manufacturing.

You will learn that heat-treatment of parts makes them stronger and last longer.

And you know that light weight means economy of gasoline and oil and tires.

Through motor refinements and up-to-date designing, these cars have power in excess of all requirements.

You will be delighted with the clean simplicity of the motors; their perfect accessibility; and you will see that you can care for a Studebaker with the least time and effort.

We would advise you to waste no time in seeing the new cars.

Delivery can be had at once of either model; and the best motoring season is before us.

When you shop around, keep your mental impressions of Studebaker value always before you for comparison; and remember that this value is the great result of Studebaker volume and Studebaker complete manufacturing.

Tables were turned in the second game, Keating out-pitching Collamore and Hagerman.

SOUTHERNERS FAVOR FEDS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ATLANTA (Ga.) July 31.—Dissatisfaction with the National Baseball Commission over the case of Bisland and Kraft has started a movement in the Southern League to join the Federal League.

Maj. Frank Callaway of the Atlanta club today declared that he was in favor of quitting organized ball as soon as possible and casting lots with the Federals. Mr. Callaway stated that this was the position taken also by Birmingham. As these two are the leaders in attendance in this league and have the most solid financial backing, the next meeting of the league may find the Southern in the "outlaw" class.

Atlanta's grievance with alleged incompetent umpires was brought to a head today by the arrest of Umpire Rudderham on the charge of using abusive language to a fan who had been joshing him. The arrest was ordered by President Callaway.

Outfielder Quinlan of the Oaks sprained his ankle in the eighth inning and was carried from the field. The score:

EVANS WINS TITLE AGAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GRAND RAPIDS (Mich.) Aug. 1.—For the third time during his brilliant career on the links, Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater Club, Chicago, today won the western amateur golf championship. He played one of the most remarkable matches in American golf history and defeated James D. Standish, Jr., of Detroit, 11 up and 9.

Standish was completely outclassed every step in the journey.

Not content with lowering the record for the eighteen-hole course from 70 to 69 in a practice contest last week, Evans shot the forenoon half of his game today with Standish in 67.

Going around in par—something which only a few noted golfers were able to do during the tournament—was an easy performance for the champion.

It was necessary to play only nine holes this afternoon to complete the match. Evans turned in a card of 37, one down on par, and Standish took 39 strokes. In the forenoon the Chicago star went out in 34.

In a Paige.

SEATTLE PAIGE DRIVER MAKING DESERT TOUR.

A. H. MARTIN arrived in Los Angeles last week from Seattle in a Paige touring car. Martin is making a tour in his machine to Arizona. He intends to go as far south as Phoenix, taking in the Grand Canyon, Petrified Forest, Roosevelt Dam and Salt River Valley.

When it was remarked that this was a rather hot time of the year for a motor trip into the desert country, the Paige driver said that it did not bother his car and as long as the car got along all right he had nothing to worry about.

Martin is a civil engineer by profession and has spent a great deal of his life in the open, but this is his first motoring trip of any great distance. He is traveling alone, and, while he prefers to stop at the hotels along the route, he says it makes little difference to him where darkness overtakes him, as he sleeps in the car.

It is the intention of the northern man to come back from Arizona by way of Yuma and the Imperial Valley. He came down the inland route from San Francisco, and is to return over the coast route.

FITZGERALD SPEED KING.

Seal Outfielder Is Fastest Man in Baseball.

Injury to Arm Has Kept Him in Background.

Is Improving and May Return to Majors.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

To be the fastest player in baseball and still released, fired and booted around like an old shoe by manager after manager, is a unique experience, to say the least.

"The fastest player in baseball." That is the title which has been attached to Justin Fitzgerald, right fielder of the San Francisco club. Managers who have seen them all—Cobb, Milan, Lobert and the other speed merchants, declare that Fitzgerald has something on them when it comes to sheer speed.

And yet this Mercury of the paths probably has drawn more releases than the average player—men who are mere tortoises on the paths.

But speed profiteth a ball player nothing unless he has two arms. Fitzgerald's feet, the fastest thing in spiked shoes, were not sufficient to offset the handicap of a lame arm. Fitzgerald's whip failed him early in his career, and this explains his repeated releases, as well as his presence in the Coast League at the present time. But for this weakness he would be in the majors.

But his arm is now "coming back," and if the "comeback" proves to be on the square he will get another chance in the big show, and that before very long.

Always a .300 hitter and too fast for the moving-picture machine, his lame arm alone has stood between him and baseball greatness.

Chase, then manager of the New York Americans, "discovered" Fitzgerald in 1911 and took him to the big town along with "Red" Lynch and Ed Wilkinson, athletes who also had saturated their systems with dead languages at Santa Clara.

After Fitzgerald had been in twenty games with the Yanks, a tendon in his throwing arm exploded. He was farmed to Sioux City, it being figured that Iowa's matchless climate might work a cure. A little later Harry Wolter busted a bone in his sliding leg and Fitz was recalled to New York. Near the end of the season he was turned over to Jersey City, which is sort of an asylum for sick Yanks.

In the spring of 1912 Bud Sharpe, Fitzgerald and Wilkinson were traded to Oakland as part of the deal whereby Wolverton became the proud manager of the Yanks.

Fitzgerald on arriving on the Coast found his arm still in a languid condition and refused to report. He felt that he could not get in condition and rather than draw money under false pretenses, he took up carpentering, which does not place much of a strain on the throwing arm. Sharpe, being a broad-minded citizen, gave Fitzgerald his unconditional release. Bud lived to regret this later.

Learning of Fitzgerald's free and untrammeled condition, Portland tendered him a contract, but it was a pork-and-bean document, which did not appeal to Fitz, who was again in fair playing condition.

Later, however, McCredie raised his bid and Fitzgerald joined the Beavers in July. He finished the 1912 season with that club, closing with a batting mark of .255 and many stolen bases.

The following year his arm again went bad and he wrenched a ligament or two loose in his best leg.

These newly-developed calamities were followed by his release to the Portland club of the Northwestern League, which in turn released him to Spokane. Spokane, not to be outdone by any other club, released Fitzgerald and went the others one better by doing so unconditionally.

Del Howard dragged Fitzgerald from the carpenter's bench last spring, figuring that anyone with such remarkable feet was worth taking a chance with.

"The fastest man in baseball," who didn't cost Howard a "nick," lived up to his reputation for speed right from the jump. His arm showed signs of lameness, but he was kept in the game on account of his hitting and base running. Now his wing is on the mend and baserunners ponder deeply before taking liberties with it.

Fitzgerald's speed is almost uncanny. He can beat out almost any kind of a lick to the infield that is not handled with absolute precision, while a slip or fumble may be followed by a successful dash for an extra base.

Give him the judgment of a Cobb or a Milan and he would out-luster either of them on the bases. He may gain this by experience.

He has the feet and legs of a great ball player.

Here's hoping that his arm remains sound and elastic.

GAS CARS NOW.

Winton Six Scores Over Horse-Drawn Vehicle in the Government Road Service.

For some time past the United States office of public roads has been conducting extensive traction experiments.

The purpose of these experiments is to determine the draft required on various types of roads with different widths of tires and on different grades. Up to the present, this work has been done with horse-drawn vehicles. These vehicles will now be supplemented by a Winton "six," which carries special dynamometer equipment for that purpose.

The object in using a motor car for this work is to cover greater distances, and also to determine the resistance offered by various kinds of road surfaces to motor car traffic, and the effect of that traffic on the surface itself.

The mechanism installed in the car records the power required to turn the drive shaft, the speed of the car, the distance traveled, and the time consumed. All this data is automatically recorded by the dynamometer mechanism on a single sheet of paper while the car is in operation. The instruments are calibrated on the basis of the power delivered at the rims of the rear wheels.

VENICE RUNS AWAY WITH THE SACRAMENTO GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 1.—By bunching hits in the sixth inning, Venice today put six runs over the plate and made the game with Sacramento a runaway affair, winning 14 to 3. Hitt allowed only three hits in his six innings on the mound and then Fleharty relieved him, allowing five hits for three runs in the seventh and eighth innings. Bill Leard was chased out of the game in the fourth inning by Umpire McCarthy for disputing a called third strike. Venice now leads in the series, four games to three, with two games remaining for tomorrow. The score:

WILDING AND BROOKES MAKE A CLEAN SWEEP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1.—Australasia's tennis pair, Norman E. Brookes and Anthony F. Wilding, made a clean sweep of the Davis cup matches on the courts of the Allegheny Country Club at Sewickly today, by beating Otto Froitzheim and Oscar Kreuzer, the Germans, in the singles. The real honor of the day fell to Kreuzer, who let himself out in the third set of his match against Brookes and played the famous Australasian off his feet. Kreuzer could not hold the pace, however, and he had to let down on his sensational racquet work, with the result that Brookes's final score was 6-4, 6-2, 6-8, 6-2.

Wilding had little to do to defeat Froitzheim at 6-3, 6-4, 6-2. The rallies were good and well fought. Wilding showed his ability to hold the winning shot, however, and he won without any apparent effort.

Awful.

SAN GABRIEL COUNTRY CLUB BALL TEAM WINS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

THE San Gabriel Country Club's baseball team leads the Country Club League now and the honor rests between them and the Los Angeles Country Club team, whom they meet a week from next Saturday—Auugst 9.

They played the Annandale team yesterday at the Annandale Country Club amidst a merry and fashionable audience and won with flying colors, 22 to 11. Capt. George Cline is exuberantly triumphant and feels that his club's golf mereness is wholly vindicated in their baseball prowess.

Yesterday's triumph for San Gabriel was chiefly due to the inimitable pitching of Mowatt Mitchell and Clarence Bricker and the catching of Stanley Mitchell, each of the Mitchell brothers likewise being responsible for two thrilling home runs.

Annandale had been feeling happily confident since their radiant conquest of Los Angeles two weeks ago, when the Baer brothers proved invincible, but on this occasion their home runs were achieved by Ab French and Catcher Smith, the latter making manful but vain attempts to wrest the glory from the invaders.

It was a warm but entirely pleasant day and from the way Annandale managed to enthusiastically cheer the victors in a whole-hearted and gentlemanly manner you would have suspected them of being really satisfied with the result.

THE PRESIDENT'S CUP.

In the meantime Dr. W. H. Spinks was striking his way to victory at the Los Angeles Country, where he won the much-coveted president's cup in the golf tournament. He defeated Frank Gillelin in the 36-hole finals by 8 up and 6.

Dr. Spinks has won many minor events, but this is his first large achievement. It deserves that description, for he had had to play his way up through a flight of sixty-four players. He is a 12-handicap man but has been playing to a 6 rating recently and is confidently regarded as a golfer of possible future. Frank Gillelin, the runner up, ordinarily regarded as an equal match for the doctor, was playing his best game, but the doctor surpassed his own best and won by a handsome margin.

Hutton Martin is fast taking his place among the best professionals in the country and the Los Angeles County Club, to which he is attached, is taking a very precious interest in his future triumphs. His recent splendid victory at the San Diego open tournament, following as it did first-place honors in all of the open events in this part of the country, settled the question as to whether he should go East for the national.

He will start on Wednesday and will represent Los Angeles first at the Lombard meeting in Chicago on the 13th and 14th of August, then at the national tournament he will compete for the open championship of the United States at the Midlothian Club, and finally finish up what is confidently expected to be a triumphant journey, at the western open championship meeting at Interlarken, Minnesota.

All the golfing members of the club are taking the profoundest interest in his welfare and they are confident of his success.

Only 200,000 miles of 2,000,000 miles of public roads in the United States have been given a hard surface.

Frisco Wins Again.

mere remnant of the same. Something like one out of the two games today, for instance.

"Spider" Baum carried a horse shoe into the ring with him, while "Long Tom" Hughes forgot and left his at home. On top of this bit of absent-mindedness, the Angels made two fatal boots while the fielding of the Seals was up to snuff at all times.

Balancing the box score on the bridge of my reading goggles, I find that the performances of Hughes and Baum were pretty evenly balanced. Each yielded nine hits.

ANGEL ERRORS.

Both of the Angel errors were coupled in the fourth with "Long Tom's" one splotch of wildness. Hughes issued three walks in that round and allowed three hits, but even so, the Seals would have been turned back runless had our fielders been working at their well-known trade.

It was an even thing, with the teams running along 1 to 1 until the fourth, when San Francisco iced the game with a five-run killing.

Again all the breaks were against the Angels, and only in the first and fourth were they able to make their licks count. Fitzgerald caused himself to become generally hated by picking a "Rube" Ellis fly out of the right field bleachers in the fourth, which, but for his pernicious activity, would have gone for a home run. About the only way to beat that bunch is to use a piece of gas pipe.

Both sides arranged to do all their scoring in the first and the fourth, and all the other innings might as well have been knocked off the programme, thereby saving much valuable time.

Fitzgerald issued in the opener with a wicked little grounder that caused Bill Abstein to hastily remove his legs. O'Leary sacrificed and Schaller flied to Maggert. Downs drove the ball into the ground with great force, bouncing it far over third. Metzger jumped up and made a fine stop, later coming down with great force. The best that he could do was to hold Fitzgerald at third. Fitz and Down negotiated a double steal, the former choosing the plate as his portion. Mundorff grounded to Page.

HUGHES WALKS 'EM.

This one was quickly matched in the second half. "This is the life," sang "Bridegroom" Harper, as he sauntered to the plate. The first act of our brand new Benedict was to bang a Baum bender to the left field pickets for three bases. Mr. Harper held his base in a dignified and substantial manner, while Page popped to Corhan, and then successfully lit out for the plate when Maggert placed a long fly in the tender keeping of "Biff" Schaller. Abstein flied to the same party.

Friend Baum singled in the third and so did Fitzgerald, but these things didn't feaze our boys, the "Spider" getting trapped at the plate later in the inning.

"Long Tom" began to hear funny noises under his bonnet in the fourth and walked Downs. This looked bad, Jerry being the first man up. Hughes then committed a strike-out on Mundorff, the same being followed by a pass to Cartwright.

DOWNS SCORED.

Brooks made a nice shot to get Downs off third, and probably would have succeeded had not Jerry wriggled his shoulder around in front of the ball. This caused the sphere to miss Metzger's ample hands, and Jeremiah scored on what should have been the second out. A pass to Schmidt promptly plugged the sacks again.

Baum drove down to Page for what appeared to be a stereotyped double play, but all our well-laid plans missed fire when Johnson, covering second, muffed Bill's throw. Cartwright counted on the ball-up, and the bases remained glutted.

The Seals here indulged in their favorite pastime of driving the ball into the ground. Corhan scored on Fitzgerald's bounder to Johnson. O'Leary chopped the ball, and it hovered just inside the third base line, where it remained an object of considerable interest to Mr. Brooks, while Schmidt scored. Baum attained the plate while Schaller was engaged in beating out a slow and vascillating grounder to our shortstop. Downs, around for a second portion, flied to Maggert.

A GREAT CATCH.

Maggert singled infield in the fourth, and Abstein was subdued on strikes. Ellis lashed the ball into deep right with even more than his usual vim. The blow made a noise like a home run, until Fitzgerald, his back solidly planted against the bleachers, caught the ball. Johnson and Metzger both singled, Maggert scoring by easy stages. Brooks popped to Downs, leaving the strays to perish.

Three hits in the fifth availed nothing. Hughes set the pace for his pals with a clean single over short. Harper forced him at second. Page punched a single in left, Harper taking second. Corhan made a flying dive and knocked down a single by Maggert over second. Otherwise, Harper would have scored, sure as shootin'. This placed a home bloke on every base. Abstein struck out, thereby bringing tears to the eyes of all those present. Page, exploring the open country between second and third, executed the third out when the slimy Mr. Schmidt threw the ball down to Corhan, the ready shortstop of the Seals.

Right here, both Hughes and Baum decided that all playfulness should cease, and the last four innings were almost totally devoid of anything that could be construed as batting.

MORE ROOM IS ADDED BY FIAT.

RECORD MADE IN RACING GAME BOOSTS ITS GROWTH.

Five-Story Building Latest Addition to Automobile Factory Across the Water Made Necessary by Great Business Increase of Foreign Line Handled by Local Concern.

Word of the completion of a large new building which will house the coach work and finishing departments of the Fiat factory at Corso Dante, Italy, has been received by the Carlton-Faulkner-Bowles Company, local distributors for the Fiat car. The great interest taken in the Fiat through its victories in racing and its wonderful record the world over for service, has increased the trade to such an extent that the Fiat people find that their present plant is incapable of handling the trade, and the new building is but the first of three which will be built to take care of the increasing output.

The new building adds eight acres to the floor space, and this will be doubled in the near future. Work has already commenced on the second of the new buildings, and before it is completed, the third will be under way.

Much thought and attention has been given, not only to the fitting of the building for the most rapid and efficient work in building and finishing, but the comfort of the employees has been given every consideration in the new building.

The building is five stories in height with a capacious basement. The strong, simple lines which predominate in Italian architecture of the present day give the building an imposing appearance. Steel-framed windows extending from ceiling to floor give the maximum of light and air. The construction is, of course, reinforced concrete.

The basement of the building is given over to the low-pressure steam plant for heating the buildings, and to the washrooms and lavatories for the employees.

A large locker-room is provided for both men and women, and each employee has his own steel cupboard and his own place at the washstand. Shower baths are also provided for the men, and shower and tub baths for the women. In addition there are special dressing-rooms, first-aid rooms and babies' rooms for the comfort of the women workers.

The upper floors of the building are devoted to the upholstery and coach work departments, the paint shop and the finishing departments. Batteries of the most up-to-date modern machinery make the elegant coach work of the Fiat possible at a greatly reduced outlay. Each floor is divided into five compartments, and is so arranged that each process of the work may be followed quickly and consecutively.

The new building is connected with the old southern works by a subway which is large enough to permit of the passing of two cars and still leave room for a footpath.

The completed building, and the one under construction, which will be similar in height and detail, will be connected by a cross-building, and the whole will constitute the "Flat works East."

Official records of the cars which have made the trip into the Yosemite this season show that 13 per cent. of them have been Cadillacs, and of the Cadillacs, fully 30 per cent. have been cars of the 1909, 1910 and 1911 vintages, or even earlier. The older Cadillac cars usually carry a full camping outfit and from three to four passengers. Any number of 1909 and 1910 Cadillacs are found at the different camps of the valley.

That the Siamese are taking kindly to the low-priced American car is the report of the American Vice-Consul at Bangkok, Siam.

The total registration of automobiles in New South Wales shows more than 9000 motor cars, 300 taxicabs and 500 commercial cars.

The speed limit on the floor of the Yosemite Valley has been increased from six to ten miles an hour. The new ruling is the outcome of a visit to the reserve in an automobile by General Superintendent of National Parks Daniels, and it is thought possible that others of the severe rulings will be modified as a result of the superintendent's trip.

A proposed tax on all vehicles in Cleveland, O., has been indorsed by Mayor Baker of that city. The ordinance imposing it wil now go before the council as an administration measure.

ADDED CLASS AND LOWER PRICES GREAT FEATURES.

R. D. MAXWELL, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Studebaker Corporation received formal notification of the details of the new Studebaker models yesterday.

In addition to many improvements in design, the announcement is of added interest, as it involves a lower scale of prices than has ever governed the Studebaker line in the past.

Reduced weight, greater roominess, more powerful motors and attractive lines are other points of the announcement.

Additional importance attaches to the announcement as it contained the first intimation that the Studebaker Corporation has added to its line two new body types—a five-passenger "six" and a three-passenger "four" roadster.

The five-passenger "six" is listed at $1385, and the seven-passenger "six" at $1450 instead of $1575 as during the past season.

The new three-passenger roadster is the most striking departure from the conventional motor car design. The body is unusually wide, seating three persons comfortably. That part of the seat reserved for the driver projects forward about four inches.

The rear deck, which is covered with aluminum, provides plenty of space for a trunk or other baggage. This new model sells at $985, which is the same as the figure placed on the standard five-passenger "four" touring.

Without increasing the bore or stroke of either the four or six-cylinder motor, Studebaker engineers have practically added about 15 per cent. to the power of each. This was done by reducing the weight of the cars without sacrificing strength, and by the use of larger valves, an improved exhaust manifold, concentric piston rings and lighter pistons and connecting rods.

Timken bearings and a full floating rear axle continue as prominent factors in Studebaker construction. All models now carry crowned fenders and oversize tires, with safety treads in the rear.

The equipment on all models includes the Wagner, separate-unit starting and lighting system, gasoline gauge, dimming attachment for head lights, switch locking device, anti-rumble gasoline tank in dash, crowned fenders, Shebler carburetors and non-skid tires on rear wheels.

To insure prompt deliveries in greater quantities than ever before, important additions have been made to the Studebaker plants in Detroit and South Bend.

Al G. Faulkner of the Faulkner-Carleton-Bowles Company has returned from the East declaring that California is the best spot on the map. He says the heat was unbearable in the East.

Faulkner visited the McFarlan factory at Conorsville, Ind., and stopped in Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans. The purpose of the trip was to see the new 1915 McFarlan "six." Faulkner brings back word that it will be one of the sensational cars of the season. He rode in one of the machines, saw the materials being assembled, watched tests of the motor and chassis and the finishing of the car.

The Solution.

PARKING FLOORS FOR AUTOS NOW SUGGESTED.

PARKING space for automobiles in the business section of Los Angeles has become a serious question. Directors of the Automobile Club of Southern California may consider plans for the revolutionizing of the architectural scheme of downtown office buildings.

With the growing demands of merchants to prohibit cars from standing in front of their places of business in the section of the central city which is not restricted, motorists within the past few weeks have found it difficult to leave their cars while on business.

In a hasty survey of the present situation, automobile club officials have found that conditions are fast reaching a climax.

On Olive street, between Seventh and Eighth, merchants have erected signs warning the motorist not to park in front of their places of business. In this they have assumed the legal right held by hotels and theaters to reserve a space in front of their doors for their own cars.

On Eighth street, between Hill and Olive streets, merchants have adopted the same tactics. This is true on many parts of Olive street.

Where is the motorist going to leave his car?

Parking spaces open to the public for a nominal sum have been tried, but space for these has in most instances been available only in out-of-the-way spots. The vital need is in the very center of the city.

Some of the dealers have suggested to the Auto Club officials that a municipal parking space be set aside to meet the 1915 demand. But after consideration, this plan has been set aside.

With suggestions from Secretary S. L. Mitchell, the directors have finally hit upon a plan which they may frame as a resolution.

They point out that there are several office buildings under course of construction at Fifth and Spring, Seventh and Broadway, Fourth and Broadway and in other parts of the city. Some of them will have subcellars—all of them will have large, flat roofs.

There, Automobile Club officials declare, may be the solution to the parking problem.

Build a freight elevator, as is used in many of the up-to-date garages, and lower or raise the cars to the proper level, whether it be in the basement or on the roof.

Office owners in the building would have first call on the parking spaces, which could be reserved automatically with the lease of the office. Then the remaining spaces could be thrown open to the general public, thus removing from the street the cars which are often left standing the entire day, occupying space which should be given to the man who leaves his car for only ten or twenty minutes.

In buildings which are being planned, architects could make provisions for special parking floors. This has been tried with success in many eastern cities. Los Angeles, however, has probably more cars per capita than any other city of its size west of Chicago, and with thousands of additional cars here in 1915 the space demand will be tremendous.

Quite the most unusual motoring innovation this season is a small hammock which may be swung from each of the side doors. It is for the comfort of baby.

FISHING GOOD AT THE BEACH.

Splendid Reports Coming in from the Sea.

Large Catches of Small Salt Water Fish.

Valuable Information on Bait, Line and Hooks.

BY AD REED.

This season has been an exceptionally good one for all kinds of small salt-water fishing. Reports received weekly show an increase over last year. Below are the reports of this week:

Port Los Angeles—As usual this place has been turning out its full line, ranging from yellowtail and sea trout down to smelt and mackerel.

Santa Monica—A great many fine catches have been reported from here, especially spotfin croaker and the usual small fish having been very plentiful.

Ocean Park and Venice—While not the best places to fish have been unusually good this year, several fine catches of small fish having been reported.

Hermosa Beach without doubt carries off the banner for fishing this year. Several runs of halibut and yellowtail having caused a great deal of excitement. Cornfed mackerel and surf also have been plentiful.

Manhattan—Several runs of cornfed mackerel have helped to make this a good point to fish from. Surf and yellowfin have been plentiful at times.

Redondo this year has held its reputation as usual for fine fishing. As heretofore, it always draws the largest crowd and wharf fishing has been unusually good.

San Pedro bass are very plentiful around the breakwater and near the kelp beds. Reports from the boat men indicate fine fishing outside.

Long Beach—Smelt, mackerel, tomcod and pompano with a few surf and yellowfin have kept the fishermen busy at this point.

Newport—Surf and yellowfin have been very plentiful here this year, also yellowtail and smelt, mackerel and pompano are being taken in large quantities.

Balboa—Fishing has been very good here both in the bay and in the surf. Several fine catches of croaker having been taken in the bay. Fishing in the surf has been very fine at times.

Oceanside—Fishing has been very fine here all season, but owing to the fact of its being so far away it has not been patronized very much by Los Angeles fishermen.

Seal Beach—Yellowfin and corbina have been caught in large quantities at times and ordinary fishing has been good all the season.

Mateo, San Onofre and Agra, on the south coast, continue to lure the fishermen from home. Every Saturday night the Santa Fe midnight train for San Diego having at least one full car of fishermen who drop off at the above-named places to sit in the sand and wait for daybreak to try their luck in the surf.

DEBUT MODEL IS SENSATION.

Price and Motor Subjects of Auto Discussion.

Small Car Has All Features of Old Line.

Demand for Machine of Type Is Realized.

The new Peerless four, announcement of which was made last week, is eagerly awaited along automobile row. The fact that the Peerless company is making for the first time a light car, and one selling at a price less than $4200, has caused no little speculation.

Naturally the low price, and the light four-cylinder motor are the chief topics of discussion. Clarence Smith has been asked time and again whether the new Peerless will be up to the old standards of workmanship and finish.

The new Peerless "54" is every inch a Peerless. The only difference between it and the usual models is size and horse power. It is a light car built to Peerless standards and embodying every feature of Peerless workmanship, quality and durability, that has been present in the six-cylinder car.

The tendency of European makers in motor and body construction is toward the light car, economical to run, and easy to handle. The big cars are still much in vogue for touring, but the little car, to be used in conjunction with the heavy type, for short trips and runs from the country home to the office are proving more popular every year.

Nothing sacrificed in these smaller models. In fact, some of the new light car engines produce speed and power in proportion to car weight never attained in the larger models.

"The demand for a light car of this type, one that was built to the same standards as the more expensive touring cars, has been first realized and met in this country by the Peerless people. This new car follows the most advanced lines of motor car construction as evinced in the new European small cars, the ideal which the large Peerless has been attaining for several seasons. Its handsome streamline body, new individual front seats with aisle between, full electrical equipment and easy riding qualities make it one of the most popular cars ever produced by the Peerless people."

RUSTY RIMS CAUSE DAMAGE TO TIRES.

Experts of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company recommend that car owners have their tires taken off and the rims examined at regular intervals. Where rusty rims are found the use of sand paper and graphite is recommended. Rim paint is also good.

Damaged tubes and casings are both often caused by rusty rims. Where rims are not watched and kept clean, rust eats into the rubber where the tube comes in contact with the rim and the tube life is shortened.

While continuing to build cars of 60-inch tread for the Southern trade, one prominent manufacturer has adopted the wise course of urging his dealers in localities where wide-tread wagons prevail to use their utmost influence for the development of better roads.

MONEY TALKS BEFORE RACE.

It was announced last night that $5000 had been raised at the Moreland Motor Truck Factory to back the three Moreland entries in the motor truck reliability run August 14 and 15. The Los Angeles built truck is to be entered in three classes.

TRUCK CLASSIC HARD CONTEST.

LARGE ENTRY LIST GUARANTEES GREAT ROAD BATTLE.

Many Power Wagons Already Entered for Efficiency Tour to Be Staged by Los Angeles Motor Truck Dealers' Association Next Month Over Long Course.

Twenty-five entries for the motor [illegible] to be held by the Los Angeles Motor Truck Dealers' Association, is the estimate made by the committee handling the affair. The interest shown by the dealers makes this tour one of the biggest events of its kind ever held in the West and should attract the attention of land owners, ranchers, merchants and delivery men.

The trucks are to be started at [illegible] o'clock on the morning of August [illegible] Mayor Rose has been chosen as starter. The trucks are to be sent away at [illegible] minute intervals on the long run.

J. F. Lakin, temporary president of the Motor Truck Dealers' Association, has offered a loving cup for the truck making the best showing in either of the divisions. This silver trophy is to be one of the finest ever given for an event of this kind and will be placed on exhibition this week so that all entrants and prospective entrants can see what is to be offered for the winners of the contest.

Watt Moreland cinched the first three entries. As soon as the entry blanks were ready, he signed three of them and the trucks were entered one in each class. They are to be taken out tomorrow over the course for a preliminary run to test them for the contest.

Every driver and mechanician must be registered under the rules of the American Automobile Association. The sanction is to be issued this week. The number will be wired from New York.

Following the entry of the three Morelands the Mack Motor Truck Company entered a ton and a half Mack truck and followed this entry with a Saurer five-tonner. This is one of the largest trucks in the lists and makes this tour range from the heaviest to the lightest truck on the market.

The Vim one-ton truck, entered by Y. R. del Valle, is the smallest wagon thus far in the lists. The competition in this class is to be keen as the prospects are that at least ten small trucks will be started away on the long run.

The Bulkley-Ride tractor, a fifteen ton truck, is the largest entered. This immense affair is a home-made truck and is in competition for honors that many believed would go to the Moreland.

The Republic ton-and-a-half and two-ton trucks were entered as Nos. [illegible] and 8. These will be sent out with a strong bid for the trophy. In the same class is the Menominee to be entered by F. H. Sinsabaugh. The Little Giant is to be placed in competition by H. L. Miller.

The route chosen is not an easy one. The course is approximately 150 miles. It will be officially measured tomorrow and the data will be ready the middle of this week.

GREAT FISHING AMONG MOUNTAINS OF NORTH.

JOSEPH A. CARROLL has returned from a tour of the Northern California mountain country, which was made in his Stevens-Duryea roadster.

The tour took him into the highest reaches of the Sierras. Fishing and camping was the main object of the trip. The Feather River was one of the many places of scenic interest visited. Carroll reports the fishing in the Feather River good all the way from Oroville to where the road climbs out of the canyon near Mohawk.

Carroll went north by way of the valley route to Sacramento and thence to Marysville and Oroville. Plunging into the Feather River Canyon, he followed it to Mohawk and Clio. The mountains were crossed at Sierraville and the road along the east side of the Sierras was followed to Honey Lake. Here camp was made for several days, while the party enjoyed some good shooting and fishing.

Returning from Honey Lake he followed the road by way of [illegible] Meadows and Red Bluff, and thence to Corning, Maxwell and Vallejo. Carroll had intended visiting the [illegible] Lassen country, but decided that [illegible]gan Springs was close enough to the danger zone.

The return to Los Angeles was made by way of the coast route. Carroll, like others who have had the ill-fortune to attempt the trip from San Francisco over that route, declared it was the worst stretch of road he had experienced.

NEVADA ROADS EXCELLENT ACCORDING TO TIRE MAN.

AFTER a 3000-mile trip in his 1909 Cadillac, which took him into the remotest parts of Nevada, Walter S. Wheaton of the Fisk Rubber Company is loud in his praises of the Nevada automobile roads.

With Wheaton on this trip was J. R. Campbell, factory representative of the Fisk company, who has been spending some time on the Coast inspecting service stations and looking after the trade interests of the company.

The trip took them to Goldfield by way of Owens Lake, Bishop and the White Mountain Pass. From there they drove north to Carson City, Reno and Ely, and through the Ione Valley, that famous wild-horse country of Nevada. In this valley the pair drove 165 miles over nothing but trails. Only one tire change, due to a puncture, was made on the entire trip.

The roads through the parts of Nevada where automobile traffic is found, are in great shape, says Wheaton. The business men of Reno and Carson City, as well as the State, keep men at work on the highways continuously and while they are only dirt roads, they are as smooth as boulevards.

The return from Reno was made by way of Carson City and the Kings' Canyon grade. After a drive around Lake Tahoe the Truckee-Emigrant Gap road was reached, and this was followed into Sacramento.

After reaching Stockton Wheaton drove the old Cadillac through to San Jose and followed the coast route to Los Angeles.

MERCERS ENTERED.

Wishart and Pullen Scheduled to Handle Wheels of Fast Racing Cars in Elgin Road Events.

Two Mercer racers are to be seen in the Elgin road races, which are scheduled for Auugst 21 and 22, under the auspices of the Chicago Automobile Club.

Wishart is to handle the same car he piloted to second place recently at Sioux City.

It was announced last night that $5000 had been raised at the Moreland Motor Truck Factory to back the three Moreland entries in the motor truck reliability run August 14 and 15. The Los Angeles built truck is to be entered in three classes.

TRUCK CLASSIC HARD CONTEST.

LARGE ENTRY LIST GUARANTEES GREAT ROAD BATTLE.

Many Power Wagons Already Entered for Efficiency Tour to Be Staged by Los Angeles Motor Truck Dealers' Association Next Month Over Long Course.

Twenty-five entries for the motor tour to be held by the Los Angeles Motor Truck Dealers' Association, is the estimate made by the committee handling the affair. The interest shown by the dealers makes this tour one of the biggest events of its kind ever held in the West and should attract the attention of land owners, ranchers, merchants and delivery men.

The trucks are to be started at 7 o'clock on the morning of August 14. Mayor Rose has been chosen as starter. The trucks are to be sent away at five-minute intervals on the long run.

J. F. Lakin, temporary president of the Motor Truck Dealers' Association, has offered a loving cup for the truck making the best showing in either of the divisions. This silver trophy is to be one of the finest ever given for an event of this kind and will be placed on exhibition this week so that all entrants and prospective entrants can see what is to be offered for the winners of the contest.

Walt Moreland cinched the first three entries. As soon as the entry blanks were ready, he signed three of them and the trucks were entered, one in each class. They are to be sent out tomorrow over the course for a preliminary run to test them for the contest.

Every driver and mechanician must be registered under the rules of the American Automobile Association. The sanction is to be issued this week. The number will be wired from New York.

Following the entry of the three Morelands the Mack Motor Truck Company entered a ton and a half Mack truck and followed this entry with a Saurer five-tonner. This is one of the largest trucks in the lists and makes this tour range from the heaviest to the lightest truck on the market.

The Vim one-ton truck, entered by Y. R. del Valle, is the smallest vehicle thus far in the lists. The competition in this class is to be keen as the prospects are that at least ten small trucks will be started away on the long run.

The Bulkley-Ride tractor, a fifteen-ton truck, is the largest entered. This immense affair is a home-made truck and is in competition for honors that many believed would go to the Moreland.

The Republic ton-and-a-half and two-ton trucks were entered as Nos. 7 and 8. These will be sent out with a strong bid for the trophy. In this same class is the Menominee to be entered by F. H. Sinsabaugh. The Little Giant is to be placed in competition by H. L. Miller.

The route chosen is not an easy one. The course is approximately 150 miles. It will be officially measured tomorrow and the data will be ready the middle of this week.

Returning from Honey Lake, he followed the road by way of Big Meadows and Red Bluff, and thence to Corning, Maxwell and Vallejo. Carroll had intended visiting the Mt. Lassen country, but decided that Morgan Springs was close enough to the danger zone.

The return to Los Angeles was made by way of the coast route, and Carroll, like others who have had the ill-fortune to attempt the trip from San Francisco over that route, declared it was the worst stretch of road he had experienced.

Two Mercer racers are to be seen in the Elgin road races, which are scheduled for August 21 and 22, under the auspices of the Chicago Automobile Club.

Wishart is to handle the same car he piloted to second place recently at Sioux City.

NOBLEMEN SEE FIGHT DE LUXE.

Scenes at Carpentier-Smith Ringside.

Taylor Thinks that Gunboat Was Winning.

Marshall D. Taylor of The Times staff witnessed the Carpentier-Smith fight in London and sends the sporting editor the following interesting comments on the battle:

After fighting like an omnibus horse for five rounds and failing to take advantage of several openings offered by the Frenchman, Smith spunked up in the sixth and went after his cattish opponent. After receiving several blows in the face he drove in a terrific right-arm smash to Carpentier's right jaw. This dropped the Frenchman to his knees.

Whether Smith was overanxious to administer the coup de grace upon his opponent regaining his feet, or whether he overbalanced himself in delivering the blow, history alone can tell. But he rapped Carpentier upon the back of the head while the French fighter was taking the count.

It is for the general public to decide who really won the fight. Columns will be written about the decision, for and against. The affair will be threshed out in every saloon in the universe. But all I can say is: Gunboat Smith had Carpentier out of the running before he tapped the falling Frenchman on the back of the head.

Smith opened first with two jabs. At all times Carpentier showed speed. His easy and natural crouch puzzled Gunboat. But the rugged American met these with the smile every time the gong sounded for hostilities.

CLERGY PRESENT.

Yesterday's contest at Olympia between Gunboat Smith and Georges Carpentier is now conceded to have been the greatest and most unfortunate prize fight of modern times. Not since the gladiatorial days has so much splendor been seen grouped around an arena. The presence of royalty, the large gathering of the nobility and the enthusiasm of the thousands of ladies present has not only revived, but elevated, the manly art of self-defense.

Today a well-conducted boxing contest in Europe and the British Isles is looked upon as a social affair. It is considered quite the thing for a lady of rank and fashion to invite her guests to witness such an exhibition of skill. Even the clergy and their wives are beginning to unbend and realize that boxing contests no longer are brutal and degrading. Although declining to give their names, there were many sky pilots at Olympia last night and they were not alone. Several acted as escorts to refined and fashionably-dressed women.

SOCIAL SIDELIGHTS.

Olympia was filled with 19,000 madly-enthusiastic people. Excited Frenchmen, stolid Britishers and vociferous Americans vied with each other in championing the cause of their favorite. Grouped around the ring sat the cream of the British aristocracy.

The entire front row of blocks 1 and 2 were occupied by Lord Lonsdale and his party, consisting of no less than sixteen peers of the realm. The occupants of these seats were as follows: Lord Lonsdale, Lord Vivian, Lord Faber, Lord Titchfield, Lord Curzon, Lord Fielding, Lord Caledon, Lord Denbigh, Lord Dalmeny, Lord Northcliffe, Earl of Carnarvon, Earl of Carnworth, Earl of Louth, Sir Melville Macnaghten, Baron de Serclae and Baron Trutschler.

Directly behind these nobles sat Maclaine of Loch Bine, one of the Scottish chieftains; Lady Stanley, Countess of Warwick, Baron and Baroness Schneider, Temple Thurston, the author; Arthur du Cross, member of Parliament, and his brother Alfred, and a number of prominent ladies and gentlemen who witnessed the fight incognito under the shielding cloak of Lord Lonsdale, that famous upholder of clean and manly sport.

Then came the members of the three greatest and most select clubs in the world—Wells' Club, White's Club and the Marlborough Club. There were 225 seats occupied by members of these exclusive clubs at $52 a seat. Two blocks of 250 seats were occupied by members of the Globe Club, whose membership consists entirely of racing men and bookmakers. These seats cost $27 apiece.

Among the noted jockeys were to be seen Stokes, Madden, Trigg and Dillon. Interspersed among the seats on either side of the royal box were a number of the clergy, whose names were unprocurable. It was a sight never before seen in the history of the ring. It would have been impossible to distinguish a man in the seats over $10 who was not in evening dress and with the accompanying top hat. Nearly all wore boutonnieres. As for the ladies, even Miss Elsie Smith, our talented society editor, would have found it difficult to describe the wonderful creations and jewelry which adorned the feminine enthusiasts at this epoch-making fight.

OLYMPIA.

Every available seat in that mammoth building was occupied. The interior was a veritable sea of faces. There was not another seat to be had for love or money. Used as an exhibition hall for machinery, motor shows, military tournaments, kennel club and horse shows, this giant structure of brick, iron and glass resembled the orifice of an active volcano, around which the furies raged.

Every now and again the plaudits from 19,000 throats and 38,000 hands sounded like the crack and rumble of thunder directly overhead. The vivid outbursts of applause we[illegible] like lightning bolts, so spontaneous were they in their evolution.

Long before the preliminaries started 5000 perspiring men and women waited impatiently for the unfriendly doors to open and admit them to the cheapest ($1.25) and unreserved seats. Had it not been for the strong force of police, numerous fights would have occurred and many limbs been broken, so keen were the holders of these tickets to gain admittance and secure possession of their hard-earned seats.

THE RING.

Every particle of the ring was snow-white. Suspended directly above the "squared circle" was a canopy consisting of twenty giant lamps, each of 2000 candle power, and made exclusively for the fight by the Westminster Company. So prodigious was the task of setting up this canopy, so that it would not obscure the view from any part of the hall, that it required the services of a staff of electricians for two weeks.

Alongside this canopy was suspended a narrow platform, on which stood the snap-shot photographers of the Daily Mirror. Dividing the two sections set apart for the American press and directly behind Lord Lonsdale's block of seats was the moving-picture tower. Here the Eclipse Company of Paris worked their chief operators. In order that a single detail of the fight might not be lost a second tower was erected to the left of the royal box, in which a large staff of operators worked.

The ring itself, however, was the objective of all eyes. It was here the principals, seconds and challengers were grouped, preparatory to the starting bell. In one corner sat Gunboat Smith, shaggy and rugged; while facing him sat Georges Carpentier, the idol of France. The former weighed in at 185 pounds; the latter at 169 pounds. It was a tussle between a fearless lion and a crafty and agile tiger.

AMERICAN CONFIDENCE.

While I was busy getting the latest news from my friend, George McDonald, a telegram was handed round from Coffroth in San Francisco, cabling $7500 to be placed on Gunboat Smith. This produced a "mild" sensation, as already $20,000 had been placed on the American champion by his oversea admirers. This tended to lower Carpentier's lead in the betting from 6-4 to even money, which event was greeted by the mass of Americans present with much hand-rubbing and sundry knowing winks.

The American pugilist had an advantage in weight of sixteen pounds, which in clinches and shoving helped him very materially to wear down his lighter though more active opponent. In age, too, Smith was six years the senior of the Frenchman and this also was an advantage, as boxers do not usually attain their prime until 26 or 30 years of age.

From being an awkward fighter Gunboat Smith has developed wonderfully. He defends himself well and appears to have lost much of his apparent wildness. His attack was aggressive and his punches terrific. While Carpentier was being welcomed at Charing Cross, Gunboat Smith was sparring with Mike Flamier and putting in the finishing touches at the King's Head Hotel at Harrow-on-the-Hill. He was utterly indifferent of the trying ordeal of meeting Carpentier at Olympia and went about his work in a painstaking and systematic manner.

The fact that Gunboat Smith disposed of Sam Langford and Bombardier Wells in two rounds, and Georges Carpentier defeated Wells in seventy-five seconds, set the whole of England and France in a ferment of excitement.

THE PRESS.

The newspaper representatives of the whole world occupied prominent positions. Their every comfort was studied to the minutest detail. Nothing was lacking for the prompt dispatch of news. Wallace Jones, secretary of Olympia; Frank Morley, the affable and hard-working American press agent; George McDonald, manager of Matt Wells, trainer of J. Sullivan and one of Gunboat Smith's seconds; Jim Buckley, a seconder of the American fighter; Tom Pritchard, manager of the ring and who had full charge of the Reception Committee, both of Gunboat Smith and Georges Carpentier, spared no time or talent in caring for the large contingent of local and foreign press representatives.

Had it not been for George McDonald, Frank Morley and Jim Buckley, I should have experienced considerable difficulty in procuring data and getting the entre into the highways and byways of this wonderfully-staged boxing contest.

To give an instance of what these men have accomplished in facilitating the press dispatches: All desks have been fitted with special telephone and telegraph wires. In addition to the thirty seats occupied by my country's representatives of the press, the seats of the English and French newspaper men were all fitted in a similar manner and in direct communication with the pressrooms.

It is to Randall Charlton, sporting editor of the Daily Mirror, that the press has received such flattering honors. For the past two months this accomplished writer and indefatigable worker has perfected the plans for the staging of this fight and upheld the dignity of our profession. In a word: he has been Dick Burge's mouthpiece. Through his instrumentality the Daily Mirror purchased the picture rights of this fight.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Carpentier was favored with a calm crossing from his training quarters at Manitot, which put Tom Kennedy and Terry Kellar, his trainers, in a jubilant frame of mind. This act of Neptune was looked upon as a good omen. But nothing in comparison to what Freddie Welsh sprung on the French champion. Carpentier's manager had quite unconsciously engaged room 419 at the Hotel Metropole. It was from a room bearing a similar charmed number, in another hotel, that Freddie Welsh went forth to wrest the lightweight championship of the world from Willie Ritchie.

At the beginning of the fourth round between Tom Leary and Blake, the former knocked down J. T. Hulls, the referee. Hulls is one of the staff of Sporting Life. Blake won by a knock-out after grounding his opponent four times. Hulls was peeved when Leary apologized.

The announcer of the fights wore evening dress and made no use of a megaphone. The rubbers wore white flannel trousers and white jerseys with the initial "O" marked on the breast.

Tires At Extra Prices

Some makes cost one-third more.

One-third more than No-Rim-Cut tires—the world's top-place tires—the tires that outsell any other.

Consider what that means.

It means $5 to $15 extra on each tire you buy. It means one-third more tire upkeep—unless they are better tires.

It means that three of the extra-price tires cost as much as four No-Rim-Cuts.

It means that the same price—or less—would buy a half-inch wider Goodyear.

Extra prices are unjust.

No man knows of any way to build better tires than Goodyears. We spend $100,000 yearly in our efforts to find a way.

In the four ways listed at the right no other tire equals the Goodyear.

Men have bought four million Goodyears. They have tried them out. As a result, they buy more of them than of any other tire.

That any tire can be worth one-third more is simply unthinkable.

Tires With Extra Features

In No-Rim-Cut tires—at Goodyear prices—we give you these four extra features. Not another tire at any price offers you any one of them:

The No-Rim-Cut feature—the one faultless way to end rim-cutting. It completely wipes out the greatest source of tire ruin.

Our "On-Air" cure—an extra cure, under road conditions, to save the blow-outs due to wrinkled fabric. This one exclusive process costs us $1,500 per day.

Our rubber rivets—formed in each tire by a patent method to combat tread separation. They reduce this danger by 60 per cent.

Our All-Weather tread—the tough, double-thick anti-skid. The only anti-skids which run as smoothly as plain treads. The anti-skids with deep, sharp, bulldog grips.

Those are costly features. On their account No-Rim-Cut tires used to be the high-priced tires.

But we gave you the savings due to multiplied output. No-Rim-Cut tires now cost half the old-time prices. And, with all their exclusive features, they cost you less than 16 other makes. Please find them out.

WILL BUILD MACHINES ON EUROPEAN PLANS.

THE Mission Motor Car Company has purchased the plant of the local Perfex concern and a Mission car is to be built in Los Angeles.

The deal involved, it is claimed, $500,000, and the 100 men now employed by the company will be doubled soon.

All Perfex parts were taken over by the Mission company and service will be rendered for the benefit of Perfex owners and until the parts now on hand are used up, the Mission factory will continue to put out Perfex cars.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the Mission deal is the announcement that the local factory will build a chassis only, which will sell for $825, and the purchaser will have his choice of body design.

Should a racing car be desired, for a small sum a pair of bucket seats are to be had. The body works of Los Angeles will be able to fit any body desired, to the Mission chassis.

This idea has come from the European makers. Many motorists have ideas of their own and want only the chassis. It is for this class of motorists that the Mission company has decided to build cars.

The Mission company will continue to handle the Detroiter and Glide lines from the Grand-avenue store, and the same officers will remain at the head of the organization.

PRICES CHOPPED ON FORD MODELS.

BUYERS OF MACHINES OF THAT MAKE TO SHARE IN THE PROFITS.

New prices on all Ford models throughout the United States went into effect yesterday. These new prices are to remain effective until August 1, 1915 and it is positively stated that there will be no other reduction of price during the year.

The reason for the reduction in Ford prices is the desire of Henry Ford to have the buyers share in the profits of the great concern.

An output of 300,000 Ford machines during the next twelve months is what the company is striving for. If such a production is accomplished, the minimum cost of factory operation will be reached and Ford owners are to further share in the profits.

Should the Ford production reach 300,000 cars between August 1, 1914 and August 1, 1915, the Ford company has agreed to pay as the purchaser's share, from $40 to $60 to every retail purchaser who buys a new Ford machine during that period.

Alexander Squair Earns Right to Meet "Peck" Griffin for Singles Title by Defeating Joseph Armstrong in Straight Sets—Princeton Players Capture Men's Doubles.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—A new star came into prominence in the western tennis firmament today when Alexander Squair of the University of Chicago won the finals of the tournament at Lake Forest, beating Joseph J. Armstrong of St. Paul in straight sets, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Squair will battle Clarence J. Griffin of California, the western champion, for the title on next Monday.

Squair earned fame enough for most youngsters by trouncing R. B. Powell of Canada in the fourth round yesterday, and played the same kind of a game against Armstrong today.

The St. Paul player, once a star at Harvard, holder of several titles and runner-up to Griffin last year, looked a bit outclassed by the Midway lad. Only in the second set did Armstrong ever appear like a winner and then he won the first three games, only to lose when Squair, by an exhibition of placing as fancy as anything seen so far in the meet, won six straight games.

Double faults hurt Armstrong's game. His service, when he got the ball over, was good, but even then Squair's returns were excellent, and, driven from court to court, Armstrong wilted as did Powell.

Semi-finals, played this morning, made Squair victor over Paul Gardner, Lake Forest, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2, and Armstrong over Heath Byford, Chicago, 6-7, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Armstrong won the third set, 6-4, after Byford had taken the first and third games. Armstrong made a spurt and took four straight. The St. Paul man won out in the tenth game. This gave the St. Paul player the lead, two sets to one.

George N. Church and Dean Mathey, the Princeton players, won the western championship in men's doubles by beating Heath Byford and Ralph Burdick of Chicago, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 14-12.

Miss Mary Browne of Los Angeles won the women's western title by beating her sister, Mrs. R. H. Williams of Chicago, 6-4, 6-2, and with Mrs. Williams won the doubles championship, winning from Mrs. C. N. Baird and Miss Miriam Steever in the final round, 6-2, 6-2.

THREE CHEERS FOR WILLIE BEECHER.

Willie Beecher, the little New York East Side boy who is so eager to fight that he will give exhibitions for nothing to prove his class, will be rewarded for his persistence.

T. J. McCarey is angling for three matches for him and will give him whichever one of the three comes through. The three prospective opponents for Willie are Tommy Murphy, Charley White and Johnny Dundee.

Dundee's manager, Scotty Montieth, will be in the city next Tuesday, when the match will be offered to him. White is in San Francisco and Tommy Murphy is in New York. It is somewhat doubtful if Murphy will care to fight any more, as he has money enough.

NEW PRICE LIST FOR GRANT LINE.

Leon T. Shettler, Southern California distributor for the Grant line, announced yesterday afternoon that the price of the Grant had been reduced. The new figure is $495 for the car without electric starting and lighting system.

Equipped with electric lamps, starter and horn, the car is to sell for $575 here in Los Angeles.

RESOLUTE WON FROM VANITIE.

HERRESHOFF YACHT ONLY TWO MINUTES AHEAD.

Cochran Boat Has Slight Lead for First Hour, but Is Passed by the Resolute and Cannot Make Up Handicap in Final Sprint—Breeze Covered Eight Knots.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW LONDON (Ct.) Aug. 1.—Resolute won a fifty-four-mile race dead before the wind from Vanitie today by 2m. 25s. in elapsed time and by 5m. 35s. corrected time. From the start at the eastern entrance of Smithtown Bay to the finish at the mouth of the Thames, both cup-defenders sailed with spinnakers either to port or starboard. Vanitie had a forty-second lead at the start and it was an hour before Resolute caught and passed the Cochran yacht.

The Resolute gained slightly for the next two hours, but in the last twenty miles Vanitie drew up but could not overhaul the Herreshoff yacht. The breeze covered eight knots throughout the run.

MIXED TEAMS PLAY POLO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 1.—Mixed teams composed of Pasadena, Coronado and Riverside players played a good game of polo today when the Green team won from the Whites by a score of 8 to 5.

The Green team was formed of Ted Miller, No. 1; Harry Pattee, No. 2; Hugh Drury, No. 3; F. D. Hudson, back. On the White team were W. H. Dupee, No. 1; Reggie Weiss, No. 2; Harry Weiss, No. 3; Carleton Burke, back.

Harry Pattee of the Riverside team, whose playing has been particularly good during the summer games, started out today by making a goal in each of the first three chukhurs, but stopped then and made no more.

Burke, playing back on the White team, made spectacular plays several times by his clever stopping of the ball as the Greens were about to goal.

The score for the six chukhurs was: Whites, goals, Reggie Weiss, 3; Carleton Burke, 1; W. Dupee, 1; total goals, 5; penalties, none; net score, 5. Greens, goals, Pattee, 3; Drury, 3; Hudson, 2; total goals, 8; penalties, none, net score, 8.

The return of Capt. J. C. Cookson as referee, who refereed the games last winter, gave added interest to the game today.

A good game is promised for Tuesday when two picked teams will play and a large number of society people will attend. A tea with a dance on the tennis court at the country club will follow the game.

The following is the line-up for a picked team of crack polo players to play against the Cooperstown team that will be out here next fall: Fred McLaughlin, No. 1; Louis E. Stoddard, No. 2; Hugh Drury, No. 3; Carleton Burke, back.

This would form a team that would make some exciting play against the splendid Cooperstown team, and it is now certain that all of these will be here next fall for the games here and the big games later at San Francisco.

Fred McLaughlin is the fast Chicago player, Stoddard one of the American teams of the international games, while Drury and Burke, from the Coast, are also high-goal men. The Cooperstown team is F. S. Vonstade, No. 1; C. C. Rumsey, No. 2; C. P. Beadleston, No. 3 and Malcolm Stevenson, back.

CLABBY KNOCKS OUT D. SMITH.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

SYDNEY (Australia) Aug. 1.—Jimmy Clabby, the American middleweight, knocked out Dave Smith tonight in the first round. The fight, which was billed for twenty rounds, lasted just sixty seconds.

A heavy punch to the jaw did the work.

By his victory Clabby becomes middleweight, light-heavy and heavyweight champion of Australia. Smith outweighed him ten pounds.

Age-Old Highway.

place, which gives the canyon its name.

The Siever Canyon stretch is the most beautiful of the road between Capistrano and Elsinore, which links the inland route with the State highway down the coast. It is four miles and a half from San Juan Hot Springs to the Riverside county line.

As the road climbs up through the canyon, the scenery is ever changing and fascinating. Near the summit huge boulders line the road and the mountains are covered with large slabs of bare rock.

THE OTHER SIDE.

On the Riverside county side of the range the road down to the north end of Lake Elsinore is largely built on a hogback, rough and steep. The road winds back and forth and is full of sharp turns.

Riverside county officials first proposed the Capistrano to Elsinore road and Orange county responded. J. L. McBride, Orange County Surveyor, was sent into the canyon with his corps of engineers. The Supervisors supported the plans and the road was rushed to completion.

During the storms of last winter, the stretch through Siever Canyon was washed out in several places and the road is now impassable, above San Juan Hot Springs, from the Orange county side.

SOON REPAIRED.

During the past few months, Orange county has been so busy with the good roads campaign that is now on that this famous mountain highway has been neglected. Many inquiries have been made concerning the route on account of the great interest in motoring which is assured for the exposition year.

Jasper Leck, the Orange County Supervisor, who is hailed as the champion of good roads and the motorists' friend, assures auto owners that the road will be repaired as soon as the county engineers are able to spare the time from the work on the other roads of the county.

IMPASSABLE NOW.

The canyon is positively impassible now, as the few washouts lock the pass. A few loads of dirt and a little grading will remedy this, however, and by 1915, it is safe to say that the Capistrano to Elsinore road will be one of the most popular mountain drives in this section.

Last week, J. L. McBride, accompanied by Sam Jernigan, City Marshal of Santa Ana, and H. W. Freeman, drove over the road in an Overland touring car to a point above the hot springs. The old road has been resurveyed and work has been commenced on the straightening out a number of the curves in the old highway of the padres.

The members of the Overland party say that the road to the hot springs is dusty at present and very narrow in places, but the scenery makes it well worth the drive for anyone who is capable of handling a car on mountain roads.

AUTO QUALIFIES AS PULLMAN CAR.

SPECIAL MODEL ROADSTER HAS IT ON TRAIN SERVICE FOR SPEED.

Dr. LeGear of El Paso, Tex., who owns extensive properties in Southwestern Texas, found it inconvenient to travel them because of the distance and poor train service.

In order that he might travel in comfort he had constructed by the National Motor Vehicle Company an automobile sleeping and camping car. This roadster has every requisite for camping, being so constructed that a regular Pullman bed can be made in the car. Wash basins, cooking arrangements and everything needed by the camper have been provided.

The special body has been constructed on a powerful National car. Special reserve tanks placed under the frame carry a total of sixty-five gallons of gasoline and twelve gallons of oil. This makes it possible for the National to travel more than 600 miles without taking on any additional fuel supply.

New Tennis Champs.

match of the day was that in the doubles between Dawson and Herd, representing the rising generation, and Sinsabaugh and Duncan carrying on their shoulders the dignity of age.

Sinsabaugh and Duncan started out like champions and soon had the youngsters on the run. However, with the score 5-2 against them in the first set, the "kids" pulled together and began to play for their lives. Almost before the audience had grasped the situation they had by their whirlwind play pulled up to 5-all. Here Sinsabaugh and Duncan called a halt and after a mighty effort made it 6-5 in their favor, but the youngsters were not to be denied and pulled the set out at 8-6.

The second set found the youngsters outplaying the veterans. There was a sting in their play that seemed to carry the points along with it, and, in spite of frenzied driving and tremendous smashes by Sinsabaugh, they carried the set off at 6-4.

In the third set the veterans made their best showing. Duncan was his old steady self, always seeming to be near enough to lob the ball back to the other side of the net, while Sinsabaugh with his scurrying to and fro and his terrific driving, was carrying the youngsters off their feet, the veterans winning 6-3.

In the last set everything was even up to 4-all, when the youngsters broke into Sinsabaugh's service, and, by taking Dawson's, carried off the doubles championship. The form displayed by Herd and Dawson was marvelous.

In the men's singles, Ward Dawson had a walk-over. Bell, who had shown such startling form against Newell and Herd on Friday, had suffered a relapse and was way off his game. Dawson won the first ten games without a murmur. On his own service most of the points were won on nets and outs by Bell, but on Bell's service Dawson drove the serve right back at him like a cannon ball and his shots could not be returned.

With the first set gone and four games of the second set the same way, Bell suddenly braced and won a love game on his service, and followed up by winning his own service two games later, but it was his last struggle, and Dawson ran away with the title, 6-0, 6-2. Mrs. B. O. Bruce, two-time champion of Southern California, lost her title to Miss Florence Sutton, when she almost had it within her grasp. Miss Sutton won the first set, 6-4, but Mrs. Bruce came back strong and took the second, 6-3. She started out on the third set in much the same day and had the score 4-2 in her own favor, when suddenly Florence took a brace and pulled out the championship after a terrific set, 8-6.

The junior singles and doubles, the mixed doubles and the handicap singles events will be played off during the coming week, the finals of all events being played this coming Saturday at the Virginia at Long Beach. Yesterday's results: Men's singles championship, final round—Dawson defeated Bell, 6-0, 6-2; men's doubles championship, final round—Herd and Dawson defeated Sinsabaugh and Duncan, 8-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4; Ladies' singles, challenge round—Miss Florence Sutton defeated Mrs. B. O. Bruce, 6-4, 3-6, 8-6.

MORE TRUCKS.

Los Angeles County Adds Two More Standard Power Wagons to Motor Truck Fleet.

Two Standard motor trucks were sold to Los Angeles county last week by the local agents, Hawley, King & Co. The county has been operating one Standard truck for the past nine months and the upkeep for the entire period is figured at $15, and this is said to have had a great deal to do with the landing of the last county order.

Both trucks are five-ton wagons and are to be equipped with Firestone tires. Ned E. Cutting of the local Standard truck agency said yesterday that this was one of the hardest sales of the season, as there were twelve other trucks in the bidding.

COUNTY ROADS.

San Diego Automobile Accessory Concern Puts Out Maps Showing Highways of Entire County.

Gavin & Williams, San Diego county agents for Firestone tires, have put out a highway map which shows all the roads of the county and gives the condition, whether paved, oiled, graded, in course of construction or proposed.

Even the wagon roads are shown and it is claimed that this map is the most complete ever offered in the southern county.

During the past month, 2000 of these road maps have been given away.

In a recent Iowa case suit was started for damages on the claim that a bus driver had negligently run the tongue of the bus through the radiator of an automobile and bent the lamps, lamp brackets, fenders, hood and the fan of the car. $117.95 damages was asked. The jury gave the automobile owner judgment for $75.

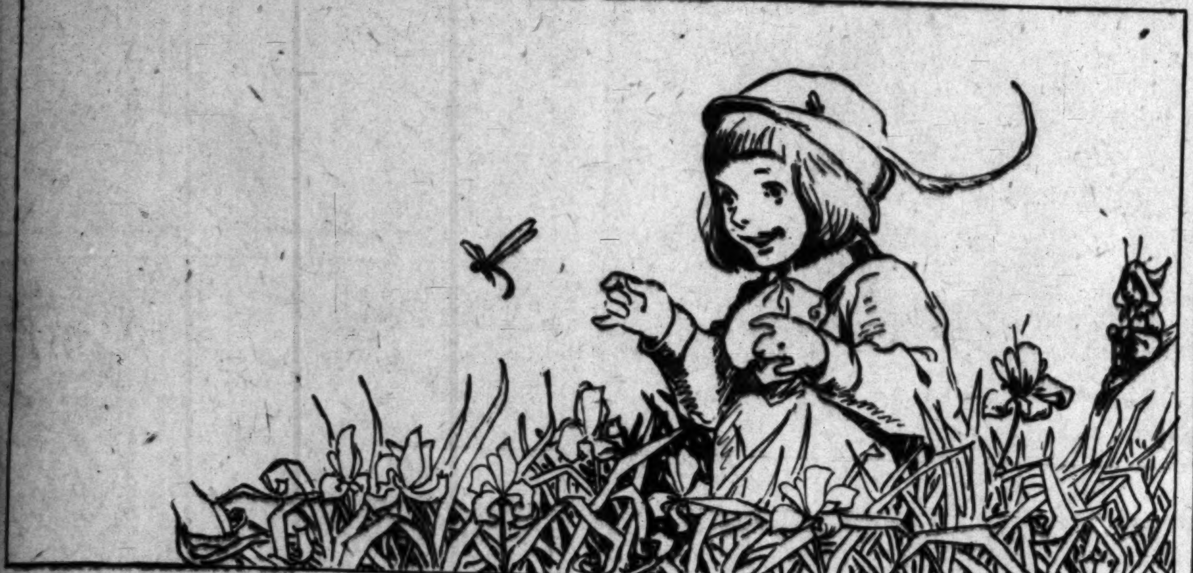
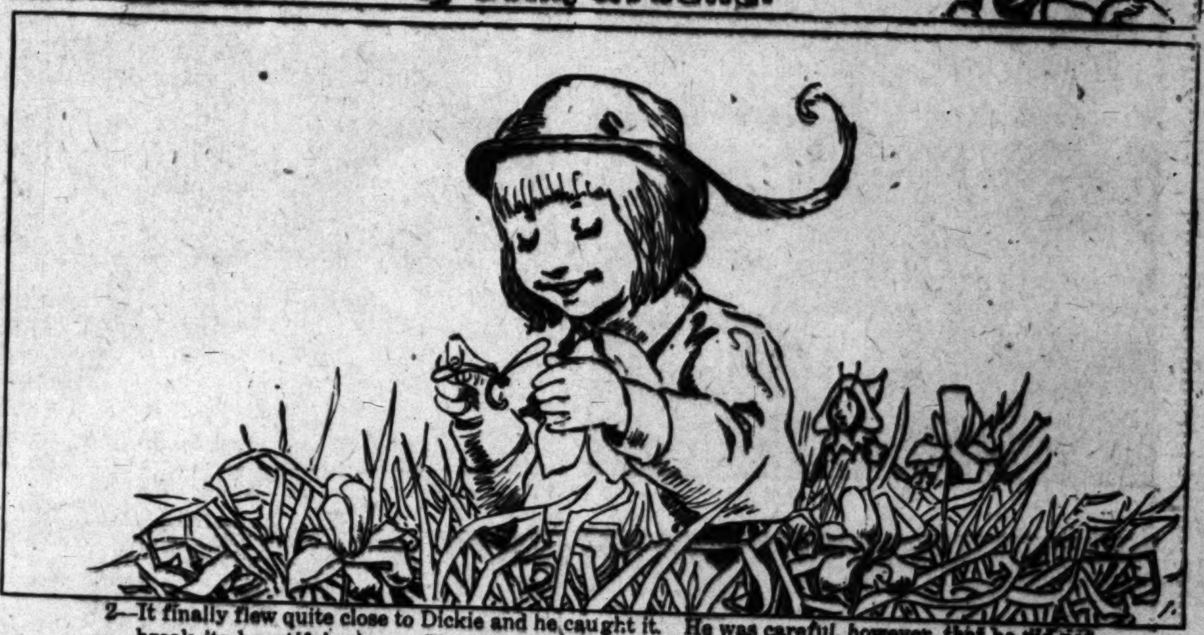
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.

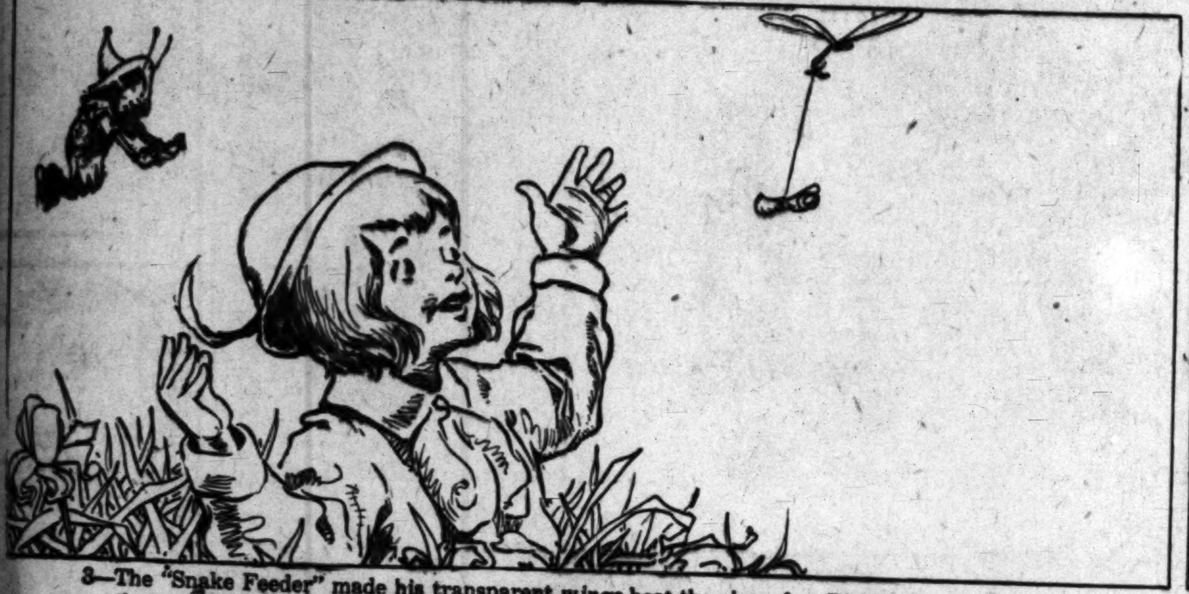
By John Gruelle.



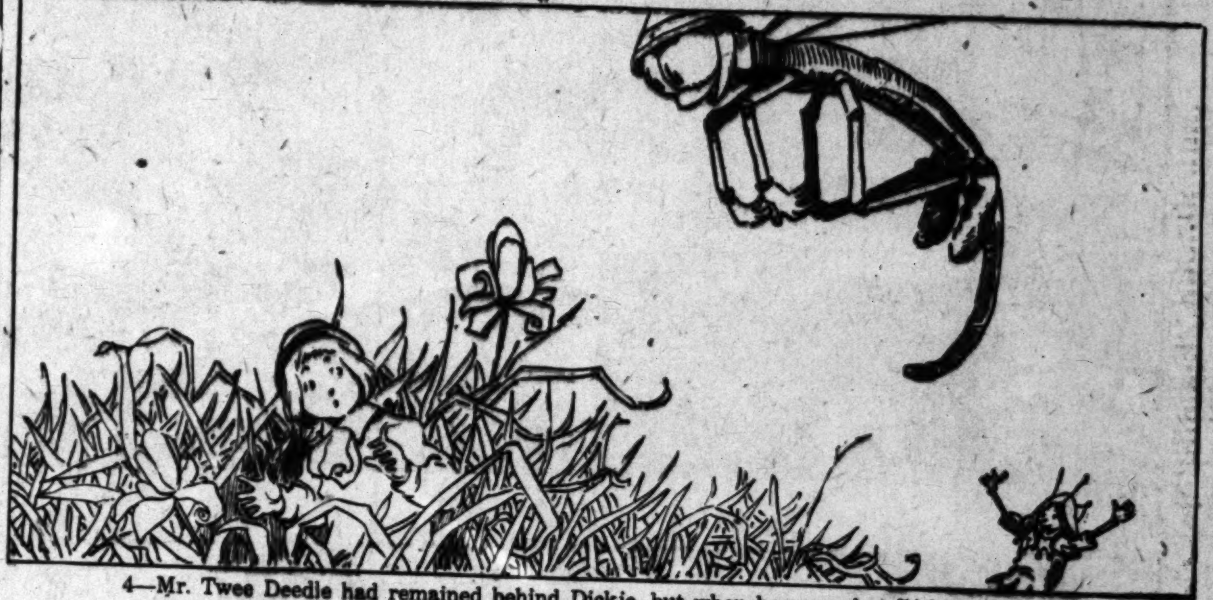
1—One day Dickie saw a "Snake Feeder" darting over the lily marsh. At times the little creature held its wings almost still and glided along just like an aeroplane.



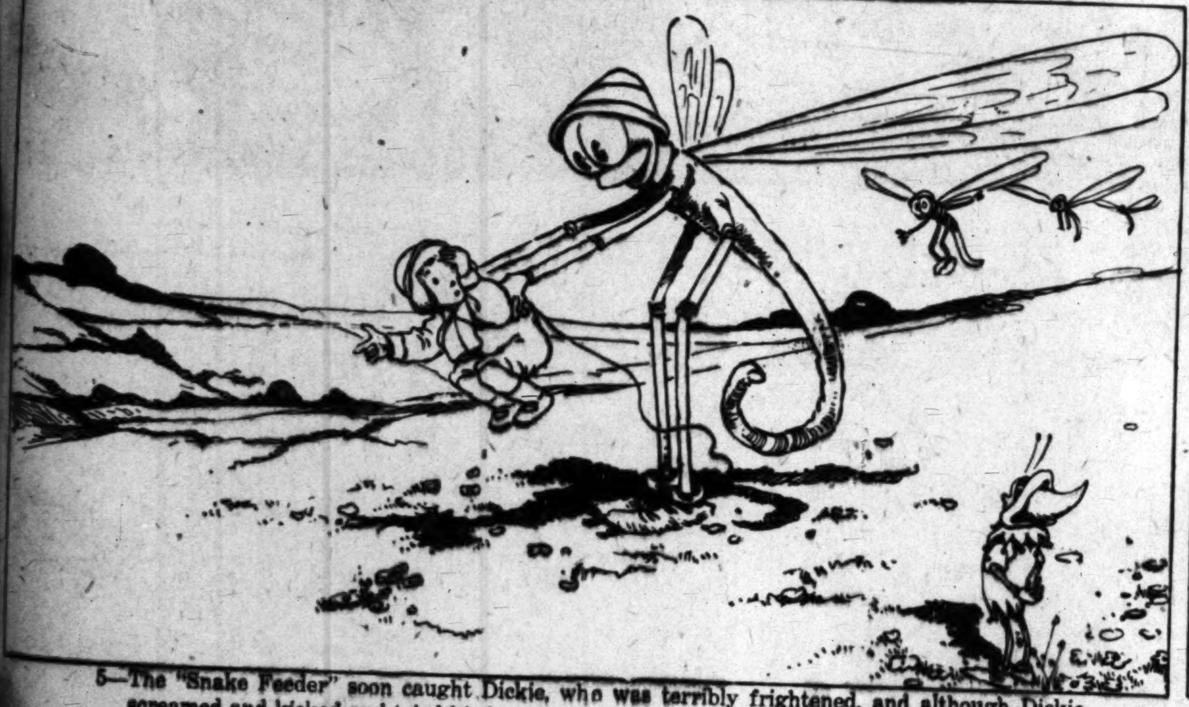
2—It finally flew quite close to Dickie and he caught it. He was careful, however, that he did not break its beautiful wings. Then Dickie tied a string to its body to see if it could fly with a piece of paper at the end of the string.



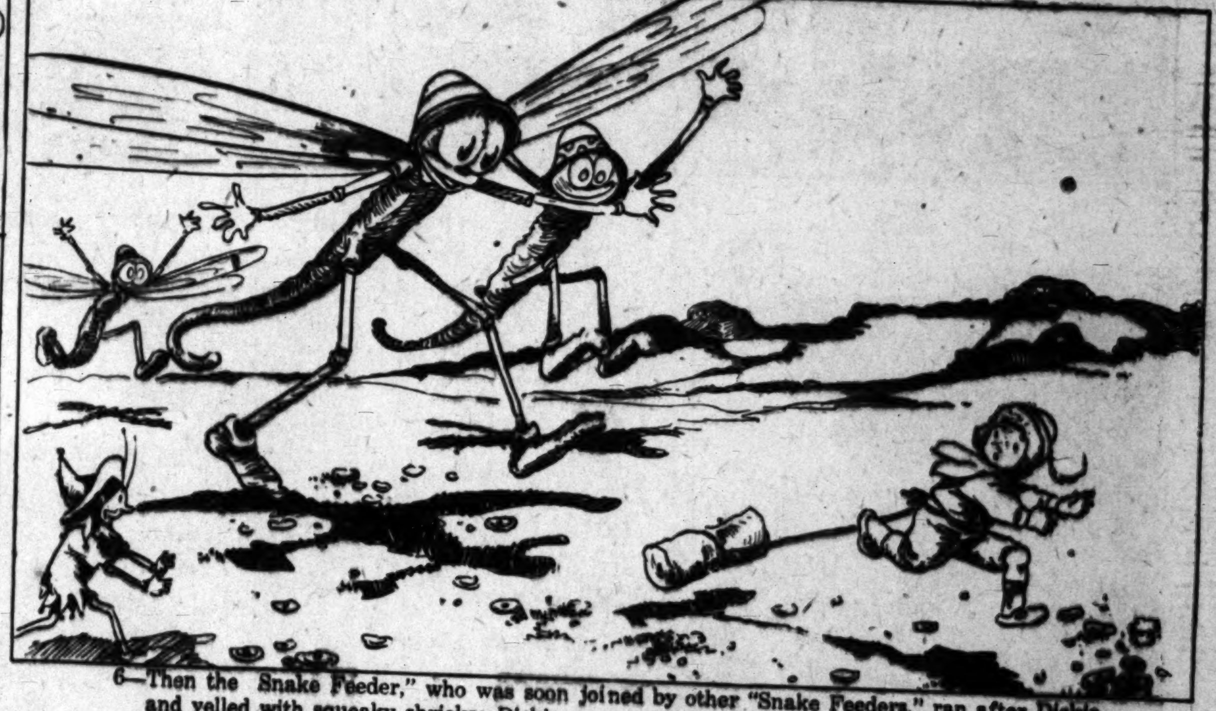
3—The "Snake Feeder" made his transparent wings beat the air so fast Dickie could scarcely see them and flew up with the paper tied to its body.



4—Mr. Twee Deedle had remained behind Dickie, but when he saw what Dickie was doing, he clapped his hands and said a magical word. The "Snake Feeder" grew to an enormous size and took after Dickie.



5—The "Snake Feeder" soon caught Dickie, who was terribly frightened, and although Dickie screamed and kicked and tried his best to get away, the "Snake Feeder" tied a line around Dickie's body and fastened a large piece of wood to the end.



6—Then the Snake Feeder," who was soon joined by other "Snake Feeders," ran after Dickie and yelled with squeaky shrieks; Dickie ran until he was almost exhausted and had given up hope of outrunning them.

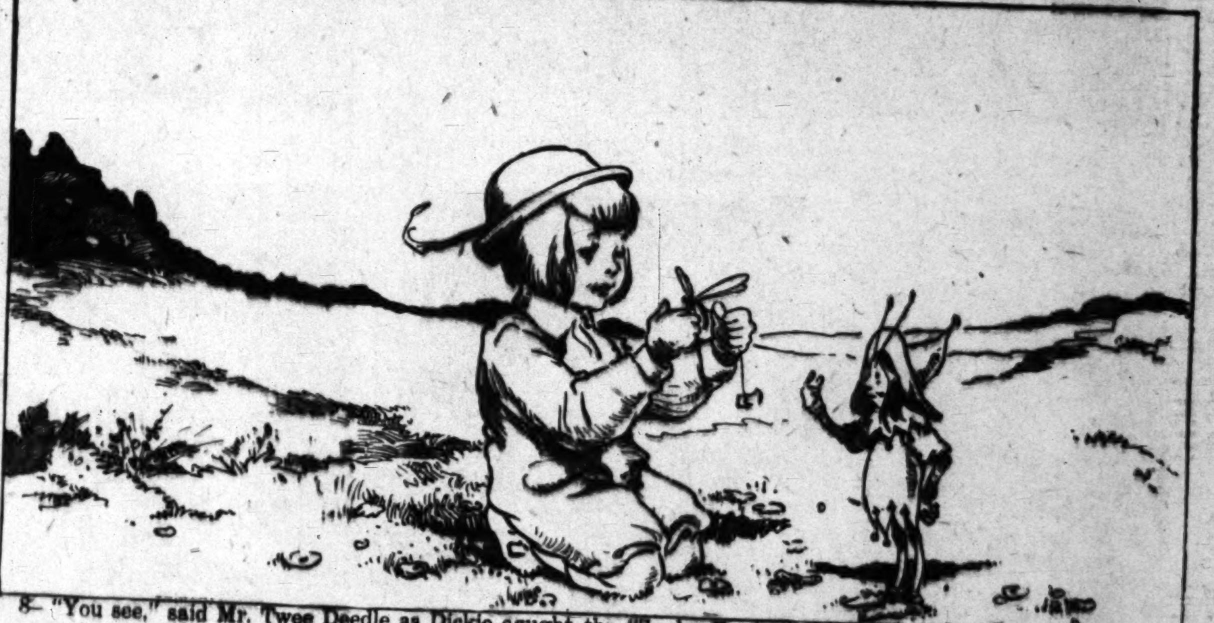
7—Then Mr. Twee Deedle said another magic word and Dickie was very much surprised to see the "Snake Feeder" with the string tied to its body flying above him. Then Mr. Twee Deedle told Dickie that with his magic he had caused Dickie to imagine that the "Snake Feeders" had suddenly grown large.



8—"You see," said Mr. Twee Deedle as Dickie caught the "Snake Feeder" and unfastened the string, "It is not much fun when some creature many times larger than yourself catches you and frightens you. So I hope you will not let your desire for fun cause you to be thoughtless of the freedom and pleasure of other things, even though they may be tiny little creatures, for they may feel your cruelty just as much as you would if you were in their place."

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

GOING TO THE PANAMA FAIR.

THE following letter is a sample of a number of others like it which have come to me recently:

"With the probabilities that many of the readers of the Corner will attend the world's fair in 1915 I wonder if Marion Harland would not give us a talk containing suggestions for traveling, lunches, clothing, etc. It is none too early to begin planning to go and in a short time we should have our sewing in hand. Not every one knows the best and easiest way to make traveling a pleasure, especially with children. What have been tried as amusements for them? Even large children sometimes complain on a long journey. I am sure practical advice along these lines would be of service to hundreds of readers."

As I have just said, this is only one of numerous letters which have come to me with a similar request. In reply to them I am glad to give a few general counsels which may apply in particular instances.

To take up in the first place the question of the children. My advice about them would be something in the form of the well known warning of Punch to those contemplating matrimony: "Don't" I am not referring now to the boys and girls who are old enough to gain something of pleasure and instruction from a visit to the fair, but to the "tinies" whom we have all seen tagging about after their parents at such places, tired, too young to be appreciative, fretting, ill at ease physically as well as mentally by the change from their regular habits and diet, giving pain to those about them and not gaining pleasure for themselves.

* *

Home the Place for Babies.

"But," protests some on, "if the babies were not taken the mothers could not go."

With no desire to seem heartless and cruel, I must say candidly that in that case I think it is better for the mother, too, to stay at home. This may sound unkind, but ponder on it a little, you mothers of small children. How much real enjoyment could you get from the most wonderful world's fair ever brought to pass if you were not only burdened with the care and responsibility of little children but convinced that they were getting real harm from the experience? Would your own outing be worth the sacrifice? I know it is hard to renounce such a pleasure, but that is—or should be—one of the penalties joyfully assumed by those who marry and have children. There will be other fairs that you may have a chance to see—they are plentiful enough of late years—but you would never forgive yourself if you took your little child from a comfortable home and submitted it to the change of travel, the hardships connected with this, the unavoidable exposure, the unaccustomed articles of food, the possibilities of illness.

With older children it is a different matter. A healthy boy or girl of 10 or 12 years can usually undergo as much fatigue as a grown person and be little the worse for it, if certain precautions are followed. If you can stand the expense—and the cost of traveling with a half grown child is practically the same as with an adult—the child will undoubtedly gain much from the experience, provided you start to get him ready for it in time.

A Little Study Beforehand.

While we are discussing the matter of the children suppose we carry it to the end, so far as their preparation and care are concerned.

I have spoken of getting the child ready in season. Don't start off with him when he has only the haziest ideas of what he is going to see. Make sure in the first place that he knows the reason for the exposition, the history of the Panama enterprise, and the various simpler details connected with it so far as he can understand them—and you will find that he grasps more of them than you would have expected at first. Incidentally you will probably accumulate for yourself much knowledge which will add to your own appreciation and enjoyment.

Next to that give him a notion of what a world's fair is. Don't let him think it is only a sort of magnified circus with unlimited sideshows, but teach him something of what he is to see there; enlarge upon the opportunities it will give him for learning of the products and inhabitants of other lands. Again you will be acquiring information which will be of value to you. Get the advance notices of the fair, study out what you want to see particularly, and make a list of these. It will be of great aid to you in planning an itinerary by which you may observe a maximum with a minimum of effort and weariness.

Impress upon the child from the first that he must be willing to yield certain comforts and preferences for the sake of the chance to go to the fair. He should not start out with the idea that he is to have not only all the comforts of his home but many delights he does not know there. He must understand that there will be long and tedious traveling, a good many privations and inconveniences, that he must go prepared to put up with things he does not enjoy for the sake of the real profit he will win by the expedition.

The child, whether boy or girl, should be dressed simply and suitably for the journey with clothes which look neat but are not easily injured and are readily kept clean or done up. Frills and furbelows are out of place. A neat tweed or serge suit for the boy with a liberal allowance of clean collars, a one piece frock of similar material or of some plain wash goods for the girl, and a light, warm outer garment for each one will answer every purpose.

* *

Regularity in Eating.

An emphatic word is in place here as to eating. Discourage nibbling at fruit and cake and candy on the cars or in public conveyances. The habit of constant eating is calculated to upset any digestion and the child—or adult—who is always munching something, always begging the wares of the peddler on the train or boat, is in a fair way to be seriously indisposed before the journey's end is reached and in no condition to get any real good from his expedition. Give the children plain, wholesome food at regular hours, and be even more punctilious in your avoidance of unusual sweets or fruits than you would be at home. So far as you can put the children to bed early at night and refuse evening entertainments unless on rare occasions.

One word more about the children's amusement while traveling. Provide them with something in the way of reading, with pencil and paper for writing or drawing, with a game or two and a pack of cards, and let them understand from the first that they must spare you the effort of having to devise amusements for them. If they have been well trained and are obedient and docile, you need have no trouble. If they are the other kind they are better off at home than going anywhere.

The advice to be bestowed concerning traveling must vary according to the distance the travelers must go. For a long journey preparations are more elaborate, and when a night must be spent on a sleeper such conveniences as a wrapper, bedside shoes, etc., are required as well as the ordinary dressing requisites. Yet it is wise to travel as light as possible, with as few impedimenta as are consistent with comfort and cleanliness. Neat little cases which hold brush, comb, tooth brush, nail file, wash cloth, towel, and soap are easily procured and their contents may be supplemented by such other toilet accessories as tooth and face powder, cold cream, scissors, and the like.

A small stock of sewing materials [illegible] always be at hand, threaded [illegible] black and white cotton, black silk, [illegible] ing silk, a few buttons, hooks and [illegible] etc. All these, with extra [illegible] safety and plain pins, and the [illegible] be put into small compass and tucked [illegible] the traveling bag. When possible [illegible] traveler should have his or her own [illegible] ply of such necessities and not be [illegible] to draw upon the store of another.

Clothing for Traveling.

The clothing of the woman who [illegible] travel should be as simple as [illegible] All things being equal, perhaps [illegible] is more useful than a lightweight [illegible] suit, which may be varied by [illegible] shirt waists. Unless these are [illegible] dark they are better of wash [illegible] of any cotton or linen fabric. [illegible] shirts may be rubbed out in a [illegible] and smoothed off with an [illegible] while the shirt of other material [illegible] be starched and done up with care [illegible] it is not always possible to [illegible] crêpy fabrics which require no [illegible] are a boon to the traveler who [illegible] stands how to wash them and [illegible] into shape while they are drying. [illegible] two or three of these of varying [illegible] the pilgrim to the exposition may [illegible] of tolerable comfort and she may "[illegible] up" by the addition of a pretty [illegible] neckwear to her everyday frock. [illegible] she be likely to attend functions of [illegible] sort it might be well for her to [illegible] simple one piece frock which [illegible] crush easily.

The underwear best for such [illegible] is the light ribbed or balbriggan [illegible] either in cotton, silk, or mixed. [illegible] little room, washes easily, and [illegible] demand ironing. The combinations [illegible] come in such fabrics are excellent [illegible] when a woman wears these with [illegible] underbody or corset cover and a [illegible] silk petticoat or one of similar [illegible] she lessens her cost of laundry [illegible] spares herself the inconvenience of [illegible] ing to wait for washerwomen. [illegible] shoes are, of course, a prime [illegible]

In my answer to a letter of [illegible] character to that quoted above I [illegible] already spoken of the high cost [illegible] commodations in the close vicinity [illegible] fair grounds and said that those [illegible] economy is an object will do better [illegible] cure rooms at a little distance [illegible] the whole day to the fair, going [illegible] early in the morning and bringing [illegible] with them. At all the fairs [illegible] have known or seen anything [illegible] comfortable rest rooms provided [illegible] the sightseer can eat a lunch [illegible] At some of them a cup of tea [illegible] can be purchased and the [illegible] plies his own food. This is [illegible] of time as well as of money [illegible] viates the necessity of long [illegible] food at the rush hour.

The traveler should carry a large [illegible] of patience and philosophy than [illegible] thing else. A day that is begun [illegible] and a substantial breakfast after [illegible] night's rest in a comfortable bed [illegible] sure to be a success, while lacking [illegible] essentials all the enthusiasm in the [illegible] even at the finest exposition ever [illegible] played, is likely to end in [illegible] failure.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

LET me give you a recipe for imitation chicken loaf which is fine. You will require for this a pig's hind leg and the same quantity of veal. If the pig's leg is not to be had a neck of veal will answer. Put either one into boiling water, with a small onion, sliced, and cook slowly until the meat drops from the bones. Add salt and pepper and a little celery salt, take out the meat, put it into the meat chopper and grind. Boil the liquor in the pot down until there is just enough left to moisten the meat well. Mix all together, pack into a greased dish, lay a weighted plate on top, put in a cold place, and when chilled turn out and slice thin. Here is a suggestion which may help some one: To keep squirrels and cats out of trees cut a strip of sheet tin or of galvanized iron a foot wide and the shape of a Dutch collar. Fasten it around the tree too high for the animals to jump over, having the flaring edge of the collar down. Rats are kept off ships by slipping funnels over the ropes in this way when the boats are fastened at the pier. MRS. W."

Thank you both for the recipe and for the suggestion about the trees. At my own place in the country my heart has been wrung again and again by finding that nests have been robbed of their young by the invading cats. There has seemed no way to prevent their climbing the trees in which the birds had built. I am not sure that your method of prevention would serve to exclude the squirrels since these are able to make flying leaps from the branches of one tree to the other, and I fancy the "Dutch collar" would prove effectual only on trees which stand alone or at a sufficient distance from a building to render it unlikely that the squirrels could spring from the roof or the top of adjoining trees into the branches they wish to reach.

Some Helpful Hints.

"I should like a recipe for canning peas, also instructions as to the best way of removing cream spots in which dust has settled from an English baby buggy of dark green imitation leather. I enclose a few hints that may be helpful. You can use such of them as you like. A toy iron makes the work of ironing baby sleeves, yokes, caps, etc., much easier. Irons heated over a gas burner require less flame if covered while heating with an old pan. As I have no high stool to sit on while preparing vegetables, etc., I use baby's high chair as a substitute. Rust spots can be removed by simply putting a few spoonfuls of borax on the spot and making a bag of the cloth by tying it around the borax, so that this must boil out through the rust spot. Blood spots can be removed more easily if saturated with coal oil before washing. Salt put on freshly spilled ink will absorb the ink if more clean salt is put on as fast as the other becomes discolored. MRS. H. L."

We are all much obliged for these suggestions, especially that with regard to the rust spots. My own method of removing these has been to moisten the spot with lemon juice, strew thickly with salt, and put in the hot sun. When the lemon juice dries more lemon and salt should be put on and the process repeated until the spot disappears. The plan given by the correspondent involves less time and work. I may add apropos of her use of salt for taking out freshly spilled ink that milk will take ink out of wash goods and that fresh ink can often be removed from the carpet by rubbing up at once with blotting paper, using a fresh piece as one becomes soaked and rubbing the spot vigorously until dry. I wish I could give exact instructions for removing the spots from the baby carriage, but the best method which occurs to me is to wash the stains well with a soft cloth dipped in hot suds and then to dry. Repeat the process several times. If the hot water and soap dull the luster of the leather go over the places with another cloth dipped in a little olive oil or good furniture polish.

"CANNED PEAS—Shell the peas and put them into glass cans—the sort which have the self-sealing tops, with new rubber bands. When the cans are full of the peas pour in enough cold water to overflow them; lay the tops on the cans loosely. Set the cans in a wash boiler on a bed of straw with straw between them to keep them from coming in contact with one another, unless you have a regular rack in which to place the jars while cooking. Pour into the boiler enough cold water to come nearly to the tops of the jars, put the cover on the boiler and bring the water to the boil slowly. Let it cook until the contents of the jars are boiling hot and have cooked for ten or fifteen minutes after this stage is reached. Should the water cook away from around the cans fill up with more hot water. When the peas are ready fill them to overflowing with boiling water, since part of that already in them will have exhaled in steam, screw on the tops tightly and put in a cool dark place. Peas are rather hard to keep, even when put up with great care, and especial pains must be observed to have them full enough and hermetically sealed.

"What may a poor girl who isn't strong and lives in a secluded country district several miles from any railway do to pay for a course of study through the mails? Will you please tell if you know of any healthful village or community where a poor girl who is dependent upon her work and has had some experience in teaching may get a position to teach in a subscription or public school during the summer months? Do you know the names of any syndicates? COUNTRY MAID."

Part of this question I must refer to our constituency. Perhaps some one among them may tell us of some such place as you describe or may be able to give you a suggestion for ways by which you may earn money to pay for the course of study you wish to take. So far as my experience and knowledge of positions of teachers in public schools go such posts are held either by graduates of normal schools or by those who have had a similar course of training, and cannot be secured except by those who have had special instruction. It is another matter with teaching a private school, but for a situation like this private influence must generally be exerted. As to the methods by which you may support yourself while pursuing the study course I am afraid I must have more information as to your powers before I can give a helpful answer. You do not say if you have any abilities in the line of music or photography or needle work or domestic accomplishments which might aid you in earning money, so that it is hard to lay down a course you might follow. I shall hope for further information along this line which may enable the Cornerites as well as myself to be of service to you. One thing more, do you mean newspaper or magazine syndicates by the last question in your letter, or do you refer to syndicates in other lines? I fear you think my replies very unsatisfactory, but if you will consider the matter I am sure you will see how hard it is to reply to you with the limited knowledge I have gained from your letter. I have your address on file and shall be happy to give it to any one who thinks he or she can be of service to you.

Keeping Poultry in City.

"As an owner of a back yard flock of poultry I am interested in having them tolerated within the city limits. It seems that the serious objection to them is caused by the crowing of roosters, an intolerable nuisance, and in my opinion neighbors are justified in objecting to such noise. There is no good reason for keeping roosters in a small flock of poultry, for they are needed for but a short period in spring to fertilize eggs for hatching, and the rest of the year are an unnecessary nuisance. There are several shops in any big city where orders are taken for almost any variety of hatching eggs at a reasonable figure, so that it is not necessary to keep males over winter for that purpose. It has been demonstrated over and over again at the state experiment stations that hens lay more eggs when males are absent from the pen. With grain costing $2 a bag there is not enough profit in keeping poultry in the city to allow me to harbor a single unproductive fowl, and a rooster can easily eat as much grain as two hens would devour. My hens, I find, since killing off roosters, are more tame and friendly, and the neighbors seem as much interested in the welfare of our pretty flock of hens and pullets as do we. And there is no noise. MRS. H. S. H."

When I asked a few weeks [illegible] gestions as to how the owners of [illegible] poultry managed to stand the [illegible] made I had no idea that so [illegible] excellent a reply would come to [illegible] humorous inquiry. I am grateful [illegible] letter and for the ideas it gives, [illegible] lieve it will be helpful to others [illegible] to keep poultry in town and [illegible] grudge the big amount of food [illegible] by roosters as well as the noise [illegible]

Simple Way to Wash Flannels.

"Flannels washed in hot water, [illegible] in the same, and dried in a warm [illegible] will stretch instead of shrink. [illegible] from experience. Make a strong [illegible] some mild white soap and add a [illegible] monia, or if the water is at all [illegible] little borax. Squeeze the flannels [illegible] clean or if you have a vacuum [illegible] that is even better. Spread the [illegible] spots on a board and scrub [illegible] small brush. Never rub, as wool [illegible] nap like one's hair, and rubbing [illegible] effect of "ratting" the latter—[illegible] mats it. I have softened and [illegible] old flannels by the above method. "MRS. [illegible]

These hints are bound to be of [illegible] our housekeepers. The trouble in [illegible] ing genuine all wool flannels is [illegible] en and shrink when carelessly [illegible] is a comfort to have a simple [illegible] scribed which has been proved good.

Invalid Nine Years.

"My poor mother has been [illegible] for nine years and has not [illegible] the bed in that time. The only [illegible] has to pass the time is by [illegible] work with patchwork pieces. If [illegible] has some such pieces to give [illegible] you please put me in communication [illegible] her? Maybe the day will come [illegible] can return the favor. MRS. [illegible]

I do not doubt that there are [illegible] like myself to whom the appeal [illegible] bedridden woman comes with [illegible] force. That one who has been the center of a home for years should [illegible] by helpless is one of those [illegible] speakably hard to bear. Anything the rest of us can do to mitigate the [illegible] we should be happy to do. I [illegible] generously the Cornerites respond [illegible] such appeal as this and I hope it [illegible] only the affair of a short time [illegible] the bedridden mother with work [illegible] est her mind and busy her hands.

FOR COAT HANGER AND VANITY CASE

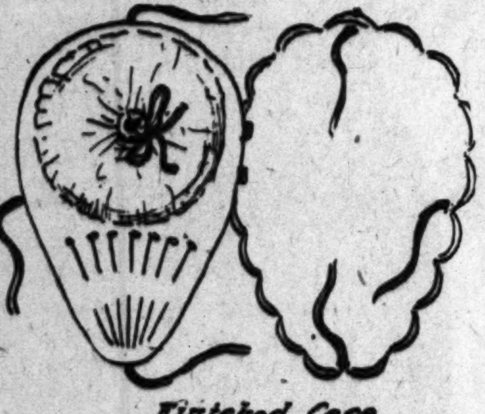
Finished Hanger



Finished Case

IF YOU haven't a covered coat hanger in your wardrobe, you ought to have. I am going to make it possible for you to hang your [illegible] and wraps without any danger of their tearing. Moreover, I am going to give you, today, something new in the form of a washable slip that will [illegible] perennial freshness to this very important accessory. One half of the [illegible] is shown. The top part, you will see, is embroidered in a simple daisy pattern. The lower half is plain, with eyelets arranged to correspond with those on the top piece. The drawn sketch shows the coat hanger when finished. You will see that the steel hook comes from the center, which necessitates an opening on the top cover, and a bow of ribbon will finish the center and conceal the hemmed edges of the opening. Don't forget to cover the steel hook with narrow ribbon wound in spiral lines and caught securely at the tip. Inside, of course, there must be a padding of cotton wadding, on which you can sprinkle your favorite sachet. You will notice that the eyelets are used to lace together the upper and under sections of the cover. Narrow ribbon is used, which is tied in a rosette at the center.

And now for the embroidery. Pad the petals of the daisies lengthwise with darning cotton and work in solid stitch over the ovals. Outline the stems or work them in fine stem stitch. The leaves can be outlined and filled in with seed stitches. These seed stitches are tiny back stitches done in parallel lines, filling in the design most effectively. The French are very fond of this method. They usually combine seed stitches on one half of the leaf, filling in the other half with solid work. Try it.

If you are going to cover the coat hanger with a colored china silk slip then I would suggest that you work the daisies and the leaves in eyelets. In this way there will be a colored flower form on the upper part of the cover. Pad the scalloped edge of the hanger with several strands of darning cotton. This is a very easy method of padding, by the way. Take eight or ten strands of the cotton and hold along the edge with the left hand. Work over in buttonhole stitch with the right, turning the improvised padding as you go. You will find that this is just as good as the bought papier-mache forms that so many embroiderers are using. Work the eyelets in a regular eyelet stitch and repeat the eyelets and the buttonholing on the lower half of the case.

Another pair will be required for the other side of the hanger. Be sure the straight edges, shown by the dotted lines, and your work will be complete.

And for good measure, I am giving you a little linen traveling vanity case. The complete sketch of this is shown. Cut two ovals similar to the one sketched. Allow for the narrow hem, which is suggested by the dashed line parallel to the outer edge. The scalloped oval shown is the embroidered top of the case. You will require four ovals, two for the cardboard foundation. When finished the two are whipped together over the board. When embroidering the top, work the flowers in solid stitch and use French knots for the center and the cluster of berries at the end of the branch. The larger leaves can also be worked in solid stitch and the stems in outline. Pad and buttonhole the scalloped edge. You will notice in the sketch that there is a circular bag for the powder puff. This is made of ribbon about three inches wide and long enough to be gathered around on the outer edge as shown. The small powder puff is incased and the ribbon drawn up by means of a narrower ribbon or cord. Below this powder case arrange pins as shown. Attach in four places narrow ribbon as sketched and whip together the two ovals to form the hinges. Give this as a going-away thought to the friend, or make it as a little graduating gift for the girl who is fond of going to parties and unfortunate enough to have a shiny nose or to be in need of a few pins now and then.

I would suggest that you have little daughter begin her first fancy work on this case. It is very easy, very effective. If you have the means of transferring on a pale shade of taffeta or on satin ribbon, do so by all means, and add this dainty case to the inner pocket of an evening wrap. It will be appreciated. In fact, isn't it fine to be frivolous and at the same time practical?

The Envelope Chemise

NEVER was a handier little garment designed than the envelope chemise, and certainly there was never a bit of underwear more comfortable. They are so easily made, too. If you never made a garment before, you can make an envelope chemise. Get a simple paper pattern, and you will need no other guide or advice. You may either tuck the yoke of the chemise or embroider it. If the chemise is of white crepe, it is well to embroider it, for the tucks would need ironing; whereas, with the crepe embroidered, it is possible to wear the garment without ironing. If you wish an elaborate undergarment, a strip of hand embroidery can be worked all the way down the front, but for the simpler garment a spray of some small flower is sufficient across the upper part of the front.

In very hot weather the envelope chemise will act as drawers, petticoat and corset cover, serving as three garments in one. Besides, the combination drawer and petticoat idea is delightfully cool. In cooler weather the envelope chemise can be worn over a knitted union suit.

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

A Crepon Negligee

LOVELY little negligees can be made of the crepon that has so taken hold of the popular fancy. These negligees are very easily laundered, and though attractive are inexpensive. In a smart art needlework shop that is up to the minute, several of these crepon negligees are on exhibition. They are cleverly embroidered. It is doubtless the intention of the sales manager to tempt his customers to purchase the stamped materials for the negligees and then embroider them.

Hand embroidery is no longer the arduous task that it was several years ago, for some of the modern stitches are so delightfully easy and so quickly worked that several articles can now be embroidered in the time that it formerly took to embroider one.

What could be prettier than a pale blue crepon embroidered in white daisies and green foliage? Both daisies and foliage can be done in lazy-daisy stitch, than which there is nothing quicker. The centers of the daisies should be done in yellow French knots. If you wish to have the negligee more or less elaborate, silk can be used, but the mercerized cotton is very effective when worked up. The negligee may be very simple. Edge it with lace, the wider the better, so that it will be more or less frilly. Then trail the daisies down each side of the front and about the neck of the negligee. Work clusters of daisy heads about the sleeves, with here and there a green leaf.

A New Belt

THOSE pretty hip belts are so easily made at home of linen or pique. If you have an old kid belt, you can easily cut a paper pattern from it, fit it about yourself to see that it sets correctly and then proceed to lay it over your goods and cut the linen or pique belt. The belt in question is one that sort of dips in the front and suggests strongly the vest belt, the only difference being that in this fabric belt there are no pockets. Either after or before the belt is cut out, work tiny roses over it in pink French knots. The roses are really nothing more than little round dots of French knots cuddled closely together to resemble a rose. Here and there, peeking out from under, are green French knots, which are meant for foliage. On some of the belts are embroidered tiny green stems about a quarter of an inch long. These are scattered at regular intervals over the entire belt. If it is desired to have the belt in another color, the roses may be in yellow or red. If the color note is to be blue, the French knots may be made to form forget-me-nots, by using blue silk or mercerized cotton and making five of the knots to form the five petals of the forget-me-nots and one yellow knot for the center. The foliage may be added or omitted, as preferred. These belts are very fashionable and easily laundered. Besides, they are very easily made.

Coiffure Ornaments

THE coiffure ornament plays a conspicuous part in the evening costume, and it should be selected with great care. In the first place, it should harmonize with the costume worn, for you would not think of wearing an Egyptian headdress of vivid coloring with a gown of Grecian simplicity.

The wide bandeau of ribbon, jeweled embroidery or metal tissue is no longer in favor, and we find the narrow band of ribbon, chain of brilliants or fillet of gold, jet or pearls supplanting it.

These coiffure ornaments are decidedly becoming to the present mode of wearing the hair, and every woman who attends formal social functions should possess an assortment of headdresses.

Many of these are extremely simple in construction, and can be made at home by the woman who is clever at needlework.

They are fashioned of lace and tulle, and are appropriate for the debutante or her elders.

Many of them are all white, and, for this reason, may be worn with almost any costume.

To duplicate the prettiest designs, first fashion a chain bandeau in this manner:

With flexible wire make links, which are looped together to form a chain, and cover them with white satin ribbon. All the links dare not be fashioned at once, but each must be drawn through the other and completed before the next is joined to it. When the chain is sufficiently long to encircle the head, make an ornament from white tulle, gathering it near the lower edge to form a fanlike arrangement. At the base attach two white rosebuds, made by swirling white satin ribbon about until it resembles the flower bud. Stitch this ornament to the side of the bandeau. If you prefer to purchase the rosebuds, they are sold in the millinery department of any large shop.

Another charming ornament is made by making two or three loops of white wire and covering them with several thicknesses of tulle. Fasten these in the center of a chou of tulle and sew the ornament to the bandeau.

An oddly shaped ornament of white tulle is made by first taking a straight piece of wire, three and a half or four inches long, and folding layers of tulle about it until it resembles a brush. Wind narrow strips of tulle about the base and sew tiny brilliants to the ornament. To the base of this is attached a small chou of tulle.

Tulle and white marabou are combined in another design. The tulle is folded many times and tied in a broad bow, the center of which is adorned with brilliants. Several sprays of marabou are placed in the center of the bow and the ornament is complete ready to be knotted about the links of the bandeau.

If two brilliants are sewn or pasted to each link of the bandeau its beauty will be greatly enhanced.

The bandeau is always an acceptable gift to the young girl, who, as a rule, can never count too many of these charming accessories among her possessions.

Gladden the hearts of your youthful friends by making coiffure ornaments for them.

The Guest Towel

WHAT more appropriate for a guest towel than the design of a ship at sea? Across one end of the little towel is a delft-blue sea, and on its cotton waves one small sailboat is rocking perilously. The effect is very pretty and pleasing. Child guests cannot contain their joy when they find that such a towel has been given to them for their especial use. It is more than likely that you can obtain such a towel ready stamped at the art needlework store; but if they do not keep the design, you may be able to get the paper pattern and stamp it yourself. A tiny sailboat on waves is very easily drawn, and it may be that some one of your acquaintances can draw sufficiently well to mark your towel for you. Then simply go over the drawing in an outline stitch.

Water lilies in green and white are also effective for a towel decoration. One odd towel in a foreign bathroom displayed a green sea in which swam a blue fish. Many other designs may be used for towels, of course, but the marine designs seem the most appropriate.

"Hearts at Her Feet"

IN PARIS the exclusive shops keep a stock of detachable petticoat flounces. They are sometimes very beautifully embroidered. The idea is to save laundering, and also to save space when packing the trunk for a trip. One may wear a colored silk foundation, for it doesn't soil easily. Some of the flounces are in colored silk, so that one may simply have a flounce suitable for each gown and button it on to the foundation at a moment's notice.

The lingerie flounces come in various designs. A charming pattern, and one that is well liked by the dainty woman, is done in punchwork hearts. Milady may literally have "hearts at her feet." The hearts are about 1½ inches long. They are filled in with punchwork and outlined by an eighth-of-an-inch band of solid work or over-and-over stitch. A pretty idea is to do the punchwork in colored thread or silk and to outline the hearts in the same way. Very pale blue and very pale pink work up very beautifully in this way. One little Frenchwoman sometimes wears a daintily embroidered heart flounce with punchwork done in pink and the "rims" of the hearts in pale blue.

The scalloping may be in white or color, but white is really best. It is very ornamental to have a ribbon in tiny bowknot effect connecting the hearts, but it means, of course, considerably more work.

The silk flounce may be embroidered or simply hemstitched. Some women prefer the picoted edge, but this is apt in time to look as though it were frayed, and so it is hardly a sensible finish to have upon the bottom of an underskirt. Make the flounce, slightly fulled, upon a band that is just the width of the bottom of the foundation skirt. The foundation skirt should not come full length, because if it is a different color from the flounce, it will very likely show when you walk or take a high step. Into the band upon the flounce cut a series of buttonholes about two inches apart, and upon the skirt foundation put buttons at corresponding distances. Those little clasps that come nowadays will do beautifully instead of buttons and buttonholes in some instances, especially upon the silk flounces.

Silk Kimono for Baby

HAVE you seen the fascinating little kimonos which are on display in the shops devoted to the sale of infants' apparel?

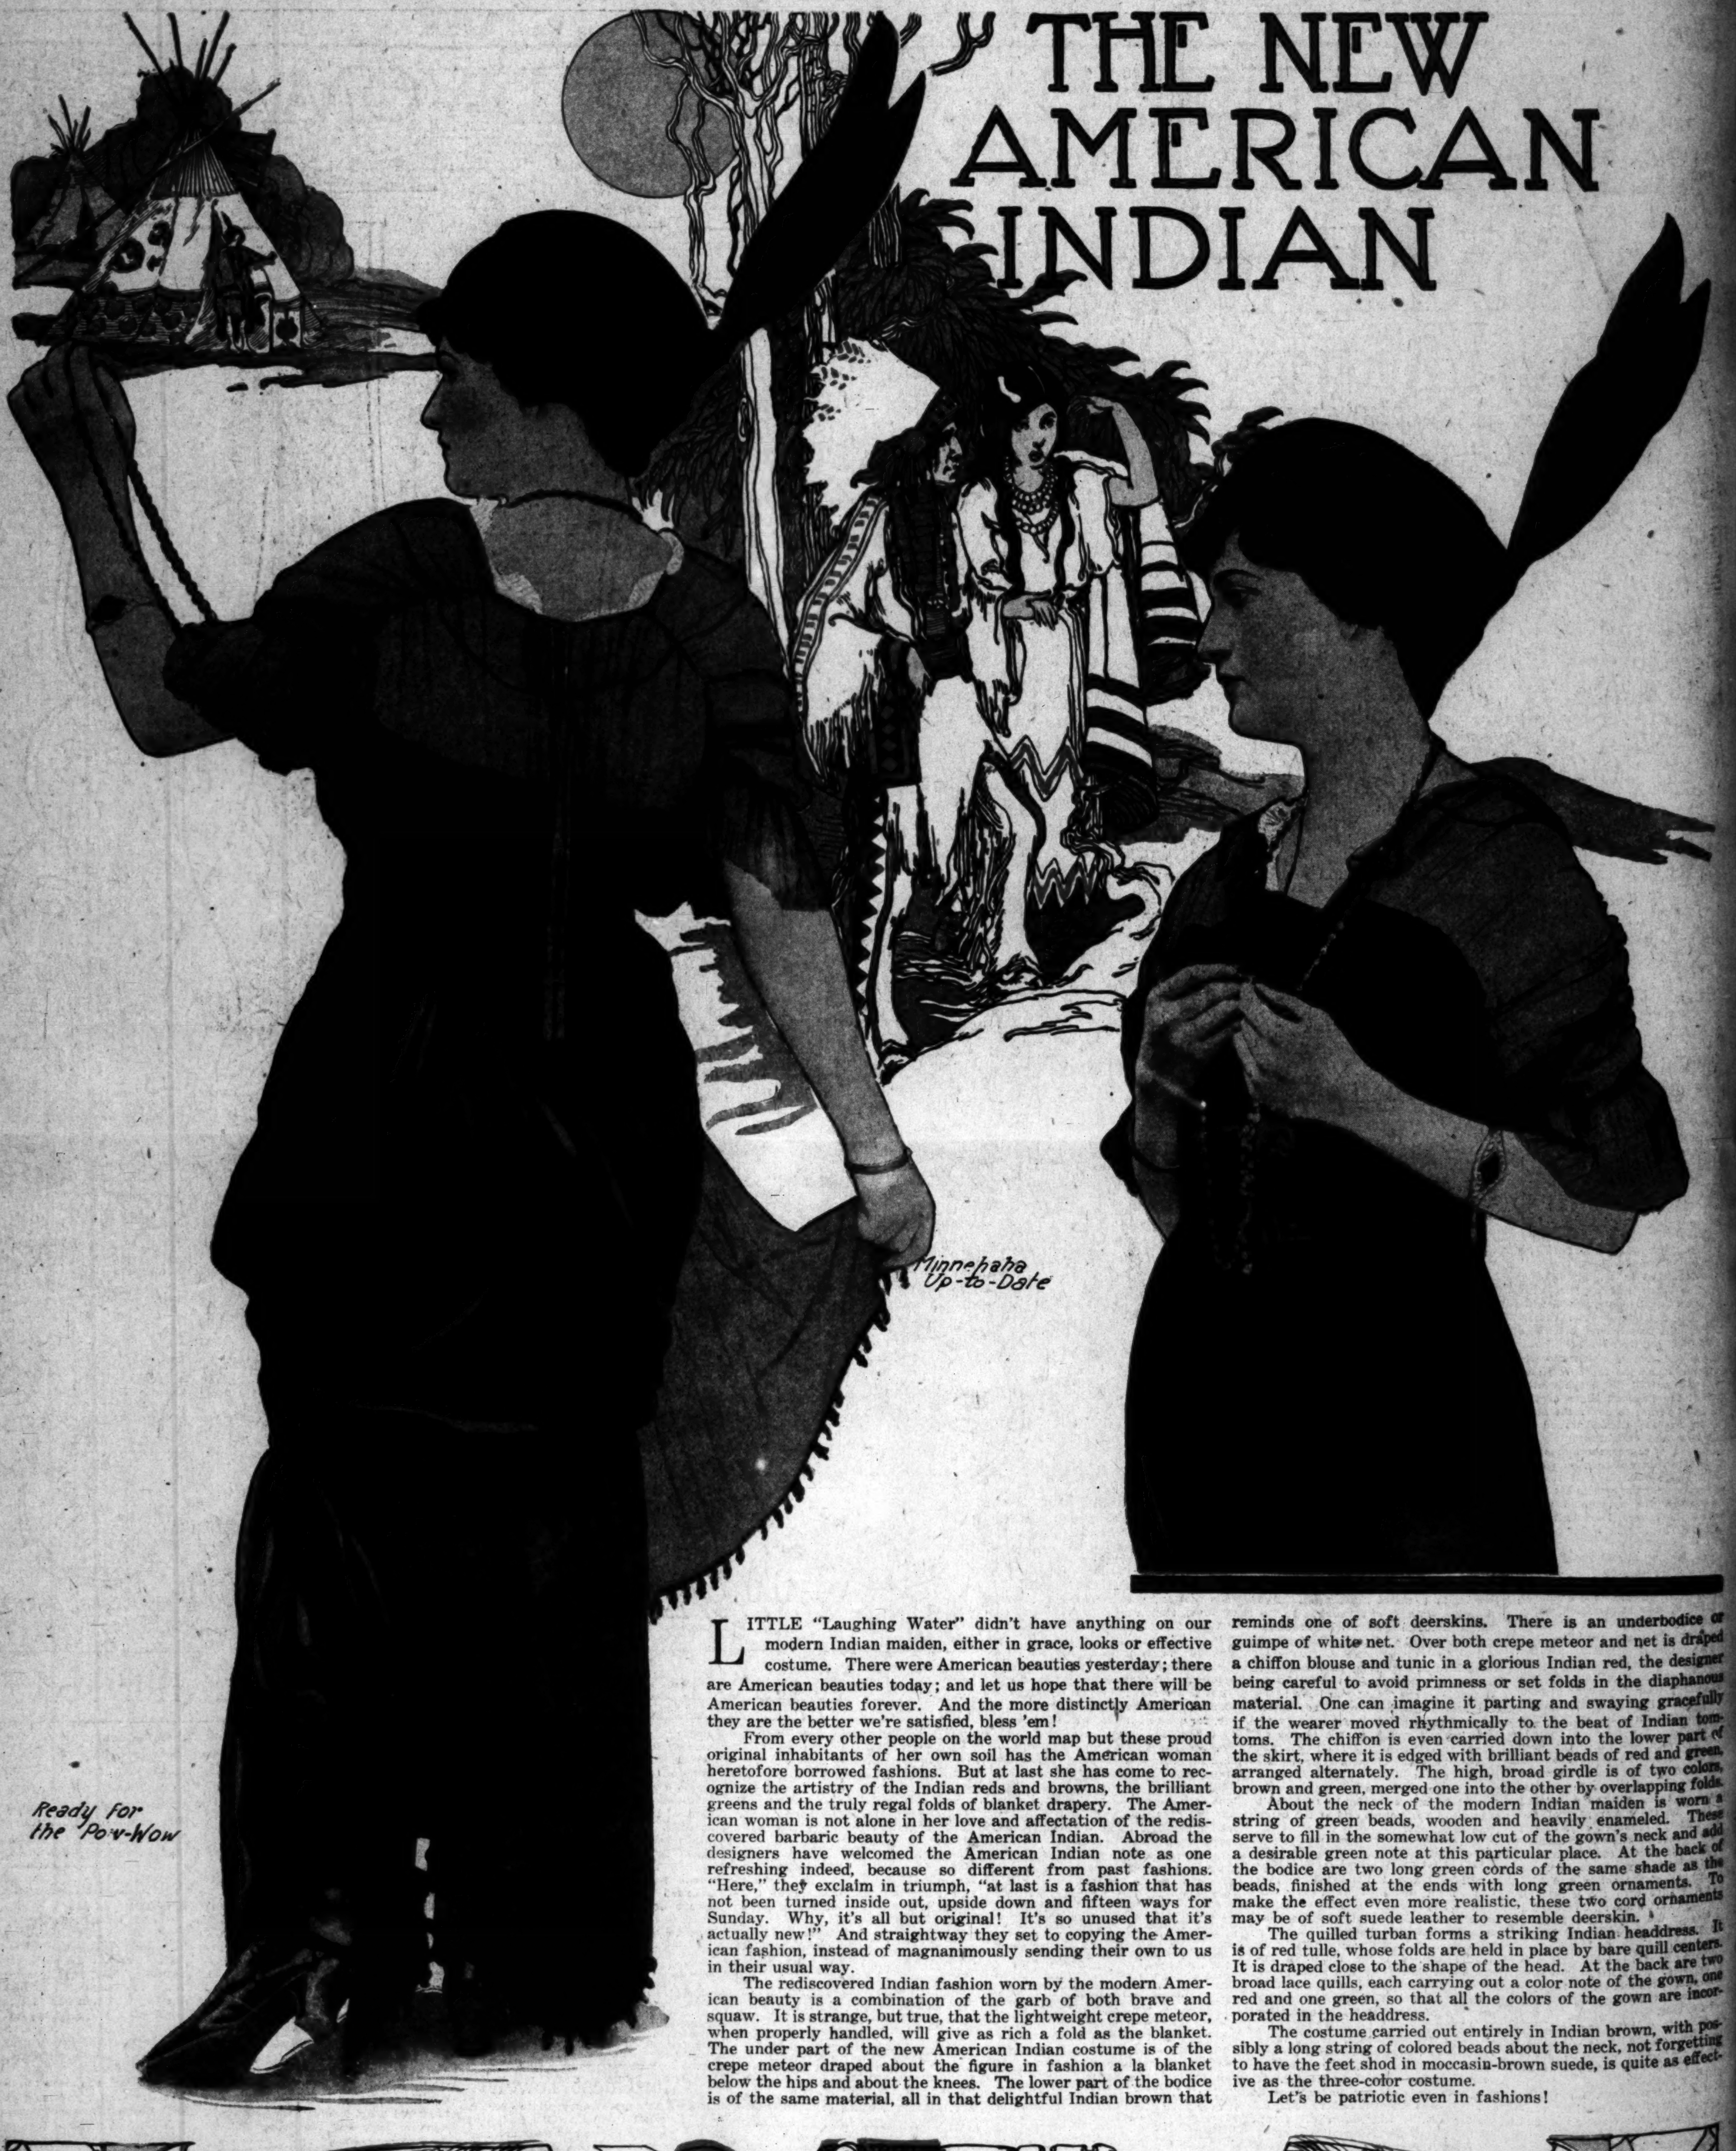
They are just the prettiest things imaginable, and you will not be able to resist the temptation to make one for the tiny girl that has just come to the home of a friend. They are made of the softest silk or silk crepe and are long or short. Cut with kimono sleeves, they are simple in construction, having but two seams.

If you desire to make the kimono particularly pretty, you must embroider it with tiny flowers about the neck, sleeves and down each side of the front. Choose forget-me-nots for the kimono of white crepe de chine, or a wild-rose pattern is lovely if you prefer pink.

The kimonos are always lined with the white china silk. A dainty short kimono can be fashioned of pale blue crepe de chine, with a truly Japanese design of cherry or plum blossoms embroidered with pale pink and white silk for the flowers and pale tones of green for the foliage. For summer wear the silk chosen is of the lightest weight, and there is no interlining. But if you want the little garment for winter wear it must have a layer of heavy canton flannel for the interlining to produce sufficient warmth.

There is nothing lovelier than a silk kimono for a gift. There are not apt to be many duplicates.

THE NEW AMERICAN INDIAN



LITTLE "Laughing Water" didn't have anything on our modern Indian maiden, either in grace, looks or effective costume. There were American beauties yesterday; there are American beauties today; and let us hope that there will be American beauties forever. And the more distinctly American they are the better we're satisfied, bless 'em!

From every other people on the world map but these proud original inhabitants of her own soil has the American woman heretofore borrowed fashions. But at last she has come to recognize the artistry of the Indian reds and browns, the brilliant greens and the truly regal folds of blanket drapery. The American woman is not alone in her love and affectation of the rediscovered barbaric beauty of the American Indian. Abroad the designers have welcomed the American Indian note as one refreshing indeed, because so different from past fashions. "Here," they exclaim in triumph, "at last is a fashion that has not been turned inside out, upside down and fifteen ways for Sunday. Why, it's all but original! It's so unused that it's actually new!" And straightway they set to copying the American fashion, instead of magnanimously sending their own to us in their usual way.

The rediscovered Indian fashion worn by the modern American beauty is a combination of the garb of both brave and squaw. It is strange, but true, that the lightweight crepe meteor, when properly handled, will give as rich a fold as the blanket. The under part of the new American Indian costume is of the crepe meteor draped about the figure in fashion a la blanket below the hips and about the knees. The lower part of the bodice is of the same material, all in that delightful Indian brown that reminds one of soft deerskins. There is an underbodice or guimpe of white net. Over both crepe meteor and net is draped a chiffon blouse and tunic in a glorious Indian red, the designer being careful to avoid primness or set folds in the diaphanous material. One can imagine it parting and swaying gracefully if the wearer moved rhythmically to the beat of Indian tom-toms. The chiffon is even carried down into the lower part of the skirt, where it is edged with brilliant beads of red and green, arranged alternately. The high, broad girdle is of two colors, brown and green, merged one into the other by overlapping folds.

About the neck of the modern Indian maiden is worn a string of green beads, wooden and heavily enameled. These serve to fill in the somewhat low cut of the gown's neck and add a desirable green note at this particular place. At the back of the bodice are two long green cords of the same shade as the beads, finished at the ends with long green ornaments. To make the effect even more realistic, these two cord ornaments may be of soft suede leather to resemble deerskin.

The quilled turban forms a striking Indian headdress. It is of red tulle, whose folds are held in place by bare quill centers. It is draped close to the shape of the head. At the back are two broad lace quills, each carrying out a color note of the gown, one red and one green, so that all the colors of the gown are incorporated in the headdress.

The costume carried out entirely in Indian brown, with possibly a long string of colored beads about the neck, not forgetting to have the feet shod in moccasin-brown suede, is quite as effective as the three-color costume.

Let's be patriotic even in fashions!

McAdoo Goes to New Y

High-Class Security—Secr
States Is in Excellent Shap

[BY A. P. NIC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Conferences at the White House and Treasury Department at which the foreign and domestic aspects of the financial situation were discussed, culminated late today in the departure for New York of Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller of the Currency Williams.

These two men have all the government authority to put in operation the plan which Congress designed years ago for such situations as the present by which the national banks of the country can obtain $500,000,000 in currency under the Aldrich-Vreeland Act with which to face any condition and meet any obligations.

Mr. McAdoo before he left declared that he considered the country to be in excellent shape to take care of itself and there was not the slightest reason for any feeling of alarm.

President Wilson, who discussed the situation at luncheon with Secretary McAdoo, is confident that any condition which arises can be meet without great difficulty.

Mr. McAdoo may return to Washington late tomorrow in time to meet representatives of clearing house associations of Chicago and St. Louis now en route to the capital at his invitation.

In official circles here the feeling was evident that any unusual strain will be manifest first in New York.
